Exclusion Of Chicago 'Debatable'

Elk Grove Village Favors A Mass Transit District

Mass Transit Planning Meet Saturday In Towers Hotel

Though the interest of 270 suburban communities in six counties will be represented, only six or seven municipalities will send representatives to a Saturday meeting to discuss formation of a single mass transit district that would exclude the City of Chicago.

The meeting at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel is being organized by Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh to test support for the formation of a single transit district that Walsh hopes would put suburban communities on a more equal footing with Chicago in securing funds for mass transit.

Results of the meeting among top officials from key communities in Cook, Lake, DuPage, Kane, McHenry and Will counties will be communicated to the officers of other municipalities in the six-county region.

It was not known which communities would attend.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Village Board Feb. 21 adopted a resolution in support of a single suburban mass transit district with a stipulation that representation on the governing board of any such district should be on a one-man-one-vote basis.

The Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System (CMATS) bill would create a single metropolitan mass transit district including the Chicago Transit Authority.

The bill, which has had the strong backing of the Chicago and North Western Ry., proposes a three-member governing panel. One member would be appointed by the governor, a second named by the mayor of Chicago, and a third by the governor from a list of nominees suggested by the county boards of the six counties.

Walsh has said the mayors Saturday may decide to do nothing about creating the new transit district or may agree to pursue sub-regional mass transit authorities if they do not think a single, six-county district is feasible.

Elk Grove Village favors formation of a mass transit district, but whether the City of Chicago should be excluded from such a district is debatable at this point.

That is the position taken by Village Pres. Charles Zetek in a letter sent this week to the Northwest Municipal Conference and Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh.

Zetek was responding to a request from the conference asking for the village's stand on the mass transit issue; Walsh was sent a copy because of a meeting he is sponsoring Saturday on the issue.

Walsh has proposed formation of a single mass transit district that would exclude Chicago. Such a district would include representatives from 270 communities in the six-county suburban area, Walsh said.

ZETEK, however, said further study of the proposal is needed before a decision on excluding Chicago is made.

"I'm not sure at this point if we should exclude the City of Chicago," he said. "I'm not saying we should, but I'm not saying we shouldn't either."

Zetek agreed there is a definite need for establishment of a transit agency to enable the suburbs to get funds for transportation facilities.

"Most certainly I'm in favor of a mass transit district — it's the only way the suburbs are going to get any representation. I don't think there's any doubt that there ought to be an agency to enable us to get funds."

The village president expressed agreement with Walsh's statement that the proposed Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation Study (CMATS) is a step in the right direction, but questioned one aspect of it.

"I wouldn't be diametrically opposed to CMATS," Zetek said of the proposal that has been introduced in the Illinois Legislature.

But he criticized plans for governing of the agency that would give major control of the agency to non-suburban officials. As presently proposed, CMATS would be governed by a three-man panel — one member appointed by the governor, one by the mayor of Chicago and one selected by the governor from a list of nominees suggested by the county boards from the six participating counties.

Hulett To Head Firemen's Workshop

Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett will head an administration workshop at the 44th annual Fire Department Instructors Conference in Kansas City, Mo., March 14-17.

The chief will also present a discussion of "Building a Fire Department to Cope with Growth and Industry" during the conference, which is the largest such gathering of fire department personnel in the country.

Hulett is chairman of the conference's administration workshop, one of nine workshops being held during two afternoons of the session.

Accompanying the chief to the conference will be Lt. Charles Henrici and Lt. Leonard Zgonina.

Community Service Eyes Hiring Of A Psychiatrist

Elk Grove Village residents will be assured of having local services available from a psychiatrist next year if the village board of trustees approves a budget proposal made this week by Elk Grove Village Community Service.

However, if Community Service receives a state grant to provide service for Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships, residents will have the service and will not have to pay all the costs through local tax funds.

Jordan Rosen, executive director of Community Service, said the budget request of $7,000 for a contract with a psychiatrist was made "under the assumption that we would not get the state grant." The state grant application also includes a request for funds for the same kind of psychiatric service.

Since the village's 1972-73 fiscal year begins in May and the state's fiscal year does not begin until July, Rosen said if the village approves the requested funds, "We will probably put someone in on May. And then, if the grant comes through, we will continue to pay for the person using money from the state. That still has to be worked out."

He said that in that case, Community Service would not need to spend the full village allocation.

Community Service, which provides family and youth counseling and runs a summer Youth Employment Service, is asking for $53,000 in state funds to expand its services to Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. The state grant application is competing with the Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights to provide service to the area.

The budget request for next year from the village board is $83,440. This year, Community Service received $53,000 from the village.

Project Fair At Clearmont School

The annual Clearmont School Project Fair will be held next week at the school.

The fair will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday and will contain individual and group projects by students in grades 1 through 5.

The fair will also include a photography exhibit, student chess tournament and art, crafts and hobby exhibit. The arts and crafts exhibit will include works by teachers and parents at the school.

But Signs Of Upswing Seen

School Building Use Down

Community groups have been using school buildings in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 less during this school year than in the past.

The number of groups applying for permits to use the buildings declined sharply from September until January, compared to the 1970-71 school year, but has shown signs of returning to normal since January, according to district officials.

Last summer, the board of education voted to prohibit after-school and evening use of the buildings by community groups as part of a budget cut, but reversed the action after more funds became available to the district.

Adolph Danta, director of building and grounds for the district, said the building closings might have been one reason for the decline in use. "The only thing I can think of is that people went out and found other facilities, and now, since the first of the year, they have been coming back to us."

The decrease in the amount of building use is reflected in marked differences between amounts budgeted as revenue from building use fees and as expenses due to custodial overtime, and the district's actual revenue and expense this year.

In this year's budget, the district anticipated $28,000 in fees from building use. A projection by Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administration, on what actual fees will be collected is $7,800.

ALSO, THE district budgeted $23,000 for custodial overtime and the salary of the secretary who schedules the buildings. A projection of actual expenditures for this year is $14,000.

Perry said he is budgeting for next year on the same basis as he budgeted this year, on the assumption building use will return to its former level. "We have no way of really accounting for the reason for the drop-off," he said. "We also don't know what will happen between now and the end of school."

When the school board decided to reopen the buildings last summer, it also wanted to develop a new policy on who would use the buildings free and who would be charged, and implement a new fee schedule. The policy change was stymied, however, by the President's wage-prize freeze and the rates used in past years remain in effect.

Last year when the school board was considering closing the schools, district officials said more than 4,500 permits had been applied for during the first five months of the 1970-71 school year.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 89 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli plane and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced withdrawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

Obituaries

Carl A. Rupert

Funeral services for Carl A. Rupert, 66, of 300 E. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights, who died Friday in Edgewater Hospital, Chicago, after a short illness, were held Monday in Linn and Son Funeral Home, Chicago. The Rev. Donald Hobbs of Prospect Heights Community Church officiated. Interment was in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mr. Rupert, a resident of Prospect Heights, for 18 years, was founder and president of the Rupert Parachute Co., Wheeling. A subsidiary, Rupert Safety Belts, specializes in belts used in racing cars.

For many years, Mr. Rupert was a parachute stuntman, performing at fairs and other public exhibitions. A family member said he claimed the low altitude record for indoor parachute jumping. This resulted from a 65-foot descent by parachute after he had jumped girder at the 92-foot level in the International Amphitheater in St. Louis in 1942.

During World War II, Mr. Rupert manufactured and tested parachutes for the Army. He was also a pilot and, at one time, a racing sponsor. He made his last parachute jump in 1952 and thereafter concentrated on his business ventures.

Surviving are his widow, Glory, nee Swanson; son, William of St. Louis, Mo.; daughters, Mrs. Lynda Callahan of Wheeling, Susan and Lori Rupert, both at home; four grandchildren; brothers, Fred Ruprecht of Arlington Heights and Ray Ruprecht of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and sisters, Mrs. Mattie Walter of Alliance, Ohio, Mrs. Betty Grosser of River Forest, Ill., and Mrs. Edith Thompson of Naples, Fla.

Jessamine Guerrieri

Mrs. Jessamine Guerrieri, 70, nee Izzo, of 519 S. Dwyer, Arlington Heights, died Tuesday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Visitation is today in Friedrichs Funeral Home, 320 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect. Funeral Mass will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, 432 S. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights. Burial will be in Mount Carmel Cemetery, Hillside.

Mrs. Guerrieri, a resident of Arlington Heights, for 14 years, was a retired cashier for Simpson Clothing Co. in Chicago, with 35 years of service.

Preceded in death by her husband, Anthony, survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Madelyn (George) Ciaccio of Arlington Heights; three grandchildren, and three sisters, Mrs. Rae (Dr. Joseph) Shea Rose and Joanna Izzo, all of Chicago.

Harry T. Drayson

Mass of the Angels for Harry T. Drayson, 6 months, infant son of Harry and Rita, nee Wagner, Drayson of Arlington Heights, who died suddenly Monday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, was said yesterday morning in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights. Burial was in St. Joseph Cemetery, River Grove.

Besides his parents, survivors include five sisters, Patricia, Lisa, Marita, Jenna and Sheila Drayson, and maternal grandparents, Victor and Elizabeth Wagner of Chicago.

Mikva Bill Would Cut Airport Noise

by LEON SHURE

U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva (D-2nd) has introduced legislation in Congress aimed at reducing O'Hare Airport jet noise pollution.

Rep. Mikva, who is waging a primary fight against Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase for the North Suburban 10th District congressional nomination, introduced four amendments to the proposed Noise Control Act of 1972.

The amendments would outlaw sonic booms, create a commission to study a night flight ban, allow the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to set noise standards, and end the federal monopoly on control of flights, to allow local communities to impose noise regulations.

Most recent efforts by suburbs near O'Hare to control its noise pollution have failed, because courts have ruled that powers to regulate airplane procedures are restricted to the federal government and can't be preempted by other governmental units.

A Cook County Circuit Court judge Oct. 30 dismissed a suit from five suburbs against Chicago and 23 airlines to block further pollution and noise, which the plaintiffs said result from airport expansion.

The judge noted that no court has granted an injunction against operation of a public airport and that the proper authority over airports is Congress and the state legislature, not the courts. This decision will be appealed.

Des Plaines aldermen are now studying a city noise ordinance aimed at noise from airplanes flying above the city. The ordinance would also make illegal the noise from jets awaiting take-offs. Framers of the ordinance anticipate a court test of the city's power to pass such a law.

ANOTHER COURT test for noise regulations is expected by the Illinois Institute for Environmental Quality, a state agency, according to its director, Michael Schneiderman.

Within three weeks, the institute will present the Illinois Pollution Control Board with proposed jet noise standards and a procedure to establish maximum noise allowable over set periods of time, Schneiderman told the Herald.

The proposed "noise-bank" plan would allot to various airports the amount of noise they can legally generate within a day, week or month. When this allotment is exceeded the airport operator, in O'Hare's case — the City of Chicago, will be fined, he said.

Under state law, the Illinois pollution board, if it decides to adopt the institute's plan after a series of public hearings would be empowered to require enforcement, although a federal court challenge of this power could be expected, he said.

The real intent of the institute's plan, which has already drawn criticism from Chicago aviation department officials, would be to force them to the negotiation table, Schneiderman said, and encourage them to use every available method to reduce noise pollution.

Methods which could be used, he said, include steeper take-offs and landings, different landing patterns, and curtailing flights at night.

The Mikva amendments, which may face a House vote this week, would create a special commission to study curtailment of night flights, a move urged for several years by several suburban municipalities, according to a Mikva aide.

At present, O'Hare has 1,646 flights daily. Of these 677 are night flights, between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. Of the night flights 491 are cargo flights, Mikva's aide said.

CURRENT O'HARE plans include construction of a new aircraft cargo building and a parallel northwest runway for cargo traffic, according to Des Plaines Ald. Alan Abrams (8th), who helped write the proposed city noise ordinance.

The changes would mean that the number of flights at night would be almost as many as the day flights, or about one flight every 40 seconds.

The Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) predicted last summer that within 10 years more than half of Des Plaines would be subjected to unhealthy levels of noise.

Mikva's aide said that Congress has influenced the Federal Aviation Authority to close the Washington Airport from 10 p.m. to 7 a.m.

"If they can do this much to keep peace and quiet for government officials, they can do the same for the rest of the nation," Mikva said as he introduced his amendments.

Teachers Initiate Action

Silence Broken On Salary Talks

Teachers' salary and benefit proposals for the 1972-73 school year have been released by both the High School Dist. 211 School Board and the teachers, three weeks after their first negotiations meeting.

This is the first time the negotiating teams have publicized the salary-benefit proposals in the district's three-year bargaining history. In the past, information on negotiations has been released only at the time of settlement.

The board has proposed holding the salary increases at five per cent because of "deficit financing." However, the teachers want higher and broader salary increases along with more voice in district affairs.

During the coming months the two teams will negotiate to bring their proposals closer together until they reach a settlement. If they reach an impasse, outside help, such as a mediator or a fact finder, will be called in to recommend solutions.

IN THEIR FIRST three bargaining sessions the two teams have debated whether to break their "closed" tradition and issue news releases during the negotiations process. This week the teachers, who favor open sessions, presented their preliminary negotiations package to the Herald. The board's team followed suit after they learned of the teachers' action.

The teachers want to open the sessions because they "want the public to know we aren't just interested in money," according to Jerry Petersen, head of the Dist. 211 Education Association. "Most of our demands are designed to improve education."

Board Pres. Robert Creek argues that the board's team has agreed to open the sessions after April 15.

"This would have given us 60 days to negotiate in good faith. And it gives the teachers plenty of time to talk about the issues before the school year ends."

Whether the two teams will publicize the negotiation proceedings again before April 15 will be discussed at a closed meeting Monday night. Creek termed the teachers' release of their negotiations proposal "totally unethical."

THE OPEN SESSION issue was brought up as a "ground rules" proposal. The negotiators will discuss neither salaries nor benefits until the ground rules are set.

The teachers' salary-benefit proposal is the product of questionnaires, opinion polls and meetings of the teachers. The survey process was conducted by the Education Association, which represents 80 per cent of the district's teachers.

The teachers' package includes more than 30 separate proposals. These proposals call for a greater voice in policy decisions, better salary and insurance benefits, more leeway for association activities, broader negotiations and improved teaching conditions.

The board's package, on the other hand, deals primarily with salary issues. The teachers have charged that the board has refused to negotiate "working conditions" in the past. However, according to Creek the board has tried to limit the negotiations to working condition items that involve money. Other working condition items are reserved for committee study and subsequent board action.

IN ORDER TO meet a tight budget, the board has proposed keeping the present salary schedule. The teachers' added year of experience would move them up one step or up five per cent. In addition, the board proposes holding 20 per cent of the teachers at their present level so the top 10 per cent of the teachers can get an extra merit raise. For the sake of stability, the board also proposes the new salary contract be effective for three years, with an option to negotiate the schedule's base salary.

The board has also called for paid workshops but no reimbursement for tuition expenses. The board team contends the teachers should not be given flat credit for all teaching experience and that extra experience should be in a teacher's specific subject area.

The teachers, on the other hand, want higher salaries with a cost of living increment, credit for related non-teaching experience and fewer steps before a maximum salary is reached. They also want to be paid for personal leave, extra duty assignments and workshops. A salary boost has been proposed for summer employees and special positions. And the teachers have asked for district paid medical and dental insurance coverage.

APART FROM the salary issues, the teachers have asked the board and the administration to develop a clearer definition of their duties, their work day and evaluation procedures. In order to improve education, they feel it is important to reduce the number of students in each classroom and to release teachers for training workshops.

The teachers also feel that as an integral part of the school operation they should have more of a voice in policy decisions — on curriculum revisions, instruction restraints, building changes and other areas of mutual concern.

At the bargaining table the teachers want to be able to negotiate more items, and if no agreement is reached they want to be able to call in an arbitrator who may issue a binding settlement.

Cite Fire Dist. Aid Responses

The Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District has been cited for "excellent response" in a mutual aid fire call by Elk Grove Village, which pledged its assistance in any situation where help is needed in return.

Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey, Fire Chief Carl Selke and Civil Defense Director Richard Monaghan Grove officials thanking the fire district each received copies of letters from Elk Grove officials thanking the fire district for its response.

A fire Jan. 16 at the Terrace Apartments in Elk Grove Village "had all the potential of destroying a three-story, 55 unit apartment building. High winds and extreme cold weather could have further involved other buildings in the complex," according to the letter signed by Fire Chief Allen Hulet, Village Manager Charles Willis and Village President Charles Zettek.

"However, due to an excellent response in immediate action from the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District along with 13 of our good neighbors through the mutual aid box alarm system, the fire was brought under control with damage limited to less than one-third of the building," said the letter.

"We of course hope you never need our service in return," commented the Elk Grove officials. "However, let us assure you that we stand ready to assist you at any time and in any way we can to the best of our ability," they pledged.

THE DEVIL'S HAND is unseen but plays a role in the painting of sets for James B. Conant High School's variety show, "The Devil Made Me Do It," this weekend. Tom Goodrich and Jo Smiley paint a set for one act.

Performances will be at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Tickets are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students. The show will be presented in the school's cafeteria, Plum Grove Road and Cougar Trail in Hoffman Estates.

Two Teen-Age Girls Flee Abductor

Two teen-age girls from Buffalo Grove were abducted at knifepoint by a man who offered them a ride in his car in Wheeling Monday night.

The girls, one 14 and one 15 years old, told Wheeling police the man threatened them with a knife when they tried to get out of his car near their homes.

The man drove the girls to a dead-end street in Lincolnshire, where he told them to take off their clothes because he was going to rape them.

One of the girls jumped out of the car and ran. The man then pushed the other girl out of the car, and drove off with the car door open.

THE GIRLS ran to a nearby house for help but found no one home. At a second home the residents answered the door and allowed the girls to call police.

The two girls, who both live in the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove, had been going home from a drive-in restaurant in eastern Wheeling when they were picked up by the man.

The girls told police they had gotten a ride from the drive-in west on Dundee Road to near Jack London Junior High School.

They were walking down Dundee toward Buffalo Grove when the man stopped and offered them a ride, they told police.

THE MAN drove the girls down Dundee Road to Buffalo Grove Road and north on Buffalo Grove Road to near Lake-Cook Road.

When the girls asked to get out of the car there, the man put a knife up to one girl's head and ordered the girls onto the floor of the car.

He then drove them to the dead-end street in Lincolnshire.

The girls told police the man said he was going to trade them to another man who had abducted the man's girl friend earlier in the evening. He also told them he could sell them for $5,000, the girls said.

Wheeling Band Fund At $18,361

The fund-raising committee for the Wheeling High School Band trip to the 1972 Olympic Games has collected $18,361.

This figure is well below what the "Munich 72" committee had hoped to have by now. Ideally they should be receiving $10,000 per week and last week they made just over $400.

The committee also announced that members have started sending letters to major business firms, banks and foundations in the Chicago area. They will try to have all the letters in the mail by the end of the week.

THE LETTERS ASK the business groups to answer one way or the other concerning their interest in the project. If they answer in support of the project the committee will send them further information.

2 Bands Friday At Lions Park

Two bands will be featured in a concert night during the regular Friday teen program at Lions Park Community Center this week.

The bands, Short Forest and the Elmer Band, will play from 7:30 to 11 p.m. at the center, 180 Kennedy Blvd. Admission is 50 cents.

The teen program is sponsored by the Elk Grove Park District, Elk Grove Village Community Service, local churches and civic groups.

It's 'Maitre d' Week'

The Maitre d' Restaurant is celebrating its tenth anniversary this week, and Elk Grove Village Pres. Charles Zettek has proclaimed the first week of March "Maitre d' Week." Mr. and Mrs. William Rose are co-owners of the restaurant, located in the Grove Mall.

Plan Task Force On The Aged

by KURT BAER

Nearly 50 churches, civic and social agencies have been invited to send representatives to a March 14 meeting to discuss the formation of a broadly based task force on problems of the elderly.

Included are village managers from Palatine, Buffalo Grove, and Rolling Meadows; school board presidents from Dist. 25, 21, 21, 59 and 214; supervisors from Wheeling, Palatine and Elk Grove townships; the executive vice president of Northwest Community Hospital and the director of the Lutheran Home for the Aged.

The organizational meeting will be led by Arlington Heights Trustee Dwight Walton who is chairman of the Village Board's public relations committee.

In a cover letter to prospective task force members, Walton explained the March 14 meeting would explore how the task force should be organized and what role it might play in dealing with problems of the elderly.

ALSO ASKED TO attend the meeting were the president of the board of trustees of Harper College; senior citizen clubs in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Northbrook; Countryside YMCA; the Arlington Heights Board of Health, Chamber of Commerce, Park District and Library and the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Nineteen Arlington Heights churches have also been invited.

In his letter, Walton noted the Arlington Heights Village Board of Trustees "and many others feel a more directed effort can, and should be expended in order to make life more viable for this elderly segment of our population."

Arlington Heights now offers senior citizens, 65 years of age or older, reduced rates on the purchase of village vehicle stickers and reduced garbage collection rates.

The Arlington Heights Park District also offers what it calls a "Gold Key" to elderly residents which allows them to use all park facilities and programs in the district without charge.

Although Arlington Heights is one of few Northwest suburbs now making special efforts to meet the needs of its elderly, the village board has gone on record in support of extending special village, and when feasible, private services to its senior citizens.

According to the 1970 U.S. Census, 3,236 people over the age of 65 live in Arlington Heights.

THE IDEA OF a task force on problems of the elderly was proposed in a resolution presented by Arlington Heights Trustee James T. Ryan at a Nov. 15 meeting of the Village Board.

At that time, the village board referred the matter to its public relations committee.

"I don't think for a moment that such a task force is going to solve or even isolate all of the local problems confronting the elderly. I do think that it could be a step forward and most importantly, a local step," Ryan said.

Promotional Gimmickry Is Here To Stay — 'Socko'

by KEN KAZAK

In the have-not era of the 1930s, people who stood in unemployment or bread lines by day were queuing outside America's absurdly opulent movie palaces by night for entertainment, a special kind of relief that F.D.R.'s alphabet soup agencies couldn't provide.

The down and outers flocked — 70 million annually — to see Hollywood glittering through the gloom of the Depression.

They saw Jimmy Cagney, the sawed-off tough, slug sweet Mae Clark in the kisser with a grapefruit in "Public Enemy."

They heard Clark Gable's sensationally shocking (for that time) put down of Vivian Leigh, about whom he, frankly, didn't give a damn in "Gone With the Wind."

While the movies provided the escape, a promotional gimmick run by theaters across the country was giving the patrons a chance to get something for almost nothing, an irresistible idea at a time when nothing was what plenty of people had.

Two bits bought not only an evening with Jim and Mae and Clark and Vivian. It bought a chance to win prizes ranging from a free hairdo to a new automobile to an eight place setting of not-so-fine china straight from the Sears, Roebuck catalogue.

OLD PROMOTIONAL schemes like that don't really die. They just fade away into abscessed corners of a public relations man's brain, along with master plots to put an Edsel in Everyman's driveway and bring back hula hoops.

And, what do you know, the movie house giveaway gimmick is experiencing a second coming in Rolling Meadows, albeit in a considerably transfigured form.

Picture this: dozens of the city's ladies in waiting (waiting to pick the kids up at noon; waiting for a beauty shop appointment later in the day; are sitting in the Meadows Theater at 9:30 a.m.

They are there to see a free movie and because they are there will have a chance to win prizes being given away across the street at the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

A man welcomes the ladies on behalf of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center Association which, he points out, is sponsoring the free presentation of "The Loves of Isadora," and oh yes, which would like them to come on over and shop a while after the film.

The ladies all have received lucky numbers along with a list of bargains, special movie day bargains, that the center merchants have provided. They can see if their lucky numbers will win them a cake or a $10 gift certificate or something like that merely by looking in the store windows, where winning numbers have been posted.

So much for the scenario. It's being repeated every month by the shopping center. Promotional gimmickry is here to stay, so the idea is to out-gimmick the other guy.

THE MOVIE idea came to Rolling Meadows from the same source that dreamed up last February's Hawaiian Luau, the summertime West Fest, a glamor clinic that attracted four women, and a kid-kicking Santa Claus. That source is Marty Nash and Aides Inc.,

Miami, Fla., and not all his ideas have been "socko."

Nash's services are covered by a promotional budget that runs to $35,000 annually. He makes monthly visits to the shopping center to confer with Gwen Murray, resident promo lady who puts Nash's ideas into action.

The reason for all this razzle-dazzle, Mrs. Murray says, is "that you can't sell a shopping center on the stores alone." Nash was hired 18 months ago to put some "hop" in the shopping center, faced with an intruder to the south.

"The main object in bringing in promotional people was to fight Woodfield," Mrs. Murray said, adding she doesn't feel now that Woodfield is as threatening as it was originally feared.

For every rotten Santa Claus or disastrous glamor clinic there are successful West Fests and Luaus. The movie, after a stuttering start, seems to be headed for success.

In February, the show attracted nearly 200 women, the most in three tries. Mrs. Murray said she figures if 250 to 300 show up it's worth the $400 it costs for theater, film and advertising.

The problem with a giveaway, according to Mrs. Murray, is that it's success is directly related to what you're giving away and to what you're including in your "giveaway" sale.

MRS. MURRAY closed her catering shop in the center a year and a half ago to take the promotion job and has learned since then that you can't lure customers by discounting just junk, or merchandise that doesn't normally move.

"It's up to the merchants to offer something attractive enough to get them over here. There's a lot more that could be done. It seems that the same stores are always participating in our promotions," she said.

All the merchants in the center are "taxed" to provide the promotional budget, but Mrs. Murray says $35,000 isn't enough to properly promote the center.

What would she do if she had twice that amount?

"I'd go out and get Zippy the Monkey," she said.

Now that would be socko.

Summer School Program To Cost Dist. $122,000

The 1972 Summer School Program for an anticipated 2,400 students in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 should cost $122,000 but pay for itself through student fees and state aid, school officials report.

A report from John Jones and Douglas Williams, principals in the district who direct the June 19 to July 21 session, has been accepted by the board of education and the summer school plan approved.

Eight schools, Churchill, Dooley, Fox, Hale, Lakeview, MacArthur, Addams Junior High and Keller Junior High will be used, with Hoffman School utilized as a speech center.

Registration day for summer school will be May 3 at each of the 21 schools in the district with registration closing June 9.

Jones and Williams' financial projection shows 175 teachers paid at $6.50 an hour will cost the program $95,550; clerical help at $2.25 an hour, $5,670; and supplies and equipment, $20,780.

THE $5 MATERIALS fee charged students will bring in $12,000 in revenue and the state aid contribute $110,000 to make the program self paying.

School hours would be 9 a.m. to noon with teachers required to stay in the schools from 8:45 a.m. to 12:15.

This year's summer program includes a psychologist and guidance counselor to work with children in the Summer Diagnostic Special Education Program and in other situations where needed.

The Schaumburg Transportation Co. has been hired to transport students, an option available for the fee of $10. May 26 is the last day to sign up for bus transportation.

Who's that looking over my shoulder? Among a large group of United States senators and congressmen who were mentioned in Army Intelligence reports during the year when the Army was keeping tabs on riots and other civil disturbances are a few familiar faces. Congressman Phillip Crane was on a list of officials mentioned in intelligence reports along with such members of Congress as Adam Clayton Powell, Edmund Muskie, Edward Kennedy, and Eugene McCarthy.

The Army, in testimony given to a Senate subcommittee last year, said the intelligence gathering actions were undertaken at the request of the Justice Department in order to help anticipate civil disturbances.

partment in order to help anticipate civil disturbances.

Endorsement fever: Incumbent State Rep. Gene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, endorsed by the Northfield Township Republican Organization; Dave Brown, candidate for the State Senate, endorsed by the Women's Republican Club of Evanston.

The youth vote. According to the Cook County clerk and the Chicago Board of Election Commissioners, 50 per cent of the total number of newly enfranchised 18 to 21 year olds have registered to vote in Cook County for the upcoming primary.

Bradley Glass, candidate for the State Senate in the First District, will be at a

1,050,000 Voters In Barrett Area Signed

Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett announced this week 1,050,000 voters, under his jurisdiction in Cook County, had registered and were eligible to vote in the coming primary election of March 21. In releasing this figure Barrett said about 54,000 of these voters were in the new age group of 18 to 21, who would be voting for the first time in the primary. This figure according to Barrett, is a little over one half of the number of newly-franchised voters in Cook County, under his jurisdiction.

Campaign '72

coffee hosted by Mr. and Mrs. William Means, 692 Hickory, Buffalo Grove on March 5. Coffee will begin pouring at 7:30 p.m.

The newly formed First District apparently remains an enigma to some candidates fighting for the State Senate and House seats there. The district includes about half of Wheeling Township, or that part of the township north of Palatine Road to the county line and bounded on the west by Wilke Road. The district then extends all the way to Evanston to a point a half block the other side of Sen. Russell Arrington's house. It is a horrendous piece of gerrymandering and the candidates are ruefully finding out the results. Candidates well known on the east side of the district, particularly the North Shore are finding it difficult to get their message into Wheeling, and especially Buffalo Grove. For Buffalo Grove Candidate Bill Kinkade who is running for the Illinois House, there is the reverse problem of convincing residents of Wilmette and New Trier Township to vote for a candidate geographically removed from them.

The hot race among Republicans in the Third District for two seats in the Illinois House is getting hotter. Most of the mayors in the district have endorsed fellow mayor and candidate Roland Meyer of Rolling Meadows.

Now the Virginia Macdonald-Don Totten campaign has rolled out a number of village board members to endorse their candidates. The entire Hoffman Estates Village Board and Mayor Fred Downey have come out for Macdonald-Totten. Both Des Plaines aldermen from the Eighth Ward and Des Plaines Mayor Herb Behrel have endorsed Macdonald-Totten and two trustees of the village of Arlington Heights have joined the list.

In Rolling Meadows, home port for Mayor Meyer, Alderman Jim Huddleston has supported Mrs. Macdonald and Totten.

According to "Roll Call," the breezy newspaper devoted to covering Capitol Hill, Sen. Charles Percy is facing one of his stiffest fights this year in the general election contest against Rep. Roman Pucinski. Perhaps in preparation for that fight, Percy recently was named to the prestigious Foreign Affairs Committee. Percy got the committee spot after the Senate finally took the assignment away from ailing Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota. Mundt, who suffered a stroke in 1969, has been absent from Congress since that date even though he remains on the active rolls of the Senate.

A "walk and talk" campaign through Evanston Township will be conducted by Congressional candidate Floyd Fulle Friday. Fulle's schedule in the township will begin at 7 a.m. and will take him through shopping centers, coffee shops and finally, a late afternoon news conference.

Neil C. Hebeison, candidate for state representative in the far-flung 2nd District has had a Hanover Township Citizens Committee formed on his behalf. The new 2nd District includes, in addition to Hanover Township, most of Elgin Township, Palatine and Barrington Townships in Cook County, and three townships in DuPage County.

Debates. Challenges for a debate by the underdog to the frontrunner are as traditional in political races as campaign buttons — and as common. Two recent challenges: Jerry Rubin, candidate for the Illinois House from the 4th District has challenged incumbent legislator Robert Juckett to a debate on the matter of noise pollution caused by O'Hare and another issue, Juckett's position on zoning. Another challenge fired off this week was by Eugene McCarthy for a series of Lincoln-Douglas type debates in Illinois between him and frontrunner Senator Edmund Muskie.

There is as much chance of these debates taking place as there would be if Rubin had challenged Muskie and McCarthy had challenged Juckett.

Inverness: Island In The Suburbs

If You Live Here,
You're Often 'Boss'by MARCIA KRAMER
(Third of Four Parts)

The typical Inverness breadwinner gets up just as early in the morning as the rest of us. He showers and shaves and gulps down some coffee and maybe a roll. He glances at the morning paper then kisses the wife good-bye and pats the kids on the head on his way out the door. He drives to work or takes a train, just like the rest of us.

So what makes him so special? Well, if the man is driving to work, you can be sure it's a late-model car. It may be a big car; it may be the small sporty type. Either way, it's probably not an economy or second-hand car. And chances are good that when he gets to the office, he'll leave the car in a parking space designated just for him.

If he takes the train, it's probably because he'd rather relax than fight the traffic or bad driving conditions; it's not because his wife needs the car for shopping and the kids' ballet lessons, because she probably has her own car for that. While on the train, he'll read the morning paper or a business publication of some sort — perhaps The Wall Street Journal.

Once in the office, the typical Inverness man is boss. Maybe not "the" boss, although there's a good chance of it. Either way, there are more people working under him than over him.

INVERNESS residents, clearly, are not your working class people or even your junior executive types. They're at the top of the heap, for the most part, or very close to it.

Just glance at the roster: The president of Abbott Laboratories lives in Inverness, as do the presidents of Fernstrom Trucking, Masonite, Motorola Inc., Skil Corp., Oak Electronics, Dominick's Finer Foods and Hammond Organ, plus a handful of bank presidents, doctors and lawyers, and even a couple of judges.

That's a stiff lineup for communities many times the size of Inverness to match. And these people aren't the exception — there are many more ranking equally high in their fields.

But, for better or for worse, Inverness residents do not live up to the myths built up about them by residents of other suburbs.

According to these accounts, Inverness residents are all rich snobs, with full-time maid service, Olympic-sized swimming pools and half a dozen cars.

Inverness attracts more than its share of executives and professional men because, clearly, those positions produce the type of income required to live in the village. The median home value is close to $72,000, and many are more than $100,000.

As to the average income, it's anybody's guess, and no one interviewed would even venture an estimate. No official figures are available.

What money there is is earned, for the most part. "There's not much in the way of inheritance or family business or that type of thing," one resident observed. "The people in Inverness are basically self-made men."

They've made enough that their wives and kids work only if they want to. Some of the women do volunteer work and a few hold paying jobs. The children almost always go on to college — usually to a private or out-of-state school — at their parents' expense.

'Sure, there are some snobby people here, but there are snobby people everywhere...'

INVERNESS is considered a social community where most people know or have heard of most other people. Socializing is generally among themselves.

One woman explained: "It's not intended to be snobby — we just don't come into contact with people from other suburbs." Another shrugged, "Sure, there are some snobby people out here, but there are snobby people everywhere."

A few residents, in fact, complained of a "reverse snobism" on the part of non-residents of Inverness, and said Inverness children are regularly called "richy" by their Palatine classmates.

"That's the one thing I don't like about living here," said one high school sophomore. "Everyone says, 'Oh, you live in Inverness,' and they kid you about having money and everything."

A view from Banburg Road, which one resident described as 'the poor side of town.'

AS FAR as the "and everything" is concerned:

—Maid service is not uncommon in Inverness, but is not as widespread as might be expected. Many families maintain full-time maids, but most others have help just once every week or two, and some housewives don't have any outside help at all. One woman who lives on Banburg Road referred to her neighborhood as "the poor side of town" because so few families there have maids.

—Swimming pools are neither as plentiful nor as big as the myth-makers would have them. Many Inverness homes are equipped with pools, often enclosed, but other families use their neighbors' pools, join the Inverness Golf Club or simply do without.

—Automobiles abound, but usually at the ratio of two cars per family. Most teen-agers over 16 have access to the family car, but few have their own.

Nonresidents who find these observations disappointing can take heart in knowing that most Inverness homes have at least one color television set, most women have at least one mink coat and most teen-agers have allowances of at least $10 a week (up to $25 for those who buy their own clothes).

The village itself offers residents active women's garden and book review clubs, horse stables, and, for club members, golf and swimming facilities. Among themselves, residents set up regular bridge foursomes and other activities.

There are no organized activities for teen-agers, but there are tennis courts and an ice skating rink for the youngsters, in addition to a summer day camp and a small library collection.

EXCEPT for some of the children, few residents were born and raised in Inverness. There are virtually no young couples living in the village, assumedly because at that stage of their lives, they can't afford Inverness. Some couples,

'People live here because they can afford it. And if you can afford it, you live here because it's a better place to raise kids and dogs than anyplace else...'

however, purchase lots with the expectation of later building a home there.

Most residents are from other Chicago suburbs and many from out of state, usually the New England area, where one-acre lots are common and not readily forgotten.

It's easy to see why residents settled in Inverness — its spaciousness and beauty, coupled with a quiet, countrylike atmosphere, are difficult to top.

Compatibility with neighbors, too, is a favor cited by many residents; Inverness residents are in the same approximate economic and social class and have somewhat similar values and interests.

They're a well-educated, well-traveled lot, with, for the most part, conservative political leanings typical of well-to-do people.

Those who move from the village generally do so reluctantly. Most often, it results from job transfers, though occasionally a retired couple will move elsewhere in the Inverness area after their children are grown.

But a commonly accepted attitude among Inverness residents, as expressed by one housewife with two kids and three dogs, is: "People live here because they can afford it. And if you can afford it, you live here because it's a better place to raise kids and dogs than anyplace else."

TOMORROW: A visit with a "typical" Inverness family — the William W. Whitings.

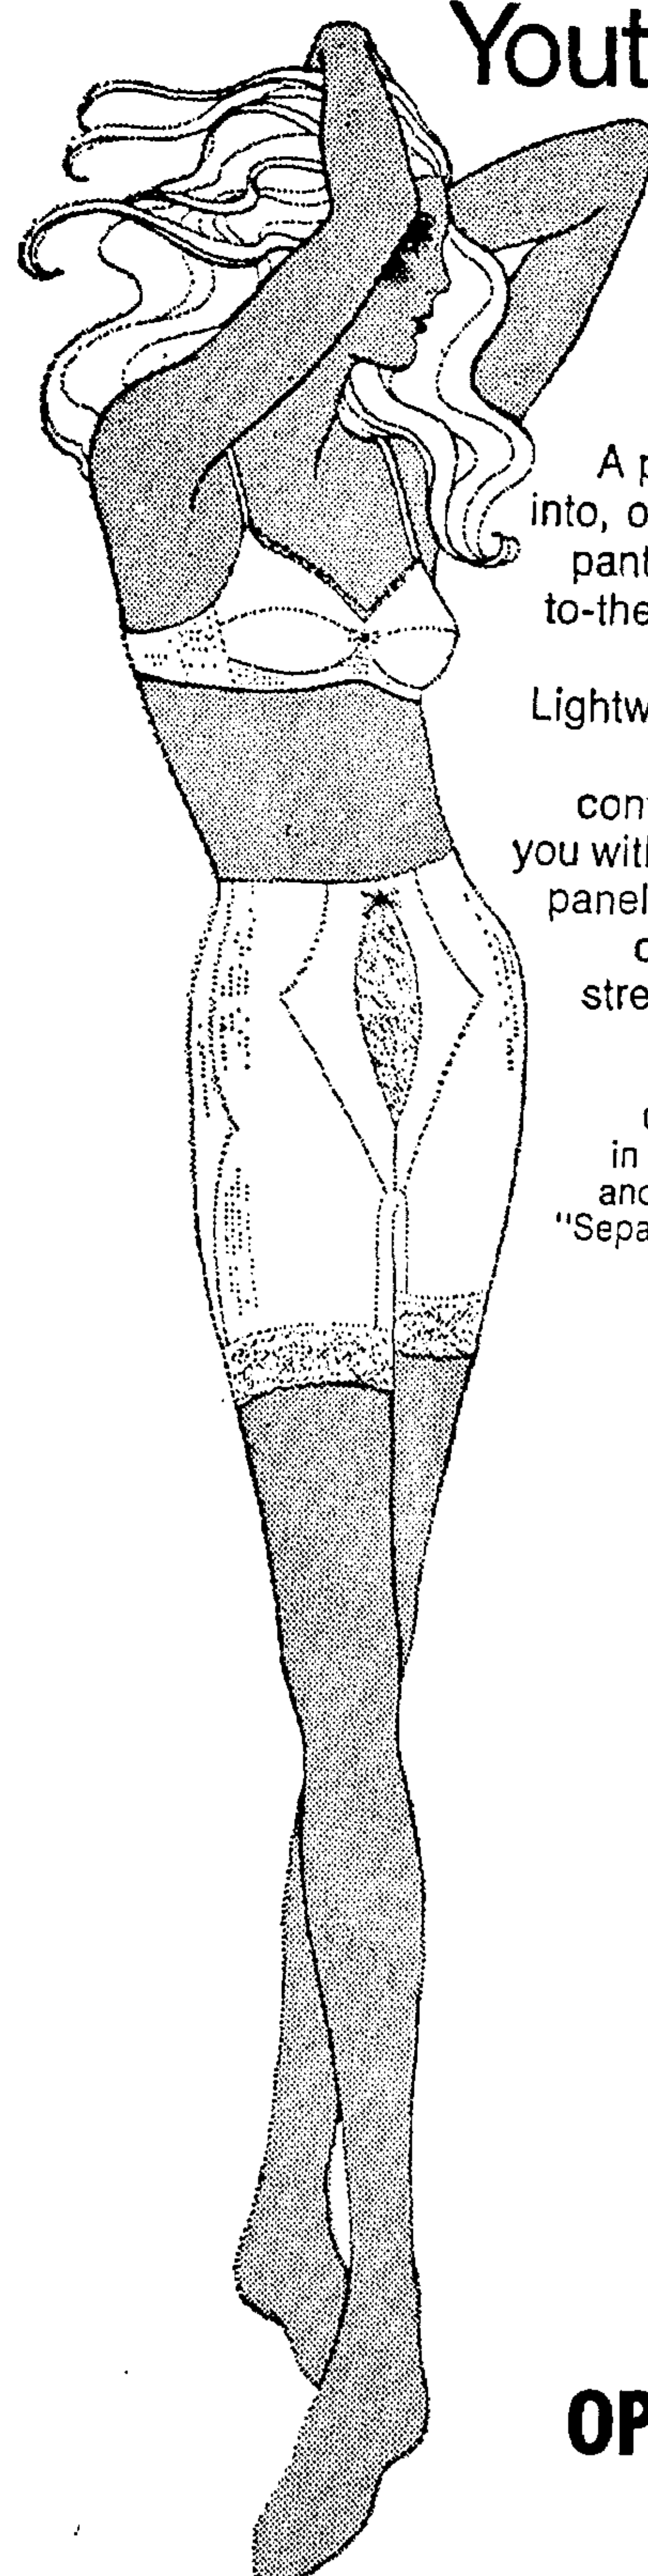

For some, a week isn't complete without bridge and a cocktail at 'the club.'

Nuclear Plants Design Revision Asked

Cutback In Energy Output?

by LEA TONKIN

The spokesman for a Chicago-based businessmen's organization has called for a revision in the design criteria used in the nation's nuclear energy stations.

If his request is taken seriously, it could mean a major reduction in the output of Illinois nuclear energy plants operated by Commonwealth Edison Co.

David Comey, a physicist and director of environmental research for the Businessmen for the Public Interest, said present plants have serious safety defects.

Stating that the safety programs for nuclear power stations are recognized as inefficient by the Atomic Energy Commission's own Advisory Committee on Safety Standards, Comey called for a public investigation of the issue by a group other than the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

"We are asking for a revision of the criteria in the design of nuclear plants across the country," said Comey. "Last week I called for an investigation because the public is simply not being made aware of the findings presented to the AEC. We feel the Congress should be aware of this and we are talking to a couple of Senators now on the possibility of conducting hearings."

COMEY APPEARED at a press conference in Washington on behalf of the National Intervenor, a coalition of public-interest groups. The controversy revolves around the possibility of a meltdown of nuclear material in a reactor core.

"The way this would affect Commonwealth Edison is that if the evidence we think will come out of the hearings is taken seriously, the nuclear energy plants across the country would have to be run at half power. Commonwealth Edison already has three nuclear plants on line and has others planned."

Commonwealth Edison in its annual report issued last week said the two new Quad Cities nuclear-power stations near Cordova, Ill., should be in service by this summer to maintain an advisable power reserve. Serious power outages could result in partial curbs of electrical service or voltage reduction ("brownout"), a company spokesman said. An additional nuclear generating station at Zion is slated to go into service later in the year.

Comey, commenting on the warnings of power shortages by the utility, said the reports are "largely fiction" since the Dresden station and other new sources of power have been added to the Commonwealth Edison service.

OTHER ACTIVITIES of this group of businessmen is the BPI suit to force the AEC to divest itself of its "promotional role" in the development of nuclear energy, because the commission also acts as the governmental regulating agency in this field. BPI is awaiting a reply from the AEC on this charge.

BPI also is questioning the safety standards set for the development and construction of breeder reactor stations including a new station proposed for the Tennessee Valley Authority. "We have asked for an environmental statement to be prepared on this station and for reports on all safety documents relating to the project," said Comey.

The BPI membership extends its concern to urban problems such as the study of scattered public housing sites in the Chicago area, the cleanup effort for Lake Michigan and other environmental issues. Donations from Chicago area businessmen support these campaigns. Comey said the minimum donation for members is $1,000.

Seeks More Aid To Education

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has urged Congress to consider state planning efforts in distributing additional federal assistance to state higher education systems.

Ogilvie led a delegation of governors to Capitol Hill last week to argue the case for increased aid before five congressional leaders from House and Senate committees on education.

Accompanying Ogilvie were chief executives of two other large states, Nelson Rockefeller of New York, and Preston Smith of Texas.

The governors presented a report on behalf of a special National Governors Conference committee on higher education, which Ogilvie heads.

Ogilvie said "Every college administrator, naturally enough wants a complete, self-contained university with every possible program. But the simple fact is we can't afford it any more."

"It's important that you look at the higher education system as a totality. You should give some appraisal of what the state is doing as a whole, and we should move in the same direction. Don't create the monster you did with welfare."

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — In a recent issue of a medical magazine, which was read to a group of student nurses, was an article describing two children who were afflicted with a disease that caused them to age prematurely. They had all of the symptoms of old age including breakdown of skin and body processes, deepening of the voice and matured sexual organs. Unfortunately, none of us can remember the name of it. We would appreciate any help you might give.

Dear Reader — I have no way of knowing what medical journal you may have read but you are probably referring to the disease progeria. This is a very rare disease that turns infants into old people. Aging starts in infancy and suddenly you have a little old man. Usually these patients die in their early teens. Their skin will become wrinkled and sagging, they will be bald or their hair will be gray. Many of them die of heart disease.

There are only about 50 cases of this problem recorded in the medical literature and they are of particular interest because they may serve as a model for aging. That is, they may give us some new clues as to what goes wrong in the body's chemistry or the chemistry related to heredity that causes aging. After all, with the more advanced knowledge that has developed concerning the chromosomes and inheritance, it is possible that chemical corrections can be made.

The only other problem that you might have read about which is in any way similar is Werner's syndrome. This disease usually appears for the first time in late adolescence and then there is rapid aging with most of these individuals dying at about 40, already with the changes we attribute to age.

THESE TWO rare abnormalities suggest that there may be a lot more to the aging process than we have always thought. Aging may not be inevitable. If a lot of the characteristics of the cells, organs and body that we attribute to age are truly chemical changes which can be altered then one might suppose that a state of perpetual youth or early maturity could be realized.

A lot of the things we now call aging may simply be disease. We have come to accept in our society that it is all right for older persons to be sick, "it is just part of being old," while in fact it may be just as much an illness as leukemia in young people or rheumatic fever.

The body cells are very complex and function by chemical process that appear to go awry resulting in the changes we call aging, but which in point of fact may occur decades before true aging really should occur.

Nostalgia, Camp In Ford Special

by RICK DuBROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Betty Grable, Dick Haymes, Maureen O'Hara and Frank Gorshin delivered a surprisingly nice mixture of nostalgia and camp

Tuesday night in an NBC-TV Tennessee Ernie Ford special saluting movie musicals of the 1940s.
Aside from a few moments of hokey dialogue and the hour's title — "The Fabulous Fordies" — the program spared us all the obvious cuteness that could have taken over, and was thus a broadcast with a pleasant aura of wistful charm. Square? Mostly. Old-fashioned? Generally. But very professional and knowing and, above all, likable.

THE CHOICE of performers gave the likability factor a big boost. Ford himself was just pretty much a host, doing his numbers straight and simple, so the show was really the guests, and they delivered under the guidance of producers Digby Wolfe and Bob Wynn. Wolfe was the writer and Wynn the director.

Miss Grable not only is a longtime national favorite, but at one time was virtually a show business institution, and to this day she seems to symbolize and epitomize an era — a simpler era — in American life. Her legs still look great, and she was most attractive.

Haymes, the veteran romantic crooner was making his first American television appearance in more than a decade, and he was as fluid as ever with a medley of well-known old tunes. His performance is sure to give a new boost to his career.

Miss O'Hara is one of the great beauties of our time, and Tuesday night she seemed even more glittering than in past years, if that is possible. In addition, she reminded us again that she has a delightful singing voice.

GORSHIN gets more remarkable all the time. He is certainly one of the great impressionists ever produced by show business, but, more than that, he has enough singing and dancing talent to widen his scope considerably when it comes to impersonating famous stars.

He was excruciatingly funny impersonating John Wayne as a World War II serviceman reciting "I can always find a little sunshine at the YMCA" before going out to take another hill.

As for Miss Grable, Miss O'Hara and Haymes — well, camp is fine on occasion, but you can't beat the original. And moviegoers will remember them long after the satirists who spoof the 1940s are gone.

Johnny Carson Prepares For Move To California

by VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Johnny Carson will move to Hollywood May 1.

Television's most popular late-night performer has spent several weeks at NBC preparing offices, stages and other necessities for his show.

"Just about everyone but me has moved west from New York," Johnny said in reference to other television shows. "That's because the talent has gravitated to Hollywood."

"I love New York. I find it exciting and stimulating. But it's difficult for us to find people we want on the show back there."

Carson on camera is smooth, sure and jaunty. Sitting in the Burbank sun sipping a cup of coffee outside his office on the network lot, he was — as always — a bit self-conscious, self-effacing and deferential.

He went on: "Working here is better because of facilities. Rockefeller Center was built for radio. These studios are strictly for television with a prop shop, scenery, larger stages, everything."

"BUT I DON'T think we'll have a 'California look.' People are too sophisticated for that sort of thing. I don't believe we had a 'New York look.'"

"The show will stay pretty much the same as it has for the past 10 years."

"I think people want to see some spontaneity. We are pure entertainment and make no bones about it. Other than a very few shows, television has become a device for showing film. The craziness and humor of live television is almost gone."

Carson has clobbered all opposition on late night discussion shows. He also knows why.

"I consider myself an entertainer," he said. "I rarely express opinions on the air. I don't want to use the show to espouse my own point of view. You have to lose half your audience that way.

"I'm criticized for not being concerned. Well, being 'concerned' on the air is not my function."

"I don't believe viewers are interested in hearing me and a guest discuss prison reform or birth control from 11:30 until 1 a.m. That's not my bag."

"Having a guest or two on the show and asking them prepared questions is easier than to try to be entertaining. But I don't want to do it. 'My show is not meant to have any social impact.'"

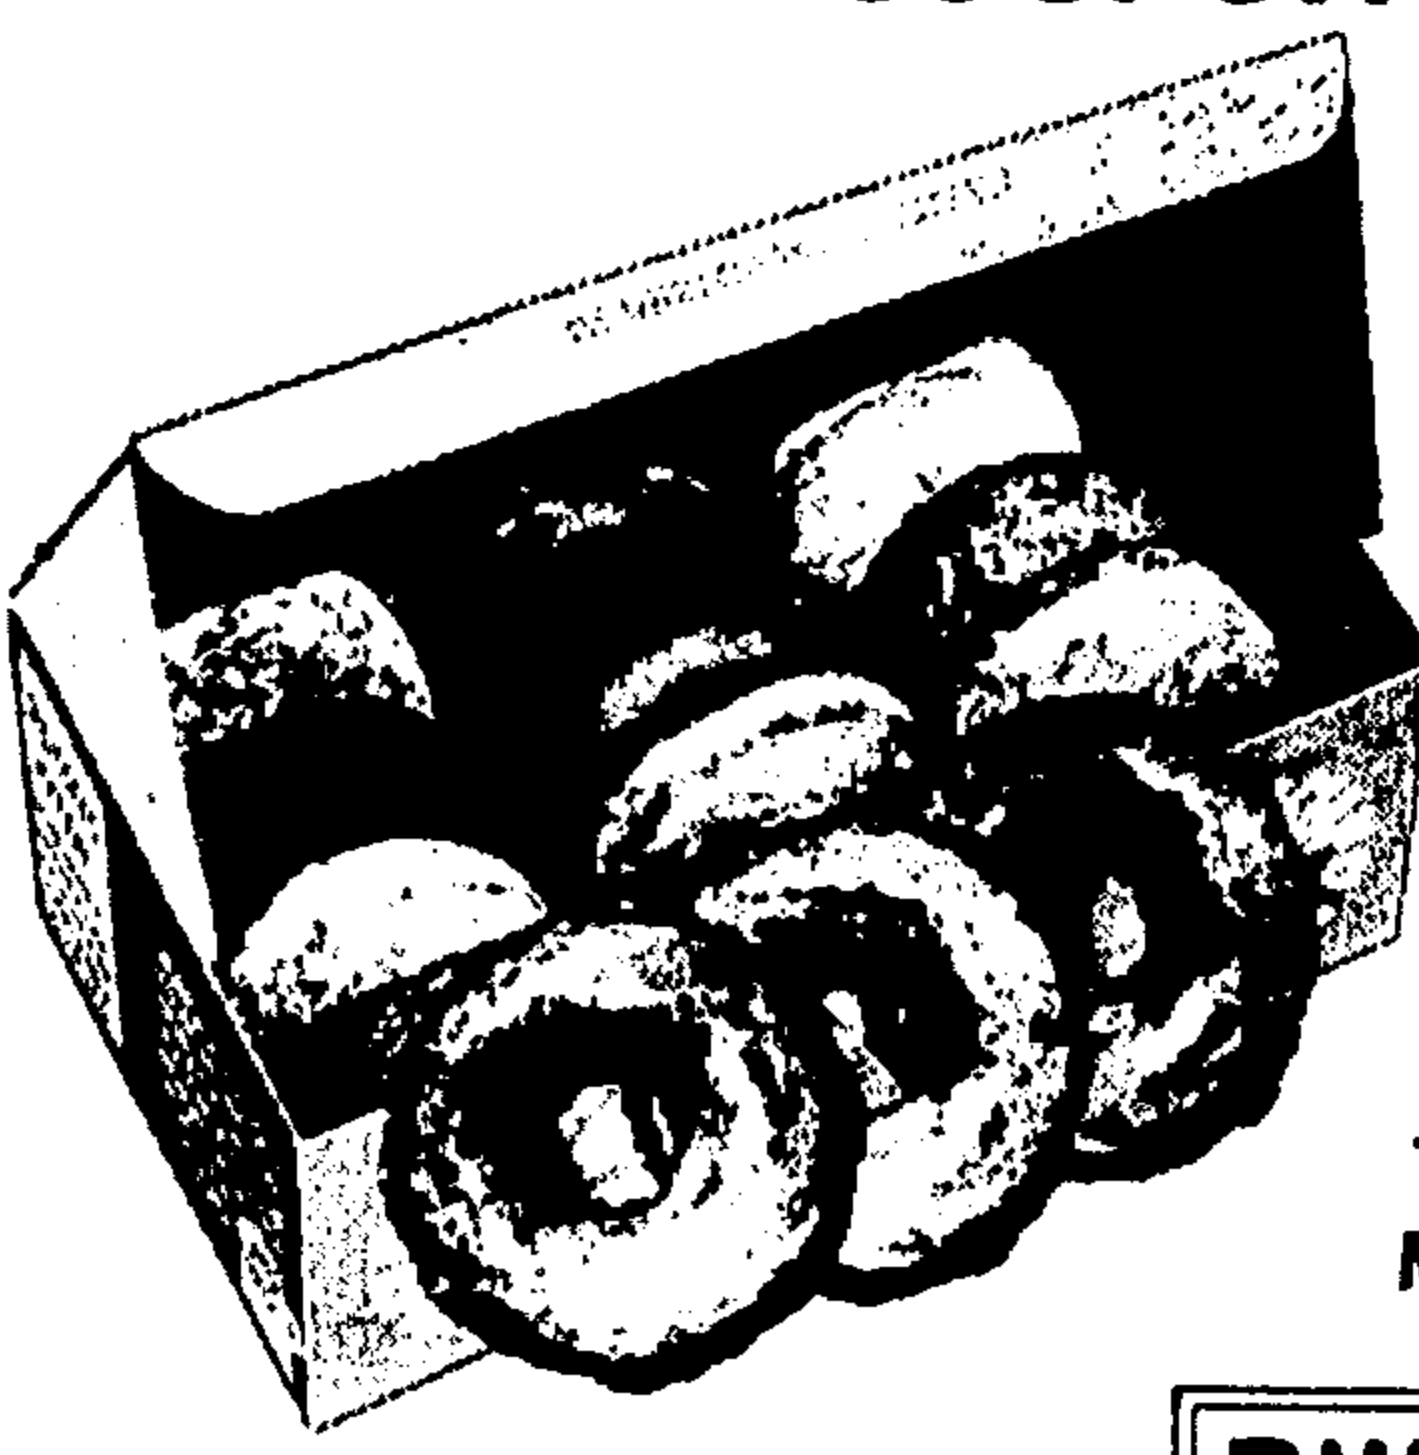

ITS IMPACT ON opposition has been devastating. Merv Griffin, Joey Bishop and others have gone by the boards. Movies have been scheduled opposite Johnny and are taking a whipping.

Unlike too many stars, Johnny wears his enormous success gracefully. He works long, brutal hours to polish his show as brightly as possible.

"I go by a gut reaction and do what I know best," Carson concluded. "I realize each show isn't destined to be placed in a time capsule. But our average is pretty high. We like to keep it that way."

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Culbertson slipped a trifle with his assessment of fines on today's hand. He fined North quite properly for a very unsound jump raise. Then he fined West for a double that should have told South how to make his game contract and South for not finding the play.

In actual defense, West cashed the ace and king of hearts and shifted to a club. South won and promptly cashed his trump ace. So he had to go down one.

South could have made his contract by a complicated play. He could cash his second high club and ruff a heart in dummy. Then he would have to discard a diamond on dummy's king of clubs and ruff dummy's last club.

After that he would be able to play king of diamonds — small diamond to dummy's ace and ruff dummy's last diamond to bring the hand down to a three card ending. He could then lead his jack or nine of trumps and West would be caught in a trump end play.

Where did Ely slip? He forgot to fine East and East was the real criminal. East should play his queen of hearts at trick one, to tell partner where the jack is. West could then underlead his ace to put East in and East could lead a trump and prevent any end plays.

Many Seniors Complete Requirements Early—Most Stay On

by BETSY BROOKER
There are 1,533 "super seniors" in High School Dist. 214 who have completed their high school credits but are staying on for a June graduation.

Altogether there are 1,800 "super seniors" in the district — making up almost half of the senior population — but only 7 per cent have chosen an early graduation.

A combination of extended school days and an expanded summer school program have allowed ambitious students to pile up the required 16 credits in only 3½ years. The modern trend toward a 12-month school year ultimately may cut back the high school program even more.

Early graduation is not a new development, but the large number of eligible students is. Dist. 214 has organized a special committee to study the situation and decide whether it should be encouraged or discouraged.

"No one is saying the students shouldn't graduate early," said Donald Ring, district director of research. "But we want to know why some are staying and some are leaving."

Ring and other committee members have developed a questionnaire that will be distributed to the "super seniors" and their parents. The district officials want to find out how the early graduates are taking advantage of their head start on college. And they want to know if there are any curriculum revisions they can make to hold these students for a full four years.

Currently no special arrangements have been made for the early graduates. Forest View High School was the only one of the district's seven schools to hold a mid-year graduation ceremony. The other graduates either had to take their diplomas over the counter or come back for a June ceremony.

A BREAKDOWN of each school shows that 32 out of 246 eligible seniors at Arlington High School graduated early; 41 out of 253 at Prospect High School; 66 out of 303 at Forest View High School; 62 out of 421 at Wheeling High School; 35 out of 237 at Elk Grove High School; and 62 out of 340 at Hersey High School. Rolling Meadows High School does not have a senior class.

What many of these students have done is add an extra course or half credit to their semester load. Normally, they would only need to take four classes plus physical education and study hall in each semester to graduate on time. But recent schedule changes — such as independent study and a eight period day — have allowed them to take on extra classes. In addition they can pick up from one to two credits in summer school.

The schedule changes were made to give the students a chance to supplement traditional courses, according to Robert Haskell, Elk Grove High School principal. The school officials say they wanted to give the students more freedom and more course variety — not an early out.

Most of the "super seniors" are taking advantage of their new freedom by broadening their studies. School officials speculate that many are staying on because they don't want to leave their friends or they aren't able to get into college in February.

The early graduates, on the other hand, apparently are leaving because they want to make money before their college term or in some cases simply want to break bonds with home. The majority of the early graduates, report administrators, are "highly motivated with career plans."

YET, SOME school officials worry that these students aren't ready to leave high school and haven't received the full benefits of a high school education. John Rowe, assistant principal at Arlington High School, said he would rather see "students stay five years in high school, taking junior college subjects, then three years in college."

District officials feel obligated to study the present program to see if there is any way they can better meet the special needs of the early graduates. According to Roderick McLennan, assistant superintendent, this may mean allowing students to take college credits in high school. Or it may mean combining job experience with high school courses.

"We want to offer these students what they need and make the program more relevant," said McLennan. "We are not playing games."

Veterans' News

Veterans Administration reminded veterans studying under the GI Bill that they can hire a tutor at VA expense, if needed, and still get the full educational allowance.

About 4,000 veterans received more than 60,000 hours of tutorial help in connection with their GI Bill educational studies, the VA reported.

VA officials noted to be eligible for this benefit (established by the Veterans Education and Training Act of 1970), the veteran must be enrolled under the GI Bill above the high school level on a half time or more basis.

IF THE VETERAN needs tutoring to pass a required course, VA allows up to $50 monthly for a maximum of nine months to pay for it.

These tutorial fees are in addition to the regular monthly education check the veteran receives, and are not chargeable to his basic entitlement, officials pointed out.

VA urged veterans interested in tutorial assistance or education benefits to contact their nearest VA office, or local veterans service organization representatives.

18 Area 4-H Youth In State Competition

Eighteen North Cook County 4-H members remain in contention for six trophies and three 1972 state fair berths.

The final contest to select winners will be held on Thursday evening, March 9, at the Union Oil Co. auditorium in Palatine starting at 7:15 p.m.

According to Merlyn Heyen, University of Illinois extension adviser responsible for 4-H work in North Cook County, Union Oil is the national sponsor of the 4-H speaking activity and host of the local contest.

The responsibility of selecting the winners will go to Craig Bate, president of the Arlington Heights Toastmasters Club. He will be assisted by a small committee of his fellow toastmaster members.

The first competition, on February 10, involved 140 4-H members in three different divisions.

Six of the finalists are from Division I, for members less than 12 years of age by January 2, 1972. A trophy will go to the best boy and best girl speaker in this division. Competing will be Joseph Blechl, Mount Prospect; Debra Sandell, Arlington Heights; Mary Pat Gering, Mount Prospect; Randy Kiner, Mount Prospect; Tim Tatlock, Rolling Meadows and Judy Aspegren, Northbrook.

The 12 finalists from Divisions II and III will be competing for the three state fair honors as well as trophies in each division.

High school sophomores up to 19 years of age compete in Division III. The four finalists in this division are Keith Heyen, Carol Kiner and John Moriarty, all from Mount Prospect and Maria Richter, Palatine.

Division II is for members 12 years of age by January 1, 1972 thru freshman high school. Eight members are competing in this category. They are Tim and Tom Blechl, Mount Prospect; Steve and Mike LeRoy, Barrington; Annette Miller, Palatine; Cindy Strunk, Arlington Heights; Shelley Richter, Palatine and Clara Booth, Palatine.

Harper Students Capture Awards

Harper College students Richard Cook of Arlington Heights and Sandra Smith of Hoffman Estates have received a boost toward realization of career goals as winners of the 1971-72 Student Achievement Awards.

The winners were chosen for the awards from among more than 20 applicants by a panel of community leaders.

The winners were presented with a certificate and $100 each from the Continental Bank and Trust Company of Chicago. They now are eligible to enter a regional contest. In a final competition, the outstanding community college man and woman in the state of Illinois will be selected.

Cook, 23, plans to continue his education, begun at Harper, in a four-year college. He intends to teach mathematics at elementary, high school and college levels.

"I believe that I will be better able to meet the needs of the older students if I start at the lower level of teaching," Cook explains.

"I have learned to appreciate learning, and I feel strongly about encouraging others to seek this rewarding experience," added Cook.

Cook is currently assisting other students in his capacity as Student Provost at Harper College. He has held the position since July, 1971.

After graduation from Arlington High School, Cook served four years in the U.S. Air Force. He is a staff sergeant on inactive reserve.

Your State Tax Questions Answered

12— Section 1

Thursday, March 2, 1972

THE HERALD

Q. I receive a railroad retirement pension. Will this be subject to Illinois income tax?

A. No. amounts received on railroad retirement benefits are not subject to Illinois income tax. It is particularly important to note that supplemental benefits which are subject to federal income tax are not subject to Illinois income tax.

Q. What is the rule on the filing of joint returns for Illinois income tax purposes?

A. Generally, if a husband and wife file a joint federal income tax return, they must file a joint Illinois return, or, if the federal tax liability of either is determined on a separate return, separate Illinois returns are required. If neither spouse is required to file a federal return and either or both must file an Illinois return, they may elect to file separately or jointly. If one spouse is a resident and the other a nonresident, they may file separate returns, or they may file jointly as if both were residents.

Q. I am opening a dress shop and will have several employees. How do I register with the State of Illinois for withholding tax purposes?

A. As an employer you need a Federal Employer's Identification Number. If you haven't applied for it, file Form SS-4 with the Internal Revenue Service Center at Kansas City, Mo. After you are assigned the Employer's Identification Number or if you already have one you file Form IL-701 for the Illinois Employer's Identification Number. Form IL-701 is available at any of the Department of Revenue tax offices.

Q. If a student earns income but is supported by his parents, is he considered a taxpayer or a dependent?

A. He is considered both. If a student earns more than $1,000 or more he is required to file an Illinois tax return. If he owes no tax but had tax withheld by the employer he should file a return in order to claim the amount withheld as a refund. A student can also be a dependent of his parents if they provided over half of his support for the year and he was a full time student for at least five calendar months of the year. The amount of income earned is not the determining factor.

A good home, a good life

That's what the Northwest suburban area means to thousands of families . . . and that's what First Federal Savings of Des Plaines has done so much to help. Many of our home loans were made to folks who are now long-time residents, who are also friends. But today, we're welcoming newcomers with the same concerned service we've been providing all these years. And, that's good, because the community needs both long time and new residents to continue its growth and maintain its heritage.

Ours is a pleasant job. A satisfying job. And, we plan to continue to help the people of this area build and grow.

Stamp Notes

by Bernadine M. Rechner

The first issue of the 1972 Canada Stamp Program is a special 8 cent stamp commemorating the World Figure Skating Championships which are being held in Canada this year from March 6 to 12.

Twenty-five million of the stamps went on sale yesterday, five days before the week-long championships open in Calgary, Alberta.

The first international skating competition was held in 1890 in St. Petersburg, Russia and won by Louis Rubenstein, a Canadian.

In 1905 the first Canadian National Championships were held and in 1924 Canada was represented for the first time in the World and Olympic championships.

Calgary is the third Canadian city to host the skating championships. In 1932, they were held in Montreal, Quebec and in 1960 in Vancouver, British Columbia.

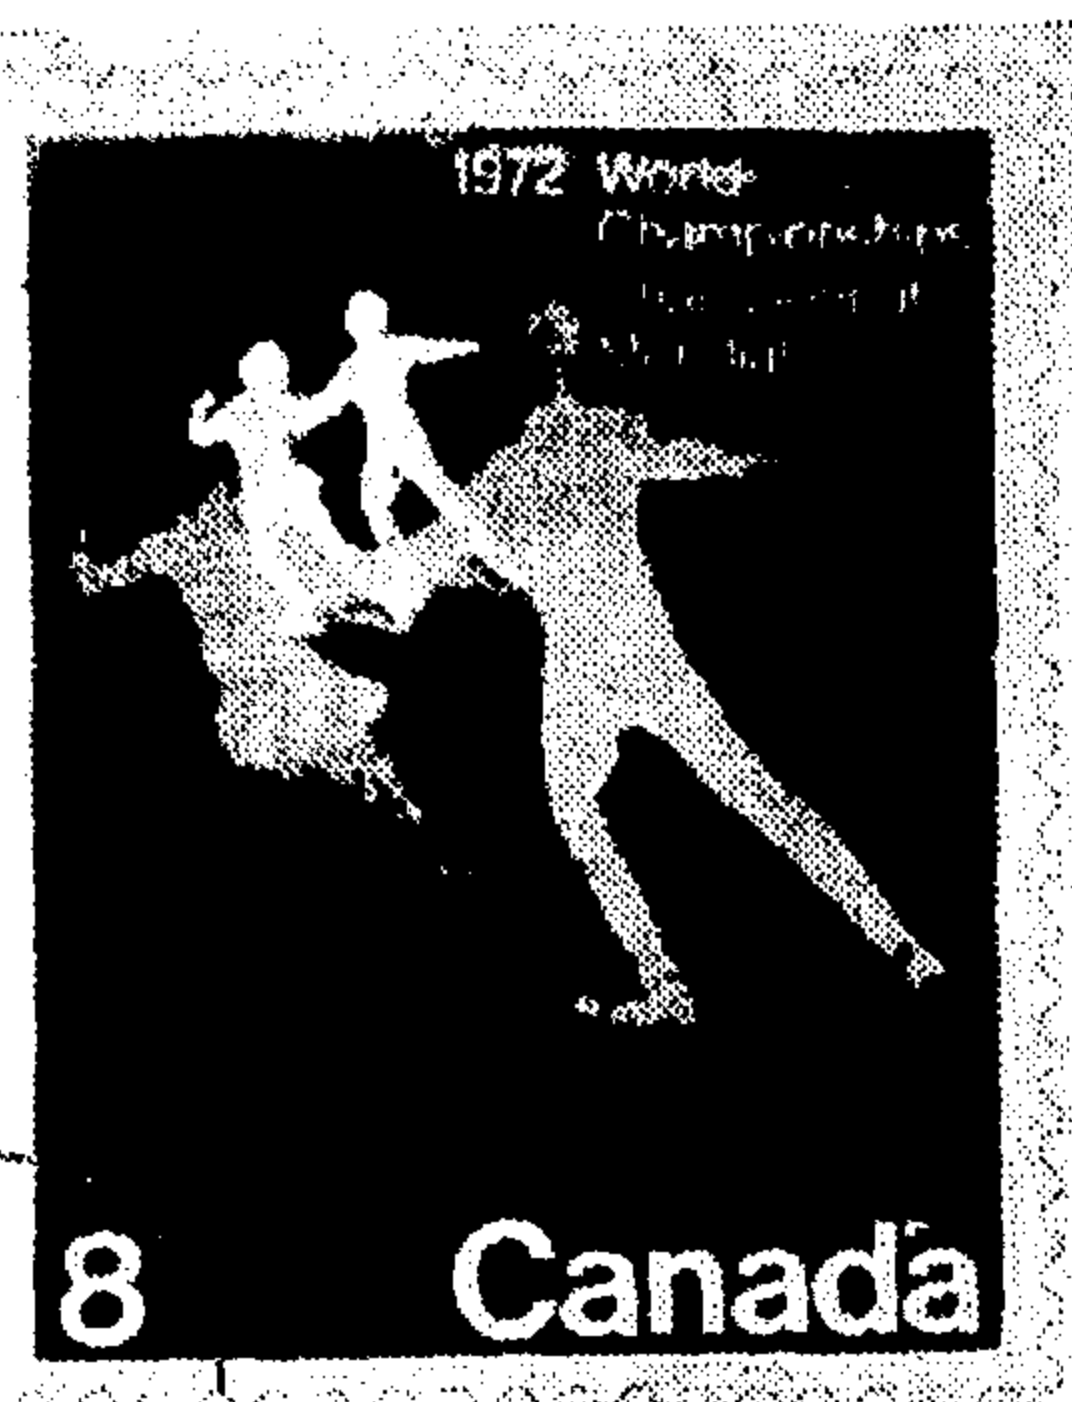

The purple skating stamp was designed by the Design Workshop of Toronto, Ontario and will be printed in one color lithography by the Canadian Bank Note Company of Ottawa.

ON MARCH 17, the Canada Post Office will issue two new, high value definitives in denominations of $1 and $2. The theme of their designs is the urbanization of Canada, illustrated by modern and historic skylines.

Because of the delayed launch of Apollo 16, the deadline date for submission of commemorative Apollo covers has been extended to March 25, 1972. The launch is now scheduled for April 16, 1972.

The U.S. Navy's Manned Spacecraft Recovery forces in the Atlantic and Pacific will cachet and cancel this commemorative philatelic mail.

The special Apollo covers will be processed through designated coordinators at Norfolk, Va., and Honolulu, Hawaii.

From the Hawaii site, first day covers will be forwarded to the recovery ship. Atlantic covers sent to Norfolk will be processed through the local Post Office, which will use the standard "U.S. Postal Service" cancellation.

THIS CANCELLATION will not contain the name of the Atlantic recovery ship since the recovery force will not include a ship with postal facilities.

Collectors should send their pre-stamped and self-addressed envelopes to the appropriate coordinator before March 25. A three-inch square should be allowed on the left hand side of the envelopes so the cachet may be applied.

Each recovery force coordinator will accept ONLY two covers per collector. Addresses are: Atlantic: Apollo 16 Overseas, Task Force 140, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va., 23511; Pacific: Chief-in-Charge (Apollo 16) Task Force 130, Navy Terminal Post Office, Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, Calif., 96610.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

A recent study of free world silver consumption by Handy and Harman of New York City shows that in 1971 the United States increased its coinage production by 1.8 million ounces over the previous year but reduced its industrial uses of the precious metal by 5 million ounces during the same period.

Of eight major silver users other than the government, five used less silver in 1971 than in 1970, and three actually used more, one of these three being listed as "Commemorative and Collector Art," or producers and private mints issuing medallions, plaques and commemorative coin-medals of silver content for public consumption.

While coin and art medals are still very popular collectors items, there is a Coin silver objects will have a specific gravity value of 10.337.

STERLING SILVER

Sterling silver contains only .925 more silver than coin silver, which makes it highly desirable for such things as jewelry, table service and commemorative pieces but prohibitive as currency.

It is usually 925 parts silver and 75 parts copper. In accordance with standards set for the British pound sterling, coinage in that classification is held at 500 parts silver joined with 500 parts of a base alloy. This formula should not be confused with that of Sterling silver fabricated into commemorative coin-medals or ingots.

Sterling silver products should be marked "Sterling" and will show a spe-

PURE SILVER

Items of this purity must be stamped .999. A .001 possibility of the existence of a foreign substance in the virgin mineral makes the description 1000/1000 fine incorrect.

Ingots or medals represented as .999 fine or pure should have a specific gravity value of 10.494.

EVALUATION

To determine the intrinsic value of any product produced under either of these three conditions it is necessary to know its exact weight in ounces and the current market value of silver, which is usually given in ounces rather than grains.

1) Reduce the grain weight to ounces and multiply by the purity to ascertain the amount of pure silver content. Multiply this figure by the price per ounce as reflected in the daily market.

Example: A 4800 grain .999 silver ingot would weigh 10 ounces at 480 grains per troy ounce. Multiplied by .999 would result in 9.99 ounces of pure silver. This figure multiplied by the value will show the true amount of intrinsic value in silver.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.) Questions? Address Mort Reed, Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

growing trend toward "ingots" of varying sizes and in as many different alloys. For the most part these pieces are issued in series as were the round silver medals. But like the coin-medal, some are good buys and some are not, depending on their composition rather than the sculpture they bear.

Silver comes in many forms but usually only three gradations are used in the production of "Commemorative and Collectors Art." 1) Coin silver which represents nothing more than an alloy similar in every respect to that of melted U.S. coins. 2) a slightly richer mix conforming to Sterling silver standards but inferior in quality to 3) .999 fine or pure silver.

COIN SILVER

Coin silver is 900 parts silver alloyed with 100 parts copper. When silver was abandoned by most world currencies as the major value ingredient in circulating mediums, it made coins of that composition available for induction into private use.

Collectors' objects of coin silver are rarely identified as being of a particular alloy. More often than not no reference is made to the composition but merely tagged as "silver..."

Let's Build Center Soon

Among the most welcome news to come from officials of the State of Illinois in some time was the announcement last week that a site for a much-needed driver testing facility had been selected in the Northwest suburbs.

After more than two years of delay — including some justifiable pauses for site selection — the state announced it plans to build a driver testing station on Quentin Road between Northwest Highway and Dundee Road, north of Palatine.

Announcement of the site and the decision to erect the station here came from Illinois Secretary of State John W. Lewis. Prime mover in the state action and deserving commendation for his efforts is State Representative Gene Schlickman of Arlington Heights.

Schlickman encouraged the office of Secretary of State to pursue the idea of a local driver testing facility in the Northwest suburbs for the same reason the Herald has repeatedly asked that a station be built: the numbers of residents, cars and drivers now in the Northwest suburbs clearly show a need for a local station.

Assuming this new driver station is speedily built and equipped and that no further delays are incurred, it will soon be possible for residents of the Northwest suburbs to obtain proper driving credentials near their homes.

Instead of journeying to such distant driver testing stations as Elgin, Libertyville and Chicago, suburban residents hopefully will be able to meet their state driver qualifications near at hand.

It is an excellent benefit to the residents of the Northwest suburbs, and a welcome acknowledgment of suburban residents' need for state services near the places where they live and work.

As welcome as this news is, however, it is important to point out that funds have not yet been allocated for the $359,000 facility and will not be until the Illinois legislature authorizes the expenditure.

Rep. Schlickman says he foresees no difficulty in seeing appropriate legislation passed financing the station. Governor Ogilvie reportedly has been apprised of this new facility and will sign the necessary legislation into law.

We can only hope now that the Illinois General Assembly and the governor will indeed act swiftly on this matter.

The driver testing station is needed and deserving conclusive action by state officials, just as the drivers of the Northwest suburbs deserve a testing facility near home.

Folk Wisdom Returns

What American middle-class women need to help cut their maternal anxieties is more folk wisdom and less to do with specialists, according to a Harvard University researcher.

When pediatricians, for example, are consulted about problems not strictly medical, they can only make educated guesses — actually passing along their own folk wisdom, says Mrs. Beatrice B. Whiting, a lecturer on education at Harvard's Graduate School of Education.

"Since we are in essence depending on folk wisdom in many situations, why not transmit it in an efficient way? Perhaps the one universal bit of folk wisdom which we have forgotten in our period of rapid change is the importance of teaching individuals when they are preadolescent how to care for babies and toddlers," she says.

Mrs. Whiting, who has worked with Kenyan students at the Child Development Research Unit in Nairobi, notes that those youngsters have grown up in large families and in homesteads where they served their turns as child nurses.

"Their experience," she says, "seems to protect them from the guilt and anxiety which prevails among middle-class American mothers."

Middle-class American mothers are doubly handicapped because most of them are far away from their own parents and they probably did not have any early experience in caring for young children.

Mrs. Whiting says that the increased use of young people as helpers in day-care centers is an encouraging sign, for these youngsters will gain experience with children. Women's lib is another hopeful trend because young women will get advice and reassurance from each other.

Flying Smudgepot

Yet another use has been found for that workhorse of the sky, the helicopter — as a "flying smudgepot," no less.

Using helicopters to blow warm air down on trees to protect them from frost would save money for growers and at the same time reduce air pollution from orchard heaters, says Marvin Miller, an Agriculture Extension citrus expert at the University of California in Riverside.

"For $100 an hour, a helicopter can economically protect about 100 acres," he says.

That may not sound very cheap, but without a helicopter, Miller points out, a grower has to invest perhaps $60,000 in wind machines and pay about $150 in operating costs for the same period on the same number of acres.

Oakton 'Arrogance' Blasted

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

Captain Kangaroo, kids have been coming to school better prepared for learning than their teachers have been to instruct them. In terms of the amount of information now ambient in the culture, schools today are doing a worse job than was achieved in the time of Charlemagne.

Among the difficulties which have to be cleared up before schools can be improved the tenure of incompetents, self-protective accrediting codes, the concept of school as a convenient baby-sitting service; the idea that "concepts" can be communicated without supportive facts, reliance on the inadequate materials of "educational publishers" which are locked into their own biases by financial investments, and, most important of all, a hatred of young people.

Neither money nor land will solve such problems, and, while they are unsolved, it becomes increasingly difficult for the most avid humanitarian reformer to say that the needs of a school have priority over the needs of a cemetery. The difference between the competitive institutions is not all that great.

Floros Backs School Consolidation

I read with great interest the Herald story about the proposed consolidation of school districts in the northwest suburban area.

I agree wholeheartedly with the suggestion by Oscar Chute, consultant hired by the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) to study the subject of consolidation. I have advocated this course of action for three years and I suggested long ago that the NEC address itself to this subject as one of the first orders of business. It seems to me that consolidation of district makes sense, both from an economic and educational point of view.

When District 59 contacted other school districts in the area to determine if there was interest in discussing consolidation, I volunteered to represent our district (57) in any such discussion. I am still prepared to do that — as a member of the District 57 Board which I now serve, as a member of the District 214, if elected; or as a private citizen.

I think the educational dollar should be shared more equitably than it is now being shared, and I believe consolidation would help bring that about. I don't think it's a coincidence that all of the elementary feeder districts in 214 are in debt, while 214 is operating in the black.

A mere 5 per cent reduction in the operating budgets of District 214 would produce about $1.25 million — money which should be earmarked for the elementary schools where the need today is so great.

Des Plaines Needs Recycling Bins

I am responding to your article of February 16 (Des Plaines Herald) concerning Mrs. Rohrbach's proposal for the city to sponsor recycling bins at Lee and Oakton Streets. I would be very much in favor of the installation of these central bins. They would provide us the opportunity of doing something concrete to help in the fight for a cleaner world. Most people believe we have an ecological problem, but many of us are frustrated because there seems so little the individual can do.

Even a few tons of glass, metal, and newspaper collected in these bins each month would help us avoid filling up the land with solid wastes and would aid in conserving natural resources. Driving to Glenview or to Niles West High School (the closest metal depositories) defeats the purpose of recycling because extra gasoline is consumed and the air polluted from our cars.

Individual families can do something toward saving the environment such as avoiding carrying purchases from the stores in paper bags limiting their use of disposable paper products, and in general attempting to be an "under-consumer." However it is difficult to keep fighting when one feels alone. City support can help us all feel we are pulling together and that our individual efforts can make a difference.

Rail Nationalization Ahead?

by RAY CROMLEY

It is altogether possible the nation's railroads will be nationalized within the next half-dozen years. The passenger business has already been taken over. The plight of the Penn-Central Railroad has caused some lawmakers to look at the industry with jaundiced eyes.

If past experience in other countries is any test, nationalization of the rails would cost the U. S. taxpayer heavily in open and hidden subsidies for operating deficits each year.

This would be a pity. For the railroad industry has within itself the capacity for highly efficient and profitable operation. Both rail and independent analysts this reporter has contacted see no reason why the railroads cannot — under the proper conditions — carry their share of the nation's freight at reasonable cost on reliable schedules while making a profit large enough to encourage development.

But this ideal situation is on paper. Shippers complain their goods don't arrive on schedule, that when they are delivered breakage is high.

Tomorrow . . .

—EDITORIAL: Two novel methods of recycling to brighten up the Illinois countryside.

The railroads say they can't correct their deficiencies until they can get more money. They say that they can't afford the new equipment, the heavy computerization and the maintenance standards necessary.

The rails say they can't borrow the funds they need (except for a few "rich" roads) because they're in such bad shape financially banks consider them a poor risk.

They'd like to have government-guaranteed loans similar in concept to the FHA (Federal Housing Administration) guarantees the government puts up, for a fee, for home buyers.

Freight cars are old and in sad repair on many lines, and since these cars get shunted through the national system, the efficiency of all is lowered. Locomotives are tired.

But worst of all are the inefficient methods some rail lines use in keeping track of cars on their runs and in getting shipments to destinations. Here again, inefficient lines slow the whole system.

But the railroads say they have an equally great problem in their pricing — what they're allowed to charge shippers. The problem here is delay. Important price changes, they claim, can take as long as seven months to get through the mill at the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Though many price changes are granted quickly, there are sufficient delays on the major shifts that railway economists estimate profits could be doubled if they were allowed to make temporary (interim) price adjustments immediately when recognized cost increases (such as wage boosts) raise their expenditures. These costs are almost always allowed, the railways say, but the bureaucratic delays in approving the higher rates (while expenses go up and income stays level), they claim, costs America's rail lines $250 million a year.

What the railroads would really like is for the government to make a study and determine in what goods and in what areas the rails no longer have a monopoly, because of trucks or barge lines. Then for these highly competitive goods, the rails would be allowed to move prices up or down without waiting. This they do not expect to get.

It would be good for the country if the members of the House and Senate learned the details of those proposals. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Aw, Rats!

I read a most recent article entitled "Aw Rats" in your daily scandal tabloid (Palatine Herald), and although a good many residents of the Pebble Creek area may be offended, I say, "Fantastic!" When we first moved here I had fears of fading into obscurity, but thanks to your constant direful bilines and headlines, we have been enjoying a most favorable bit of notoriety and are the envy of the countryside.

In respect to keeping out all "unwanted and unruly elements, particularly apartment dwellers," apparently I've become a snob. After 40+ years, I have finally achieved a goal which I had feared was unsurmountable, but thanks to your agitation and publicity, I have arrived at the snob level. Beautiful.

Unfortunately I only own one home in the Pebble Creek area, but I wish I owned three or four, as people are standing in line to purchase our rat-infested homesites.

The only problem is that your so-called reporters keep dragging half-truths out of the sewer. Please feel free to call on me for any derogatory information about our area as we sure enjoy the publicity.

Hail! The land of the free and homes of the brave — rats included.

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — When computers came along, there was much talk — some jocular, some serious — about how they eventually would take over the job of making management decisions.

It hasn't quite come to that, but some companies are making production and marketing decisions based on computer output.

Monsanto was one of the pioneers in the field.

And five years ago American Cyanamid's Organic Chemicals Division at Bound Brook, N.J., set up a program called Computer Assisted Project Evaluation (CAPE).

"It's been most helpful in determining whether to put a new product on the market," said Dr. J. H. Pade, director of research and development for the division. "Yes, there has been some resentment. People don't want a machine telling them what to do or threatening their jobs. But that attitude is waning, I think. After all, the computer is just another tool for which humans supply the input and don't have to slavishly follow the output."

DR. WILLIAM S. Castor, director of product development at Cyanamid's Stamford, Conn., research laboratories, describes the CAPE program this way:

The boys with the slide rules, the mathematicians, bring together all available information from research, production and marketing personnel on the feasibility of developing and marketing a product. Probabilities — a key word in the program — are assigned to each stage of the proposed product's development and early marketing.

If the research manager looks at product specifications and decides his staff has only a 50-50 chance of bringing it in successfully, he would assign a probability factor of 50 per cent to the project. Production and marketing managers make similar evaluations.

Mathematical formulas then are used to forecast the probable chance of success the product would have and the probable return to the company.

THE PROGRAM has had "good results" at Cyanamid, says Dr. Pade. While pointing out that it is difficult to judge CAPE results since there is no base of comparison, he noted that frequently projects which the computer readout has turned down, but which humans okay, eventually "have been dropped." CAPE's decisions, he said, have been on target in products involving development of dyes, ultra violet absorbers to protect plastics against sun, high temperature elastomers for automotive use and catalysts for the refining industry.

"But this is only part of why we are enthusiastic about CAPE," said Dr. Pade. "Such projects might have been successful had only humans been involved in the final decisions. The big thing, as I see it, is that every facet of product thought is brought into line. They look at it from a new angle, from the total angle, not the narrow angles."

Grand Opening For Pedian Rug

'New' Store Has 88-Year History

The Pedian Rug Co.'s first outlet in the Northwest suburbs is having its grand opening weekend today, tomorrow and Saturday at its new showroom at 16 N. Vall, Arlington Heights.

The store is operating in a joint arrangement with the Schneller Furniture Co., which has been expanding its own display area to create the largest retail establishment in downtown Arlington Heights.

The new store is managed by Gil Arosen, a Pedian employee for 13 years, assisted by Bob Jones.

The new store promises to offer the largest and most complete floor covering selection in the Northwest suburbs. In addition to representing more than 40 carpet mills, Pedian's exhibit a large selection of Oriental rugs, parquet floors and vinyl tile floors.

THE PEDIAN STORY began in Sivas, Turkey, where Vartan V. Pedian was born in 1884, and later learned to support himself by transporting Oriental rugs from town to town.

He came to the United States in 1907, moved to Chicago, and in six months owned his own store. By 1926 he had two more stores in operation.

That was the end of the "good days" for Pedian for many years. A $100,000 holdup in 1929 was not covered by his insurance policy because of a technicality. The theft was by day and classified as a "holdup." His policy covered burglary only, specifying that the store must be closed when the theft occurred. The thieves literally drove a van up to the store and proceeded to load it — at midday. After six months of trying to keep the business going, Pedian was the victim of double pneumonia, and was bedridden for 18 months. Sales dropped off, bills were unpaid, and then came the Depression.

Although he was forced to close his two suburban stores, Pedian did everything possible to maintain his original store.

HE DID keep it alive, and after World War II, Pedian and his three sons — Haig, Vahan and Ara — began emphasizing wall-to-wall carpeting sales. The business flourished again, and in 1959 the Lincolnwood showroom — now the main store — was opened.

Pedian himself, at age 88, still is on the job at the Lincolnwood store, while the sons keep the details of the operation going.

The firm now employs more than 100 and has become known nationally as a retail leader in the carpet industry — being the only Chicago-area carpet firm to win the National Carpet and Rug Institute award for retail excellence, winning it in both 1968 and 1969.

The other Pedian outlets are at 6435 N. Lincoln Ave., Lincolnwood, and 6233 W. Kirk St., Morton Grove.

Dividend News

Motorola Sales Rise

Motorola Inc., reported record sales for 1971, with sales totaling $926,592,871, an increase of 16 per cent over $796,418,521 in 1970.

Earnings increased 24 per cent to $31,749,944, or $2.37 a share, compared to $25,662,965, or $1.93 a share, in 1970, before a 1970 extraordinary expense of $1,422,465 (11 cents per share). The 1971 earnings include 7 cents per share realized as a gain from the translation of certain foreign balances to current exchange rates.

Lucky At 12 1/2c

A Share

The board of directors of Lucky Stores Inc., declared a cash dividend of 12 1/2 cents a share on the common stock outstanding. It is payable March 28, to shareholders of record March 7.

The board also declared the regular preferred dividends, payable April 1, to shareholders of record March 15.

Carbide Sales Up

Final figures released by Union Carbide Corp. showed 1971 sales at a record high of $3,037,529,000 and net income of $157,834,000, or $2.61 a share. In 1970, sales were $3,026,326,000 and net income was $157,312,000, or $2.60 a share.

The 1971 net income is after a net extraordinary credit of $4,861,000, equivalent to $0.08 a share. Income before extraordinary items was $152,973,000, or $2.53 a share.

Richardson Sales Up

Richardson Co.'s net sales in the fourth quarter increased 17 per cent over the average rate of the preceding three quarters. Fourth quarter earnings were more than 100 per cent greater than the average of the three preceding quarters.

Previously Richardson had reported that net sales from continuing operations of $107,265,000 were down 4.5 per cent in 1971 from comparable 1970 sales of $112,393,000. Earnings from continuing operations in 1971, before extraordinary items, amounted to $2,679,000 or $1.04 a share after allowing for preferred dividends, down sharply from comparable 1970 earnings of $3,696,000 or $1.71 a share.

Parker Hikes Payout

Directors of Parker-Hannifin Corp. voted to increase the quarterly dividend on the common stock of the company to 39-cents a share payable March 17 to shareholders of record at the close of business March 3.

The 39-cent payment represents a 4 per cent increase over the regular quarterly dividend rate of 37 1/2 cents a common share which Parker-Hannifin has been paying since May, 1970.

The directors also voted to split the common stock of the company on a 3-for-2 basis, and to establish a new regular quarterly dividend rate of 26-cents a share on the increased number of shares following the split.

The new 26-cent regular quarterly dividend rate, which is equivalent to the 39-cent dividend before the split, represents an increase of 6-cents a share in annual dividend payout. This is the maximum increase allowable under current federal guidelines.

New Copier Eases Life For Operator

A new 42-inch ammonia whiteprinter copier featuring a number of operator conveniences has been announced by the Bruning division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., Des Plaines. Its high-volume performance is designed for application in the central reproduction departments of large firms.

A new Bruning 875, as it is known, features such as slide-out control cluster, lighted color-coded pushbutton controls, vacuum ports on the feedboard to hold copy paper and soft-feed roller and slow forward control.

A patent has been applied for covering the new, soft-feed system incorporated into the 875, according to the company. A roller fabricated of foam material gently smooths the leading edge of the tracing so that it can be easily fed into the machine. This is especially helpful when tracings are worn or tightly rolled.

The soft-feed roller also provides a safety feature to protect both the operator and the machine. Should fingertips or a foreign object raise this roller above a quarter of an inch, the machine feed automatically is set in reverse at a speed of about 10 feet per minute.

Feeding of tracings also is aided by "slow forward" buttons located on each side of the feed. When tracing and copy paper are properly aligned and fed, a press of either button will immediately return the machine to its normal operating speed setting. The machine can be operated at speeds up to 80 feet per minute.

ONCE A TRACING has been fed into the machine, proper alignment will be maintained regardless of length of the tracing because of a tracking device designed for the 875. In tests, tracings as long as 30 feet have been run without slippage to either side.

As another aid, guide stacking fingers on the front delivery tray will stack up to 100 copies as large as 24 by 42 inches. The 875 features either front or rear delivery.

Time To Think About Spring Home Repairs

No matter how beautiful spring is, you won't have to look very hard to find evidence of the ravages of winter. Spring repairs are not something you can finish up in a day or two.

One job you can begin even before temperatures rise is getting the screens ready to put up. Clean them and paint and repair them now if they need it.

When it does get to be time to take the storm windows down, check them over. Paint them if needed and put them away clean. Make certain they are numbered so you can put them back in the same windows.

When weather permits, examine the trees on your property. Remove (or have removed) broken or cracked limbs. Check for sagging fence posts. Straightening the post and tamping the earth may be all that is needed, but look closely for rot at ground level. You may have to replace a post.

Masonry suffers most from the alternate freezing and thawing temperatures. Small cracks last fall are large by now.

Check the foundation of your house, drives, sidewalks, brick steps, chimney.

Pick a warm day for concrete and mortar repairs. Don't try if temperatures are below 50 degrees.

Clean out all loose material before filling the crack. Use concrete or mortar patch material that you mix with water and mix only what you can use right away.

GUTTERS AND downspouts, weakened by the weight of ice, should be put in shape before heavy spring rains.

Make certain hangers are secure. Clean out all the leaves, twigs and dirt that have accumulated. Repair holes using asphalt cement and scraps of metal of the same type that the gutter is made of.

Take a look at the roof before the rains begin. Loose shingles should be renailed, missing ones replaced. Have this done by a professional if the roof is too high or steep. If you can reach the shingle yourself, remember to put a dab of cement over every nail head.

Check caulking joints all over the house. Recaulk where necessary.

Paint that is peeling or blistered should be scraped. Prime the spots on a dry day. Add another coat as soon as you can.

Get your power mower started now. Use fresh fuel and oil. Check it early so there is time to repair it before the grass starts shooting up fast.

Social Security and You

Q—I LIMITED my 1971 earnings to $1680. However, my 1971 withholding statement shows $2090. This is due to wages actually earned in 1970, but paid in 1971. Do I have to file an annual report with Social Security?

A—Yes. Since your employer will be reporting over $1680 in wages for 1971, you should file an annual report and clarifying statement. Your social security office will be glad to help you with this. You will not be overpaid of course, because your actual earnings in 1971 did not exceed $1680.

Q—SINCE I'M filing a Federal tax return with the government, isn't that as good as filing a report with social security?

A—No it isn't. If you have received social security checks in 1971 and earned over $1680 in 1971, you must file an annual report of 1971 earnings with the Social Security Administration. Remember this report must be filed before April 17, 1972.

Q—I DIDN'T sign up for the part of Medicare that pays on doctor bills. Could I sign up now?

A—There is an open enrollment period each year from Jan. 1 through March 31. You may sign up now during this open enrollment period if you were born after Oct. 1, 1903. If you were born between then and Oct. 1, 1904, this is your last chance to sign up for the part of Medicare that helps pay doctor bills.

New Lamp Designs

Revive A Drab Room!

New lighting effects can put a drab room back in focus. Lamps can add imagination, color and highlights to dull corners, but most of all they're less costly than remodeling projects.

The newest designs are impressive to the point that buyers and retailers are terming the new additions "lighting furniture." The importance of new modern, contemporary, transitional and Spanish stylings and the excellence of intricate wood craftsmanship of Modeline of California lamps are partially responsible for the reaction.

Modeline's veteran lighting engineers, Arthur Jacobs and Jack Haywood, designed the majority of the 21 new styles recently introduced.

Jacobs created a balance between modern, contemporary, transitional and Spanish with a number of impressive designs. A cylinder in the form of blocks separated by a series of sparkling white plastic shade openings offers a unique contemporary look.

A SPANISH DESIGN that has a square wooden frame is 36 inches tall and four metal scrollwork panels covering a round white plastic shade measuring at least 34 inches of the lamp's three-foot height was also created by Jacobs.

The Jacobs transitional style has an unusual open weave shade covering both a white plastic material with a series of four graceful, oval cut-outs and an inner plastic shade holding the three-way lighting. This particular design is carried out in a table lamp, a floor lamp and a swag model.

Haywood's designs are spectacularly modern. A "C" shaped table lamp of formed wood holds a white globe that stands out against the four "wet-look" finishes available on the frame. These finishes are white, orange, avocado or yellow. A floor lamp-table-top combination in a gleaming white "wet" finish also describes a "C." The table top is wide enough to hold magazines, trays and other objects. A hanging lamp with a circular plexiglas shade supported by a wooden frame is another Haywood design that has been highly received.

A BUTCHER BLOCK of maple as well as maple and cherry stripes are new table lamp bases for George Kovacs 1972 lamp line. Also grained-leather vinyl sheathing gives a natural look to other lamp bases.

A new two-foot track has been added in white vinyl or chrome to the magnetic lighting system Kovacs has named the "Zonking Place." This new home lighting system made its debut last summer.

The original "Zonking Place" tracks were 48 inches and 67 inches by 4 1/2 inches wide. Although the width remains constant, a new 24-inch length has been added to the line in response to store requests.

Four new Zonkers (modules containing the bulb) that plug into the "Zonking Place" tracks have been added to the line. One is a 3 by 6-inch down cylinder for the ceiling track; there are two sizes of chrome balls that swivel within a yoke and have dowel-like projections that resemble Martian men's ears. The fourth Zonker is a slender chrome tube with exposed bulb.

A RETURN TO the natural environment and classic forms in home furnishings is presaged in some of the new lamp fashions introduced by the portable lamp division of Thomas Industries, Inc.

Colors such as pounce, beige, terra cotta, pewter, natural stoneware and Pompeian red; lamp shade in pleated brown and gray snakeskin patterns; massive lamp bases reflecting the ancient amphora jars used for wine and olive storage in early Greece and Rome; and beautifully grained wood finishes in soft natural tones are among the Thomas trends. Texture color and design are combined for fashion looks in either traditional or modern settings.

Focus is on the Orient and especially classic Chinese shapes and glazes in the Decorator and Terranean Collections. Rich metallics, lucid white jade, crackles and gray stonewares are set off by grass weave, linen, denim and pleated vinyl shades.

HAEGER POTTERIES lamps are designed for good lighting in textured or gloss glazes. The 1972 fashion accent lamps include Oriental styles in crackle glazes, classic and contemporary designs.

Early American Folk Pottery has been introduced by the Sunset Lamp Corporation on the lighting scene.

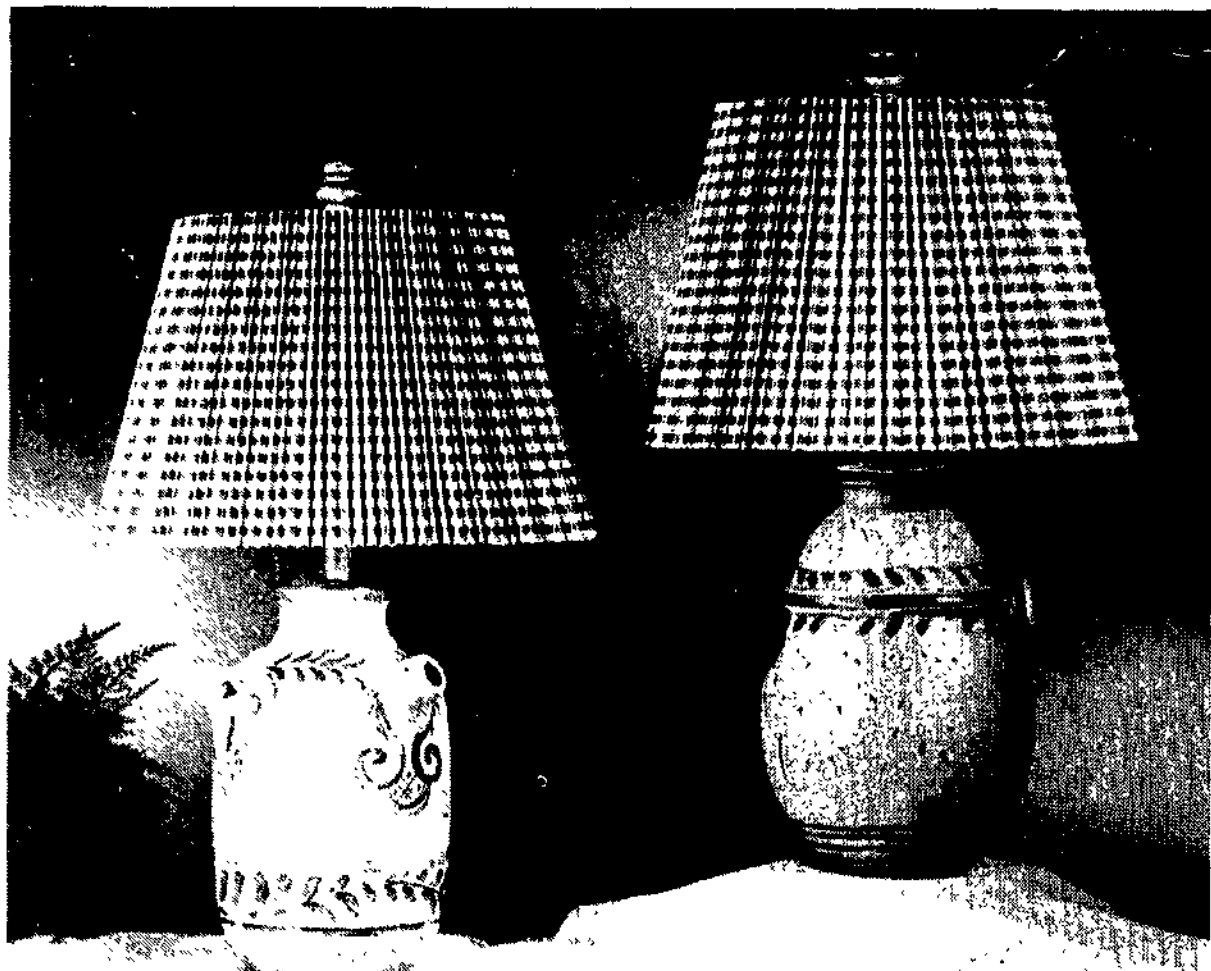

The earthenware crockery lamp bases are hand-painted, and the forms and designs originate from the Moravian and New England potters. The forms were originally used as bean pots, milk pails and cider jugs.

The body color of the crockery is achieved by using iron oxide and other natural colorants (oxides). This element of color was in early days an important factor in establishing harmony between the pot and its surroundings. Only after intense research was Sunset's designer able to capture the feeling of the early era.

TERRANEAN COLLECTION created for Thomas Industries offers this primitive design which could have been unearthed in an Egyptian tomb or on a Persian archeological expedition. A beige shade of grass weave fabric on opaline accents the ceramic clay base. Available at Thomas Lighting centers for $35.

IRON OXIDE and other natural colorants are responsible for the body color of the Sunset Lamp Corporation's Early American Folk Pottery collection. The forms were originally used as bean pots, milk pails and cider jugs.

OCTAGONAL FAR East bottle with lemon yellow, porcelain white and gloss ebony. Available at Haeger Potteries in Dundee. The lamp retails for $45 and is available in lemon yellow, porcelain white and gloss ebony. Available at Haeger Potteries in Dundee.

They're Marching On To Marriage

Rebecca Shoemaker

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Shoemaker of Palatine announce the engagement of their daughter, Rebecca, to Brent Pemberton, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Pemberton of Chicago.

Rebecca, a 1970 graduate of William Fremd High School, is employed by Skrudland Photo Service, Palatine. Brent is employed in construction work.

Not date has been set for the wedding.

Mary Elizabeth
Wagner

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wagner of Lena, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Dwight Mark Klitzke, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Klitzke, 994 Borman Court, Elk Grove Village.

Mary Elizabeth is a junior majoring in elementary education at Northern Illinois University. Her fiancé was graduated from Northern in January and now is teaching fourth grade in Dundee, Ill.

A summer wedding is planned.

Deborah Lynn
Groenland

Fellow residents of Palatine and graduates of William Fremd High School have become engaged. They are Deborah Lynn Groenland and Craig Alan Wentz, whose engagement is announced by Deborah's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Groenland of 568 Jarvis Court.

Deborah is employed at Skrudland Photo Service, Palatine, and Craig, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wentz of 1048 Quentin Road, works in his father's trucking and excavating firm.

The couple has not set a wedding date.

Donna
Mishler

An April 8 wedding is planned by Donna Mishler of Palatine and Bruce DeLoach of Barrington. The couple's engagement and forthcoming marriage are announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Mishler of 1316 Gloria Drive, Palatine.

Bruce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeLoach of Barrington.

Both young people are employed by United Air Lines in Elk Grove Village. Donna was graduated from Palatine High School and attended Harper College. Her fiancé graduated from Barrington High and Southern Illinois University. He is a computer programmer.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Paging through the seed catalogs is a little like shopping in a Michigan Avenue store. You would like everything you see, but usually settle for "peanuts."

Seed browsing is half the fun of gardening, and a little looking helps you stumble over lots of new-to-you plants.

Each year I plant at least a few things that I have never before tried. It keeps a gardener on his toes, I think. This year it will be edelweiss, tidy tips, horseradish, garlic, peanuts and luffa sponges among others.

GROWING YELLOW beets, for instance, doesn't make you any better than the gardener who grows plain old red beets, but somehow it makes a difference. Visitors will rave over a purple green bean while they give your limas a "so what?" glance.

For offbeat ideas consider: red okra*, yellow watermelon** (inside is yellow instead of red), husk tomato (you have to take off the outer covering)*, yellow raspberries***, blue potatoes***, pink, black beets***, purple kohlrabi***, purple green beans***, yellow and white checker-board corn***.

(The code for the above is *available from Park Seed Co., Greenwood, S.C., 29646; ** R. H. Shumway Seedsman, Rockford, Ill. 61101; and *** Gurney Seed Co., Yankton, S.D. 57708. As you can see, the Gurney people have the widest selection of offbeat offerings.)

W. Albee Burpee, Philadelphia, Pa. 19132, is still trying to give away $10,000 for a white marigold, and if you order Whitest (near white) from them, you just might get lucky.

CHECK OUT SOME of the complete seed mixtures, such as the old-fashioned garden mixtures, to save money if you aren't too fussy about your flowers but want a big show. (Most companies have such offers.) The special vegetable packs which everybody carries offer the gardener enough seed to supply the family with fresh vegetables all season for about $3 and saves the average larder between $300 and $500 a year.

Kids' one-cent specials are often available when an adult sends in an order, and sometimes can start a child on the lifetime hobby. (That's how I got started, thanks to my Aunt Bunny.)

If you like Paul Bunyon-type crops, Gurney's Guinea beans are reported to reach 10 pounds apiece; Burpee's Royal squash is said to hit 300 pounds and Big Max pumpkins (Gurney) have been known to tip the scales at 100 pounds. This variety was grown by one of the local farm stand operators last year and the results were caught by the Paddock photographer.

PRAYING MANTIS and lady bugs are available again this year from the Montgomery Ward Lawn, Garden and Farm catalog (not the big catalog), although gardeners can get them cheaper from other sources too (available on request).

Best of all, I always get a laugh from all the older photo cuts which haven't been changed since women wore snoods and loafers. Gurney's has a photo of a '56 Mercury parked next to the tall hedge fencing. Shumway's catalog has included some antique etchings which probably date back to 1870 when the company was founded.

"Planning the Vegetable Garden" is the program to be presented at the Botanic Garden, Edens Expressway, between Dundee and Lake/Cook Roads, next Tuesday. There will be programs from 10 a.m. till noon, and from 1:30 p.m. till 3:30.

Robert P. Wintz, executive director of the Chicago Horticultural Society, and Glenn M. Park, chief horticulturist for the Botanic Garden, will present the programs.

Registration must be made in advance. Fee is for non-members, $3, $2 for members. Additional information is available from Fran Whittin, 332-2868.

Bridal Attendants Go Mod

The wedding of Wendy Ann Roehn of Prospect Heights and Bobby Ray Terry of Cicero was typically traditional until it came time for the reception. Then, in the Spanish setting of Casa Royale in Des Plaines, the bride's attendants went suddenly modern.

At an appropriate moment, the girls removed their floor-length chocolate brown skirts to reveal brown crushed velvet hot pants and brown boots. And all to the accompaniment of stripper music!

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Roehn Jr. of 11 Glenbrook Drive, chose a brown and apricot color scheme to emphasize a Spanish motif for the Feb. 5 nuptials. In keeping with the theme, her bridegroom and his attendants wore brown crushed velvet jackets with apricot ruffled shirts and black trousers.

FOR THE FIVE o'clock ceremony in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights, the bride's attendants wore long chocolate brown skirts with side opening and brown chiffon blouses accented with brown velvet suspenders. The suspenders were attached to the hot pants that were not apparent until the reception. The girls also wore brown velvet wide-brimmed hats and carried cascades of apricot-tinted roses and lilies of the valley tied with dark brown streamers.

By candlelight, the bride came down the church aisle wearing a Spanish mantilla veil over her white chantilly lace gown styled with bouffant ruffled skirt and cathedral train. The dress had a high neckline and bishop sleeves. Wide scallops of matching chantilly lace, in a floral design, edged the mantilla.

Wendy carried a cascade of white roses, carnations and greens.

HER ATTENDANTS included her sister-in-law, Mrs. Linda Roehn of Buffalo Grove, as matron of honor and three bridesmaids: Mrs. Elynn Verivee, Schaumburg; Mrs. Terry Klechak, Prairie View; and Bonita McCoy, Palatine.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Ray Terry

The bridegroom, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Terry of Cicero, had his best friend, Wayne Judge of Des Plaines, as best man. Ushers were the couple's brothers, Ronald Roehn and Richard Terry, along with Joseph Perrowe of Chicago.

Two young cousins of the bride were also in the wedding party, dressed as miniatures of the adult attendants, Cheryl Fritz of Schaumburg, 3, was flower girl and James Casey, 3, of Des Plaines was ring bearer.

TWO HUNDRED guests were invited to the reception at Casa Royale. They were served a four-tiered wedding cake that featured a flowing waterfall spotlighted with apricot lighting.

After a week's honeymoon in the Hawaiian Islands, the newlyweds are at home in Cicero. Wendy, a graduate of Wheeling High School, is a secretary in Chicago, and Bobby works for the village of River Forest.

Juniors Put On 'It's A Put On'

"It's a Put On," a put on of the latest in spring fashion as offered by Muriel Mundy Suburban Fashions and sponsored by Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club will be held Saturday, March 11. The club's 14th annual luncheon and fashion show will be held at Fritzel's, which will then be known as the Brass Rail Restaurant of Arlington Heights.

A wide range of spring fashions will be presented informally throughout the luncheon and guests will have a close-up view and the opportunity to ask questions. Descriptions of all fashions modeled will be included in the programs.

The tablehopping models will be Mrs. Vincent Amato, Mrs. Larry Basik, Mrs. Mel Condon, Mrs. Harold Greaves, Mrs. John Mancuso, Mrs. Paul Matthes, Mrs. Marvin Pool, Mrs. William Rapp, Mrs. Lee Roche and Mrs. John Wozniak.

A social hour at noon will precede the 1 o'clock teriyaki luncheon.

Assisting Mrs. William Frost and Mrs. Ronald Oakes, co-chairmen, are more than 20 committee members under the guidance of Mrs. Brian Carey and Mrs. Donald Weis, tickets; Mrs. Richard Anderson, reservations; Mrs. James Boyd, decorations; Mrs. Richard Puerta, programs; and Mrs. Ed Walsh, gifts.

Proceeds will be given to club philanthropies.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Anderson at 956-0872.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I wonder if you can tell me what I am doing wrong in baking my pies? The bottom crust either doesn't get brown or gets soggy.

—D. Lacey

There are several things you might try. One good cook breaks up the white of an egg and mixes it with 1/4 teaspoon sugar, brushes the pie bottom, lets it dry, then bakes as usual. Another pre-bakes the crusts for about 10 minutes, lets them dry before putting in the filling; then bakes the entire pie. Mrs. Grace T. brushes the pie crusts with either plain or evaporated milk before baking them.

Dear Dorothy: Visiting friends on the California coastal area. I was a little dismayed when the children got stains on their clothes from the ice plant which is so often seen as a ground cover. Do you know how this can be removed?

—Mrs. William C.

A cleaning expert says this plant produces stains that are similar to those encountered from the calla lily or banana tree. Chlorine bleach is about the only effective method of removal. The professional cleaner can remove the stain on the spotting board by using sodium perborate on the stain, melting it into the stain with a steam gun. Unfortunately, this is something the average housewife isn't equipped to do.

Dear Dorothy: We had a small fire in our home recently which resulted mostly in smoke damage. A commercial deodorizer was used to absorb the odor but the smoke smell is still very pronounced. Is there anything we can use?

—L.K.

There are companies which specialize in this kind of work. They ought to be able to help.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz, in care of Suburban Living Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Traffic Safety Meeting Open To Women

Local women's groups are invited to a one-day northern area meeting sponsored by the Illinois Conference of Women Leaders for Traffic Safety on Saturday, March 4, at Henrici's Motor Inn, Rockford.

At 10 a.m. a panel will present "Traffic Safety Through the Eyes of a Traffic Court Advisor, Traffic Engineer, Traffic Policeman, and Driver Educator." Guest participants include Robert Reeder, Northwestern University Traffic Institute; Michael J. Hartigan, deputy regional transportation engineer, Chicago; Sgt. George Willard, Traffic Division, Rockford Police Department; and Jerry Engle, teacher at Harvard High School.

Following luncheon, James McCoy, district traffic engineer from Dixon, will show slides on "New Road Signs Coming Your Way" and the meeting concludes with a motivational segment led by Ray Martinez, director of training, National Safety Council, Chicago.

Reservations for local women are available from Region V president, Mrs. Elmer F. Anderson, 4125 N. Keystone Ave., Chicago, 60641.

LUNCHEON HOSTESSES were busy selling beverage tickets at Saturday's luncheon sponsored by Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club. Chairman Norma DiVito chose a black and white long skirt ensemble; Norma Gongol a dress with wide, striped lap-els. Barbara Johnson also chose a long skirt and Lorraine Novak wore a batik print ensemble. The luncheon in the Round Table Room was followed by a fashion show from Joseph's Shoe-Boutique.

A GOURMET LUNCHEON of veal parmigian was served to members and guests of Mount Prospect Business and Professional Woman's Club Saturday at Arlington Towers. Luncheon guests, who were also treated to a boutique fashion show, included Mrs. Ethel Withall, Mrs. William Kelly and Mrs. Robert Rowan.

'Pretty' Is What's New

by MARIANNE SCOTT

"What's New... '72?" Peg Zwecker, fashion columnist of the Chicago Daily News, summed it up in one word — "pretty" — as she commented the fashion show Saturday for members and guests of Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club.

The Halloween looks we had for so long are no longer fashionable. Miss Zwecker told the audience of 650 luncheon guests. "Now it's 'pretty' things, and the young like it, too," she stated.

Runway ensembles, from Joseph's Salon Shoes-Boutique, Oak Brook, were definitely pretty. And they were definitely feminine and flattering with the familiar flavor of the '40s and '50s.

There were pleated, gored and flared skirts; plaid, plain, striped and checked blazers; belted, puffy sleeves; clingy fabrics; embroidered fabrics; and ankle-length skirts and more ankle-length skirts. The long skirts are to be worn just about everywhere — at home or on the town, daytime or evening.

There were also many pant suits, for which the '70s will undoubtedly be remembered in eras to come. Pant suits, too, are meant to be worn everywhere, daytime or evening. "Pants are now taken for granted in wardrobes today," said Miss Zwecker. Newest pants are flared and/or cuffed and topped with blazer jackets.

As do commentators at most fashion shows, Miss Zwecker stated that hemlines are no longer an issue. All lengths are in. Yet, except for sportswear, runway fashions are never short. Most of Joseph Boutique hemlines were just below the knee.

MODELS WORE open-toed sandals, another reminder of the '40s and '50s. Sandal boots from the '70s were new.

Since fashion reflects what goes on in the world, the commentator predicted a lot more Oriental prints. One such print, in an evening gown, was modeled in the show. Miss Zwecker also predicted more elegance in evening dress.

The show, held in the Round Table Room of the Arlington Towers, is the B & PW's one big project of the year. Last year's show netted $2,400 which the club donated toward scholarships to the fashion design school at Harper College and to Mount Prospect Hot Line.

Chairman of "What's New... '72?" was Norma DiVito of Mount Prospect. President of the B & PW chapter is Mrs. Marian Baker Quigley, also of Mount Prospect.

De-escalate the war.

Believe it or not, highway hostility is not one of the necessities of life. It doesn't even have to be a fact of life.

Just because the other guy has an axe to grind doesn't mean you have to grind it with him. When another driver temporarily loses his head, don't lose yours. Don't honk back. Don't shout back. Don't drive aggressively to hold your ground.

The war of nerves and bad tempers doesn't have to go on. Your new car dealer would like to see the war end. He would like to see more peaceful, safer streets for all Americans.

So the next time the other guy tries to take out some highway hostility on you, do the one thing that will prevent an accident and might make him come to his senses. Keep your cool. Courtesy on the road can put out a lot of fires. There is an alternative to War...Peace.

A Paddock Review

'Plaza Suite' Falls Flat

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The cast members currently appearing in the Guild Players' production of "Plaza Suite" need more practice to further characterize Neil Simon's intended witty dialog and shy, but loaded comments.

The opening performance last Friday of the notorious comedy was less than satisfactory. The Guild rendition is riddled with mistakes.

"Plaza Suite" is made up of separate vignettes centering around three guests who all stay at different times in suite 719 of the Plaza Hotel.

The comedy opens with a well-to-do middle-aged couple who are celebrating their 24th wedding anniversary. Only the scene is not a particularly romantic one as the strains of living together 24 years begin to show.

THE FIRST ACT could be pathetic except for Simon's frivolous attitude and ingenious dialog that makes Karen Nash, the wife, into a real ham. She seemingly takes nothing serious, not even the cold fact that her husband is having an affair with his secretary.

Karen is resigned to her age and station in life and even enjoys it. But Sam, who has just turned 50, refuses to acknowledge his age. Karen's constant jocular comments to anything serious uttered by Sam are what set the whole scene off.

Pat Lemcke for the most part carries this off quite naturally. Yet sometimes her interpretation of Karen's reactions misses and the laughter then is quickly replaced by pity. And pity was not intended by Simon. Pat's problem is one of occasionally over-reacting rather than not giving enough.

AND IF PAT LEMCKE sometimes gets carried away, so Lee Krizka who plays her husband, Sam, is more at fault for not giving enough "oomph" to his performance. He too often is reading his role and not playing it.

In the second act the problem is much more serious. Harding Stephen, who plays Jesse Kiplinger, a flamboyant Hollywood movie producer staying at the Plaza Hotel, and Iris Tompkins, who is Muriel Tate, his old high school sweetheart, fairly mutilate the lines and jest in their scene.

They trip over the dialog to such an extent that much of Simon's dry humor is squashed. And, Stephen Harding's advances toward Muriel are much too obvious and overpowering. The whole act turns out to be rather a farce.

Of the three acts, the third was most professionally executed. Roger Dubois is the father of the bride. Only his daughter, undergoing second thoughts at the very last minute, locks herself in the bathroom.

ROGER IS MY choice for the "Ham-mie" award, the Guild's equivalent of the Oscar . . . given for best performance.

Roger goes through all the motions of a distraught fit-to-be-tied father whose primary thought always is the amount of money the whole affair is costing him.

Lee Schumacher wouldn't be bad as his wife, Norma, if she would curtail her shrill shouting as a substitute for voice inflection and resist waving her arms about for added emphasis. After awhile, both become distracting.

The Guild setting for "Plaza Suite" is also in need of improvement. For one thing, the stage is too cluttered. Too much furniture is used for the amount of available space. And the setting, rather shabby, does not do justice to a suite at the famed Plaza Hotel.

What the entire play needs is a general sprucing up.

"Plaza Suite," directed by Victor Simon, will again be staged this weekend, Friday and Saturday, in the Vogel Barn in Hoffman Estates.

Parents Of Diabetics To Meet

The aims and functions of Northwest Suburban Parents of Diabetic Children will be the subject discussed at a meeting of the group in Chippewa Junior High School, 123 Eighth, Des Plaines, Thursday, March 9. Meeting time is 8 p.m.

The group, which is associated with Diabetes Association of Greater Chicago, usually meets every other month to make plans for future activities to hear specialists in nutrition and to hear about diabetes research. Membership is open to all diabetics, adult or juvenile, and anyone interested in fighting diabetes. Dues are $2 a year.

Currently the group is completing plans for a bowling party for children of members. It also is giving jewelry demonstrations with all profits going to research.

ANOTHER CONTINUING project is sewing covers on folders which are filled with information from the Diabetes Association and drug companies, recipes and reading lists. These folders are given to pediatric departments at Lutheran General, Holy Family, Northwest Community and Alexian Brothers hospitals to be distributed to parents of newly diagnosed juvenile diabetics.

A recent activity of the group was having Chicago Cub Ron Santo, himself, a diabetic speak to diabetic children. To raise funds, members have sold jar openers and Ron Santo buttons.

Further information about Northwest Suburban Parents of Diabetic Children may be obtained from Mrs. Henry Wear-dahl, 902 Quince Lane, Mount Prospect, 296-6235.

Watson -- He Doesn't Really Walk On Water

THE MOVIE "In The Heat Of The Night" had one very unforgettable character — the so-called typical southern sheriff — played by Rod Steiger.

Don Watson resembles Steiger's cop — a short, stocky, bespectacled man. There's one major difference — Watson polices a swimming team instead of a small town.

Hinsdale Central's coach is just as demanding as that lawman, much smarter and, most importantly, always gets his man.

Watson doesn't have to capture his young swimmers — they are lured by tradition. He preaches an arresting philosophy of total dedication. It has paid off in six championships in the past 10 years.

This 41-year-old water wizard's athletes just don't win team titles. Many become state champs themselves, nearly all receive college scholarships and some even star in the Olympics.

Watching and talking to this rotund little leader was a treat. He easily towers over the 115 other coaches in the state and most of the nation as well. He's made Hinsdale a swimming legend.

So when the Red Devils romped again at the state finals Saturday, it came as no surprise. In the process, they matched the record six straight streak of Lane Tech (1938-43).

What's the reason behind this astounding long reign?

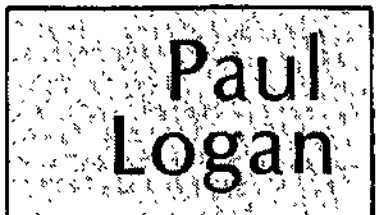

It's very elementary, according to Watson.

"You have to be dedicated," he says to no one's surprise. "You have to be willing to work as hard as you expect the swimmers to. If you want to coach three months out of the year, that's all the swimmers will want to put in, too."

"I doubt if more than 10 of them (coaches) put in the time and the hours that I do. I've had a lot of people tell me, 'Man, if that's what it takes to be a winner, I don't want any part of it.'"

"There are a lot of things that I've sacrificed for swimming, but I love swimming. A lot of other people just can't see it."

Watson was asked if he thought this domination has hurt swimming. He thinks it has helped in its growth because some schools are trying harder.

"I doubt if last year you would have found five coaches that would have predicted that Peoria would finish second in the state this year," says Watson. "And I'd like to see the number of coaches that would have predicted that La Grange was going to be fifth. They came along quick — that was the history of Hinsdale."

"It (Hinsdale's swim program) started in '59 when the pool was built. We won it in '63. That's pretty quick."

Watson was an assistant coach at that first championship. He took over the head duties in 1965 and finished third. His team was second in '66 and then the string started.

Hinsdale's head man doesn't begin molding his youngsters into state champs as freshmen. That process begins almost before they can read. Potential varsity stars enroll in an age group AAU program when they are six.

There's no support from the village for this community program. The kids pay their own way for facility rental and other costs. This program, according to Watson, is the backbone of his success.

By the time these youngsters get to high school, they're hungry to surpass prior achievements. There are other incentives such as free meals and kick-board honor rolls. The meals have cost him plenty this past season and the honor roll is very prestigious, especially because of the former greats' names on the list.

"Charlie Neal was a state champion three years in a row in the individual medley," recalls Watson. "His goal was to get on our challenge board in the 400 freestyle. He tried and he tried and missed it his senior year by a 16th of a second!"

One incentive ideal evoked criticism from both the Chicago press and some coaches — the wearing of T-shirts at the finals that proclaimed that Hinsdale was the 1972 state champion. It was alleged that they wore them all during the meet, but this was not true.

"We've done it the last couple of years," says Watson. "I don't let the boys take the shirts out and put them on until we clinch the meet."

He says buying the shirts prior to the state meet shows his boys that he has confidence in them.

When asked what he'd do if he ever lost the title, Watson replied, "I'd be the first one to congratulate a better team and coach that beat us."

With the dedication and love which this man pours into his program year around, you have to wonder how long it will be before he's got to do the congratulating. And since he's got 366 days to work with this year, he should enjoy an additional edge in next February's finals.

The only way the rest of the coaches will overtake him is to have him arrested. The charge — loitering daily at the Hinsdale pool.

However, the charge will never hold up in court. No one has ever witnessed Don Watson resting when he gets near water. It turns him on.

Cards Picked To Replace Falcons As MSL Champs

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

Near the end of the Mid-Suburban League swim meet a couple of weeks ago, Gordon Aukerman was seen carrying an armload of little white boxes.

Although the medals were destined for the top finishers in the freestyle relay event, it appeared that the Forest View coach was carrying off all the awards for his team. That impression was almost correct.

Aukerman's fine Falcon team took most of the top medals — firsts, seconds and thirds — at the conference showdown. Made up of mostly seasoned seniors, Forest View dominated the proceedings from beginning to end.

"Seniors" — that's the key word according to the other half dozen aquatic coaches in the MSL. As much as these coaches have praised the Falcons, they're happy to see them graduate.

The history of the MSL has been filled with Forest View's exploits. As sophomores they took the first conference title, shared it as juniors and won it outright again this year.

Now the league leader's mantle may pass from Forest View to Arlington, a co-champion in 1970. At least that's the conference coaching consensus.

"They've had three sophomore championships in the last three years," says Aukerman of Coach Don Anderson's Cardinals. "So they're about due. He's got a good bunch of juniors there."

Hersey's Herb Parsons agrees:

"I don't see how anybody can beat Arlington next year. They'll be kind of like Forest View was this year. They had a terrific sophomore team that just killed everybody in the conference."

"I think the league will finally be more balanced, except for Arlington. I can see Forest View, Hersey and Prospect being tough next year."

Prospect, according to several coaches, appears to be the only real threat to the Cards.

"I think we'll be able to challenge Arlington," says Jerry Lovejoy. "But I think Arlington, do to the fact that they have an outstanding young team, will be the forerunner. They look particularly strong right now."

"If we can keep everybody, I would say we would probably be the team to beat," says Anderson, always concerned about the transient nature of the area. "I would not discount Prospect. They've got everybody back."

That almost is the case with the Cardinals, too. Four top juniors will be back — freestylers Dave Hartman, Mike Nitch and Rex Hansen (also a backstroke) along with Ray Hollenbach.

"We've also got some awfully good sophomores coming up," says Anderson. Two of his top ones are Joe Nitch and Brian Kelly, both double winners in the frosh-soph meet.

As for Prospect, Anderson is especially impressed with Dave Larsen and Paul Sigfusson. He calls them "two of the best freshmen around."

Sigfusson excels in the distance events and Larsen in the butterfly.

Another possible big scorer for Prospect, according to Lovejoy, will be Tom Bennett, a junior distance man.

Also expressing optimism about the future is Hersey's head man, Parsons explains:

"I should have a pretty good team next year if everybody clicks. I'm really going to be strong in every area. This will be the first year that I think we'll really have a solid varsity team."

Tabbed as the top Huskies by Parsons are Bob Bosley, George Dodgen, Kevin Taylor, Jim Colburn and Allen Zasady, a diver.

Hersey's frosh-soph team finished second to Arlington in the conference meet and also had the second best MSL duel record.

Elk Grove, like Forest View, will be hurting because of graduation. The only real star next year will be Scott Bolin, according to Jim Harrington. Bolin demonstrated his fine potential by qualifying for the state meet in the 200 and 400 freestyle events as a sophomore.

Harrington says he considers 1972-73 a rebuilding year.

As for Forest View, Aukerman isn't talking title for the first time in two years. However, the Falcons will give a good account of themselves because Aukerman demands excellence.

The top Falcon performers figure to be Jeff Geisler, Craig Hippensteel, Doug Schlak and Kevin Redig.

"Whatever we get out of next year will come from a lot of work between now and next November," adds Aukerman.

Wheeling, loser of 10 straight MSL contests, broke that streak with its first league win ever against Rolling Meadows, the newest team.

"I think everybody is going to be a little stronger," says Doug Cotner, Wheeling's head coach.

Figuring to make the Wildcats stronger are three fine sophomores — Carl Pfister, Paul Lindquist and Bill Modica. All placed in the district. Joining them to form a nucleus will be Ken Bergman, a junior.

"I was pretty happy with our showing in the district, especially for a young team," says Cotner. "I'm looking forward to next year."

Rolling Meadows was winless in its first season on both levels. Coach Phil Pardon is hoping his Mustangs, tougher because of this experience, will be able to compete with most of the league.

Figuring to be the big guns next season are Ken Robertson, John Schmidt, Ken Stahnke and Gary Grunwald.

St. Viator To Be Stronger

State's Top 10 — Lions' Aim

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

St. Viator, noted for its many conference swim titles, has an even greater goal for next season — cracking the state meet's top 10.

The Lions could possibly have accomplished this at the New Trier East hosted state finals on Saturday. However, Randy Robertson, one of the favorites in the consolation heat of the 100-yard breaststroke, had the misfortune of having two false starts. Anxious to get a good start, he went in ahead of the gun the first time. The second one was caused when a swimmer next to Robertson jumped the gun and he followed.

A seventh place in this event would have given St. Viator 33 points and a share of ninth place. Instead, the 26 scored by the medley relay team and Mike Salerno landed them 11th, the best finish ever by a Lion team. And Coach John Fleck is optimistic about the future:

"Next year our varsity should be stronger. We hope to take a place in the top 10 in the state next year."

The hub of this strength lies in the talent of Salerno, a junior who did very well last weekend despite being in his first state meet.

Going against a seasoned Hinsdale Central swimmer in Russ Meyer — the defending state champion — Salerno had a false start. However, he survived this additional pressure and still finished third. The night before he also succeeded in recording his season time goal — 1:55.9.

Since Meyer, Brian Smith of Evanston (2nd) and Mark Trenor of Deerfield (4th) won't be around next year because of graduation, Salerno should be one of the favorites.

When asked if Hinsdale had anyone coming up to replace Meyer, Coach Don Watson said, "I've got a boy that's done :59.0 as a junior."

However, Watson did say that he was impressed by Salerno's showing as well as that of the Lions' team.

"Who heard of St. Viator or LaGrange a few years ago," said Watson while referring to these two new names in the state meet. "They're moving up."

Joining Salerno to form the St. Viator nucleus are Jeff Iversen and Kevin Szarabjka. Iversen, a junior freestyler, was slowed eight weeks this season with mononucleosis. Szarabjka, a sophomore, will be groomed to take Robertson's place in the breaststroke.

Jim Martin, only a freshman, was a sparkler for Fleck in the district meet with a sixth place finish in the 100-yard freestyle (1:54.2).

"He's got all (Rich) Lynch's freshman records now," says Fleck. "He should be our big sprinter next year."

Martin should also have future state meet potential for Lynch went on to take a third and a fourth in the sprints at the state meet two years ago.

However, Fleck won't start the big push right now.

"We'll give them a month off and then, in the spring, we're going to work a weight program in," says the Lions' first-year coach. "And maybe we'll just have some easy swimming to keep them loose. Then, probably in the middle of May, we'll start training hard through the summer. I hope to start an AAU club to keep our boys together and to also give the area people a chance to get in some AAU competition."

However, Fleck isn't forgetting those conference titles, especially since his team missed winning one for the first time in seven years. Marmion upset the Lions, but that shouldn't happen next year, as Fleck explains:

"Marmion's first-place winners are mostly seniors. I don't see them as a major threat next year. Probably the most improved team next year will be St. Pat's. Their freshman team was pretty decent."

St. Viator's sophomore and freshman teams won their championships. In other words, St. Viator's varsity should be more than strong in the Suburban Catholic Conference — super is a better word.

EYEING HIS NO. 1 position is St. Viator's Mike Salerno as he discusses the 100-yard backstroke race with Russ Meyer, Hinsdale Central's talented state champion. Meyer finished first and Salerno third at the state meet Saturday. The Lion junior could have a shot at the title next year as Meyer is a senior. St. Viator finished 11th.

ST. VIATOR'S Mark Savage receives congratulations from his three teammates after finishing the anchorleg of the 200 medley relay at the state meet Saturday. Savage's team was first in the consolation heat and placed seventh in the state. Also on the fast foursome were Mike Salerno, Randy Robertson and Jim Wolf.

SWIFT LIKE A BIRD. St. Viator's speedy guard Ken Martin moves through some pretty tall company while recording a layup during regional action with Wheeling Tuesday. On the defense are Pat Smith (52), Jim Kass (20) and Roger Wood (54). Martin paced the Lion attack with 17 points but it went in a losing cause, the hosting 'Cats recording a 64-56 triumph. ## Schaumburg Ice Hockey Four Schaumburg Kings hockey teams, fighting for spots in the playoffs, broke even in their final regular-season competition in the league. Schaumburg won two, lost two and tied one.

SQUIDS

The Kings were easy 7-2 winners over Dundee with Scott Phillips leading the way with a three-goal hat trick. Glen Fenech put in two goals and Lon Phillips and Erik Chapman one each.

The Squirt Kings dominated play with three goals in the first period and four in the second. Assists were by Mike Gaynor (two), Scott Ross, Tony Barucca, Lon Phillips and Paul Barucca. Goalie Mike Gorman made some fine saves.

BANTAMS

Schaumburg broke a Dundee winning streak with a tight 3-1 victory.

Dundee scored the only goal of the first period at 10:39 before Schaumburg took over in the second period. After five minutes, Mike Pollard tied the score on a pass from Jim Wilson. Two minutes later, a setup in front of the net produced the winning goal by John Armon on assists from Bob Atkinson and Bob Payson. Goalie Ed Platt did an outstanding job in this thriller.

MIDGETS

The Kings played Niles to a 3-3 tie at the Downers Grove Ice Arena. Schaumburg appeared to have won the game with a last-minute goal but it was disallowed on a ruling that time had expired.

Dennis Pollard led the way with a pair of goals and Mike Dusk had the other. Assists were by Joe Vuglar, Mike Passaglia, John Rebera and Danny Weiss. Bill Lennar, Kirk Cunningham and Barry Miller also turned in fine performances.

The Midgets closed out their league season with a 7-2 loss to Dundee. The Kings scored first with five minutes gone in the game on a goal by Pollard assisted by Vuglar and Gary Zarko. But Dundee came roaring back with four goals in the first period and were never threatened — although Pollard scored a second goal while Schaumburg was killing a penalty.

PEE WEES

The Kings were plagued by penalties in a 3-0 loss despite the fact that goalie Jeff Ross played a fine game to hold the score down. The goals against Schaumburg came when it was short-handed. The Pee Wees, however, already had clinched a spot in the playoffs.

Courses In Self-Defense Begin At Northwest YMCA

Two courses in the ancient art of self-defense are being offered at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Highway, Des Plaines.

Aspecial eight-week course in self-defense for men and women started Tuesday, Feb. 29. This short course is designed to teach the average person several techniques he can use effectively in a self-defense situation. Included will be striking and kicking methods, vulnerable areas, simple judo throws and numerous escapes.

Open to men and women 16 years and over, the class will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Charges are $11.45 for Y members and $16.45 for non-members.

Another course in judo, also eight weeks long, is being offered to boys and girls from fifth to 10th grade. Judo is a sport based on ancient Japanese methods of barehanded fighting.

The judo classes will teach students how to fall properly, several judo throws, mat techniques and simple self-defense techniques.

Advanced instruction is offered on a continuing basis through the Y Judo Club and develops proficiency in all judo techniques.

The classes are taught by a third-degree Black Belt. The beginning class meets on Saturdays from 9-10 a.m. and the next eight-week course begins March 4. Fee is $5 for Y members and $10 for non-members.

Telephone the Y at 296-3376 for more information on both courses.

Regional Basketball Tournament Highlights

Forest View, Fremd In Regional Finals; Cards Upset

FALCONS ADVANCE
Forest View proved it's hard to beat a team three times by avenging two earlier setbacks with a convincing 78-59 victory over Prospect.

The Falcons reserved a spot opposite Hersey in the latter's regional final Friday night.

Rick Hoyt demolished Prospect's man-to-man defense with 27 points including 17 in the first half. Hoyt teamed with Falcon frontliners Don Woodsmall and T. J. Skelly to also dominate the rebounding department 39-24.

Forest View jumped on top 6-0 and was never headed. Hoyt's deftness around the bucket included twisting layups and soft-touch hooks.

The Knights gained a brief 9-9 deadlock before Hoyt's five straight points pulled Forest View out of danger.

Successful outside sniping by Knight guards John vonBerg and Andy Biltz kept Prospect within 38-32 at the half, but Hoyt and teammate Tom Mueller quickly shoved the Falcons into a comfortable 61-49 cushion earlier in the fourth quarter.

Prospect shot 45 per cent as compared to Forest View's 50. Hoyt hit 11 of 17 attempts from the floor.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Forest View ..... 17 19 18 24-78

Prospect ..... 11 21 13 11-56

FREM D EARN TITLE SHOT

Fremd pulled away in the fourth quarter to post a 56-48 victory over Schaumburg in first-round action of the Palatine Regional Tournament Wednesday night.

Fremd earned the right to play Conant in the title game Friday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Palatine High gymnasium.

The Saxons' Larry Weller took scoring honors with 25 points while the Vikings had a balanced attack led by 11 points by Mark Hollinger and Doug Pettit.

Craig Johnson scored nine and Terry Kukla and Larry Coughlin had eight each.

Shooting was extremely poor in the first quarter as Schaumburg did not get its first point until seven minutes had passed in the period. The quarter ended with Fremd on top 6-4.

Both teams got hot in the second quarter as all of Fremd's starters scored and the Vikings pulled away to a 22-10 lead midway through the stanza. Schaumburg came on with 13 quick points and trailed by only 29-23 at halftime.

The teams battled on even terms for the first few minutes of the third quarter and Schaumburg by just 35-31 with 4:37 left. The Vikings led 40-35 at the end of the quarter.

Fremd finally broke it open at the outset of the fourth period on baskets by Dan Mize, Johnson and Kukla in rapid succession. The Vikings coasted in front there.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Schaumburg ..... 4 19 12 13-48

Fremd ..... 6 23 11 16-56

CARDS ELIMINATED

Arlington, leading by 13 in the third quarter, saw Deerfield stage a thrilling comeback to win their semifinal game of the Wheeling regional, 78-74, last night.

The Warriors, who now advance to the title game against Wheeling Friday night, hit on nine of field goals and most of their free throws in the surge. They outscored Arlington 10-0 at one stage to take the lead, 64-63, on a field goal by Jerry Percak.

The Deerfield hotshot paced the stretch drive with 11 of his 23 points.

Ken Peters, who led all scorers with 28 points, put Arlington back in the lead with four straight free throws to make it 67-66. However, during the brief Card comeback Mike Cleveland fouled out with 5:05 remaining. Up to that point, Cleveland had been one of the big guns with 19 points. His departure was a big loss to the Cards.

Deerfield scored three free throws, one on a technical, and could have built their lead to five had they made the basket off the technical. However, Bill Grandt stole a pass and Peters took it down to score.

Deerfield led 76-71 with 54 seconds remaining. Then a free throw by Grandt and a field goal by Peters put the Cards within two. An offensive foul gave the Cardinals the ball with 25 seconds left but a bad pass snuffed out Arlington's hopes.

Percak sank two free throws with one second remaining to ice the contest.

The score was close throughout the first half with Arlington taking a narrow 38-36 lead at intermission. Deerfield continued its hot shooting through the game and hit over 50 per cent afield, mostly from outside.

Backing up Peters and Cleveland for the Cards was Terry Ormsbee with 12 tallies and Tim Will with 9.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Arlington ..... 16 22 21 15-74

Deerfield ..... 18 18 14 28-78

St. Theresa In Y Cage Lead

First-round honors in the Countryside YMCA church basketball league went to a fast St. Theresa team of Palatine. There had been a first-place tie between St. Theresa and St. Peter Lutheran, followed by a nip-and-tuck playoff game in which the lead changed hands several times.

In second-round competition, two divisions have been established. Division I teams are St. Theresa, St. Peter, St. Anne and St. Paul/Atonement. Division II teams are First United Methodist, Presbyterian, Community, Christ Lutheran and Salem United Methodist churches.

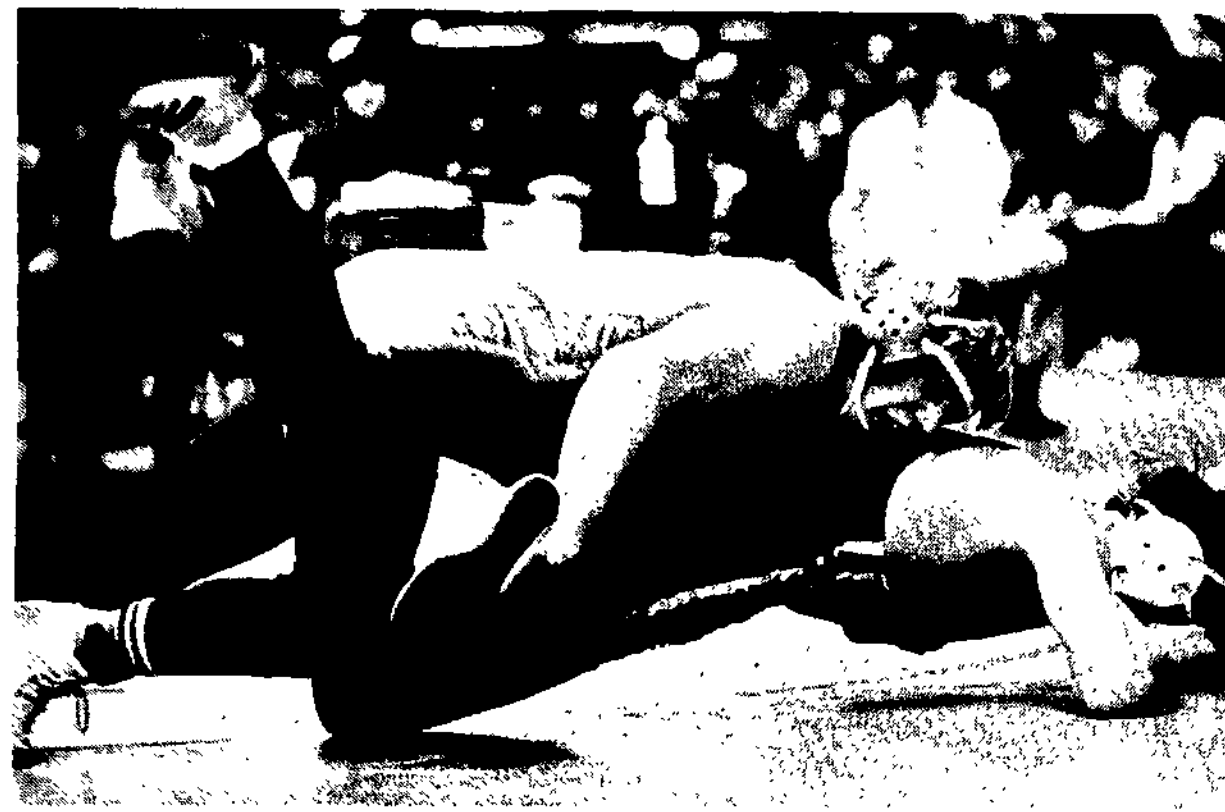

Winners of the two divisions will compete for the league championship.

Final first-round standings:

	W	L
St. Theresa (Palatine) .....	8	1
St. Peter (Arl. Hts.) .....	7	2
St. Anne (Barrington) .....	6	2
St. Paul (Barrington) .....	5	3
Presbyterian (Barrington) .....	4	4
First United (Palatine) .....	3	5
Community (Barrington) .....	2	6
Christ Lutheran (Palatine) .....	2	6
Salem United (Barrington) .....	1	7

Cougars, Saxons Downed

A fine Niles East indoor track team was too much for Conant and Schaumburg, as Niles won a triangular with 70 points to 37 for Conant and 29 for Schaumburg.

Schaumburg and Conant each managed three first places among the 13 events. The only double winner among these two schools was the Saxons' Rick Staback with 10:08.4 in the two-mile run and 2:10.1 in the 800-yard run. Schaumburg's other winner was Arnold Jackson with 4:51.6 in the mile.

Conant's victories all were in field events. John Hughett took the long jump with 19-6, Doug Paape won the pole vault with 10-6 and Chuck Redinger ruled the shot put with 41-2 1/2.

Hughett and Jackson also took second places, the former with 5-6 in the high jump and the latter with 10:20.8 in the two-mile. Other runners-up for the Cougars were Bob Everly with 2:11.6 in the 800 and Scott Clark with 10-6 in the pole vault.

The Cougars also garnered three third places with Bob Kross recording a :55.8 in the 440-yard dash, Warren Olsen :7.9 in the low hurdles and Everly 4:59.8 in the mile. Schaumburg's Bill Casper was third in the high hurdles with :8.0.

Fourth went to Conant's Rick Jensen with 10:37 in the two-mile, Olsen with :5.9 in the 50-yard dash, Todd Waldron with 2:17.2 in the 800 and Russ Windholz with 36-10 in the shot. Schaumburg fourths were by Casper with :8.1 in the low hurdles and Bob Cummings with 19-1 1/2 in the long jump.

Niles East also won the sophomore meet easily with 74 points while Conant had 37 and Schaumburg 23. The Saxons turned the tables in the freshmen meet with 70 points to 34 for the Cougars and 30 for Niles.

The Volunteer Bureau

Need For Staff Director Stressed

As the volunteer movement grows into an organized dimension of our society with the increase of leisure time and with the increase of social awareness among all walks of life, agencies using volunteers have discovered the value of having a director of the volunteers on their staff who assumes the total responsibility of the placing, serving, and evaluating of the volunteers.

Hospitals have been the forerunners of a staff director of the volunteers. It is this fact which makes it possible for a volunteer in the hospital situation to feel appreciated, wanted, and a member of the team.

The Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County has several hospitals in the area to which they send a potential volunteer. Any of the branch offices could serve you in initiating the first step in being a hospital volunteer. As with any institution, clerical volunteers of various office skills are welcome.

The Child Development Centers, referred to as the Headstart Program, in the area use volunteers at each of their four schools. They are in Wheeling, Palatine, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines. The Headstart staff does not have a director of volunteers, and would appreciate knowing if there is someone in the area who could be the volunteer coordinator.

In the definition of a volunteer this assignment should be two days a week or less. The Arlington Heights branch office is the office to contact if you are interested. There are opportunities to work with the children as a teacher's aide, or to share special skills in music, art; and men volunteers are especially welcome in the classroom situation.

The American Cancer Society with offices in Des Plaines is another example of a highly organized volunteer program. Although the Volunteer Bureau cannot send volunteers on assignments involving raising funds, it does send volunteers to the society in educational assignments such as manning the mobile unit, speaking before groups (usually small groups in homes), and a specialized friendly visitors program teaming up cancer patients who have had similar surgery.

Clerical aid can be used by this agency, too. Any of the branch offices should be able to assist you if you desire to work for the American Cancer Society.

If you are a newcomer to the area and would like to know what is available in the way of volunteer assignments, call any of the branch offices or the central office for an interview.

The Volunteer Service Bureau lists 54 separate agencies who meet the guidelines of the bureau in the use of volunteers. Some of these are the schools. Schools served by the bureau are required to have a volunteer coordinator, who is a volunteer, and through this process you can be more assured that your experience will be a pleasant one. The bureau conducts a training program for the volunteer coordinators once a year.

INSTANT INVESTMENT analysis can be provided by representatives of Quintan & Tyson, Inc., Realtors, using a nationwide computer system. The Northwest Suburban and North Shore real estate firm provides one to 30 year projections on the various types of income properties. Frank B. Foster, Q&T president, said the computer analysis includes such features as mortgage loans, market value, taxable income, net spendable income, net equity income and a variety of other factors.

four-year-old brick plants are served by the Chicago and North Western Railway. The properties were part of a trade involving 500,000 square feet of industrial plants, including the Elk Grove Village properties for the Kitchen Compact facilities in Indiana.

GUEST SPEAKER at the March 8 informal talk session sponsored by the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago (ACMC) will be Stuart Izen, executive vice president of the Heitman Mortgage firm. The meeting is slated for 11:45 a.m. at the Downtown Holiday Inn, 1 S. Halsted St., Chicago. ACMC president Ned Simon said the purpose of the informal session is to bring together the council members with experts in financing and other fields. A luncheon will be served at 12:15 p.m. following a social hour, he said. The apartment organization is a division of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago.

RIDING THE CREST of a strong recovery in the real estate field, the Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect offices of Baird & Warner, Inc., reported one of the best years in history. According to Robert G. Walters, vice president and district sales manager of Baird & Warner's Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect offices, and Michael J. Del Re, sales manager of the Mount Prospect office, the offices produced a 1971 gross dollar volume of $16,771,502, an increase of 121.10 per cent over 1970 dollar volume of $10,448,597. The increase was achieved on the strength of a 68.94 per cent increase in unit sales, with the local sales staff participating in 424 sales compared with 318 in 1970. John L. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager for the firm, which now has 28 offices serving Chicago and suburbs, cited the local office's efforts as an important factor in the firm's overall performance.

BAIRD & WARNER, INC., represented by Mace Cole, assistant vice president and district sales manager of the real estate firm's commercial and industrial division, was sole broker in the $2.1 million sale of two industrial plants on a 12-acre site in Elk Grove Village. The sellers of two 120,000-square foot plants at 1301 Morse Ave. and at 1101 Morse Ave. in the village were Kitchen Compact Co. of Jeffersonville, Ind. The buyers were A. L. Dougherty Co. of Chicago. ## Buchholz To Aid In Cancer Crusade

David L. Buchholz, 1615 S. Ridge Dr., Arlington Heights, has been named Crusade co-ordinator of the American Cancer Society's April Crusade in Illinois.

David Buchholz

In this position, Buchholz, a veteran volunteer of the Cancer Society, will help in the recruitment, training and leadership of close to 80,000 volunteers in Illinois, who will conduct the educational and fund-raising effort. The crusade this year has a state goal of $3,350,000, which will be expended for expanding programs in research, education and service.

Buchholz, a partner in Arthur Andersen & Co., is treasurer of the Northwest Mental Health Association and Center and has held various leadership positions in the Crusade of Mercy, the Heart Association, Lions Club and Elk Grove Village Police Pension Board. He is a member of the University Club of Chicago, the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants, and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Referrals Are A Buyer Source

Families who utilize the services of Realtors to buy their homes come from four major sources, according to a study of more than 2,000 home purchases recently completed in the Chicago suburbs.

The four major sources, in the order of their importance, according to Rich Port who conducted the analysis, are referrals, "walk-ins," classified advertising and "for sale" signs. These accounted for 68.67 per cent of all sources of buyers analyzed in the study, he said.

Port heads up Rich Port, Realtor, a La Grange-based firm with 15 offices and a sales staff of 150. He said the study was undertaken so as to enable the company to more effectively serve its expanding list of clients.

"We found that nearly 60 per cent of all our buyers came to us through referrals," Port said. "Another surprise was the finding that 20 per cent, or two out of every ten buyers, fell in the category of 'walk-ins,' people who walked into our offices off the street on their own initiative without any prior plan. They may have just happened to be in our neighborhood and decided to take advantage of the opportunity to get personally acquainted."

The third major category developed by the study was classified advertising. It was shown to have brought in more than nine per cent of the home buyers, nearly one out of ten. Signs attracted 8.58 per cent of buyers.

Port noted that the sources of buyers varied from office to office, with some offices reporting greater percentages in some categories, and lower percentages in others.

"For example," he pointed out, "one of our offices reported that 75 per cent of its buyers came from referrals, much higher than the company-wide average of nearly 60 per cent. Still others reported that 27.5 per cent of its buyers fell into the 'walk-in' category, and a third reported that 25.5 per cent of its purchasers were obtained through classified advertising."

Announce New Holding Company

Miller Builders, Inc., the general developer and developer of Northgate and Surrey Ridge West subdivision and Greenbrier apartments in Arlington Heights, announced the formation of a holding company, Miller Industries, Inc. The company will be the first Illinois corporation of its kind engaged in developing, owning and managing interstate residential, commercial and industrial building projects.

The diversified firm, which had a Chicago area construction volume of over $35 million in 1971 and projects $45 million in 1972, will become the Midwest operating subsidiary of the holding company.

The Skokie headquartered company's founder, Albert J. Miller, has relinquished his post of president of Miller Builders, Inc. to become chairman and president of the holding company and will direct its expansion into other market areas.

Miller said the new firm's initial program is to establish subsidiary operating companies in live out of state areas, beginning with Florida, during the next five years.

Norman F. Meyerson has been elected president and chief operating officer of Miller Builders, Inc. He has been associated with Miller since shortly after its founding in 1953 and was executive vice president. Miller retains his position as chairman of Miller Builders, Inc.

Herman J. Soifer has been elected executive vice president of the Midwest operating company. He will assist Meyerson in overall supervision of the company's Midwest operations, in addition to his current responsibilities as vice president in charge of its multi-family residential division.

Isml Management Co., property management subsidiary of Miller Builders, Inc., will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Miller Industries, Inc. Philip S. Gershon will continue as its president and as a vice president of Miller Builders, Inc., in charge of its Embeco division, which performs earth moving, excavation work and other services.

Elwin J. Goldman, vice president and controller of Miller Builders, Inc. will assume the additional duties of vice president and controller of Miller Industries, Inc.

Miller said the restructuring is designed to further strengthen the company's position as one of the Chicago area's largest residential builders and general developers, while adding volume and stability through geographical diversification of operations.

MAP TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

IS NOW A GOOD TIME TO BUY?

Inflation, recessed economy, bear market, fluctuating interest rates... can this be the best time to buy a home? Cost experts say yes. Waiting for interest rates to come down probably will cost you more in the long run as labor, materials and Real Estate continue to become more expensive. Home prices are expected to climb as the housing shortage becomes more apparent.

Housing will have to be provided for 100 million more Americans in the next 30 years - in addition to replacing about half of all existing housing.

A home is an excellent long range investment, but it's important to buy wisely and carefully. Prudent purchasing begins with becoming well informed on home buying before you enter into an actual transaction. There are numerous factors that affect your investment and safeguard your financial interest.

The many local Real Estate offices that display the big gold and black "MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service" sign can help you make the right move. Call or stop in anytime and meet the "PROS" - the people of MAP Multiple Listing Service who work together for efficient, satisfactory Real Estate service to the community.

Buying or Selling... call a MAP office... and relax!

Dr. A. J. Froelich Joins Loyola Medicine School

A. J. Froelich, Ph.D., a 31-year-old biophysicist from Rolling Meadows, has joined the Loyola Stritch School of Medicine staff as adjunct assistant professor of Ob-Gynecology and Biochemistry.

Dr. A. J. Froelich

Froelich worked previously for the Hallcrafters Co. of Rolling Meadows where he was a senior project engineer working in plasma physics — finding ways to convert electrical energy to electromagnetic energy. There he also did laser system studies and tested an improved infrared source to counter heat-seeking missiles for the U. S. Army Electronics Command.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree in physics in 1962 from St. Procopius College, Lisle; and his Ph.D. in physics in 1968 from the University of Notre Dame. He did post doctoral research at the latter school for a while, then joined the Hallcrafters in 1968.

At Loyola, Froelich will be available to students and physicians for consultations in the area of the physics of medicine, and engineering aspects of diagnostic equipment in Ob-Gynecology.

Brokers Expect Improved Sales

Industrial real estate brokers anticipate improved business conditions this year, the president of the Society of Industrial Realtors said recently.

"For the knowledgeable, experienced, creative industrial real estate broker, developer, and investor, 1972 is full of exciting opportunity and promise," C.V.W. (Dick) Trice Jr., Miami, Fla., declared. Trice said most SIR members are quite optimistic about 1972.

"There was generally a slow first half last year for most industrial real estate brokers, but activity picked up in the third quarter, and accelerated even more in the fourth quarter. The turning point generally came around Labor Day, and the increased business pace since then has carried over into 1972," he reported.

Trice said there appears to be a large inventory of existing industrial space available in most areas. "As a result, rental figures are generally lower than they were a year ago," he noted.

There is greater demand today for smaller buildings (50,000 square feet or so), as opposed to a year ago when the market was greater for 100,000 square foot facilities. Trice stated.

He said that money for industrial real estate financing is adequate to abundant in most areas, with interest rates reported in the range of 7% to 8% per cent.

The Society of Industrial Realtors is a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Its 1,125 members throughout the U.S. and Canada specialize in marketing industrial properties and meeting the real estate needs of industry.

CPA Chairman

Norman O. Olson, a Palatine CPA, has been reappointed chairman of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants' Committee on accounting for companies in the development stage, the institute has announced.

Olson is a partner in the Chicago office of the Arthur Andersen & Co. accounting firm. He lives at 1660 W. Appleby Rd.

His committee reviews and appraises accounting and reporting practices of companies that are in the process of development.

The institute is the national professional society of CPAs. It has more than 81,500 members.

Show Contemporary Style

The Meritex Corp. is introducing the contemporary architecture in a new northwest suburban subdivision, Lakewood Village Townhomes.

Two furnished model Aspen-Design townhomes are open for inspection on Route 63, one-half mile east of Route 25.

Leonard W. Besinger Jr., the architect-builder who is president of Meritex, said that the new subdivision is being modeled on the Morningside Village format in Carpentersville.

When completed, the $8 million development will include the construction of 333 two and three-bedroom townhomes, priced from $19,995 and $21,795 respectively. The townhomes will be available with FHA, VA or conventional financing plans.

Townhomes will be built among wooded areas and on the section straddling the border of Carpentersville and East Dundee.

The contemporary architectural flavor of the Aspen townhomes includes such exterior features as a cantilevered second story, rough-sawn cedar siding and steeply sloping gable roof.

The townhomes will be grouped together in clusters of four to 11 units.

Private front and rear gardens, all fully landscaped, with sodded lawn, garden fencing, shade trees and shrubs are provided. Each homesite includes a private two-car concrete driveway or one-car driveway and garage — the latter available with the three-bedroom model.

The ground level of each townhome comprises a living room with a metal-clad entry door and insulated glass patio doors leading to the front patio. A kitchen at the back of the home provides space for family dining. Sliding glass doors also open from the kitchen to a rear patio.

A laundry-utility room is included in all homes, and contains a gas-forced warm air furnace and glass-lined hot water heater. In the three-bedroom designs this room can be equipped as a powder room. Storage space is a key feature of all the homes with storage rooms an-nexed to the back of all units and an additional room provided at the front of the three-bedroom homes.

An oak staircase leads to the upper level of the homes. Bedrooms — with either walk-in or wall-length closets — and ceramic-tiled bathrooms with mirrored vanities are featured on this level.

The furnished models may be seen daily, including weekends, from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. Occupancy is scheduled for this summer.

Keep The Lid On Rents: Tucker

It is imperative that property owners exercise restraint in raising rents, even though permissible under current regulations, said Fred C. Tucker Jr., Indianapolis, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

He added that where some increase is unavoidable to keep the project viable, or even in some cases solvent, careful explanation to the tenant is important.

"To reduce inflation, as well as unemployment, we must succeed in the stabilization of prices, rents, wages, and salaries," Tucker, who is a member of the Rent Advisory Board to the Price Commission, said. "Success will depend not just on formal limitation and regulation, but on cooperation and voluntary restraint on the part of all of us."

"Obviously it is necessary that labor unions exercise restraint in seeking wage increases and that salaried employees recognize the need for moderation in calling for higher salaries."

He noted that we should all recognize that rent control is, in the long-run, counter-productive. Artificially-imposed limitations on rents can inhibit construction and rehabilitation, bring about abandonment, and cause misunderstanding between owner and tenant. Therefore, he said, he must strive to make this present rent control program as temporary as possible.

"The Price Commission and Cost of Living Council will be looking very closely at the performance of the Consumer Price Index over these next few months hoping surely that Phase II rent controls can be totally lifted when the rent component of the Index satisfactorily responds to the stabilization program. Thus, it is in our interest to exercise restraint," Tucker said.

"In this interim period, the less rents are increased, the sooner controls will be ended and the sooner we will return to the soundest of all systems — a free American economy controlled only by the basic law of supply and demand operating in an unfettered arena," Tucker said.

At the time President Nixon announced the wage, price, and rent freeze, designed to curb inflation and preserve the integrity of the American economy, NAREB's president at that time Bill N. Brown, Albuquerque, pledged the support of the Association.

Paul Sharps Named Marketing Specialist

Paul D. Sharps has been appointed central region marketing specialist for the Multigraphics Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp. He reports to Robert K. Wagner, regional sales manager, at 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

Sharps is responsible for helping in the development of new markets and applications for multilith offset duplicators and electrostatic copiers by working with users and prospects, home office specialists and branch office representatives.

He joined the firm's Bruning Division branch in Charleston, W. Va. in 1964. He also has served as a sales training instructor and, most recently, as assistant branch manager in San Francisco.

In his eight years with the firm, Sharps has earned two memberships in the company's honor sales organization, the Hundred Club. He resides at 1080 Belmar Ln., Buffalo Grove.

Bank Names Two Directors

Neil Cooney, president of the Bank of Elk Grove, announced that — in recognition of the growth of both the bank and the business community it serves — the bank's board of directors was increased from 10 to 12 at their recent annual shareholder's meeting.

Robert E. Lahti

Wayne K. Brinkman

The two new directors elected were Robert E. Lahti and Wayne K. Brinkman.

Lahti, president of William Rainey Harper College, has an administrative background as well as personal honorariums in the educational field.

Brinkman has served in the capacity of vice president and assistant to the president of the bank for the past 10 months. He has worked in the banking fraternity over the past 18 years.

Annen & Busse Posts Record

Annen & Busse, Inc. serving the Northwest Suburban area since 1949, celebrated its 21st consecutive record-breaking year of $32 million in sales at its recent annual sales dinner.

Edward J. Busse, secretary-treasurer of Annen & Busse, Inc., said "We are proud and delighted with our staff and our production." Plaques and bonus check awards were presented to over half the sales staff, including Million Dollar Salesman Awards to 17 members of the firm. Top Salesman of the Year Awards to the leading salesman in each of the four Annen & Busse offices located in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove Village, and President's Plaque to those members honored by the firm for outstanding production.

Change has characterized the growth of the area over the last several years.

Edward J. Busse

Many of the Annen & Busse staff have been with the company during these years.

Guest speaker, John Clikeman, of Accent of Selling, presented a film and discussion based on Zig Ziglar's Tomorrow is the First Day of the Rest of Your Life.

Ted Kelley Wins Award For Sales

The 1971 Pacemaker Award for best sales gain within sales regions of Lincoln St. Louis, division of McNeil Corp., was presented recently to Ted Kelley Jr., of 308 S. Elm Rd., Palatine, regional sales manager for the Chicago sales region.

The Pacemaker Award is presented annually to the sales region with the best sales gain over the previous four-year average of sales for its industrial lubrication, automotive service equipment and materials dispensing systems.

The award (an engraved plaque) was presented jointly to Kelley and to the sales and administrative employees of the Chicago sales branch located at 855 N. Elston Ave., Chicago.

Presentation of the award was made by J. P. O'Donnell, vice president-sales, in the St. Louis headquarters of Lincoln.

Twin Building Completed

"Identical buildings are" —

The Green Acres condominium community in Arlington Heights recently celebrated the grand opening of Phase II. Developed by Charles G. Matthies, Inc., the Phase II building is the twin of the first four story, 52-unit building.

The low financing rate available is one of the main factors attributing to the successful sales record of the Green Acres condominiums, according to Charles G. Matthies, president of the building firm. "Our new financing is at 6 1/2 per cent for Green Acres, while most condominium owners pay a standard 7 per cent and even as high as 7 1/2 per cent. This is definitely a substantial saving over the period of the mortgage."

The one and two-bedroom condominiums range in size from 1010 square feet to 1385 square feet of living area. The living room size averages about 22 feet by 17 feet with a separate formal dining room. The master bedroom in the two-bedroom units is 17 feet by 12 feet plus a walk-in closet.

Although 10 per cent of the Green Acres' population is composed of young newlywed couples in their twenties, the average age is closer to 50 years and the average resident is an "empty nester" whose children have grown up and moved away from home. "These are the people who no longer want the mundane maintenance responsibilities of home ownership in a single-family home," said Matthies.

Wall-to-wall carpeting is available in a choice of colors. Each unit is centrally air-conditioned and has electric heat. Color choice is again available for bathroom ceramic tiles and kitchen appliances including double-door refrigerator/freezer, double oven range and formal countertops. Kitchens also have two corner sinks with disposal, custom wood cabinets, and dishwashers in the two-bedroom units.

Both buildings at Green Acres have private storage areas and laundry facilities. Combination storms and screens are all provided and insulated sliding glass doors lead from the living room to the patio in each condominium. Outside parking spaces are included for those who do not purchase a garage with electrically-operated door.

Prices of these condominiums range from $24,300 for a one-bedroom unit and $29,100 for a two-bedroom, with the new, low financing terms available.

To reach Green Acres in Arlington Heights, take the Northwest Highway (US 14) to Central Road and turn west 2 1/2 miles to Fernandez, then south 1/2 block to the models. They are located 1/2 block south from the Northwest Community Hospital. Model condominiums are open daily and weekends, 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Start New Units At Countryside

A new group of 240 apartments is under way at Countryside in the Palatine area.

Helen Clitherow, rental manager for the new development of one and two-bedroom units said the initial group of 240 apartments have been occupied as fast as they began becoming available in September.

Countryside Apartments, eventually slated for 1,040 units, is a $20 million planned unit development on the north side of Northwest Highway at Baldwin Road and was designed and built by L. F. Draper & Associates.

The second phase planned for initial occupancy this spring will offer luxurious one and two bedroom apartments at rentals ranging from $210 to $285.

ROSEMONT, ILLINOIS

The 26 two-story apartment buildings will be spaced on 110 acres of landscaped grounds. Ten acres of the site will be the home of the Countryside YMCA, to offer a range of activities for the entire family.

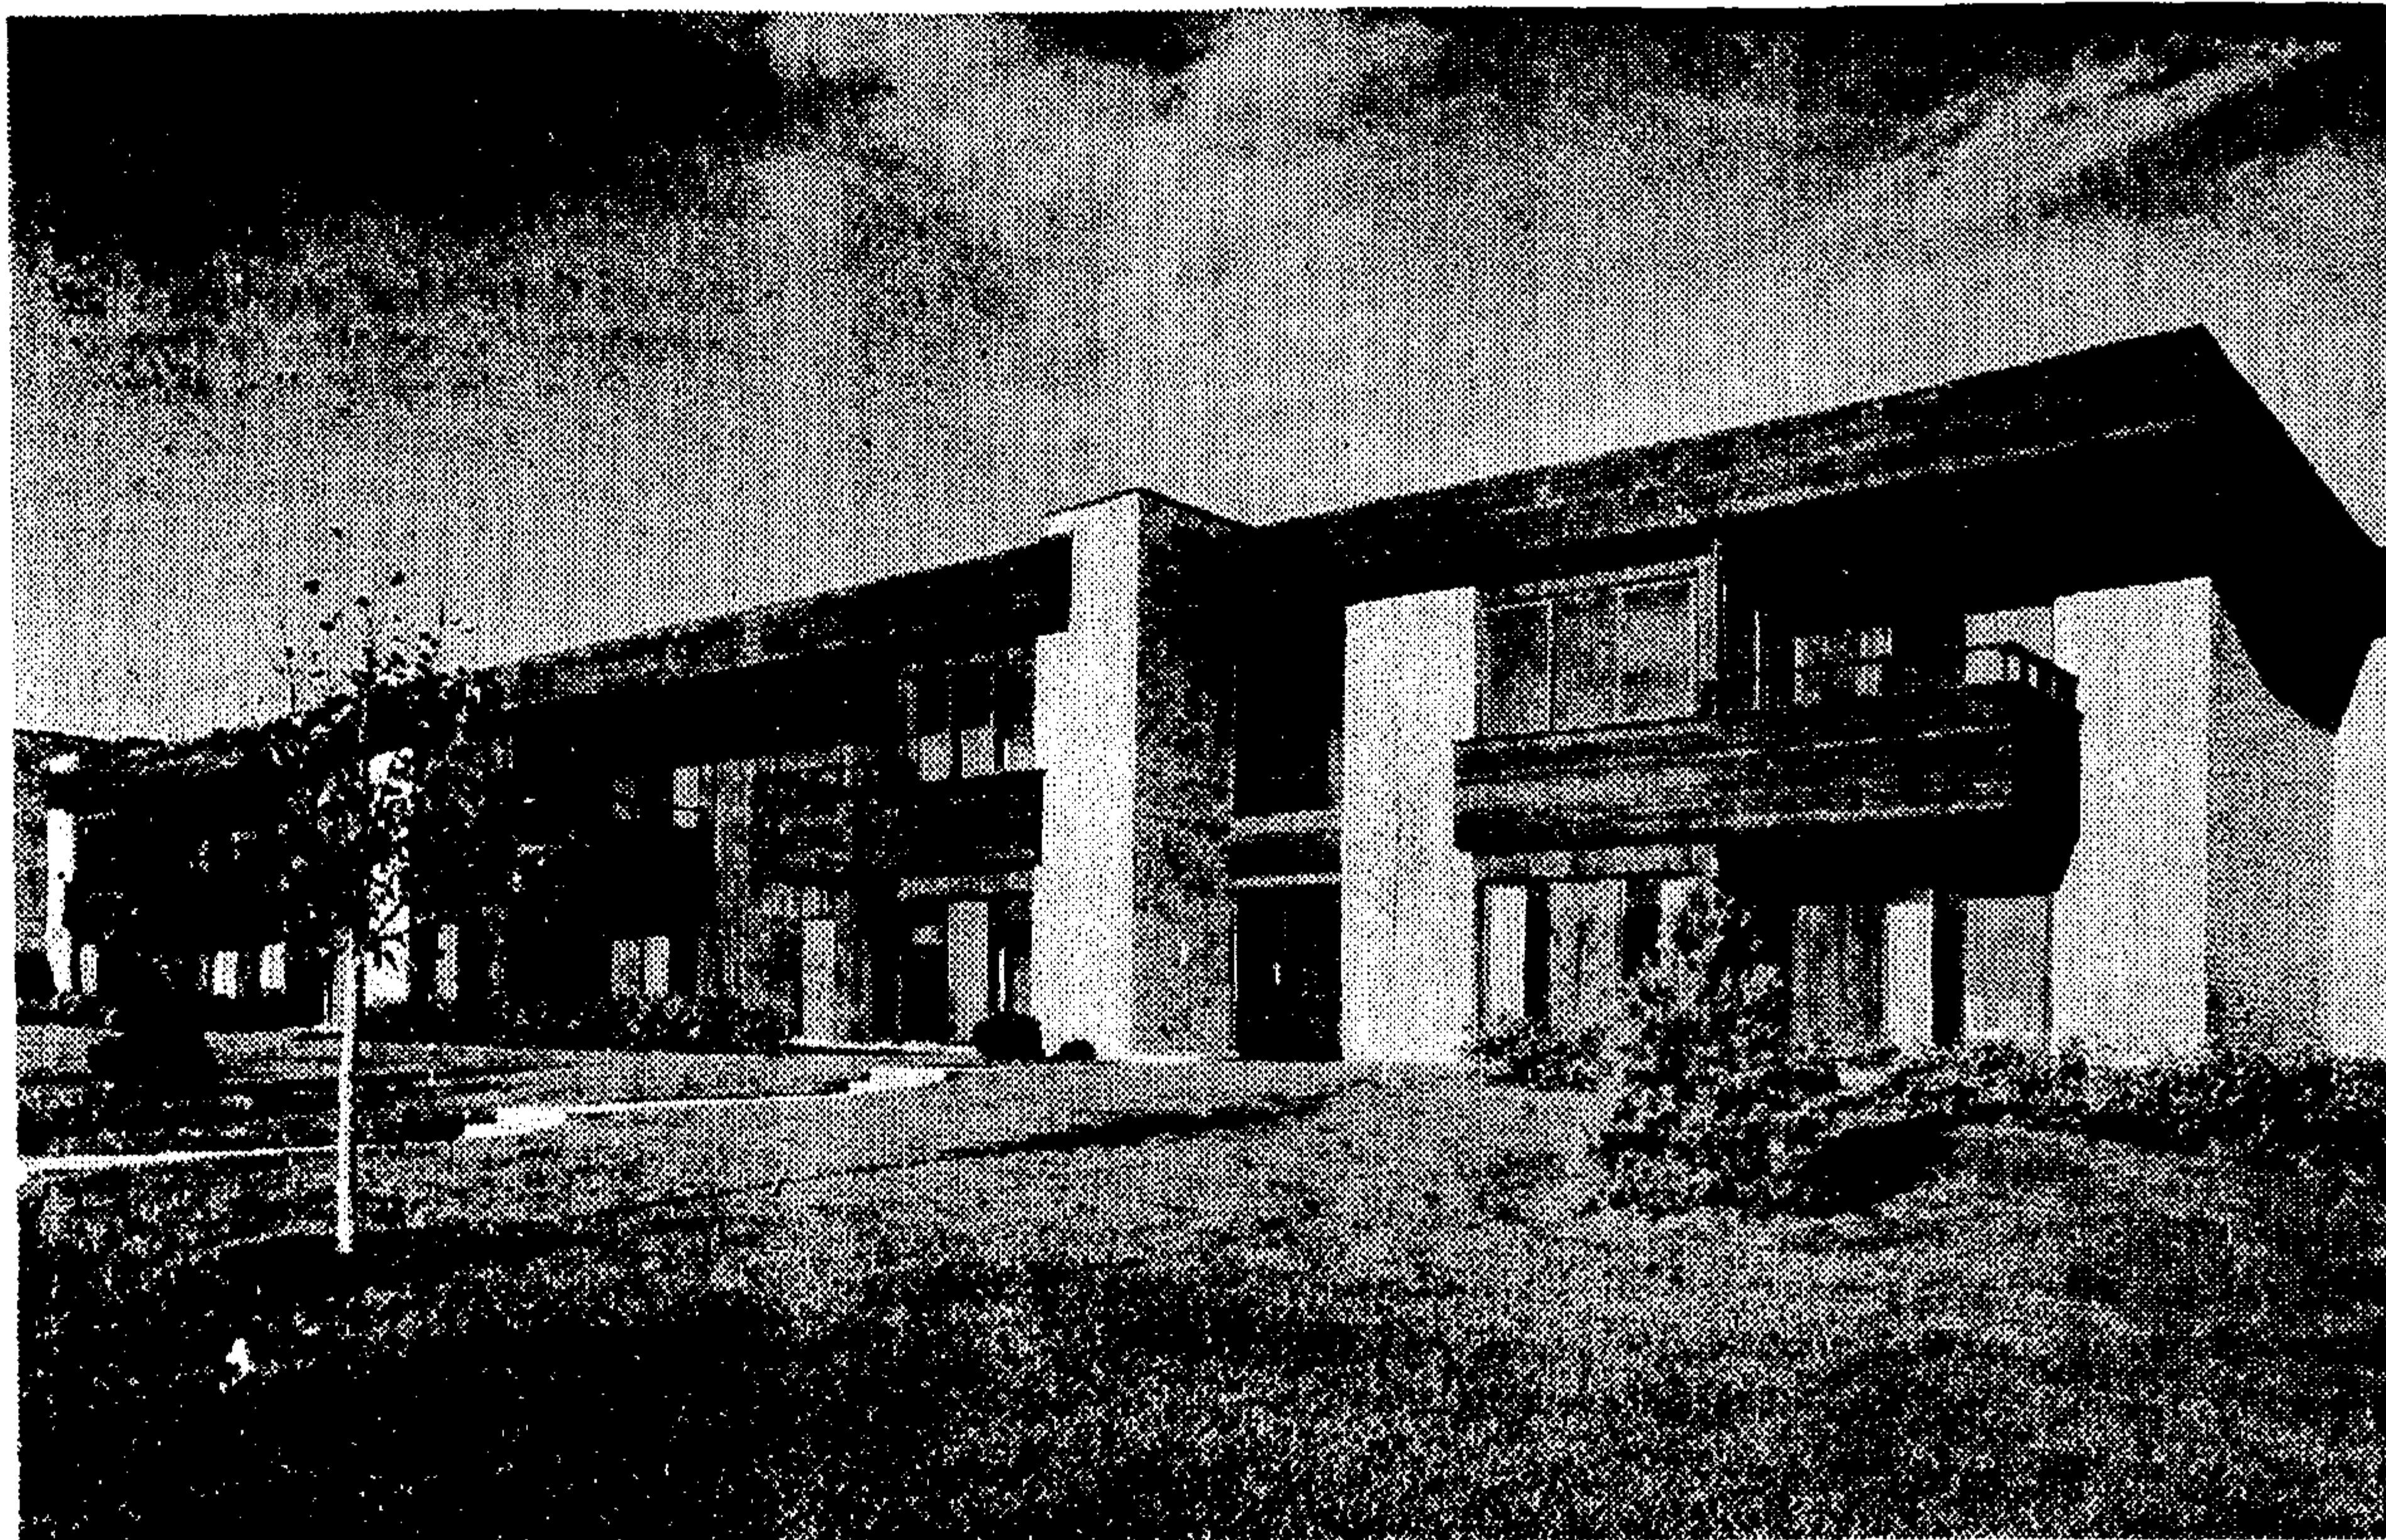

The apartments are available in five layouts with either one or two baths. They have a feeling of open space due to three walls of glass, two of which are sliding doors leading to the outdoor patio or balcony. The other is a fixed glass wall.

Countryside is in the process of setting up a daytime day care nursery and evening baby sitting service.

Every apartment has its own individual control of heat and air conditioning, remote and inside storage, an informal dining area in the kitchen and high hedges to seclude the private patios.

The exterior of the buildings has been designed with a rough sawn cedar look. Only 19.4 per cent of the land will be occupied by apartment structures.

Model apartments are open daily from 9 a.m. until sundown on Northwest Hwy. (Rt. 14) east of Baldwin Road.

SECOND PHASE IN THE development of apartments at Countryside project near Palatine is underway. Shown above are some of the units already completed. The project designed and built by L. F. Draper & Associates will eventually include 1,040 apartment units. The 26 apartment buildings will be spaced on 110 acres of landscaped grounds.

Part Two

Opens Trend II

Larwin's Trend Village, a single-family community in DuPage County has been sold out.

Larwin opened a namesake, Trend II which also is located in Greenbrook Country, a 1,000-acre development featuring a series of architecturally distinctive villages as part of one community plan.

Trend II offers the same basic homes as Trend I with the addition of a community swimming pool and cabana. Wyn Pope, president of the Illinois region of The Larwin Group, announced that Trend II homes are priced from $26,900 and are California styled. Conventional, FHA, and VA financing are available.

Trend II has a common border with the Mallard Lake Forest Preserve.

Featured home models for Trend II include the Carmel, with three bedrooms, starting at $26,900. The Carmel features extensive use of glass in its garden view living room, formal living room and optional two-car garage.

The three-bedroom Balboa, priced at $29,990, has balcony-style library overlooking a more formal living room. The house can be purchased with the option of having an extra bedroom on this upper level instead of the library. One of the three bedrooms may be converted for use as a den/library.

The Coronado, priced from $31,990 is a four-bedroom, two-bath home with a garden view kitchen, private bath in the master bedroom and utility room.

The price of all Trend Village homes includes electric ranges and refrigerators, dishwasher and waste disposal, automatic washer and dryer, carpeting in living room, dining room, hallways, and master bedroom, and custom-finished kitchen cabinetry and lighting fixtures.

Residents may call upon the Larwin Home Center in Greenbrook for the purchase of additional items for their home. The center offers a line of home furnishings and appliances as well as free professional decorating counsel.

Like its sister Greenbrook villages, Trend I, Tempo and Tanglewood, Trend II Village provides landscaped greenbelt areas and cul-de-sac streets, virtually eliminating through traffic within the community.

Greenbrook is being developed by the Illinois region of The Larwin Group, Inc., of Beverly Hills, Cal. Larwin has built more than 28,000 homes in 56 communities since 1948.

Larwin has major divisions in multiple-family housing, mortgage banking, real estate investment trust manage-

Builders Hit Sewer Bans

by LEA TONKIN

Home builders representing a cross section of construction in the Chicago metropolitan area are reporting major shutdowns and the prospect of additional work stoppages as a result of inadequate sewage treatment facilities. They're banding together in an effort to put sewage treatment savvy to work at the state and local level.

Moratoria against additional sewer connections imposed by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) under the Environmental Protection Act have forced more than 20 builders to halt the current construction of nearly 7,000 homes and apartments in the metropolitan area according to a recent survey of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago. Seven builders reported the bans are costing them an estimated $7,000 a day in lost sales and interest charges. This is an average of $1,000 per day per builder who has had to halt operations.

Sixth members of the association participated in the survey. Results were reported by Robert K. Widdicombe Jr., executive vice president of the organization.

Widdicombe said builders from Schaumburg, Buffalo Grove, Bartlett, Geneva and Waukegan are among those reporting problems because of inadequate sewage treatment facilities. "If builders find that the circumstances of doing business in a community are too difficult they will look elsewhere," he said.

The builders surveyed anticipate that sewer moratoria precipitated by new pollution control laws may stop the construction of another 5,475 homes and apartments in and around Chicago with a total market value of nearly $100-million. A large number of builders polled say they anticipate shutdowns because of past or potential problems.

Faced with past and current losses and uncertainty about the future, a number of builders have decided to curtail building and to curb land acquisition. A few are building their own sewage treatment facilities to sustain their planned operations. Many are trying to persuade officials to take remedial action so that bans against adding new homes to sewer lines can be lifted.

Widdicombe said the Illinois Pollution Control Board recently indicated that over 80 per cent of the sewage treatment plants in the state will be unable to meet new treatment standards slated to be effected next July. The association executive said unless the Environmental Protection Act of 1970 is changed to direct the use of interim sewage treatment measures until permanent facilities can be built, there will be widespread violations leading to massive construction shutdowns across the state.

"Commercial and industrial construction as well as residential construction would be affected," said Widdicombe. He said the association has several suggestions to avoid further construction shutdowns.

Representatives of the home builders organization have spelled out their recommendations and have submitted the list to state legislators. They anticipate that bills will be introduced in the state legislature in April to remedy the sewage treatment problems.

"Substantial funding is available at the state and local level to implement the plans outlined by the Illinois Pollution Control Board," said Widdicombe. None of the new funding is being made available for interim treatment facilities, he said.

The HBAGC will propose legislation which would force local sewage treatment authorities to start planning for a new plant when their present facilities reach 80 per cent capacity. "At 90 per cent capacity they would implement the plan," said Widdicombe, "and come forward with plans for a new plant. We want to assure that no plant ever reaches 100 per cent capacity."

Widdicombe said the state EPA could enforce bonding for improved sewage treatment facilities but has failed to do so.

He said most Illinois municipalities also have ordinances prohibiting illegal sewer hookups such as downspouts and sump pumps. He said the organization is asking that municipalities enforce this regulation and impose fines for violations. Among the treatment plants experiencing overload problems due to illegal hookups is the Hanover Park plant.

memo to advertisers

Top of the head guestimates are a chancy way to buy, sell, or even pay for advertising.

Once in a blue moon guesswork gets lucky, but that's not good enough for a message aimed at building sales.

We have the advertiser-controlled Audit Bureau of Circulations check our circulation regularly so that you may know exactly the size of our audience, where our readers live, and a lot more.

Effective advertising investments are based on facts—about your products or services, and about the audience you are trying to reach.

You can be ABC-sure of our readers.

THE VILLAGE THAT NEVER CHANGES

Can you imagine a village where you will not see a single garbage can? Where there are no property line fences? Where the smallest homesites are an acre? Where there is no industry? Where no two homes are alike? Where every home must receive architectural approval? These are just a few of the unusual features of Inverness that are protected by prudent deed restrictions to jealously guard against changes in the character, value and way of living in the community. How much does it cost to join this exclusive $50-family village? Our acre-or-larger homesites start at $14,000, with only 20% down and an annual percentage rate of 7%. We also have a portfolio of homes for sale for immediate occupancy due to executive transfers. Prices range from $60,000 to $200,000. Drive out today; or, if you prefer, send for a free brochure.

Our picturesque 4-Silo office is open daily on Baldwin Road, just west of Northwest Highway (Rte. 14) between Palatine and Barrington. Convenient to Northwest Tollway (north from Rte. 53 exit).

*Example $14,000 purchase—$2800 down, 84 monthly payments of $169.04.

Here's One Solution To Indoor Pollution

Air pollution stems from many sources, including some in homes, offices or other confined spaces. Indoor pollution comes from cooking, smoking, lint and hair, pets, odors and from outdoor pollution that infiltrates. All of it can now be removed easily and economically by electronic air cleaners produced by several manufacturers and sold by appliance and department stores.

Dust particles of microscopic proportions easily elude the most efficient dust cloth. These particles, as small as .01 of an inch, cause most soiling and become eye, nose and lung irritants.

Mechanical filters made of fiberglass or other materials catch only about 10 per cent of the tiny particles, which are invisible to the naked eye. Electronic cleaners operate on an entirely different principle. They impart a positive electric charge to the dust particles which are then caught and held by negatively charged plates. The clean air then passes through a charcoal filter for further purification.

The air cleaner eliminates up to 90 per cent of minute particles; as high as 99 per cent of all pollens, a boon to asthma and hay fever sufferers and allergy victims.

While not primarily an odor control device, the activated charcoal after-filter absorbs odors and gaseous vapors, such as those caused by cooking and smoking. The filter is disposable and easily replaceable. The electronic filter is easily removed for periodic cleaning.

Air is drawn in through the bottom of the air cleaners, passed through the filters and then re-circulated. In a room of approximately 15 by 20 feet, the air is cleaned and re-circulated about seven times an hour.

By trapping grease droplets, grime and all other forms of dirt, the air cleaners cut down on household cleaning bills. Wallpaper and painted surfaces stay fresh looking, windows and mirrors retain their sparkle, draperies require cleaning less often and a dustcloth becomes almost unnecessary.

The cleaners are housed in attractive cabinets that look like, and could easily serve as, handy end tables. Cabinets are made of high impact polystyrene in handsome walnut finish. Controls are invisible; the single control switch is located at the back, safe from curious little fingers. The legs have nylon glider for ease of mobility and are adjustable for easy leveling.

"News In Brief" every morning on the front page of the HERALD.

Dr. Rollo Nasset Joins Medical Group

Dr. Rollo J. Nasset, 500 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village was inducted as a Fellow of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons at the group's annual meeting in Washington, D.C.

Altogether, 388 fellows were inducted as members in ceremonies during the academy's 39th annual meeting at the Sheraton Park Hotel. The academy is the nation's largest medical organization for specialists in bone and joint surgery, and all fellows must have passed the certifying examinations of the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Village on the Lake is the vacation you come home to.

Yours to enjoy, seven days a week, 52 weeks a year.

Set your sails for hours of fun on your own 35-acre lake. Run through a brisk match on your own tennis courts. Or enjoy a refreshing dip in your own swimming pool.

Condominium living at Village on the Lake presents a dazzling departure from the daily nine-to-five routine. Yet the special conveniences of Elk Grove Village—a totally planned, northwest suburban community—are right at your fingertips.

You're within walking distance of shopping and schools. Close to churches. Just 35 minutes from the Loop. Only a stone's throw from a vast, 2,000-acre forest preserve.

And right in the midst of this superb vacation setting, you can glory in the advantages of modern home ownership, without the old-fashioned drawbacks.

Village on the Lake features beautifully landscaped grounds. Five spacious floor plans, for room to live as you've always wanted.

Exterior maintenance is furnished, plus many luxury touches. (Individually controlled heat and air conditioning. Wall-to-wall carpeting. Double oven with continuous cleaning. Dishwasher. Disposal. Refrigerator. Apartment-to-lobby security telephone system. And social room.)

Village on the Lake offers the ultimate in home-loving luxury, convenience and security. And you build up valuable equity, with all the homeowner's tax deduction benefits, at a price that will surprise you.

A one-bedroom home is yours for as little as $20,800; only $219.06* per month. Two-bedroom homes start at $26,500; only $278.21** per month. This includes mortgage principal, interest, estimated real estate taxes, insurance, heat and water and complete building maintenance.

We will even offer to buy your present home, if it qualifies, so you won't be stuck with two mortgages. How's that for peace of mind?

For more information, phone 593-0340.

Models open daily, 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday 'til 5 p.m. While Arlington Heights Road is closed for repairs, you can sample "the vacation you come home to" by exiting the Northwest Tollway at Route 53 south. Drive four miles to Biesterfeld Road. Then turn east to Village on the Lake (two blocks past Alexian Brothers Medical Center).

And don't forget your ice skates.

Palatine Girl Is Delta Stewardess

Candace Richards

Miss Candace Richards has "won her wings" and is now a stewardess with Delta Air Lines. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Richards of 210 Fifth Rd., Palatine, she completed the four-week training course at Delta's Stewardess School at the Atlanta Airport and is now proudly wearing the chic uniform and cap of the nation's fifth largest airline.

From her base station of Atlanta, she will fly to many of the 63 cities served by Delta in 23 states, the District of Columbia, and the Caribbean.

Miss Richards is a graduate of Palatine High School, and of Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa.

International Living Explored By Campers

The Experiment in International Living has proved that learning a language can be fun. And using it in a country where it is spoken can be an exciting adventure, especially living there with a family. In effect, they've found a way of combining business with pleasure in a delightfully informal atmosphere.

At the camps — in Vermont or Mexico, depending upon language choice — campers work and play in a new language for about a month. They play their sports in a foreign language — keeping score, arguing the rules, cheering on their team. They write and put on plays in the language, sing in it, eat using it and eventually dream in it.

There is classroom work, too, in small groups, with young, Experiment-trained, native speakers as teachers, and American leaders fluent in the language. Almost individual attention is assured with a four-to-one camper/staff ratio. Practice dialogs, drills, skits, roleplays, readings, group discussions are all designed to make language learning effective and fun.

After the camp period comes the "homestay", when campers live for about three weeks as a member of a family in another country: French-speaking Canada, France, Switzerland, Mexico or Spain.

As a new "son" or "daughter" they get to know their new country from the inside out. They make new friends, try new customs, new ideas, new points of view. They live the language — celebrating a birthday, shopping in local markets, exploring the countryside with new friends. They travel to their homestay community with eleven other campers and an American leader. Families are chosen by Experiment representatives there. The American group, along with the young people from the host families, get together from time to time for a variety of activities and excursions planned by the American leader and the local Experiment representative.

Many campers have advanced as a full academic year, others as much as two, after a summer at camp. To measure progress, all campers are tested on arrival and at the end of the summer.

Barbara Lewis, director of the Midwest office of The Experiment says "We screen our applicants to be sure that each camper's health and motivation are right for the program. If an applicant is eager for the challenge of an in-depth experience in another language and another country, that usually means he has the other necessary qualities: the ability to adapt to a variety of new situations, making the summer as rewarding for his new friends as for himself; a talent for getting along well with others; initiative, curiosity, and a spirit of adventure; and a sense of humor that includes a willingness to laugh at himself."

Founded in 1932, The Experiment is an independent, nonprofit, educational organization financed by fees, foundation grants, gifts, and government contracts. United States' headquarters are situated at Putney, Vermont. Five regional offices are maintained in this country, and international operations are conducted through national Experiment offices or representatives in some sixty countries on six continents.

The Experiment's programs are based on the conviction that one best learns to understand another people and their culture by living among them as a member of a family. Accordingly, no matter how extensively the Experiment is involved in work, study, or travel, the heart of these programs is the experience of living with a family in another country. From this vantage point, each Experiment has the opportunity to understand and to appreciate a new culture by living it, and to develop respect and admiration for the people who have introduced him to it.

The many thousands of persons who have taken part in Experiment activities, either as Experimenters to other lands or as families who have offered hospitality to visitors from abroad, have proved that through this demanding but rewarding experience the individual may make a significant contribution to the cause of international understanding.

In the past five years over three hundred area residents have participated in Experiment programs. For further information about the camps or other summer or academic programs abroad call the Midwest office at 432-8968 or write to 638 Hillside Drive, Highland Park.

Hank Nelson Heads Auto Association

Hank Nelson of Northwest Dodge in Des Plaines, was named a director of the Dodge Dealer Association for Chicago at a recent meeting of the 29-year-old group.

In addition to coordinating activities related to common business concerns, the association also coordinates member participation in various civic and charitable programs.

They are major supporters of the Mental Health Association's annual "Operation Snowball."

Formerly associated with the Dodge Division of Chrysler Corp., Nelson has headed Northwest Dodge for one year.

Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get. Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/4% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/4% payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Sick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

A bowl of cereal with milk is probably the most popular breakfast on those mornings when every minute counts. But on weekends when there is more time, you can serve your family a special breakfast or brunch still using versatile cereals.

Breakfast cereals offer a choice of flavors, texture and many have been fortified with vitamins and nutrients.

Be sure to read the labels when selecting cereals. Many of the breakfast products provide carbohydrates which are important for energy, protein which is essential for growth and repair of body tissues, iron which helps the body function properly, and thiamine and niacin which are two important B vitamins. Nutritional information is usually found on the side of cereal packages to help you in choosing the ones which provide a variety of nutrients.

Create With Cereals!

HONEY FRUITS AND HOT CEREAL

Sweet, spicy fruits are an easy way to add variety to hot cereals.

- 1/2 cup or 4 servings quick cooking farina or instant hot whole wheat cereal
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder, optional
- 1 can or jar (1 pound 1 ounce) fruits salad or fruit cocktail drained
- Wheat germ, optional
- Milk, cream, whipped cream, ice cream, optional

To prepare cereal, cook cereal as directed on package label, except use 1/2 cup less water than called for.

To prepare Honey Fruits, melt butter or margarine in sauce pan. Add honey and heat until bubbly. Stir in orange rind and curry powder, if used. Add drained fruits; heat. To serve, spoon cereal into one large or 4 individual serving dishes and circle fruits around edge. Sprinkle fruits, as desired, with wheat germ. Serve plain or with milk, cream, whipped cream or ice cream. Yield: 4 servings.

CEREAL FLAKE CHERRY KUCHEN

This moist cherry coffee cake has a rich crunchy topping of cereal flakes.

- 2/3 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup (packed) brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2/3 cup butter or margarine
- 4 cups corn, oat or wheat flakes crushed to make 2 cups crumbs
- 3 cups prepared biscuit mix
- 2 eggs beaten
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1 can (1 pound 5 ounce) cherry pie filling

Combine 1/3 cup granulated sugar, brown sugar and salt. Using a pastry blender, cut in 1/3 cup butter or margarine until it is evenly mixed. Stir in cereal crumbs. Sprinkle 1/2 of the cereal mixture in even layer over bottom of greased 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Combine biscuit mix and remaining 1/3 cup granulated sugar. Using pastry blender, cut remaining 1/3 cup butter or margarine into mixture until it is crumbly. Add eggs and milk; stir just until dough is smooth. Spoon batter in even layer over cereal in pan. Spoon pie filling in even layer over dough. Sprinkle top with 1/2 of the cereal mixture. Using spoon or spatula, fold crumbs through dough and fruit to make swirls. Sprinkle top with remaining cereal mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 40 minutes. Serve warm or cool. Yield: 12 servings.

HI-PROTEIN CEREAL PANCAKE STACK WITH PEACH RASPBERRY SAUCE

Hi-Protein cereals add flavor and texture making these pancakes especially good tasting.

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 packages (10 ounce each) frozen sliced peaches, defrosted
- 1 package (10 ounce) frozen red raspberries, defrosted
- 2 cups high protein cereal (regular or presweetened) crushed to make 1 cup crumbs
- 1 cup prepared pancake mix
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1/4 cup cooking oil or melted shortening
- 1 package (3 ounce) cream cheese, room temperature
- 1/2 pint (1 cup) dairy sour cream

To prepare fruit sauce, drain fruits, save syrup. Mix together 1/4 cup sugar and cornstarch. Add syrup and blend well. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened and clear. Add fruits, mix carefully and warm. Reserve.

To prepare cream filling, beat cream cheese until smooth. Stir in sour cream. Reserve.

To prepare pancakes, combine cereal, pancake mix and the remaining sugar. Add milk, beaten eggs and oil or melted shortening; mix well. Prepare 6 large pancakes.

For each pancake, pour 1/2 cup batter onto a hot griddle; cook until underside is brown, edges dry and top full of bubbles. Turn; cook second side. To keep pancake warm until all are cooked, cover with aluminum foil and place in very slow oven (250 degrees).

To serve, spread top of 5 hot pancakes with cream filling mixture. Stack on serving plate and top with 6th pancake. Spoon a small amount of Peach Raspberry Sauce over the cakes. Cut in wedges. Serve with additional sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

SHREDDED WHEAT CHEESE PIE

Shredded wheat, onions and cheese give a unique combination of textures and flavors. Any leftovers make good snacks served cold.

- 1 package (11 ounce) pie crust mix
- 1 cup half and half (half milk, half cream)
- 1 cup milk
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 3 cups thinly sliced onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup coarsely crushed shredded wheat
- 1 cup shredded process American cheese (about 1/4 pound)

Prepare pie crust mix as directed on package label. Roll dough on lightly floured board into a circle 1 inch larger in diameter than a 10-inch quiche dish or 9-inch pie plate. Fit crust into dish. Then, in a mixing bowl, combine half and half, milk, eggs, salt and nutmeg; beat slowly until smooth. Cook onion in butter or margarine until tender but not brown. Arrange alternate layers of cereal, onion and cheese in crust making 2 layers of each. Carefully pour egg mixture over filling. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until custard is set, about 25 minutes. Cool 10 minutes before cutting in wedges.

Yield 6 servings.

'Mother's In The Kitchen'

Key To Natural Nutritious Meals

by FRANK HECKART

If your cooking talents rank somewhere between the Galloping Gourmet and Adelle Davis, but closer to the latter, "Mother's in the Kitchen" is the book you've been waiting for.

"Mother's in the Kitchen" is a new cookbook designed to help mothers plan and prepare nourishing meals using the best quality products available.

Sponsored by the Le Leche League, the book contains a collection of nutritious recipes submitted and compiled by members. Some of the recipes have been altered to improve their food value, and all of them have been tested at least once by the editors.

Recipes using prepared mixes and package foods have been deliberately eliminated from "Mother's in the Kitchen." The book encourages homemakers to use foods in as close to their natural state as possible.

Most of the entries are relatively easy to prepare and fall into the "good basic recipe" category.

Most of the recipe ingredients can be found on the kitchen shelves thus eliminating costly trips to the store, said a Le Leche spokesman.

Topics of general interest are also included to guide homemakers. For example, if you know liver is good for you but are convinced you hate it, there's information entitled "How to be a liver-lover."

MODERATION IS the key. The book suggests saving that first chicken liver, then serve it one day disguised as an hors d'oeuvre. Later, you can work up to preparing calves liver which has the lightest flavor.

In the meat and entree category attention is devoted to ground meat, liver, variety meats and seafood along with a chapter including chicken, beef, pork, veal and lamb.

Breads, desserts and vegetables, salads, soups and stews are covered in three separate sections.

The dessert recipes are noticeably different from those found in a gourmet book, however; they are nutritionally beneficial.

Fresh fruit is recommended, but for those who demand traditional sweets there's Fluffy Stuff, Low Calorie Quick Tortoni or Cranberry Pie. You're certain to find a nutritious goodie among the 70 offerings.

"Mother's in the Kitchen" can be purchased from area Le Leche League members for $3.50.

The following recipes have been selected from the new cookbook.

HAMBURGER CHOP SUEY

1 pound hamburger
1 onion, cut up
1 cup celery, cut up
1 can (1-lb.) bean sprouts, drained.
1 can (4-oz.) mushrooms
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup hot water
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 to 1/2 cup soy sauce, to taste
Chinese noodles or rice

In a skillet or electric fry pan brown the hamburger slowly, so you don't have to use any fat. When the pan is moist enough, add the chopped onion and celery and brown well. Add the bean sprouts; drain and add the mushrooms, saving the juice. Add the bouillon dissolved in water, then the cornstarch blended with the mushroom juice. Add soy sauce to taste. Serve over rice or Chinese noodles. Serves 4-6.

FLUFFY STUFF

1/2 cup skim milk powder
(nonfat dry milk)
1/2 cup ice water
Pinch of salt
Few drops lemon juice, optional
2 heaping teaspoons jam or preserves

In a chilled mixing bowl place skim milk powder, ice water, salt and lemon juice. Beat like fury with a chilled beater. When stiff, add one or two heaping teaspoons of jam or preserves (preferably homemade; apricot, raspberry, and blackberry are especially good) and freeze just until firm.

Variations, of course, are endless. Flavorings may be added, ground nuts (and don't overlook a little instant coffee powder for adults). This is a good way for pregnant and nursing mothers to get that little extra calcium and protein.

Whiting Is Right For Strained Budgets

Are you shopping around for foods to please champagne tastes on a beer budget? Well, welcome to the group! It is a large order, but here's what to do. Reorient your thinking — think fish — then hurry to the nearest seafood market. You'll find a sea-full of refreshing, nourishing, budget-happy products. Among them will be fish sticks and portions, many of the canned fish, and a variety of fillets and whole fish that come from a bountiful supply. Price tags don't mean a thing when it comes to good taste and nourishment in fishery products. Prices are determined by demand, ease of fishing, and supply.

Whiting are among the fish that enable you to eat like a king while pampering the budget. Whiting, caught in the cold waters off the shores of Massachusetts and Maine, are plentiful, versatile, and moderately priced. They are always sold frozen, either headed and dressed or filleted, and may be prepared in dozens of interesting, tasty ways. The average whole, dressed whiting weighs between one and four pounds. Whiting flesh is tender, lean, firm-textured, and very tasty.

Pan-frying is one of the most popular ways to prepare whiting. This method can be abused, however, unless care is taken. The general procedure to assure that pan-frying will result in excellent eating is to dip the fish in a liquid and then coat with a breading. Heat about 1/8 inch of fat in the bottom of a heavy fry pan. If the pan has a temperature control, heat to 350 degrees. Place one layer of breaded fish in the hot fat, taking care not to overload the pan and thus cool the fat. Fry until brown on one side, turn carefully, and brown the other side. Cooking time will vary with the thickness of the fish, approximately 8 to 10 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper and serve while hot and crisp.

Pan-fried Whiting

A Japanese Meal Treat

Japanese meals characteristically are simple and nutritious. Usually they consist of lean meat, pork, shrimp or fish and fresh vegetables. Those with new fondue units will enjoy the conviviality of entertaining guests with a Japanese fondue party. Cooking Shabu-Shabu is easy. Each guest dips his piece of beef or vegetable into a boiling broth. Topping off the meal is a cup of fine noodle soup made with the remaining broth. There is little work for the hostess in preparation or cleanup.

SHABU-SHABU

- 4 cups chicken or beef broth*
- 1/4 cup sherry
- 2 pounds tender boneless beef, thinly sliced
- 1 Bermuda onion, sliced
- 1/2 head Chinese cabbage, cut in segments
- 1 bunch watercress (or 1/2 pound spinach)
- 1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 2 cups fine noodles, uncooked

Pour broth and sherry into base of automatic fondue. Position tray and rack. Plug unit into outlet. Bring broth to a boil. Have beef and vegetables arranged on a platter, noodles heaped in a bowl. To serve, beef and vegetables are dipped into boiling broth and cooked to taste, then dipped in sauce. When all the meat and vegetables are eaten, add the noodles to remaining hot broth and cook until tender, about 3 minutes; serve in cups or small soup bowls. Makes 4 servings.

PONZU

(Soy and lemon sauce)
Thoroughly mix 1/2 cup soy sauce, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 teaspoon instant minced onion, and 1 or 2 dashes Tabasco. Let stand for about 30 minutes, then serve at room temperature. Makes about 1 cup.
(*If condensed soup is used, add water called for on label.)

Mini-Pies For Dessert

Like eating peanuts or popcorn, stopping with a bite of dessert calls for more willpower than most are willing to call upon. For us weaker souls, it is easier to eat a mini-pie filled with fruit than be faced with a large slice of pie. Especially good are Fried Mini-Pies filled with fruit such as strawberries or even a canned applesauce.

FRIED MINI-PIES

1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, sifted
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
4 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup ice water
1 1/2 cups sliced sweetened strawberries
3 pints corn oil

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Divide shortening into two parts. Cut half the shortening into flour mixture until it resembles cornmeal. Cut in the remaining shortening until it is the size of a pea. Sprinkle 3 tablespoons ice water over mixture. Blend lightly. (If remaining water is needed to form a ball, repeat as above.) Roll on flour board to 1/8-inch thickness. Cut into 3 1/2-inch rounds. Fill rounds with sweetened strawberries. Moisten edges well. Place a second round on top and press edges together with a fork. Turn deep fryer heat selector to 425 degrees and heat oil. Slip turnovers carefully into hot oil and fry 3 to 4 minutes or until golden brown. Turn once. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar, if desired.

(*Or use other sweetened fresh fruit, canned applesauce, etc.)

What You Don't Know Can Hurt You

About Those Fat-Controlled Diets

by JEANNE LESEM

UPI — For persons on a fat-controlled, low cholesterol diet, what you don't know can hurt you.

Perhaps no other diet in current use creates as much confusion, frustration and outright fear as this one, which is prescribed by many doctors for patients with or susceptible to heart and blood vessel disease.

Nutritionist Mary Winston spends a lot of time helping dissipate the confusion and frustration and alleviate the fears.

As a community program specialist for the American Heart Association, her duties include answering questions from the public about diet, meal planning and cooking.

In an interview, Mrs. Winston said that the greatest area of public confusion involves identifying foods with low cholesterol and saturated fat content. Saturated fats, which are mainly of animal origin, increase cholesterol levels in the blood.

Some cholesterol is necessary for good health, says the association, but too much of it in the blood encourages heart and blood vessel diseases. Cholesterol levels are increased by eating cholesterol-rich foods or by eating saturated fat which encourages the body to make cholesterol. But when polyunsaturated fats, which include most vegetable oils, are eaten, the body clears excess, newly formed cholesterol from the blood.

"WE GET MANY, many questions about imitation non-dairy coffee creamers," Mrs. Winston said, adding that the creamers, along with imitation sour cream and powdered and frozen dairy whips are not recommended because their saturated fat content can be as great or greater than the dairy foods they're meant to replace.

Mrs. Winston said laboratory tests have shown that about nine out of 10 such products are made with coconut or palm oil, which are the only vegetable oils high in saturated fats. She said most commercial baked goods and cake, cookie and pie crust mixes should be avoided because they often are made with coconut or palm oil. She said these oils are preferred by manufacturers because they're cheaper and less subject to rancidity than other vegetable oils.

A pamphlet on fat-controlled, low cholesterol meal planning is available on request from local Heart Associations affiliated with the national organization. But additional information is needed, especially by consumers who rely heavily on convenience foods.

That's because manufacturers rarely identify the source of vegetable oil or the amount used in many products besides the ones Mrs. Winston mentioned. A spot check at a Mid-town Manhattan supermarket showed this information lacking on a wide variety of frozen prepared foods, some rice mixes and combination rice and pasta mixes, bread mixes for meat, fish and poultry and an imitation crumbled bacon mix.

Margarine is another product that holds pitfalls for low cholesterol dieters. It is popularly assumed to be superior to butter and other animal fats on such diets and in some cases, it is. But Mrs. Winston said — and a supermarket visit confirmed — that many brands and types of margarine contain more hydrogenated oil than liquid oil. Hydrogenation, a process that partially solidifies the oil, also raises its level of saturation.

Mrs. Winston said the association urges shoppers to look for "liquid" as the first word on margarine labels to make sure they're getting the best product for a low cholesterol diet. She added that corn, cottonseed, soybean and safflower oil are about equally effective. Olive and peanut oils are neutral and suggested only for occasional use in salad dressing where their flavor may be preferable.

Country Pork Chops

There's pure country-kitchen inspiration in this recipe for Tomato-Topped Chops. Juicy pork chops are breaded with a combination of pancake mix, garlic salt and oregano. (Flavorful pancake mix also makes a savory coating for chicken or fish.)

Transferred to a baking dish and covered with onions and tomato sauce, the chops are baked 'til tender. It's a recipe sure to enhance your culinary reputation there'll be calls for seconds and praise for the cook!

TOMATO-TOPPED CHOPS

1/2 cup pancake mix
1 tablespoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon oregano
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon water
8 lean pork chops, 3/4-inch thick
2 medium onions, sliced 1/2-inch thick
Two 8-oz. cans tomato sauce
Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees). Place pancake mix, garlic salt and oregano in paper bag; shake to combine. Combine egg and water. Dip pork chops in egg wash, then shake, one at a time, in bag.

Brown pork chops in large skillet in hot shortening. Transfer to glass baking dish; top with onions and tomato sauce. Cover and bake in preheated oven (350 degrees) 1 hour or until tender.

Makes 4 servings.

Recipes from an American Heart Association booklet available free from local Heart Associations illustrate that a fat-controlled, low cholesterol diet need not be synonymous with deprivation. The recipes include breaded veal steak, veal scallopine in wine sauce, burgundy pot roast and even a quick and easy substitute for Hollandaise Sauce.

To make the sauce, blend 2 tablespoons of hot water into 1/2 cup of prepared mayonnaise over hot water until sauce is smooth and heated through. Stir in 1 teaspoon of lemon juice. Serve with vegetables. Makes about 1/2 cup. One and a half teaspoons of sauce is equal to 1 teaspoon of oil in your diet.

Just Peachy News

The next time you prepare English Trifle, try it this different colorful way. Spoon drained canned fruit cocktail over the Sherry or rum-flavored cake; then cover with chilled custard sauce and allow to mellow several hours in the refrigerator. Garnish with puffs of whipped cream and shivered roasted almonds before serving.

Start off your next dinner party with a frosty cold fruit cup of canned fruit cocktail flavored lightly with a little California white dinner wine and topped with a small ball of lemon sherbet.

Call it relish or salad, it's good as either. Marinate and chill drained canned cling peach halves in a tart French dressing and chill. To serve, top each peach with cole slaw made with chopped red-skinned apple, sour cream and dressing.

Here's an easy party dessert for career-homemaking gals: Combine a cup of drained cling peach slices with two or three tablespoons California Sherry wine. Chill several hours and serve over vanilla ice cream.

Morning Solution For Floating Dinner Hour

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

UPI — The floating dinner hour amounts to an everyday nightmare for the wife of many a newspaperman, bus driver, policeman, fireman, factory worker and anyone who works shifts or odd hours.

Mrs. Jacqueline Goreham, married to an editor, is one of those wives. She also is a home economist who's hit on a solution to the problem. The solution: make breakfast the big meal.

In an interview, Mrs. Goreham said she frequently serves her family a roast, potatoes and other rib-sticking victuals at breakfast.

"That's the one time I can be sure the family's together," she said. She puts the roast in an electric skillet before she goes to bed, searing the meat first and then setting the automatic cooker at 150 degrees.

Mrs. Goreham's husband, Donald J. Goreham, edits the North Valley World and North Glenn Impressions, two suburban weeklies in Denver, Colo., their home city.

The vivacious native of Ridgefarm, Ill., was in New York in her role as Mrs. U. S. Savings Bonds 1971-72 — a title bestowed on her when she and her family were finalists in the all America family search-pageant last summer.

A teacher as well as a home economist, Mrs. Goreham in the past taught nutrition for the American Heart Association.

She recommends making breakfast the main meal of the day, even if your family is fortunate enough to have working shifts that are in harmony.

"That way," she said, "You prepare the body for the drains on it through the day."

For Those With Ulcers

Duodenal or peptic ulcers plague more than 10 million men, women and children in the United States.

Along with the pain of an ulcer comes the "ulcer diet blues." An ulcer patient must cooperate with his doctor and follow an initial rigid diet plus working on a better emotional approach to life around him. Once he is on his way to recovery he can dabble in some more exotic dishes, prepared specifically for his problem. Helpful to the wife or girl friend of someone with ulcers is a collection of tasty recipes in "For Gourmets with Ulcers" by Toni Marsh Bruyere and Sidney Jean Robey (Norton). It stemmed from the need of one of the authors to cook for a French husband who developed ulcers.

Few American women cook celery, but the adventurous one who cooks for the ulcer dieter should try this recipe. Celery, when cooked, is nonacid and has a plus-alkaline factor.

CELERY CYBELE

- 1 bunch young celery
- Salt
- 1 vegetable bouillon cube
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 tablespoon butter

Wash celery, carefully scrape to remove strings, and cut off leaves. Cut celery lengthwise through heart, making 4 pieces. Cut in half, if necessary, to fit into a shallow casserole that has a cover. Arrange celery in bottom of casserole and sprinkle with salt. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water, and add only enough bouillon to cover celery. Dot with butter. Cover, and bake in 375-degree oven for one hour. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

SALMON SOUFFLE

- 2 cans (7 1/2 ounces each) salmon in water pack
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
  - 1/2 cup milk
  - 1/2 cup breadcrumbs
  - 3 eggs, separated
- Drain the fish and separate into flakes, being sure all bones and skin are removed. Mix fish with salt and lemon juice. Put the milk and bread crumbs into the top of a double boiler, and heat until well-blended. Beat the egg yolks well, then beat the egg whites until stiff. Add the fish to the milk and bread crumb mixture, then add the egg yolks, but do not overheat. Fold the egg whites into the mixture. Now spoon the mixture into a buttered baking dish. Set the dish in a pan of hot water, and bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes, or until firm. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Around The Kitchen

CAFFEINE BEVERAGES in moderation can be consumed safely by most individuals, according to a survey by the Coffee Information Institute.

EATING BREAKFAST saves both cash and calories, the University of Georgia Cooperative Extension Service advises.

Persons who skip breakfast usually make up for it later in the day eating foods higher in calories, lower in nutrition and sometimes costlier.

NUTRITION SURVEYS show vitamins A and C and calcium are lacking in the diets of many persons at all income levels. Ethel Diedrichsen, extension food and nutrition specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, says.

DARK GREEN and deep yellow vegetables are good sources of vitamin A.

NUTRITIONISTS recommend one serving of a citrus fruit or vegetable be served every day.

Wash Shelves Often

If you have a microwave oven, remember that the removable glass shelves should be washed often in warm sudsy water. Any food on glass will bake and become hard and dry as the microwaves pass through the glass. If allowed to bake for too long, the spills could become so hot while the oven is in operation that the glass will crack.

AN ACTIVE CAREER woman, Mrs. Robert Kerrigan knows the importance of starting each day with a nourishing meal. Her Buttermilk Bran Muffins are easy, yet nutritious. The original batter may be refrigerated for six weeks.

Mrs. Robert Kerrigan

A Food 'N Fashions Expert

by LOIS SEILER

As knowledgeable about food as she is about fashions is Mrs. Robert Kerrigan of Palatine. A fashion co-ordinator for Marshall Field & Co. at Woodfield, Phyllis Kerrigan also loves to cook and manages to find time for baking on weekends.

One recipe that she can make on a Saturday and use easily for breakfast on busy days is for Buttermilk Bran Muffins.

The nutritious batter contains bran, flour and buttermilk. The recipe makes about four quarts of batter which can be refrigerated for about six weeks in covered containers.

A believer in nourishing breakfasts, Phyllis arises early in the morning to prepare this meal for her family.

"The bran muffins are so simple to make," she said. "The batter is spooned into muffin tins and baked for 20 minutes."

"Unlike most bran muffins that have a coarse texture, the texture of these muffins is fine and the buttermilk makes them quite moist and light," she added.

Raisins, dates or nuts may be added to the batter, and the muffins are delicious served warm with marmalade.

Another delightful breakfast treat is Phyllis' Apple Nut Coffee Cake. She acquired this recipe from her husband Bob's mother, who lives in Iowa.

"Men especially enjoy this cake, and it is quite versatile as it may also be served for dessert," she said.

In addition to diced apple, the batter contains cold coffee and is spiced with cinnamon.

"The coffee flavor is not distinguishable in the baked cake, but simply adds to its spicy flavor," Phyllis explained.

The cake has a topping of brown sugar and chopped pecans. It can be dressed up with a dab of whipped cream, if desired.

Phyllis' favorite chocolate cake recipe is one which was created by one of her co-workers at Fields.

Buttermilk contributes to the moist texture of this moist and tender cake, and chopped nuts may be added if you wish. Phyllis frosts it with a smooth and creamy chocolate icing.

This cook was a home economics major at the University of Iowa. Two years ago she attended Harper College where she received an associate degree in fashion design.

The mother of three children, Bob, 22, Christine, 19, and Sue Ann, 13, Phyllis is an expert seamstress and tailor. She designs her own clothes and has always sewn for herself and her daughters. She also enjoys needlepoint, painting and drawing, and is a member of Chapter KI of PEO.

The family lived in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana before moving to Palatine eight years ago.

BUTTERMILK BRAN MUFFINS

- 2 cups Nabisco 100 per cent Bran
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 cup shortening
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 4 beaten eggs
- 1 quart buttermilk
- 5 cups all-purpose flour
- 5 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups Kellogg's All Bran

Combine Nabisco Bran and boiling water and cool.

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add beaten eggs and buttermilk and mix thoroughly. Add this mixture to the soaked bran.

Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Add to the Kellogg's All Bran. Stir dry mixture into liquid mixture. Mix well but do not beat. Makes four quarts batter.

Fill paper-lined muffin tins 2/3's full. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Store unused portion in refrigerator in plastic containers. If tightly covered, will keep up to six weeks. Do not stir when ready to bake. Raisins, dates or nuts may be dropped into batter in muffin cups, if desired.

APPLE NUT COFFEE CAKE

- 1 cup margarine
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 2 eggs, well-beaten
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup cold coffee
- 4 cups pared, diced apples

Cream together margarine and sugar. Add well-beaten eggs and beat well.

Sift together flour, cinnamon and baking soda. Add to batter alternately with cold coffee. Stir in apples.

Turn into a greased, 9 by 13-inch pan. Combine the following ingredients:

- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup finely-chopped pecans

Mix together and sprinkle on top of batter. Bake 50 minutes at 350 degrees. Cut in squares to serve.

KAREN SHANNON'S CHOCOLATE CAKE

- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 3 eggs
- 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- Pinch of salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder

- 1/2 cups buttermilk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 to 1 cup chopped black walnuts (optional)

Cream butter thoroughly. Slowly add sugar and continue creaming. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Beat in chocolate.

Sift flour, baking soda, salt and baking powder together. Put beater on slow speed and add flour mixture alternately with buttermilk, beginning and ending with flour. Blend in vanilla and add chopped nuts, if desired.

Turn batter into three greased and floured 9-inch layer pans or a 9 by 13-inch pan. Bake 30 to 35 minutes at 325 degrees for glass pans or 350 degrees for metal pans. Test with toothpick at 25 to 30 minutes. If toothpick comes out clean, cake is done. When cool, frost with the following:

QUICK CHOCOLATE FROSTING

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 3 squares chocolate
- 1/3 cup hot milk
- 3 cups confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/8 teaspoon salt

Melt butter and chocolate together in top of double boiler.

Stir hot milk into sugar and beat until smooth. Stir in vanilla and salt and melted chocolate mixture. Beat until smooth and thick, about five minutes. Makes enough to frost layer cake or pan cake.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

A trip to the San Diego area should include a jaunt across the San Diego Coronado Bay Bridge where you'll round a curve and see a white Victorian castle which is the Hotel Del Coronado.

Strolling through this structure, it's difficult to comprehend that it was constructed in 1888, long before the bridge made access easy to Coronado Peninsula. The story is that a railroad and ferryboat system had to be built to transport materials and craftsmen.

But, when the hotel opened that year, it was an event of national significance and thousands crowded the area, much to the delight of Elisha Babcock and H. L. Story, a couple of Middle Westerners who had a dream.

You have to see the Crown Dining Room to believe it. The sugar-pine ceiling fitted with pegs is beautifully arched and lighting fixtures, crown-shaped, are magnificent.

The food is of fitting quality although you should bring money since Del Coronado is the watering place for millionaires, movie stars and world government leaders.

A CLASSIC DISH at Del Coronado is the crown salad which is a picture and delicious. Chop a head of romaine and cut in half. Remove skin from a ripe avocado and cut in half, removing seed. Dip in lemon juice to prevent avocado from turning dark.

On two salad plates put the romaine halves cut side up and place the avocado on top. Cut avocado halves into slices about a quarter-inch thick but not quite through so they will stay together.

Trim with a strip of pimiento laid vertically on the avocado. Around the romaine place 1-inch chunks of king crab meat, a slice of tomato topped with a slice of hard-cooked egg and a rolled anchovy.

Across put 4-6 cooked shrimp (depending on size) and a lemon wedge. Serves 2 elegantly with this gourmet dressing.

CHOP FINE 3 green onions, 1 clove garlic, 1 sprig parsley. Put 2 teaspoons olive oil in a skillet over low heat. Add onions, garlic, parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ground white pepper, and 1 teaspoon seasoned salt. Cook gently (do not brown) until oil is bubbly. Cool.

In a blender, place 1 beaten egg yolk, 2 cups salad oil, 1/4 cup lemon juice, and 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar. Blend. Now add sauteed ingredients. Let dressing stand overnight in cool place. Makes 2 cups.

Cosmo's Pizza Pan

Family Affair In Old World Style

by FRAN HECKART

You won't find any flashing neon signs pointing the way to Cosmo's Pizza Pan. In fact, the average family seeking a good, but inexpensive dinner would probably pass by the little restaurant in the Westgate Park & Shop in Arlington Heights.

From the outside Cosmo's looks like any other ordinary pizzeria, but any similarity ends for those who venture through the front door. Chances are that one of the cooks will take your order, and that could be any member of the Costantino Pinto family.

Whether you order spaghetti and meatballs for four at $3.95, a cavatelli or ravioli dinner for $1.65, or a cannoli for 50 cents, the best quality Italian food possible will be served.

The Pinto family has been operating Cosmo's for about six months now and it is a complete family venture.

COSMO HAPPENS to be Costantino's (Mr. Pinto) nickname. Therefore, it seemed appropriate for the family restaurant to have his name.

Mrs. Pinto's culinary talents make Chef Boyardee look like an amateur. It's been estimated she can turn out 150 ravioli in half an hour. Mrs. Pinto's mother, who grew up in Calabria, Italy, passed her old world recipes along to her daughter. Until recently, Mrs. Pinto operated a small Italian restaurant in Chicago but is now chief cook at Cosmo's.

Mrs. Pinto specializes in sauces and noodles but can expertly prepare whatever the occasion calls for. At Christmas time cookie trays were prepared. Now that Easter is approaching, traditional Easter sweet breads will be available.

All of the noodles except the spaghetti and mostaccioli are prepared by the family in Cosmo's kitchen.

MRS. PINTO would never consider serving a cannoli that wasn't homemade or sauce from a can or even pre-packaged ground beef. All of the meat is processed by the family which includes making their own variety of sausage.

"We're really sincere about serving fresh foods honestly," said the smiling grey-haired Mrs. Pinto. "Maybe we're old-fashioned but I think most people appreciate our efforts," she added.

Her gracious hospitality captivates all ages and the customers who 'dine in' rather than 'carry out' are given a warm reception.

"We served one family the other night and the kids didn't want to go home," said Mrs. Pinto with a beaming smile.

Hearty eaters will also find Cosmo's attractive for Mrs. Pinto doesn't believe in portion control. One of their individual lasagna dinners would easily satisfy two average appetites.

THERE IS complete family cooperation at Cosmo's. All of the children, ranging in age from 15 to 31, are learning the secrets of Mrs. Pinto's traditional cooking. All of her preparations are delicately, yet expertly seasoned and each dish a distinctive flavor of its own.

"We all cook and we all clean," said Mrs. Pinto speaking of her family assistants. "Everyone carries his share of the work."

The eldest daughter is Antoinette Maioni, who manages to find time for the business even though she and her husband have four active children.

According to Mrs. Pinto, 28-year-old Silvio is the "right hand man" helping out where and whenever needed.

Another daughter, Bernadette, and her husband, Tom Stoecher, also spend every spare moment at Cosmo's. Bernadette is becoming well known for her homemade soups which are included everyday with the luncheon specials. She also assumes the role of promotions and public relations girl.

EIGHTEEN-YEAR-OLD Andrew is often called "The Health Department" by his family. It seems he is the self-appointed efficiency expert and makes certain everything passes a white-glove test. He is also considered the chief delivery boy.

High school limits the time that twins Mary and Joseph Pinto can spend at the restaurant, but they participate whenever possible. Mary usually handles the telephone orders while Joseph lends his talents to the pizza corner.

"Joseph makes the most beautiful pizzas," said Mrs. Pinto, "so we call him our Pizza King."

The pizzas from Cosmo's are truly works of art. Although Mrs. Pinto contends they were originally served as appetizers in the old country, her thick crust pizza with sauce over the cheese would be considered a meal today.

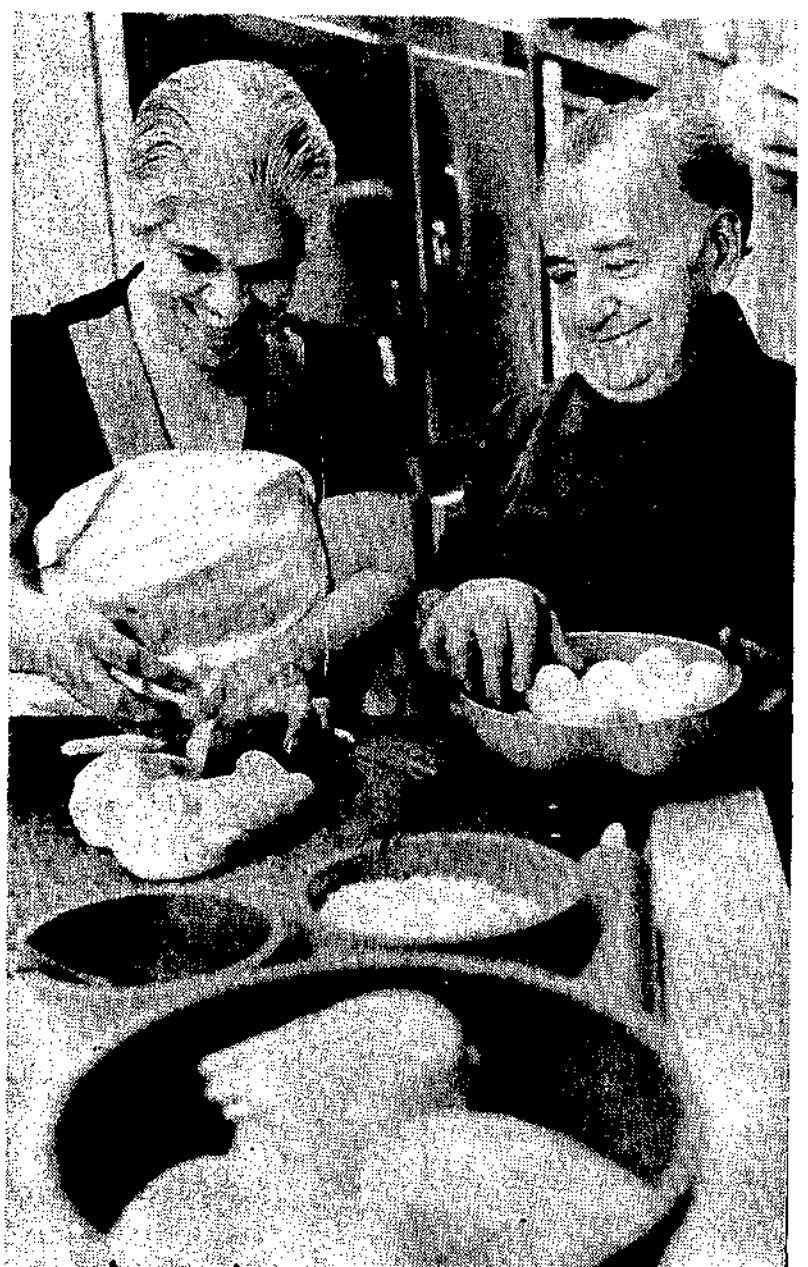

THE SAUCE is poured over the cheese so it doesn't burn. Since most consumers are used to the ordinary type pizza, they must specify if they prefer a double thick crust, pan pizza.

When I accepted a recent invitation for dinner at Cosmo's, Mrs. Pinto advised "not eating a thing all day." Following a large bowl of chicken soup, deluxe salad and pizza, we moved on to the entree: ravioli, cavatelli, lasagna, sausage, and bracciale.

As I was considering what arrangements could be made to have myself rolled out of the restaurant, I realized Mrs. Pinto wasn't kidding when she said, "Most people go to an expensive Italian restaurant expecting to find the kind of food we serve at Cosmo's."

THE FRAGRANCE of traditional Easter sweet bread will soon be wafting from Cosmo's Pizza Pan in the Westgate Park & Shop. Mr. Pinto (Cosmo) assists his wife as she carefully braids bread dough around hard-boiled eggs.

Franfare

by Fran Heckart

While Mrs. Nixon was off dipping her chopsticks into goldfish with white sauce and hair vegetable soup, we at home were still are trying to disguise hamburger one more time.

Statistics show that meat prices are the highest in 20 years. Experts say we can expect a seven per cent increase in family purchasing power this year. Thus, with more money in their pockets, more housewives will compete for the better, more expensive cuts of meat.

I'm no expert or housewife, but so far, I've not been aware of any increase in my purchasing power, nor can I afford T-bone steak, one of those more expensive cuts of meat that I'm supposed to have more money to compete for.

I have resorted to what food retailers call "selective buying," a consumer trend that demonstrates a sporadic resistance to the high meat prices. This simply means consumers seek the least expensive meat cuts . . . or buy more ground beef instead of steak.

CLIFFORD BOWES, a Chicago meat consultant, offers advice for stretching meat dollars in his book, "How to Save Money on Meats."

Money can be saved by controlling cooking temperature, according to Bowes, who recommends 275 and 300 degrees for cooking roasts.

For example, a roast cooked at 400 degrees loses 29.1 per cent of its total weight while same size roast cooked at 275 degrees loses only 12.1 per cent. The difference in percentage of weight lost is 17 per cent (29 minus 12). This means that 17 cents out of every dollar spent for the roast was wasted by cooking it at high temperature.

Meats cooked at low temperatures are always more tender, but there are other factors affecting tenderness. Meat is usually more tender served hot than cold. And meat cooked to medium doneness is usually more tender than meat cooked to well done, regardless of how high the grade is.

THE MORE IDEAS you have for using ground meat, the more money you can save says Bowes. Meat pies, casseroles and meat loaves are just basic suggestions. Don't be afraid to use your imagination or take another look at that "hundreds of ways to cook hamburger" book that's been tucked away.

For good nutrition at a low cost, Bowes' book suggests livers, kidneys, hearts and similar meats. In a recipe calling for beef kidneys, you can usually substitute pork, lamb or veal kidneys.

Other informative chapters include detailed information on carving, meat extenders, meat for freezing, care of meat and cooking hints.

The book also suggests serving more poultry, particularly turkey. On a cost-per-serving basis, it's one of our best buys today. An added benefit of poultry is the variety of ways in which it can be prepared.

HEAVIER TURKEYS are generally the most economical since they cost less per pound. You'll get more meat for your money and lower the cost per serving.

"How to Save Money on Meats," is available at most area supermarkets or may be purchased by sending $1 to Clifford Bowes, Consultant on Meats, 919 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60611.

Girl Scouts Become Cookie Salesmen

What is a Girl Scout? She is many things, but about this time each year, the little ladies in green become energetic cookie salesmen.

Starting tomorrow, doorbells all over these northwest suburbs will ring and Girl Scouts will take orders for five different kinds of cookies. There will be the perennial favorites chocolate mints, Savannahs, Scot-teas and chocolate and vanilla sandwich cremes. This year a new chocolate sandwich cookie with a creamy fudge filling called choco-fudge will make an appearance.

Though orders are being taken now, delivery will not be until April 17 to 21. Family-size boxes will sell for $1.

Last year 330,000 boxes were sold in this area. It is hoped that this year sales will exceed that in order to meet the rising costs of building, maintaining and operating the Girl Scout camping program.

Ten cents on each box is retained by the individual troop making the sale and 47½ cents goes to the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County for operating Happy Hollow and Norwesco camps as well as the area day camp program.

Area cookie sales are under the supervision of Council cookie chairman Mrs. James Mephan of Palatine. Assisting her are co-Council vice chairmen Mrs. William G. Mutert and Mrs. G. Ferguson, both of Mount Prospect. For further information on sales in your area, call Mrs. Mephan at 358-9258.

SALES IN THE individual suburbs are under the direction of community chairmen. They are: Mrs. Vernon Clausen, Arlington Heights; Mrs. G. William Mohn, Palatine; Mrs. Clifford Boxleitner, Mount Prospect; Mrs. Richard Wallhausen, Rolling Meadows; Mrs. D. Gassero, Elk Grove Village; Mrs. Gene Richmond, Schaumburg; Mrs. A. Raupp, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove; Mrs. W. Lauf, Prospect Heights and Mrs. Ora J.

Royal, Des Plaines.

Though Girl Scout cookies usually lead a hand-to-mouth-existence, here's a suggestion to appeal to Mom. Buy a few extra boxes and tuck them in the freezer. They freeze well and this year the package wrap has been changed to substantially lengthen their storage life. Keep them on hand to use in one or two of these tempting desserts.

SANDWICH CREME TORTE

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
7/8 cup sugar
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup finely chopped nutmeats, (optional)
2¼ cups crushed vanilla sandwich cremes (chill before crushing into crumbs)

2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
3 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon salt

Grease wax paper line, then grease and flour two 8 or 9-inch round baking pans. Beat butter until soft. Gradually add sugar and beat until fluffy. Beat in egg yolks, vanilla and nutmeats. Combine crushed cookies, baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Whip egg whites and 1/8 teaspoon salt until stiff; fold into crumb-creamed mixture. Pour batter into prepared pans. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes. Remove from pans; cool on wire rack. Place raspberry jam or custard filling between layers and top with whipped cream. This can also be frosted with caramel icing. Yield: 12 servings.

CHOCOLATE

REFRIGERATOR ROLL

1½ cups whipping cream
¼ cup confectioners sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
20 chocolate mint cookies
Beat together cream, sugar and vanilla until stiff. Spread about 1 tablespoon of whipped cream mixture on each mint cookie. Put together in stacks of 4 or 5. Chill 15 minutes.

Lay stacks on edge of plate or cookie sheet to make one long roll. Frost outside of roll with remaining whipped cream mixture. Freeze 3 hours or until firm. Cut roll diagonally at 45-degree angle. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

COOKIE SOUFFLE

1 cup milk, scalded
12 Scot-tea cookies, broken
4 egg yolks, beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
Dash of salt
Chocolate sauce

Pour milk over cookies in top of double boiler. Add well-beaten yolks and cook over hot water until thick; cool. Add vanilla and stiffly beaten egg whites and salt. Pour into a 1-quart baking dish set in pan of warm water. Bake in preheated oven at 325 degrees about 1 hour. Serve with chocolate sauce. Yield: 8 servings.

GIRL SCOUT COOKIES can be incorporated into some tasty desserts. Prospect, test the easy recipes before sales begin tomorrow. They are members of Troop 708.

Silence Broken On School, Teacher Salary Proposals

Teachers' salary and benefit proposals for the 1972-73 school year have been released by both the High School Dist. 211 School Board and the teachers, three weeks after their first negotiations meeting.

This is the first time the negotiating teams have publicized the salary-benefit proposals in the district's three-year bargaining history. In the past, information on negotiations has been released only at the time of settlement.

The board has proposed holding the salary increases at five per cent because of "deficit financing." However, the teachers want higher and broader salary increases along with more voice in district affairs.

During the coming months the two teams will negotiate to bring their proposals closer together until they reach a settlement. If they reach an impasse, outside help, such as a mediator or a fact finder, will be called in to recommend solutions.

IN THEIR FIRST three bargaining sessions the two teams have debated whether to break their "closed" tradition and issue news releases during the negotiations process. This week the teachers, who favor open sessions, presented their preliminary negotiations package to the Herald. The board's team followed suit after they learned of the teachers' action.

The teachers want to open the sessions because they "want the public to know we aren't just interested in money," according to Jerry Petersen, head of the Dist. 211 Education Association. "Most of our demands are designed to improve education."

Board Pres. Robert Creek argues that the board's team has agreed to open the sessions after April 15.

"This would have given us 60 days to negotiate in good faith. And it gives the teachers plenty of time to talk about the issues before the school year ends."

Whether the two teams will publicize the negotiation proceedings again before April 15 will be discussed at a closed meeting Monday night. Creek termed the teachers' release of their negotiations proposal "totally unethical."

THE OPEN SESSION issue was brought up as a "ground rules" proposal. The negotiators will discuss neither salaries nor benefits until the ground rules are set.

The teachers' salary-benefit proposal is the product of questionnaires, opinion polls and meetings of the teachers. The survey process was conducted by the Education Association, which represents 80 per cent of the district's teachers.

The teachers' package includes more than 30 separate proposals. These proposals call for a greater voice in policy decisions, better salary and insurance benefits, more leeway for association activities, broader negotiations and improved teaching conditions.

The board's package, on the other hand, deals primarily with salary issues. The teachers have charged that the board has refused to negotiate "working conditions" in the past. However, according to Creek the board has tried to limit the negotiations to working condition items that involve money. Other working condition items are reserved for committee study and subsequent board action.

IN ORDER TO meet a tight budget, the board has proposed keeping the present salary schedule. The teachers' added year of experience would move them up one step or up five per cent. In addition, the board proposes holding 20 per cent of the teachers at their present level so the top 10 per cent of the teachers can get an extra merit raise. For the sake of stability, the board also proposes the new salary contract be effective for three years, with an option to negotiate the schedule's base salary.

The board has also called for paid workshops but no reimbursement for tuition expenses. The board team contends the teachers should not be given flat credit for all teaching experience and that extra experience should be in a teacher's specific subject area.

The teachers, on the other hand, want higher salaries with a cost of living increment, credit for related non-teaching experience and fewer steps before a maximum salary is reached. They also want to be paid for personal leave, extra duty assignments and workshops. A salary boost has been proposed for summer employees and special positions. And the teachers have asked for district paid medical and dental insurance coverage.

APART FROM the salary issues, the teachers have asked the board and the administration to develop a clearer definition of their duties, their work day and evaluation procedures. In order to improve education, they feel it is important to reduce the number of students in each classroom and to release teachers for training workshops.

The teachers also feel that as an integral part of the school operation they should have more of a voice in policy decisions — on curriculum revisions, instruction restraints, building changes and other areas of mutual concern.

At the bargaining table the teachers want to be able to negotiate more items, and if no agreement is reached they want to be able to call in an arbitrator who may issue a binding settlement.

Ex-New Yorker Calls Schaumburg Home—And Likes It

'Big City' Gal Tries The 'Quiet' Life

by JERRY THOMAS

Librarian Mary Ann Meents wears a silver whistle around her neck. It's there because she is a Schaumburg Township Public Library employee only part of the time. The larger part of her day is spent as a physical education teacher at St. Hubert's School, Hoffman Estates.

Mary Ann, who was born in Ashkum, Ill., tried life in the big city after completing her education at the College of St. Francis and Northern Illinois University.

"Much as I enjoy nightlife and people-watching in New York, Schaumburg has worked out better for me, as a home," said Mary Ann who moved there in August.

SHE SHARES AN apartment at the Village-In-The-Park apartments on Golf Road and is looking forward to warmer weather so she can get to know her neighbors. Mary Ann said the central location of the apartment complex and sensible rental made her choose Village-In-The-Park.

"It lacks only one thing and that's tennis courts," said Mary Ann, an avid player.

"The Conant High School courts serve now and maybe when I get to know people in this area I can get a partner and join a club," she added.

Spare time is something Mary Ann doesn't have. She teaches second through eighth grade at St. Hubert's and noted that physical education is a perfect vehicle for individualized education.

When she's not at the school, she works at the library.

But this doesn't mean Mary Ann spends all her time with her nose in a book. She loves most sports and can be found at two of her favorite people-watching spots, Chicago's Civic Center and O'Hare Airport.

LIVING AT Village-In-The-Park has one drawback, Mary Ann admitted.

"It's so close to all my students' homes they often drop in unexpectedly. I love them but I get so little time at home I'm rather jealous of it," she added.

Mary Ann loves the feeling of drowning in music and with the volume up and the headset on she tunes in to folksingers; the Chicago School of rock, and John Denver, her favorite performer.

Her ideal date would be an autumn afternoon spent playing ball and walking in the woods, then cooking hot dogs over a bonfire.

Some of the things she likes are museums, Paul Newman, antiques, Schmausers, and steak with mushrooms.

Mary Ann dislikes sugary sweet people, olive green, and people who let their dogs run loose.

UNFULFILLED ambitions?

She'd like to live in Australia, travel across the United States and try sky diving.

"But the chicken side of me would probably win out and I'd settle for a course in gourmet cooking," she admitted ruefully.

Right now Mary Ann is taking courses in library technology.

Working with youngsters, whether it's on the gym floor, in a resource center or on an academic level, is gratifying, said Mary Ann.

Her approach to physical education is distinctly individualized. She relates fitness exercise to academic problems like mathematics.

"Think of it this way. Three plus two in math equals five. In my gym class I use that same equation but each student gets a different answer, but still the right one for him." Mary Ann explained each has two legs and is asked to perform three feats such as moving, on feet, quickly. That's where the 3 plus two comes in," she said.

Right now Schaumburg has everything Mary Ann needs but if you hear that familiar phrase, "Tennis anyone?" it could be Mary Ann Meents doing the asking.

'You Can Have Car,' Goodbye

People at Village Standard Service Station, Higgins and Barrington roads, had an extra car Tuesday afternoon, and Hoffman Estates police were looking for the 28-year-old Army veteran who left the car behind.

Police said the man, later identified as Jack W. Townsend whose last known address was in Cicero, drove his 1969 Nova into the station and told the attendant "You can have the car, good-bye."

Townsend then started to walk towards the nearby Northwest Tollway. He stopped long enough to call a cab. At the same time, employees at the station called the police. Police said they learned the cab was headed for O'Hare International Airport. They quickly searched the car and found a knife, some ammunition, and the back of a clock.

Not knowing what to suspect, police said they notified the FBI and sky marshals at O'Hare. Townsend was never seen at the airport.

Police thought the Chicago and suburbs hunted the man during the afternoon and early evening, but with no results. Early Tuesday evening, Townsend turned himself in to a Chicago police officer, reportedly saying "House me."

No charges were filed against him, but police said an investigation revealed he had received psychiatric treatment in Wisconsin. Townsend was scheduled to receive a thorough examination in Chicago yesterday.

Village Panel To Decide On Village Hall Renovation

A recommendation on whether Hoffman Estates should spend $10,000 to $12,000 to renovate the village hall on Illinois Boulevard will be determined by an ad hoc village board committee tonight.

The money would be required to bring the building into conformance with safety code standards. Trustee Bruce Lind, chairman of the committee, has said the building almost certainly will be closed by inspectors as soon as village officials move to the new village hall, and will stay closed until renovations are complete.

"If those figures are true, the village might pick up the tab," said Lind yesterday. "At this point, my guess is that it will not be torn down, and will remain in the hands of the village government," he added. It has been suggested the building should be razed if renovating cost is prohibitive. Estimates for repairs were lower than anticipated.

If the building is remodeled, one civic organization in the village likely would be named as a sort of tenant landlord, said Lind.

SEVERAL GROUPS have expressed interest in using the office and meeting space in the building. The landlord organization would be responsible for scheduling other groups, and all of them would contribute to cleaning and maintenance costs. However, the village manager and administration still would retain ultimate control over the structure, Lind said.

The new village hall, under construction on Higgins Road west of Golf Road, is being completed at an impressive rate, said Lind. Workers are now doing interior tasks, installing drywall, lights and floor tiles.

Officials still are anticipating a move to the new structure about June 1, said Lind. The municipal building committee has been developing plans for a dedication ceremony, and details will be announced as soon as confirmation on a principal speaker is received, he said. Lind declined to identify the hoped-for speaker, but said it is a state official.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 89 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli plane and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced withdrawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

Speculative buyers appeared to invade the market to push it to its highest levels of 1972. The Dow Jones industrial average reached 935.43 as turnover reached 23,670,000 shares. Volume totaled 20,320,000 shares as advances topped declines 913 to 573 among the 1,786 issues crossing the tape. Prices were higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Carl A. Rupert

Funeral services for Carl A. Rupert, 66, of 300 E. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights, who died Friday in Edgewater Hospital, Chicago, after a short illness, were held Monday in Lahn and Son Funeral Home, Chicago. The Rev. Donald Hobbs of Prospect Heights Community Church officiated. Interment was in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mr. Rupert, a resident of Prospect Heights, for 18 years, was founder and president of the Rupert Parachute Co., Wheeling. A subsidiary, Rupert Safety Belts, specializes in belts used in racing cars.

For many years, Mr. Rupert was a parachute stuntman, performing at fairs and other public exhibitions. A family member said he claimed the low altitude record for indoor parachute jumping. This resulted from a 65-foot descent by parachute after he had jumped girders at the 92-foot level in the International Amphitheater in St. Louis in 1942.

During World War II, Mr. Rupert manufactured and tested parachutes for the Army. He was also a pilot and, at one time, a racing sponsor. He made his last parachute jump in 1952 and thereafter concentrated on his business ventures.

Surviving are his widow, Glory, nee Swanson; son, William of St. Louis, Mo.; daughters, Mrs. Lynda Calihan of Wheeling, Susan and Lori Rupert, both at home; four grandchildren; brothers, Fred Ruprecht of Arlington Heights and Ray Ruprecht of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and sisters, Mrs. Mattie Walter of Alliance, Ohio, Mrs. Betty Grosser of River Forest, Ill., and Mrs. Edith Thompson of Naples, Fla.

Jessamine Guerrieri

Mrs. Jessamine Guerrieri, 70, nee Izzo, of 519 S. Dwyer, Arlington Heights, died Tuesday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Visitation is today in Friedrichs Funeral Home, 320 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect. Funeral Mass will be said at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, 432 S. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights. Burial will be in Mount Carmel Cemetery, Hillside.

Mrs. Guerrieri, a resident of Arlington Heights, for 14 years, was a retired cashier for Simpson Clothing Co. in Chicago, with 35 years of service.

Preceded in death by her husband, Anthony, survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Madelyn (George) Claccio of Arlington Heights; three grandchildren, and three sisters, Mrs. Rae (Dr. Joseph) Shea Rose and Joanna Izzo, all of Chicago.

Harry T. Drayson

Mass of the Angels for Harry T. Drayson, 6 months, infant son of Harry and Rita, nee Wagner, Drayson of Arlington Heights, who died suddenly Monday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, was said yesterday morning in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights. Burial was in St. Joseph Cemetery, River Grove.

Besides his parents, survivors include five sisters, Patricia, Lisa, Marika, Jeana and Shella Drayson, and maternal grandparents, Victor and Elizabeth Wagner of Chicago.

Arrest, Charge 3 In Morning Raid

An early morning raid on a Schaumburg house Tuesday resulted in the arrest of three persons, two of them on felony drug charges.

The raid took place at 209 S. Carver Ln., Schaumburg at 8:15 a.m.

In the raid yesterday police arrested John Lytle, 21, 18 Glenbrook Dr., Prospect Heights, and Cathlyn Foran, 19, 209 S. Carver Ln., Schaumburg and charged them with possession of a controlled substance, a narcotic, and possession of marijuana.

William Hickey, 22, also of the Carver Lane address, was charged with keeping a disorderly house and violation of the firearms owner's identification act. Police said a quantity of ammunition was found in the house.

Lytle and Miss Foran were released on $5,000 bond. Hickey was released on $1,000 bond. All three are scheduled to appear in court at Schaumburg on March 8.

In two unrelated court cases Tuesday, Judge Marvin Peters granted continuances to a former Schaumburg policeman charged with theft and a Schaumburg couple who were arrested last week on narcotics charges.

Schaumburg Detective William King was credited with making the arrests.

THE CASE against former Schaumburg policeman William Heidt was continued until April 4 in Judge Peter's courtroom. He is charged in connection with the theft of more than $1,100 in merchandise from Sears Roebuck and Co.'s Woodfield store last summer. The case has been in court since last July. No reason was given for yesterday's continuance.

In another matter Peters also continued a hearing into drug charges brought against a second Schaumburg couple.

Both William Vick, 21, and his wife Nancy, 19, of 1106 Mercury Ln., Schaumburg, requested the services of the public defender, but Peters denied the request on the grounds that the couple was not indigent. Both Vick and his wife told the judge they were employed, but had to borrow money to pay their bond.

The pair are charged with possession of a controlled substance, hashish, delivery of a controlled substance, hashish, and delivery of cannabis.

The couple allegedly sold police more than $600 in hashish prior to arrest. The case was continued until March 28 in Niles.

Mass Transit Planning Meet Saturday In Towers Hotel

Though the interest of 270 suburban communities in six counties will be represented, only six or seven municipalities will send representatives to a Saturday meeting to discuss formation of a single mass transit district that would exclude the City of Chicago.

The meeting at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel is being organized by Arlington Heights Village Pres Jack Walsh to test support for the formation of a single transit district that Walsh hopes would put suburban communities on a more equal footing with Chicago in securing funds for mass transit.

Results of the meeting among top officials from key communities in Cook, Lake, DuPage, Kane, McHenry and Will counties will be communicated to the officers of other municipalities in the six-county region.

It was not known which communities would attend.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Village Board Feb. 21 adopted a resolution in support of a single suburban mass transit district with a stipulation that representation on the governing board of any such district should be on a one-man-one-vote basis.

The Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System (CMATS) bill would create a single metropolitan mass transit district including the Chicago Transit Authority.

The bill, which has had the strong backing of the Chicago and North Western Ry., proposes a three-member governing panel. One member would be appointed by the governor, a second named by the mayor of Chicago, and a third by the governor from a list of nominees suggested by the county boards of the six counties.

Walsh has said the mayors Saturday may decide to do nothing about creating the new transit district or may agree to pursue sub-regional mass transit authorities if they do not think a single, six-county district is feasible.

Police Hearing Off To March 16

The hearing into disciplinary charges filed against Schaumburg policeman Raymond T. Kwiek has been continued until March 16 at the request of Kwiek's attorney.

The continuance was granted after D. Martin J. Coniglio, chairman of the Schaumburg Fire and Police Commission, received a letter from Kwiek's attorney, Arthur R. Loewy, stating he would be out of town for the scheduled hearing last Thursday.

The commission granted the continuance, and added Kwiek's suspension from the Schaumburg Police Department will remain in effect.

In the letter requesting the continuance, Loewy also requested specifics of the charges made against Kwiek by Police Chief Martin J. Conroy when he was suspended on Feb. 1, 1972. He also asked for a list of witnesses to be called during the hearing.

THE COMMISSION in a letter to Loewy, said they had turned his requests for further information over to Schaumburg Village Atty. Jack Siegel.

Neither Kwiek or Conroy was present at the brief hearing, which was held to formally grant the continuance request.

The charges against Kwiek have been listed as various violations of departmental rules and regulations. No further information has been made available in the matter.

Judge Dismisses Drug Charges Against Pair

Drug charges against two young men were dropped by Judge George J. Zimmerman yesterday in the Circuit Court in Schaumburg after the judge sustained a motion to suppress evidence in the case.

Guy Coffey and Michael Corral were charged with possession of controlled substance, violation of the hypodermic needle act and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. They were arrested after Schaumburg police observed a car in which they were riding failed to signal while turning. There were two juvenile females in the car at the time of the arrest.

Evidence pertaining to the case and the search of the car were ruled inadmissible because the search was undertaken without probable cause.

Two other unrelated drug cases were continued in court yesterday. In one case, two men who are charged with possessing more than 15 pounds of marijuana, the largest amount ever confiscated at one time in Schaumburg were granted a delay in their trial. Joseph Buga, 27, and Louis Bonetta, 29, are now scheduled to appear on April 5.

The second case to be continued involved Johnny Lee Williams of St. Louis who was charged with possession of a controlled substance after police stopped his car last month near Woodfield. Williams' case was continued to May 3.

THE FIRST STEP a good cook should follow when using a Girl Scout Cookie recipe is to order cookies during the sale that starts Friday. Scouts Sue Kissam, Tracey Stanley and Peggy Foote, of the Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park area community units, try their hand at a cookie soufflé, one of the recipes cookie buyers will receive with their orders this year.

Salesmanship Is A Girl Scout Talent

Salesmanship is not one of the Girl Scout badge achievements but it's a skill some 1,250 Girl Scouts from the Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park area are determined to master during the March 3-12 Cookie Sale.

Mrs. Gene Richmond of Hoffman Estates, project chairman, said this year's Girl Scout Cookie Sale will involve 45 troops. Scouts at the junior, senior and cadet levels will be selling Friday after 4 p.m. taking orders for cookies.

This year, a new cookie — a cocoa fudge — has been added to the traditional cookies sold.

The Girl Scouts also will hand out recipes that use Girl Scout cookies.

Service Unit Cookie Sale chairmen are Mrs. Robert Bruns of Schaumburg, Mrs. Ralph Walter of Hoffman Estates, Mrs. Thomas Krick of Hoffman Estates and Mrs. Nelson Anker of Schaumburg.

During the period between Friday and March 12, Girl Scouts will only take orders. Delivery of cookies will take place April 18-27.

Proceeds from the sale combat fee costs for troop activities and programs on a local and national level. Funds from this sale and others are used to purchase camping equipment, maintain camps and to establish camperships for girls.

Reading Skills To Be Topic Of PTA

Parents who come to school Tuesday, when the Everett Dirksen School PTA has planned a program on reading skills, will learn how to help their children at home.

Jo Telford, Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 reading consultant, will give parents tips on what they can do at home to improve reading skills, comprehension and general creativity.

She will also discuss and demonstrate the reading equipment used in the schools and explain the work plans used by teachers.

The 8 p.m. meeting will be held in the school gym. Dirksen School is located at 116 W. Beech Dr., Schaumburg. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Jones Member Of State Inspection Team

Mrs. Mary Kay Jones, guidance counselor with Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54, was a member of a team of visitors representing the state office of public instruction at Kankakee School Dist. 111 last week.

The team was part of the state evaluation program inspecting all schools receiving state reimbursement for occupational programs, under an Illinois Division of Vocational and Technical Education pilot program.

Bike Auction To Be Held At Shop Center

A bike auction to benefit the Hoffman Estates Teen Club, will be held 1 to 3 p.m. March 11 in the parking lot of Golf-Rose Shopping Center, Golf and Roselle roads, Hoffman Estates.

The Hoffman Estates Youth Commission is working with the club to plan the auction. From 15 to 20 bikes, lost and unclaimed since the last bike auction, will be offered for sale by auctioneer Bob Kaplan, club treasurer.

Rago Dedicates Career To Youths

by MARCIA KRAMER

Donald C. Rago didn't have a particularly difficult childhood.

But he realizes that many other kids did, and that kids growing up nowadays face the same types of problems his generation did but with a few added complications.

And because of that, Rago has dedicated his late-blossoming career to working with youth, helping them to deal with, and hopefully overcome, the trials and tribulations of growing up.

"It's a freaky world," he says. "What is the role of being a kid today? What is the role of being a parent today? These are questions that have to be dealt with."

RAGO IS IN a position to work with young people as executive director of the Palatine Township Youth Committee.

He's in his second week in that position, which also involves overseeing operations of The Bridge, the youth services bureau which assists young people in Palatine, Inverness, Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Barrington.

Rago's approach to youth problems is simple: He doesn't tell anyone what to do.

"One of my basic premises is to never make a decision for a kid," he said. "It's not legitimate to come in and say, 'You're right, you're wrong.' What you have to do is say, 'This is what's going on, now you'll have to decide how to deal with it.'"

RAGO SEES the problems involving youths, such as drugs, runaways and juvenile delinquency, as symptomatic of larger problems.

"Kids sometimes feel they're isolated in a vacuum," he said. "But they're attached to the family structure, the school structure and all sorts of institutional structures, whether they like it or not.

"All of these things interact on their lives every day."

Part of the solution to the problems can be gained through communication, Rago said. "You have to have a sender and a receiver; the message has to go both ways," he said, adding: "And it has to be meaningful."

Rago, who lives in Oak Park, has not yet had much direct contact with youths in the Palatine Township area, but indicated he did not expect their problems to be much different from those faced by youths on the northwest side of Chicago, where he previously worked.

He has been associated with a YMCA outreach program since 1968, when he was graduated from Roosevelt University with a degree in youth services.

Before that, Rago, now 32, had followed his father into the barber business, and eventually had his own shop. He went back to school, he says, "because of the restraints in the business."

AS AN OUTREACH worker, Rago handled problems ranging "from drugs to general family consultation and runaways — you name it."

The counseling wasn't always successful. Rago is still in touch with a 21-year-old drug addict who is in Cook County Hospital with third degree burns after his third overdose.

And he acknowledges that it will take time to gain the trust of Palatine Township area youths. Rago expects it will be a few months before a good rapport can be established.

In the meantime, he's been meeting with various officials and agencies within the area served by the youth committee and The Bridge to establish contacts.

Rago believes greater involvement on the part of "the community" — parents, churches, schools, and other institutions — would help the teenager overcome the rough spots he encounters while growing up.

The kids themselves? They'll come to him, Rago thinks. "And that's what I'm here for."

Cite Fire Dist. Aid Responses

The Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District has been cited for "excellent response" in a mutual aid fire call by Elk Grove Village, which pledged its assistance in any situation where help is needed in return.

Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey, Fire Chief Carl Selke and Civil Defense Director Richard Monaghan Grove officials thanking the fire district each received copies of letters from Elk Grove officials thanking the fire district for its response.

A fire Jan. 16 at the Terrace Apartments in Elk Grove Village "had all the potential of destroying a three-story, 56 unit apartment building. High winds and extreme cold weather could have further involved other buildings in the complex," according to the letter signed by Fire Chief Allen Hulet, Village Manager Charles Willis and Village President Charles Zetek.

"However, due to an excellent response in immediate action from the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District along with 13 of our good neighbors through the mutual aid box alarm system, the fire was brought under control with damage limited to less than one-third of the building," said the letter.

"We of course hope you never need our service in return," commented the Elk Grove officials. "However, let us assure you that we stand ready to assist you at any time and in any way we can to the best of our ability," they pledged.

Plumbing At Fremd Is In 'Sad Shape'

The plumbing at Dist. 211's Fremd High School in Palatine is in sad shape, according to officials.

The problem is in the original 1961 portion of the building which forms a core between two newer additions. The pipes are leaking and corroding.

The school board is debating whether they should rip out the whole works in the old section and start all over again or do patchwork repairs.

Board Pres. Robert Creek advocates "starting all over again." He estimates it will cost about $50,000 to replace the present plumbing.

CREEK ATTRIBUTES the problem to cost-saving measures that were taken when the high school was first built. He said two mistakes were made with the plumbing.

"First, they used two different kinds of pipe systems together, which just hasn't worked out. And second, they have put chemicals into the system which were too strong."

The plumbing problem was discussed at a school board meeting Thursday. The board members did not vote on a solution, but will continue to review the problem until a later meeting.

Board member Carol Mullins pointed out that the plumbing system "doesn't seem old enough for major renovations." District administrators explained that the problem is not so much with the age of the system but with the construction of the system.

If the board does decide to go ahead with major repairs, the work will most likely be done during a school break, before the fall session begins.

Special Story Hour Slated For March 8

A special story hour for three-year-old children and their mothers will be held Wednesday at the Schaumburg Township Public Library, 32 W. Library Ln.

There are to be a number of stories, games, movies and puppet presentations including an appearance by Alexander and the Wind-Up Mouse. A special surprise will be an early visit from the Easter Bunny.

The program begins at 10:30 a.m. and will be repeated at 2 p.m.

A SHOT AND . . . a goal! The Schaumburg Kings Pee Wee hockey team, comprised of 11 and 12-year-old boys, watches as a shot makes its way into the recent net against Naperville. The Kings play most of their games at the Polar Dome in Dundee.

Churches To Observe World Day Of Prayer

The International Christian Day of Faith and Unity, the World Day of Prayer, will be celebrated Friday at the Church of the Cross in Hoffman Estates.

The service, which is sponsored by Church Women United, will begin at 1 p.m. Participating in the service will be representatives from Methodist, United Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, Episcopal and Lutheran churches in the area.

The theme of Friday's service will be "All Joy Be Yours."

All residents of the community are invited to attend. There will be a nursery facility at the church. The Church of the Cross is located on Higgins Road, west of Roselle Road.

Savings Plan For Students

An educational savings plan for junior and senior high school students has been initiated at First Savings and Loan Association of Schaumburg.

"Each student may open an account at our savings and loan without money and we will credit $1 to all students visiting our offices at 400 W. Higgins Rd.," David J. Carlson, president, announced.

March 1972 will be grand opening month for the association, formerly McKinley Park Savings and Loan Association, Chicago.

The savings association opened Jan. 25 in mobile headquarters.

Approval was granted by the Illinois Savings and Loan Commission for the name change, Carlson said.

Officers besides Carlson are Bernice E. Schuck, vice president and treasurer; Michael E. O'Laughlin, secretary; Katherine Nesewich, asst. secretary; Donna Kostecki, asst. treasurer; and Barbara Dyon, accounting officer.

Directors include Carlson, Mrs. Schuck, O'Laughlin, Henry S. Frank and Oliver C. Anderson.

4 Posts Are Vacant

Three Vacancies On Village Commissions Are Filled

Wheeling's Village board filled three vacancies on village volunteer commissions Monday and announced that applicants are needed to fill four other vacancies.

The board is seeking applicants to fill three seats on the youth commission and one vacancy on the public relations commission.

Appointments confirmed by the board on Monday included Mary Therese Burns and G. Arthur Applequist for the board of health and Robert Neukranz for the electrical commission. All three will serve until April 30, 1973.

The board learned of the youth commission vacancies Monday in a letter from commission chairman June Orlovski.

Mrs. Orlovski told the board that commission members Gus Nizzi, Patti Ritchie and Thomas Feldsien have resigned.

All three of them were appointed to the commission a year ago.

THUSTEE JOHN KOEPPEN termed the resignations "disturbing," pointing out that all three of the commission members told the village board a year ago that they would have adequate time to devote to the commission.

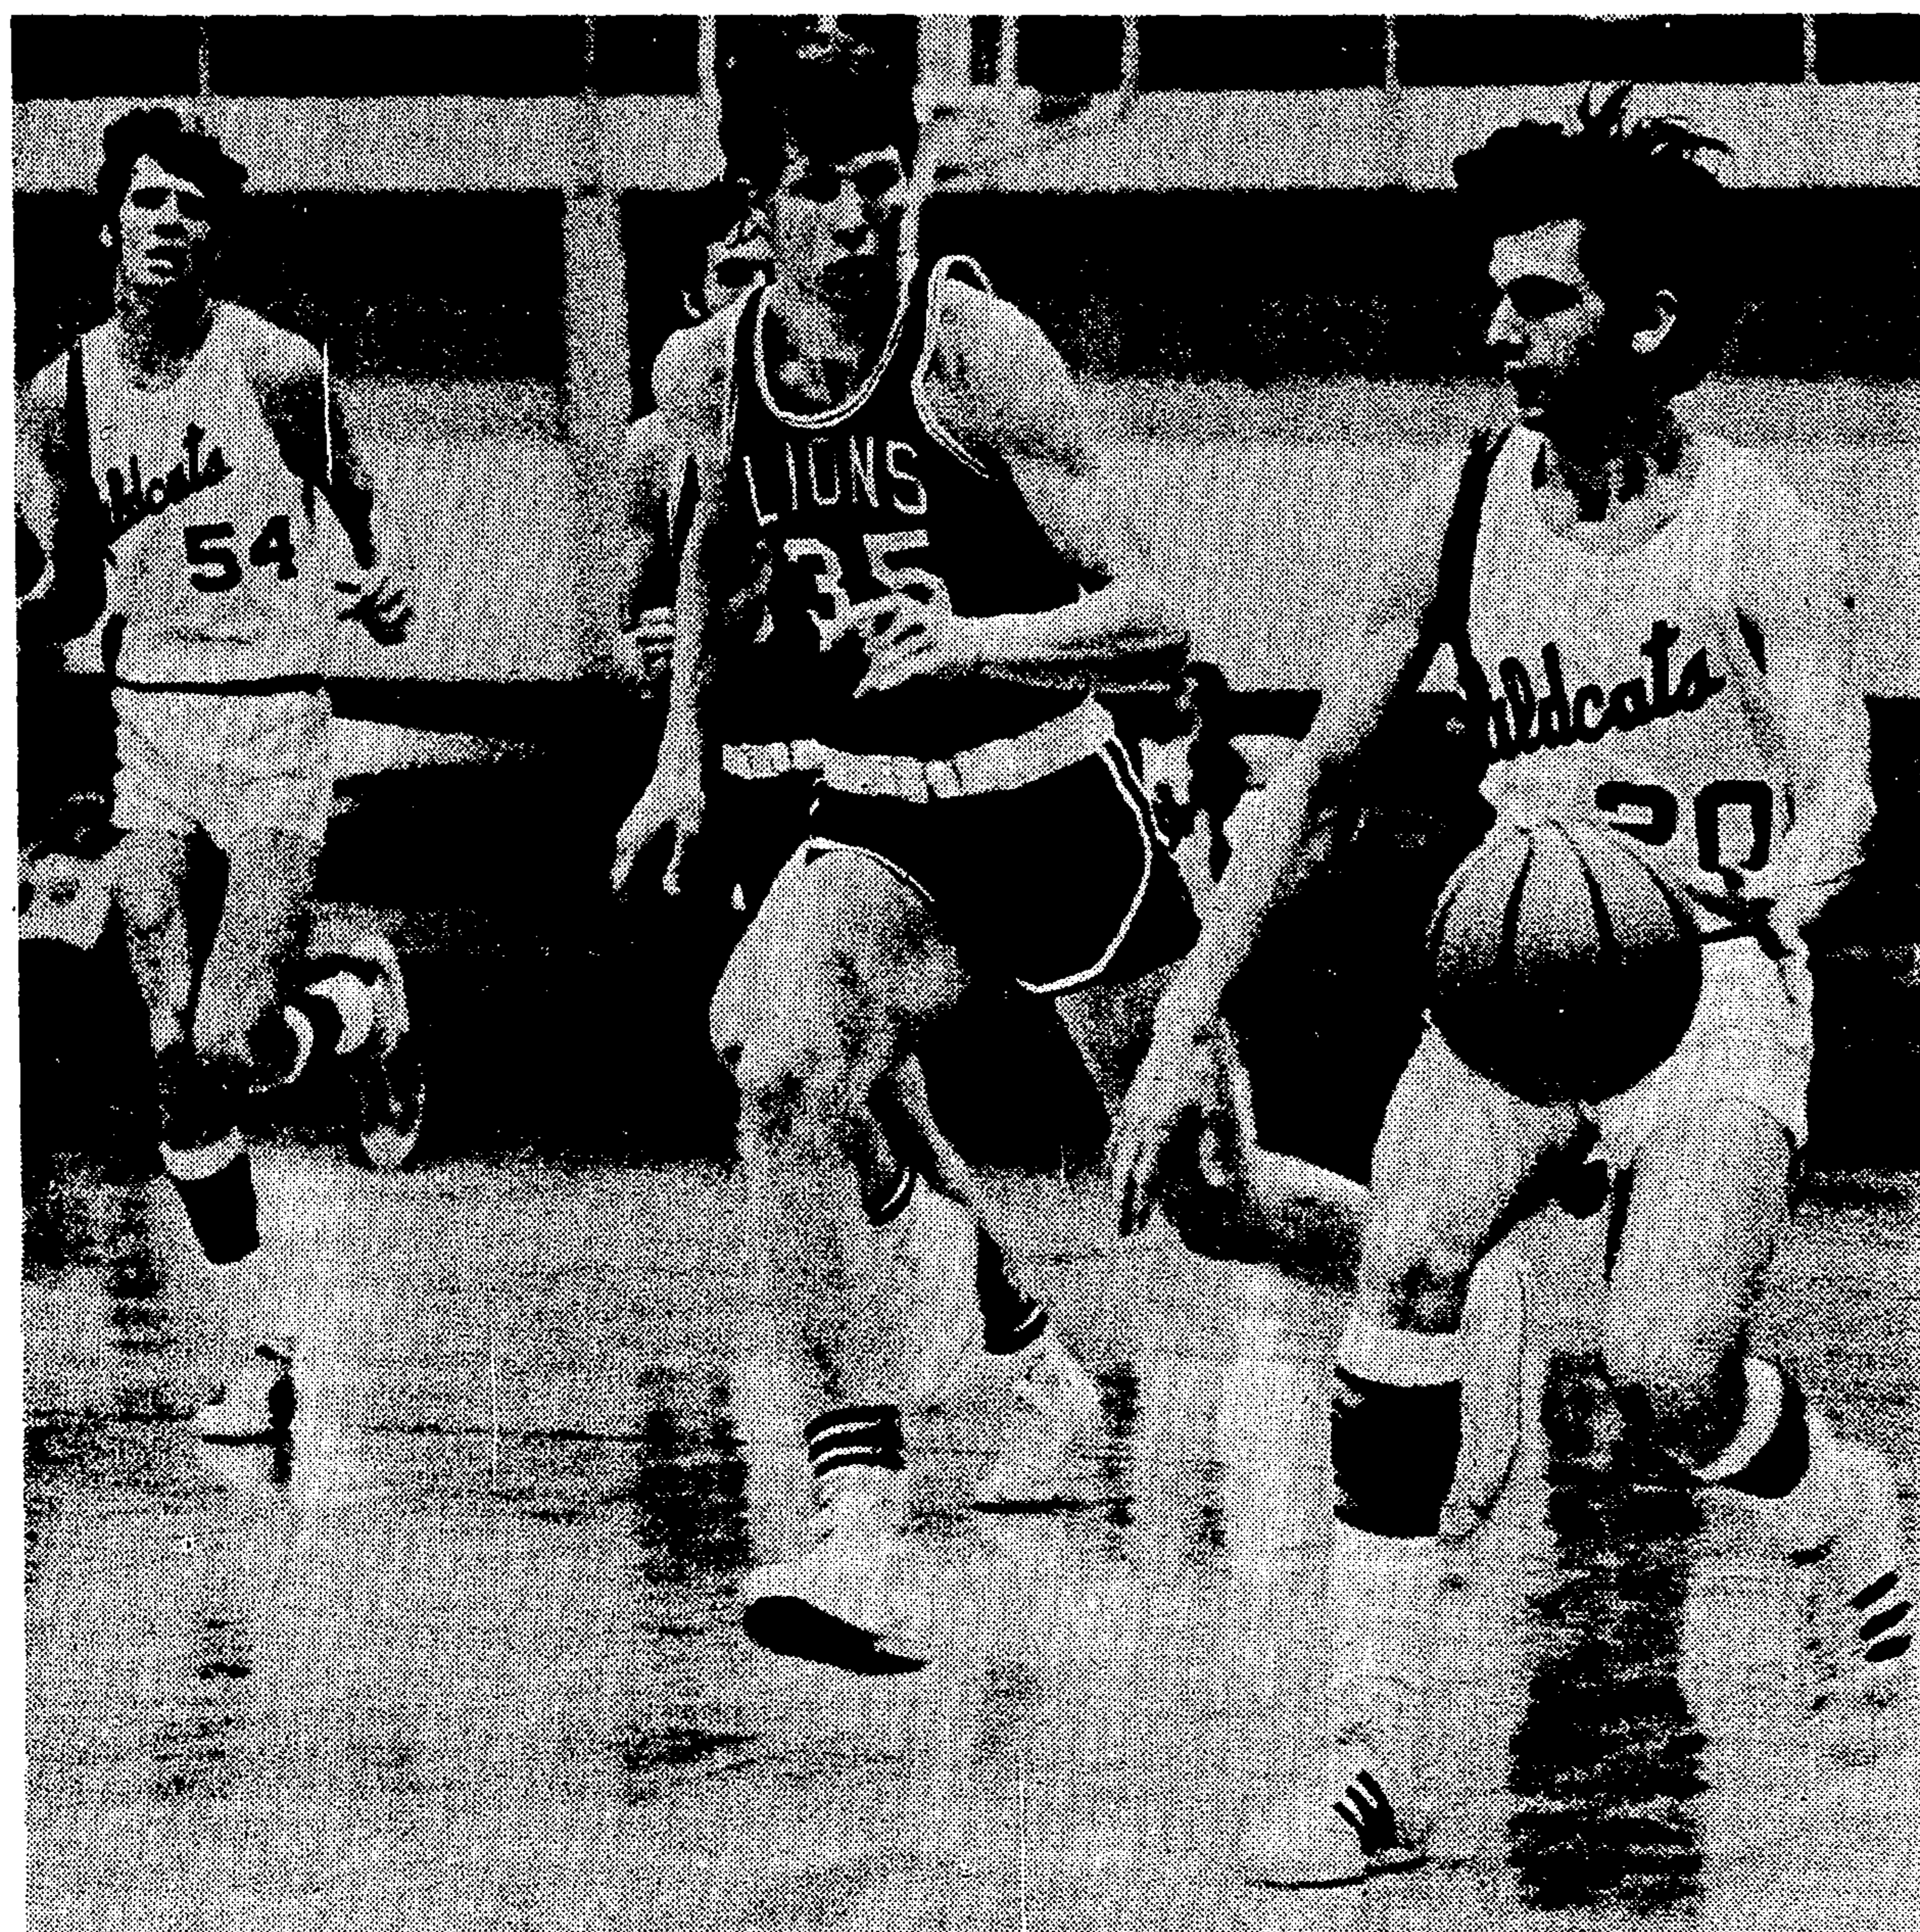

Mrs. Orlovski told Koeppen that all those who resigned have become more involved recently in extra work at the local schools where they are employed. Nizzi is principal of Eugene Field School, Miss Ritchie is a physical education teacher at Wheeling High School and Feldsien is an art teacher at the high school.

The youth commission is currently devoting much of its time to the joint youth services bureau project it is undertaking along with Project HELP Inc. and the Torch Community Mental Health Clinic.

The public relations commission vacancy was created by the resignation of Melvin Caskey.

Caskey had stopped attending commission meetings and told the board that he was not interested in serving on the commission any longer.

Local residents interested in filling the vacancies on the commissions can get application forms at the village municipal building.

$10,000 Reward Offered For Bank Robbers

"A reward of up to $10,000 for information leading to the capture and recovery of the money stolen from the Bank of Buffalo Grove is being offered," George Miller, president of the bank, said Wednesday.

Miller would not say who was supplying the reward money or whose idea it was to offer it.

The bank was robbed the evening of Feb. 8 when two gunmen in ski masks reportedly waited in the basement of the bank until it closed.

When the bank closed the gunmen waited for the tellers and assistant cashier to take the money downstairs to the vault. The employees reportedly were told by the gunmen to lie on the floor, after which they were handcuffed.

The assistant cashier allegedly opened the vault and the robbers got away with more than $111,000. The police and FBI still are searching for the two bandits.

In the meantime the bank has been operating as usual. Its insurance company repaid the entire amount.

Want To Trade Your Old Paperbacks?

The Wheeling Public Library has inaugurated a free paperback book exchange that will start immediately.

The exchange operates on a "bring one, take one" principle. Library patrons are invited to bring their used paperback books and exchange them for others they wish to read. There is no limit to the number of books exchanged, no check-out procedure, and no insistence on a "book-for-book" exchange.

The shelves housing the books are located in the foyer of the library opposite the circulation desk. The collection will consist of light fiction and some non-fictional works.

KENNETH SWANSON, head librarian, said "this service has been started because many patrons have given the library gifts of paperback books. While no attempt will be made to add these books to our permanent collection, the library feels good use can be made of the books on an exchange basis."

Swanson added, "This is also one way we have of providing limited service to would-be library patrons who live outside the district. No library card is needed to participate in the exchange."

The fee for out-of-district patrons is normally $35 per family, per year. This entitles them to all library facilities open to the district patrons.

Swanson said he hopes "the paperback exchange will open the doors of the library to many more people."

Debaters Claim Second Place

Two Wheeling High School debaters won a second place trophy at a meet at Thornton High School in Harvey recently.

Sophomore Bill Hale and freshman Jeff Kohler placed second in competition against 39 other twosomes. Hale won an individual third-place trophy and Kohler a ninth-place certificate.

The winning twosome debated three rounds Friday night and two rounds Saturday morning. On the basis of these five rounds Hale and Kohler were placed in the quarterfinals.

The pair defeated Thornton, moved into the semifinals and defeated Dundee High School. In the other semifinal match Rich East of Park Forest defeated Lyons Township High School, La Grange. Wheeling lost to Rich East in a split decision during the final match.

A second Wheeling twosome, Hal Morris and Chuck Paelinck, both sophomores, also participated in the Thornton meet but did not place.

Wheeling High School debaters will have two more meets before sectionals begin March 18. On Saturday they will travel to Rich East for a rematch of last week's match and on March 11 they will be at Crystal Lake High School.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 89 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli plane and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced withdrawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

Koeppen Tells Village Board Side Of 'Family' Charges

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Wheeling Trustee John Koeppen Monday defended the village board against charges made in a letter that appeared in the Herald's Fence Post column last week.

Speaking at the village board meeting this week, Koeppen said his response would not have been necessary if the letter's author, I. V. O'Reilly, "had used her time getting facts instead of criticizing."

In the letter Mrs. O'Reilly charged the village "family" had been conducting a series of maneuvers to keep village government from representing the people since the last village election.

Here are the responses Koeppen gave: MRS. O'REILLEY charged the board had been doing "as we want," as former Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman James Stavros had predicted after the election, "We're in. We'll do as we want."

Koeppen answered: "With reference to people who were active in the past campaign — I made no effort to apologize for, criticize, or condone their actions. I am sure you feel the same way about your supporters. I speak for no man other than myself."

Mrs. O'Reilly said the board's recent promotion of former trustee Roger Stricker to director of public safety was a way of giving Stricker the village manager's powers without the title.

Koeppen answered: "Before being critical of anyone, including village employees, check their performance in their present capacities."

MRS. O'REILLEY compared the village government to Mayor Daley's Chicago Machine.

Koeppen said: "Comparing us to national-level politicians, it is the exception, not the rule, to put your political opponents in key positions on commissions. In business as in politics, this is a no-no and contrary to Machine procedures." The trustee was apparently referring to the village board appointing Wheeling independent party candidates and their supporters to village volunteer boards and commissions.

THE LETTER to the Herald criticized the appointment of former village trustee Peter Egan to the village fire and police commission as an attempt to put a family member in control of the police department.

Koeppen responded: "As to a trustee on a commission, the policy of the past boards has been to put former trustees on commissions or boards if they so request. During the last election, both parties stated they would put experienced people on commissions — a man with eight years as a village trustee has the experience."

Mrs. O'Reilly questioned what the board planned for the police and fire departments now that Stricker and Egan serve in posts directing the department.

Koeppen countered: "Our plans for the police and fire departments are to expand services in both departments, reach our ultimate goal of a full-time fire department — specialization on both departments — men have been going to school for this purpose. The police department alone has changed in the past few years. Policemen now must use psychology, know all the facets of law, legal rights, know drugs, their uses, their effects."

"I would say our plans are to meet today's and tomorrow's needs for the citizens of Wheeling," the trustee said.

MRS. O'REILLEY predicted the board would juggle and shuffle police department personnel next September when Police Chief M. O. Horcher is eligible to retire after 20 years of service.

She also hinted former Trustee William Hart's return to Wheeling may have been prompted by "a recall to active 'family' duty."

Koeppen responded: "As to rumors concerning vacancies in village departments and comments by those who have served in an elected capacity, only time will tell if these rumors and comments are fact or fiction."

After Koeppen's speech, Trustee Michael Valenza asked Horcher if he had plans to retire next fall. Horcher said he didn't.

In response to other points made in the letter, the trustee explained the village zoning board does not operate independently and that anyone has a right to request a public hearing if they have the necessary legal documents and a filing fee. Mrs. O'Reilly had said the zoning board would turn the village into a "jungle of apartment complexes."

Mrs. O'Reilly questioned Douglas Cargill's serving on two village commissions at once and said he had reportedly bought up vacant land in the Strong Street area now proposed as an apartment development.

Koeppen said: "It is not illegal to serve on two commissions. This procedure was established by a former trustee. As to buying property, there is nothing illegal about it as long as you have the money to buy it."

MRS. O'REILLEY had questioned whether the Strong Street apartment proposal conformed to the village master plan.

Koeppen pointed out the Wickes Corp. furniture store could not have been built if the master plan were followed to the letter. "Like any good plan it needs upgrading every year to meet the changes — you seem to be against changes," he said to Mrs. O'Reilly, who was in the audience.

Koeppen also took a jab at Harold Fagan, a Wheeling Independent Party candidate in the last election who is now leading a committee of Strong Street residents who oppose the proposed apartments.

Referring to a Wheeling industrial commission study of low-cost housing needs, Koeppen said Fagan would favor that type of spot zoning, but was opposed to residential apartments in an already residential area.

"This amazes me. It appears that these people want areas rezoned to fit their needs but no one else can. Or are they playing politics with the voters in the Strong Street area, as one of the supporters (Fagan) has already stated he would run in the next election," Koeppen countered.

Mrs. O'Reilly charged the board would use new home rule powers to raise taxes when the village is larger.

Koeppen said: "When taxes are raised it affects the village board members as well. In fact with the industrial and commercial areas being developed as fast as they are, it might be possible to lower some village revenues. The monies from these new developments will allow us to put up the new fire station, complete the full-time fire department, and maybe advance our sidewalk and street program."

The trustee concluded, "Yes, if it takes a family to accomplish all the needs of the village then the board is proud of its family."

To Mrs. O'Reilly he said, "Thank you for your interest. We trust that as a member of the public relations commission you are fully aware of the fact that you are a member of the village family."

Valenza said to Koeppen, "I would never have dignified that letter with an answer."

"OOH, THAT SMARTS," said Julius Caesar (Rich Garrett) as he was stabbed by Casca (Ron Salpietro) and Cassius (Linda Serpico) The action took place during the play "Julius Caesar" at Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights. Students from the fifth grade participated in the play directed by Charlene Mysock, language arts teacher at Frost. The play was presented for students and parents.

Road Saving Is $7,000: Manager

Resurfacing of the Lake County portion of Arlington Heights Road cost Buffalo Grove $7,000 less than the original estimate from the Lake County Highway Department.

Daniel Larson, Buffalo Grove village manager, told the board the village's share of the bill for the base coat of blacktop mix on the road would be $16,000 instead of $23,000.

The highway department estimate had included possible excavation, which was not necessary. The original estimate for the entire job was $32,000, but the actual cost was $20,000. Buffalo Grove only had to pay for a percentage of the repairs.

The highway department resurfaced the road on its own with the agreement the department would be reimbursed. Engineering costs were donated, Larson said.

A surface coat of blacktop, 2½ inches thick, is still needed to finish the road, and the highway department has offered to do that for an additional $31,000, of which $22,010 would come from Buffalo Grove. The job also would include extensive shoulder repair and widening from 20 to 22 feet. It would take about three weeks, including striping, Larson said.

THE FINISHED job is expected to last five to seven years, before traffic is heavy enough to warrant widening the road to four lanes. At that time Cook and Lake counties would take over responsibilities for it, Larson said.

At present, a study showed 5,200 cars using the road per day, but once improvements are complete that could double, Larson said. When traffic reaches 14,000 cars per day, engineering criteria require four lanes. Traffic for the road has been projected to reach 15,000 to 17,000 cars per day in five to seven years.

Larson is also preparing an ordinance to cut truck use on the entire length of the road including the Cook County portion. He is writing an ordinance which will restrict weight to 4 tons per axle, half of the existing limit.

Mass Transit Planning Meet Saturday In Towers Hotel

Though the interest of 270 suburban communities in six counties will be represented, only six or seven municipalities will send representatives to a Saturday meeting to discuss formation of a single mass transit district that would exclude the City of Chicago.

The meeting at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel is being organized by Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh to test support for the formation of a single transit district that Walsh hopes would put suburban communities on a more equal footing with Chicago in securing funds for mass transit.

Results of the meeting among top officials from key communities in Cook, Lake, DuPage, Kane, McHenry and Will counties will be communicated to the officers of other municipalities in the six-county region.

It was not known which communities would attend.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Village Board Feb. 21 adopted a resolution in support of a single suburban mass transit district with a stipulation that representation on the governing board of any such district should be on a one-man-one-vote basis.

The Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System (CMATS) bill would create a single metropolitan mass transit district including the Chicago Transit Authority.

The bill, which has had the strong backing of the Chicago and North Western Ry., proposes a three-member governing panel. One member would be appointed by the governor, a second named by the mayor of Chicago, and a third by the governor from a list of nominees suggested by the county boards of the six counties.

Walsh has said the mayors Saturday may decide to do nothing about creating the new transit district or may agree to pursue sub-regional mass transit authorities if they do not think a single, six-county district is feasible.

2 WHS Seniors In Grant Finals

Kathy Kahila and Sue O'Brian, two Wheeling High School seniors, have been named finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

Misses Kahila and O'Brian both are eligible for one of 3,000 scholarships to be awarded by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation this year. Final results of the competition will be known in mid-spring.

Both girls were among the 15,000 semi-finalists across the country earlier in the school year. To compete for the finals they had to receive teacher and counselor recommendations. They also wrote an essay pertaining to their qualifications, present activities and future plans.

Miss Kahila plans to attend Lake Forest College in Lake Forest, Ill. She hopes to major in math and Russian language. Miss O'Brian has made no definite decision about which school she will attend, but said she plans to major in secondary education.

Baby Sitter Much Like Lion Tamer

by BOB ANDERSEN
It just never occurred to me that tending to folks one-third your size, one-sixth your age, and, at least theoretically, a fraction of your mental capacity could be such a formidable task.

The conclusion, however, was forced as I, a semi-confirmed bachelor of 29, sat among some 75 attentive (and occasionally giggling) adolescent school girls and listened to an expert compare baby sitting to performing in a circus.

"You're going to have to be a little bit of everything," she cautioned.

AND SHE WASN'T kidding. Any baby-sitter worth her (or his) salt must be a combination "lion-tamer, tight-rope walker, ballerina, ring master and clown," Mrs. Marion Dodgion claimed.

Mrs. Dodgion, director of the Early Learners Nursery School in Hoffman Estates, was a guest lecturer at the third session of "You're In Charge," a baby-sitter clinic sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Jaycee Wives.

The clinic, featuring talks by local nurses and school, police and fire department officials, is being held at the Vogel Recreation Barn in Hoffman Estates. The clinic, costing $1, continues through March 29.

My assignment was to attend the session on preschoolers and return with a uniquely bachelor's view of riding herd (oops, I mean baby-sitting) on these lethal, ever-energetic tots aged three through five.

IN THE MAIN, Mrs. Dodgion dealt with three basic baby-sitting realities which, in order, were:

—How to convince your temporary wards you are essentially a good Joe — or Jane — and deserving of their affection and respect. "Kids can spot a phony right away," Mrs. Dodgion said.

—How to occupy and entertain the little ones now that they love, respect and trust you.

—How to "cajole" the children to bed.

The key to winning the kids over (the first step) is demonstrating sincere interest in them. Mrs. Dodgion told the girls and me. This, I found out, requires the combined talents of the tightrope walker, ballerina and clown.

ONE MUST, according to Mrs. Dodgion, mix a little vinegar with the sugar in this popularity quest. "Kids also need boundaries and rules," she explained. "They will test you." A bit of the lion-tamer or the ring-master, perhaps.

A vital part of entertaining and occupying the children is understanding them. Mrs. Dodgion said three-year-olds have short attention spans and tend to be more selfish than magnanimous. Four-year-olds think "everything is funny" and are finding out there are indeed other people in the world. Five-year-olds, having acquired a little sophistication by attending kindergarten, tend to be less selfish and more magnanimous than the three-year-olds.

Mrs. Dodgion's advice to us was to start becoming "scavengers." Everlastingly curious, preschoolers respond most quickly to new toys.

Thus, the child expert said, collect a variety of toys and keep them in a "Goody Bag." Moreover, she added, "don't put all your eggs in one basket."

"SURPRISE THE kids with a different toy every time you visit."

Little boys, Mrs. Dodgion claimed, are easier to entertain than little girls. The boys will often occupy themselves with toy trucks and cars and the like. Little girls are more demanding. For instance, they like to dress up which means one should keep a healthy assortment of "old fans, jewelry, etc." in the Goody Bag.

Also, she added, little girls love to "comb out" the long hair currently fashionable with young girls. This, I thought, shouldn't put the masculine gender at too much of a disadvantage given today's hair styles.

Okay. Now the tots love and respect you and you have succeeded in your role as ballerina and clown by keeping them entertained. It is time for the real test . . . bedtime.

IN A SOMEWHAT understated fashion, Mrs. Dodgion informed us preschoolers usually "don't want to go to bed." Again she suggests mixtures of the ring-master, the lion-tamer and the clown.

First, she says, "simmer" them down. Then, after getting them in their pajamas and showing them the bathroom, tuck them under the covers.

Then what? Right . . . tell them a bedtime story. "Made-up stories" are the best, Mrs. Dodgion said.

The three and four-year-olds prefer picture books. Then, if your lucky, the kids, stirred by the pictures, will tell you the story, saving considerable mental anguish for the unimaginative.

WHAT HAPPENS IF, even after you have followed all the rules, the children refuse to sleep and instead fuss and act up?

Mrs. Dodgion did suggest alternative solutions. You can "tell them another story" or tell them their mother will be home soon or, perhaps, leave the hall light on. Some children are afraid of the dark.

Be aware, she said, they may still be testing you. Sometime firmness (the lion-tamer) is in order and other times humor (the clown) will suffice.

Baby-sitting is a responsibility, Mrs. Dodgion told the girls. It also can be an extremely beneficial and learning experience, she added, if approached with sincerity and understanding.

My conclusions? Well, I haven't started filling a "Goody Bag" and have never had a yen to be a circus performer. It requires a more versatile performer than I.

Expert Compares Landfill And Incinerator Problems

Buffalo Grove residents threw a barrage of questions at land pollution expert Charles Clark Tuesday but he was unable to answer many of them since they dealt with air pollution.

Most of the questions came from the six-member Buffalo Grove Environmental Control Committee, which invited Clark to the meeting. Clark is manager of the surveillance section, Division of Land Pollution of the Environmental Protection Agency. He spoke to Arlington Heights residents about the same subject Monday night.

Clark told the committee and about 25 citizens who attended that he could answer questions about landfills and solid waste disposal, but another division of EPA handles air pollution.

Buffalo Grove residents did learn, however, that there apparently is no way they can learn in advance if a permit to build an incinerator will be granted to Arlington Heights. Clark also told them the EPA is under no obligation to listen to citizen complaints in advance. He said there are no public hearings in advance, and the only recourse citizens have is to file a petition with the EPA after a permit is allowed.

Clark added the EPA has an obligation only to investigate the complaint.

IN ANSWER to several questions about the quality of landfills compared with incinerators, Clark said either one can be good. "If both are built and operated in accordance with our (EPA) requirements, neither one will pollute."

Although Clark admitted he wasn't qualified to discuss air pollution, he did say that most incinerators in operation today do not meet EPA standards, or they would have cost a lot more. "I don't know of any which meet the standards," he said.

Lana Epstein of the committee asked, "If land is available in the northeast portion of Illinois, can it be condemned as is done for parks and schools?"

Clark said there is considerable land suitable for sanitary landfills, but the question of availability is a problem. "Our trouble is getting zoning approval. But a couple court rulings in Rockford indicate a city can condemn land."

Clark did say the existing incinerators cost about twice as much to operate per cubic yard than sanitary landfills. He gave examples of about $4 per cubic yard in most landfills compared with $8 for incinerators.

Another committee member asked, "Over the next 10 years, how modern will the incinerator be compared to what is done now and in the future in recycling?"

"You're asking me to guess," Clark said, "and I will. I don't see any major new recycling methods in the next 10 years. The best prospect seems to be pyrolysis, or burning with insufficient oxygen. Other methods depend too much on salvage market."

CLARK added that an incinerator should draw from a population of 200,000 to be successful, while a sanitary landfill can get by with a smaller population.

He said an incinerator still requires a landfill for the residue, since about 30 per cent of the bulk remains after burning. Maintenance also is high for incinerators compared to landfills, he said.

"There are 1½ million acres of strip mines in Illinois, and many sites are reasonably suitable for rail-haul. Some railroads in the country have tried this method but have gotten nowhere because of lack of demand or apathy, but I'm sure it'll come," Clark said.

"Are inter-municipal solid waste agreements possible?" asked one committee member.

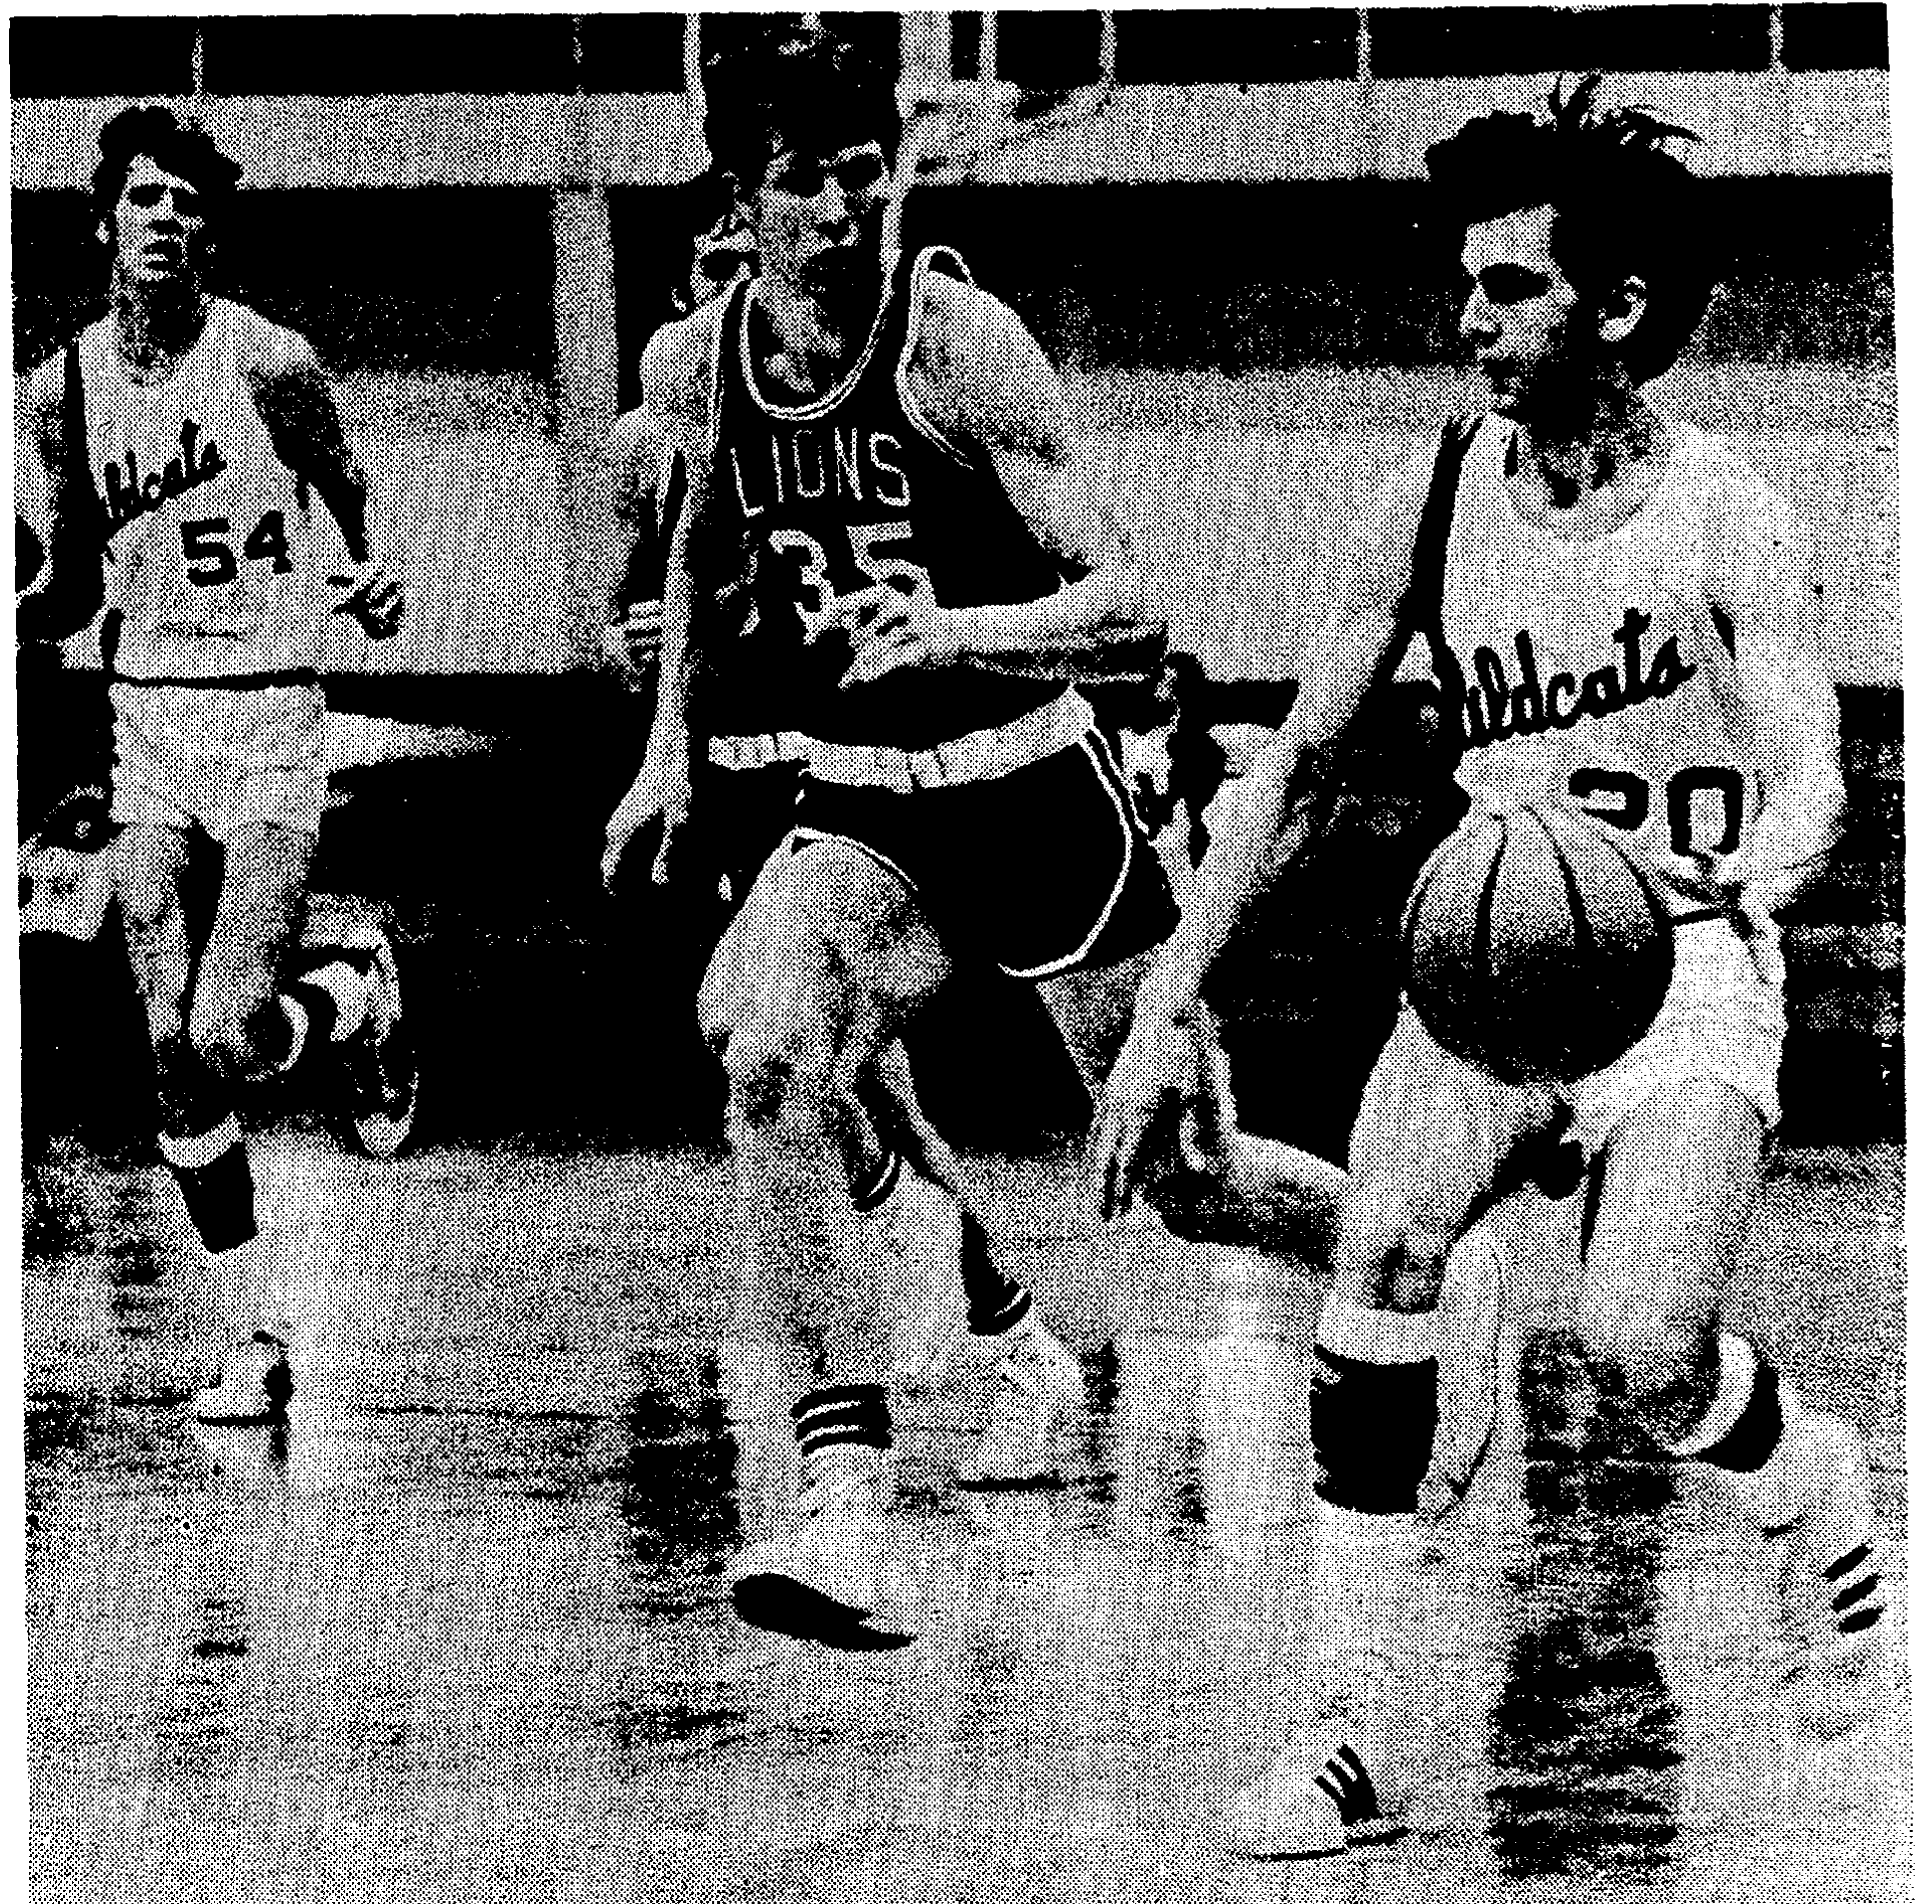

Clark said a 1969 law allows for solid waste disposal districts, but they must involve full counties, so none are in existence.

Clark also told the audience that many problems have not been resolved by the EPA because its proposed new rules and regulations have not yet been approved. He said many landfills and all incinerators are operating only with approval of the state Department of Public Health, although all such operations will be required to be licensed by the EPA when the new rules are in effect.

"The new rules and regulations to be offered to the Pollution Control Board will have specifics on existing sites, but I'm not at liberty to tell any of them," Clark said.

He said the EPA is currently operating under 1965 laws for solid waste disposal. Such laws only require registration of old sites and prior approval of new ones. The new EPA regulations will require inspections before permits can be granted.

Clark said the major problem is that if a permit request is not denied within 90 days it is automatically approved, so his staff has not been able to tell all landfills to submit applications, because they couldn't handle that many. With 600-700 sites, many would be approved by default without ever being inspected, he said.

Want To Trade Your Old Paperbacks?

The Wheeling Public Library has inaugurated a free paperback book exchange that will start immediately.

The exchange operates on a "bring one, take one" principle. Library patrons are invited to bring their used paperback books and exchange them for others they wish to read. There is no limit to the number of books exchanged, no check-out procedure, and no insistence on a "book-for-book" exchange.

The shelves housing the books are located in the foyer of the library opposite the circulation desk. The collection will consist of light fiction and some non-fictional works.

KENNETH SWANSON, head librarian, said "this service has been started because many patrons have given the library gifts of paperback books. While no attempt will be made to add these books to our permanent collection, the library feels good use can be made of the books on an exchange basis."

Swanson added, "This is also one way we have of providing limited service to would-be library patrons who live outside the district. No library card is needed to participate in the exchange."

The fee for out-of-district patrons is normally $35 per family, per year. This entitles them to all library facilities open to the district patrons.

Swanson said he hopes "the paperback exchange will open the doors of the library to many more people."

$10,000 Offered For Robbers

"A reward of up to $10,000 for information leading to the capture and recovery of the money stolen from the Bank of Buffalo Grove is being offered," George Miller, president of the bank, said Wednesday.

Miller would not say who was supplying the reward money or whose idea it was to offer it.

The bank was robbed the evening of Feb. 8 when two gunmen in ski masks reportedly waited in the basement of the bank until it closed.

When the bank closed the gunmen waited for the tellers and assistant cashier to take the money downstairs to the vault. The employees reportedly were told by the gunmen to lie on the floor, after which they were handcuffed.

The assistant cashier allegedly opened the vault and the robbers got away with more than $111,000. The police and FBI still are searching for the two bandits.

In the meantime the bank has been operating as usual. Its insurance company repaid the entire amount.

WHEELING HIGH cheerleader Barb Holthaus had good reason to cheer Tuesday night as the Wheeling Wildcats dumped the St. Viator Lions 64-56 and earned a spot in the Wheeling Regional championship game Friday night.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 89 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli plane and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced withdrawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

Move By Teachers Called 'Unethical'

Silence Broken On School, Teacher Salary Proposals

Teachers' salary and benefit proposals for the 1972-73 school year have been released by both the High School Dist. 211 School Board and the teachers, three weeks after their first negotiations meeting.

This is the first time the negotiating teams have publicized the salary-benefit proposals in the district's three-year bargaining history. In the past, information on negotiations has been released only at the time of settlement.

The board has proposed holding the salary increases at five per cent because of "deficit financing." However, the teachers want higher and broader salary increases along with more voice in district affairs.

During the coming months the two teams will negotiate to bring their proposals closer together until they reach a settlement. If they reach an impasse, outside help, such as a mediator or a fact finder, will be called in to recommend solutions.

IN THEIR FIRST three bargaining sessions the two teams have debated whether to break their "closed" tradition and issue news releases during the negotiations process. This week the teachers, who favor open sessions, presented their preliminary negotiations package to the Herald. The board's team followed suit after they learned of the teachers' action.

The teachers want to open the sessions because they "want the public to know we aren't just interested in money," according to Jerry Petersen, head of the Dist. 211 Education Association. "Most of our demands are designed to improve education."

Board Pres. Robert Creek argues that the board's team has agreed to open the sessions after April 15.

"This would have given us 60 days to negotiate in good faith. And it gives the teachers plenty of time to talk about the issues before the school year ends."

Whether the two teams will publicize the negotiation proceedings again before April 15 will be discussed at a closed meeting Monday night. Creek termed the teachers' release of their negotiations proposal "totally unethical."

THE OPEN SESSION issue was brought up as a "ground rules" proposal. The negotiators will discuss neither salaries nor benefits until the ground rules are set.

The teachers' salary-benefit proposal is the product of questionnaires, opinion polls and meetings of the teachers. The survey process was conducted by the Education Association, which represents 80 per cent of the district's teachers.

The teachers' package includes more than 30 separate proposals. These proposals call for a greater voice in policy decisions, better salary and insurance benefits, more leeway for association activities, broader negotiations and improved teaching conditions.

The board's package, on the other hand, deals primarily with salary issues. The teachers have charged that the board has refused to negotiate "working conditions" in the past. However, according to Creek the board has tried to limit the negotiations to working condition

HOW CAN YOU turn down an appeal like this? Jeanine Smith, left, and Cathy Laegeler, of Girl Scout Troop 421, St. Paul United Church of Christ, Palatine, display some of the wares available in this year's annual cookie drive. Area scouts will be ringing your doorbell between Friday and March 12 to take orders for the cookies. The cookies come in five varieties for $1 a box, with proceeds going to Girl Scout camp facilities. Cookies will be delivered between April 18 and 27.

Favor Area Transit District

Palatine officials favor the creation of a regional mass transportation district for the Northwest suburbs but are uncommitted as to whether Chicago should be included in the plan.

Mayor Jack Moodie this week presented four alternatives to the Palatine Village Board for a statement of position to be submitted to the Northwest Municipal Conference on a proposal for a transportation district.

Moodie, who also is president of the municipal conference for the current year, told the trustees there is a "feeling that all the federal money will go to Chicago (because of the Chicago Transit Authority) for the next 15 years" if no more is made by the suburbs to form another district.

"If the federal government makes the money available, it should be spent where it is needed," Moodie said.

He suggested the board could either take no action; recommend formation of a regional transportation district including Chicago; recommend a similar district but excluding Chicago; or recommend formation of multiple districts in smaller areas that would also be able to qualify for federal funds to build local mass transit facilities.

Moodie recommended that the board approve a broad plan that suggests the formation of a regional district but "not be specific what form it should take."

TRUSTEES AGREED with his basic proposal, but attitudes among them varied on the question of involving Chicago in the plan. Trustee Tom Ahern warned that if the CTA is ignored by the suburbs, a suburban transit railroad line might be created that stops short and won't provide a direct route to Chicago.

Others were concerned about the strong amount of influence Chicago might have in a transportation that includes the CTA.

The open recommendation of the board still leaves room for a decision on Chicago after more information on the effects of creating a regional district is brought out.

The broad position of the village board has been presented to the Northwest Municipal Conference and will be submitted Saturday at a meeting of officials from several area communities to discuss a plan for a mass transit district that excludes Chicago. Moodie is expected to attend.

This meeting, to be held at the Arlington Park Towers, was organized by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh who strongly supports the exclusion of Chicago from the plan. Walsh suggests that Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will Counties be involved in a single district, without Chicago.

HOWEVER, MOUNT Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert this week said he favored a plan to include Chicago, saying that participation of the city would be necessary for the success of any regional plan and would avoid duplication of services.

Mayor Roland Meyer of Rolling Meadows says he is still not committed to a position regarding a mass transit plan. However, he said by Saturday he will have conferred with city aldermen and will have a consensus of opinion to present to the conference.

It Was 'Slow Boat To China' In 1915

by MARGE FERROLI

The proverbial slow boat to China takes 37 days to get there from America. At least it did in 1915.

Transportation has most certainly improved, taking President Nixon and his entourage less than a week to get to Peking and including a leisurely stopover in Hawaii.

But Alvah Williford, a 76-year-old retired Arlington Heights man who now works part-time as a sanitarian for the Palatine Health Department, can remember well his trip to China and his five-year stay there as an enlisted man for the U.S. Army.

It was a year before the outbreak of World War I that Williford first arrived in a land he knew almost nothing about. He was 19 then, but his years there gave him a better education than he thinks he could have received most anywhere else.

"I had 25 years of education in five years," he said, explaining that his experiences were "far more knowledgeable than anything Nixon or the other diplomats could have seen."

After living and working among the native Chinese throughout his stay, Williford has a high respect for them, particularly a respect for their shrewdness.

"The Chinese are good teachers and you better be a good pupil," Williford says, almost as a word of advice to the President. "They never let anything go to waste," he says, whether it be food, materials or knowledge.

Williford picked up a lot of business know-how while stationed in Tientsin, a fairly large port city about 70 miles southeast of Peking on the Yellow Sea.

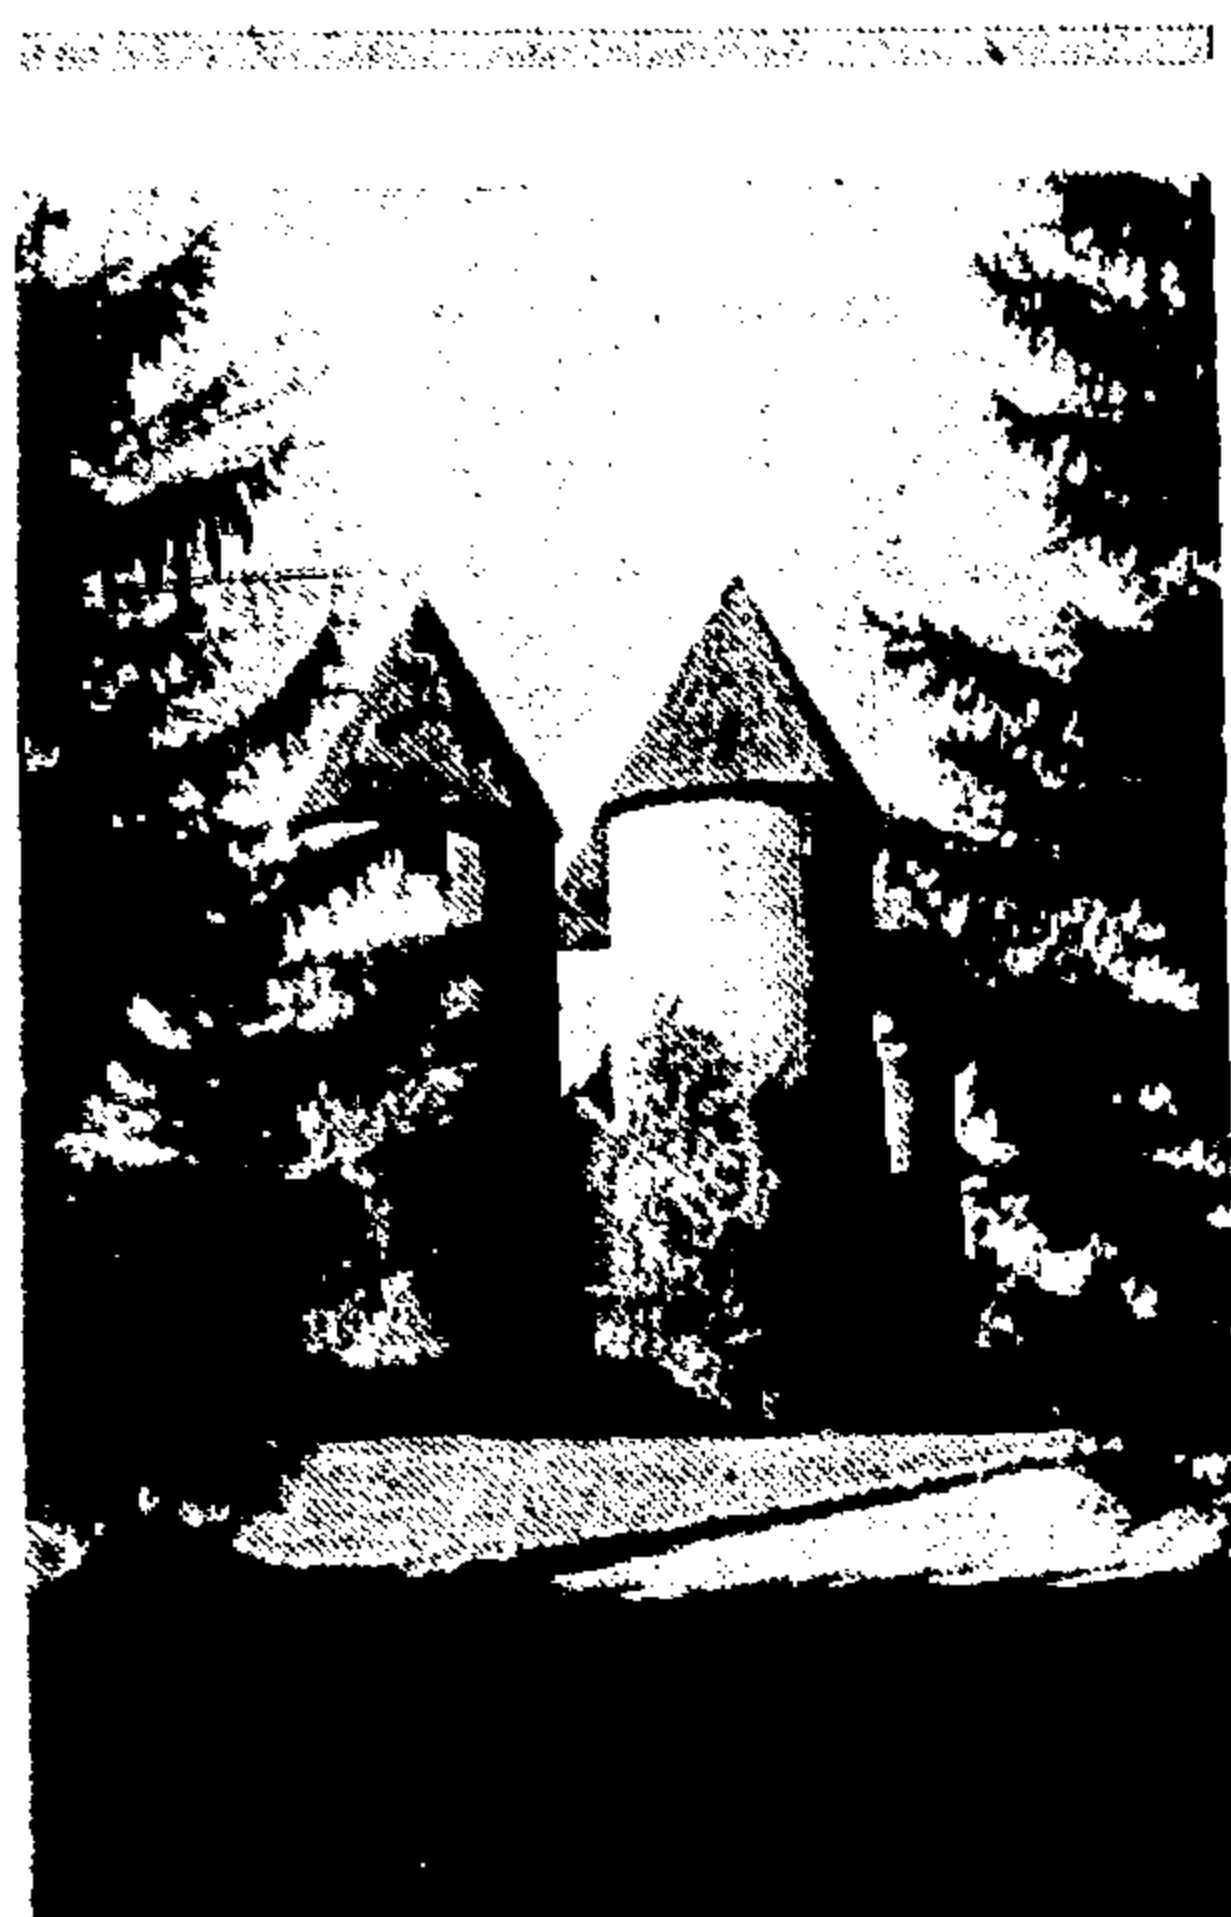

HIS JOB, LIKE the 1,200 other troops stationed there, was to guard the American and British interests in the Peking-Mukden Railroad, a line which ran from the Chinese capital to Mukden (now called Shenyang) several hundred miles northeast.

When not working with the 15th Infantry, to which he had been assigned, he traveled extensively and managed to become quite an organization man.

At the age of 20, Williford started and operated the 15th Infantry Club, a restaurant and gathering place for the American GIs stationed there. He also organized boxing matches for the entertainment of the troops, much sooner than Bob Hope got the idea.

Hanrahan To Speak At Coffee Hour Here Sunday

Edward V. Hanrahan, the controversial Cook County state's attorney who is seeking reelection without Democratic Party support, will speak in Palatine Sunday.

Hanrahan is to attend a coffee hour scheduled for 3 to 5 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Dunne, 1160 W. Mallard Dr.

It will be the state's attorney's first speaking engagement in the Northwest suburbs during the hotly contested campaign.

He faces opposition in the March 21 primary from Judge Raymond K. Berg, the Democrats' slated candidate, and attorney Donald Page Moore, an independent.

Hanrahan was slated, then dumped, by the Democrats in the midst of his indictment for allegedly attempting to cover up a raid in which two Black Panther Party leaders were killed.

HANRAHAN has maintained that he could not be guilty of obstructing justice because two grand juries have determined that no crime was committed during the raid in December, 1969.

He has accused his main opponent, Berg, of falsifying traffic court records to indicate more drunken drivers have been jailed than actually have.

Earlier this week, the Chicago Bar Association declared it found Berg, Moore and Republican candidate C. Bernard Carey qualified to hold the state's attorney position, and Hanrahan unqualified because of his temperament and because he is under indictment in the Black Panther case.

Hanrahan in return charged that the bar association is prejudiced against him.

Neither Hanrahan nor Berg will be able to attend a meeting scheduled for Tuesday night by the Palatine Township Regular Democratic Organization, their campaign offices said. However, Moore will attend the 8 p.m. meeting at the Palatine Savings and Loan Association, 100 W. Palatine Rd.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 89 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli plane and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced withdrawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

The Weather

The Market

Speculative buyers appeared to invade the market to push it to its highest levels of 1972. The Dow Jones industrial average reached 935.43 as turnover reached 23,670,000 shares. Volume totaled 20,320,000 shares as advances topped declines 913 to 573 among the 1,786 issues crossing the tape. Prices were higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Plan 'Task Force' To Help Solve Problems Facing Elderly

by KURT BAER

Nearly 50 churches, civic and social agencies have been invited to send representatives to a March 14 meeting to discuss the formation of a broadly based task force on problems of the elderly.

Included are village managers from Palatine, Buffalo Grove, and Rolling Meadows; school board presidents from Dist. 25, 23, 21, 59 and 214; supervisors from Wheeling, Palatine and Elk Grove townships; the executive vice president of Northwest Community Hospital and the director of the Lutheran Home for the Aged.

The organizational meeting will be led by Arlington Heights Trustee Dwight Walton who is chairman of the Village Board's public relations committee.

In a cover letter to prospective task force members, Walton explained the March 14 meeting would explore how the task force should be organized and what role it might play in dealing with problems of the elderly.

ALSO ASKED TO attend the meeting were the president of the board of trustees of Harper College; senior citizen clubs in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Northbrook; Countryside YMCA; the Arlington Heights Board of Health, Chamber of Commerce, Park District and Library and the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Nineteen Arlington Heights churches have also been invited.

In his letter, Walton noted the Arlington Heights Village Board of Trustees "and many others feel a more directed effort can, and should be expended in order to make life more viable for this elderly segment of our population."

Arlington Heights now offers senior citizens, 65 years of age or older, reduced rates on the purchase of village vehicle stickers and reduced garbage collection rates.

The Arlington Heights Park District also offers what it calls a "Gold Key" to elderly residents which allows them to use all park facilities and programs in the district without charge.

Although Arlington Heights is one of few Northwest suburbs now making special efforts to meet the needs of its elderly, the village board has gone on record in support of extending special village, and when feasible, private services to its senior citizens.

According to the 1970 U.S. Census, 3,236 people over the age of 65 live in Arlington Heights.

THE IDEA OF a task force on problems of the elderly was proposed in a resolution presented by Arlington Heights Trustee James T. Ryan at a Nov. 15 meeting of the Village Board.

At that time, the village board referred the matter to its public relations committee.

"I don't think for a moment that such a task force is going to solve or even isolate all of the local problems confronting the elderly. I do think that it could be a step forward and most importantly, a local step," Ryan said.

Teen's Essay On Safety Takes Him To Finals

The Illinois Editors' Traffic Safety Seminar annually conducts an essay competition throughout the state. This year more than 800 boys and girls wrote on the topic "My Program for Improving My Community's Teen-age Traffic Safety Record."

One of the finalists, competing for one of 10 $500 scholarships offered by the Chicago Motor Club, is Gregory Tehle, a Palatine resident and student at Palatine High School. His essay is reprinted below.

"IN PALATINE, Illinois, during 1970 alone, there were 378 accidents resulting in 123 injuries and one death. This record certainly could be improved. To improve the habits of today's drivers, the positive changes must start before a person can legally be licensed to drive an automobile, when the individual is a teen-ager.

"My program for improving my community's teen-age traffic safety record would actually involve only two fields: education and recreation.

"Driver's education, as presented in a high school curriculum, has improved, and changes are made each year to accommodate the students and the laws. High school driver's education should be the last step in a program for driver's training, not one and only instruction an individual has before he is turned loose onto this country's roads. A good driver should be familiar with all aspects of driving. These aspects include: the mechanical operation of the automobile, proper driving habits, a thorough knowledge of the safety laws, and a knowledge of the consequences of poor driving — this state's law enforcement system. A program including these topics should be started in the eighth grade, not in the second year of high school.

"Of these four topics, law enforcement should be stressed to the utmost in a driver's training. More often than not, only when a driver receives a ticket, does he realize his driving habits are poor. After a ticket — and for many, only after a ticket — does an individual come in contact with the community court. This is often an unpleasant experience. A field trip to a traffic court could be a useful and educational experience to an interested student. Such field trips would be a part of the driver's education program.

"RECREATION, as far as driving is concerned, contains the positive reinforcement a good driver needs. In recreation, two fields come to mind: school clubs and amateur racing clubs.

"School sponsored driving — and car clubs are perhaps the only clubs my high school does not have, yet these clubs could be the most popular of activities with a wide range of students. The clubs would offer a place where a student could go to get advice about his car from an auto mechanics teacher, outside of the auto mechanics class. Tune-ups and auto maintenance could be performed in the facilities already available in a school's auto shop.

"Amateur racing clubs would be divided into two categories: drag racing and road rallies.

"DRAG RACING is a very popular sport, yet the nearest drag strips are more than a half hour's drive from many surrounding communities. These facilities are professional in nature and are almost invariably crowded. What is needed is a community or area amateur drag racing strip, operated and funded by the drag racing enthusiasts in the area. These facilities, if properly operated, would most certainly relieve the illegal drag racing that persists on the road today.

"Road rallies, just like drag racing, are professional in nature and are overcrowded. Community sponsored road rallies could interest the other kind of racing fan.

"Teen-age driving today is often the result of boredom. If proper driving habits could be instilled before a driver is licensed, and recreation facilities could be provided for each community for the licensed driver, many of the unnecessary accidents on the road today would be prevented."

Silence Broken On School Salary Pact Talks

items that involve money. Other working condition items are reserved for committee study and subsequent board action.

IN ORDER TO meet a tight budget, the board has proposed keeping the present salary schedule. The teachers' added year of experience would move them up one step or up five per cent. In addition, the board proposes holding 20 per cent of the teachers at their present level so the top 10 per cent of the teachers can get an extra merit raise. For the sake of stability, the board also proposes the new salary contract be effective for three years, with an option to negotiate the schedule's base salary.

The board has also called for paid

workshops but no reimbursement for tuition expenses. The board team contends the teachers should not be given flat credit for all teaching experience and that extra experience should be in a teacher's specific subject area.

The teachers, on the other hand, want higher salaries with a cost of living increment, credit for related non-teaching experience and fewer steps before a maximum salary is reached. They also want to be paid for personal leave, extra duty assignments and workshops. A salary boost has been proposed for summer employees and special positions. And the teachers have asked for district paid medical and dental insurance coverage.

APART FROM the salary issues, the teachers have asked the board and the administration to develop a clearer definition of their duties, their work day and evaluation procedures. In order to improve education, they feel it is important to reduce the number of students in each classroom and to release teachers for training workshops.

The teachers also feel that as an integral part of the school operation they should have more of a voice in policy decisions — on curriculum revisions, instruction restraints, building changes and other areas of mutual concern.

At the bargaining table the teachers want to be able to negotiate more items, and if no agreement is reached they want to be able to call in an arbitrator who may issue a binding settlement.

from the gunboats on the Yangtze River" were also mapped out by Williford. His aggressiveness in organizing all these activities gave him the opportunity to buy an official Chinese rickshaw with coolie to get him around the mainland.

China, as Williford saw it, was relatively untouched by the World War raging in Europe. While the troops knew what was happening, the Chinese natives knew very little, if anything, about the outside world.

There was no resentment then of American troops or "imperialist aggression" as is heard now in the China of today.

"We got along well and were very close to the natives," Williford said. "They didn't really know what we were and they didn't care. They just knew we were foreigners."

The only resentment Williford said he ever felt from any Chinese was from some of the foreign-educated natives who returned home.

"THE MOST COMMON question I heard from them was why we had American missionaries in their country," Williford recalled. The strongly Buddhist Chinese resented having Christian doctrines from another land pushed on them.

Chinese in and around Tientsin were almost completely oriented toward farming the land. Either a native worked in the fields or he worked as a "coolie laborer" by hauling carts and carrying loads for the farmers, Williford said.

Any military hostilities that erupted occurred between the troops themselves that were stationed in the area. Williford said his 15th Infantry was the "first and only American unit to engage in hand-to-hand fights in Tientsin," and this occurred out of inner rivalries rather than out of war tensions.

At the outbreak of the war, the Chinese severed relations with the Germans and took away all German concessions that had been allowed to them in Tientsin, Williford said. They even went so far as to rename a main street through the German section of town "Woodrow Wilson Drive."

Still, the native Chinese in the towns and villages remain detached from the world feud, although Williford saw "a lot of internal strife."

Land and property owners in China battled one another to gain possession of each other's land, often bringing much bloodshed to themselves and those that worked for them, he said.

During his time in China, Williford saw two cholera epidemics, although he was unaffected by the disease. On his return to the United States, he was waylaid in Manila two months and placed in quarantine to make sure he could pass nothing on to other soldiers.

OF ALL THE many cultural differences between Americans and the Chinese, Williford most strongly remembers the Chinese attitudes towards women and parental control.

"The Chinese children had the greatest respect and admiration for their parents," he said, something which he wishes "happened more here."

Women in China were completely subservient to men and became "rather a cheap commodity" to most men, he said. Such female inferiority was carried out to extremes in interior lands of China, he said, describing such primitive practices as killing the third child, if it happened to be a girl, and offering the body to gods.

These extremes were not well liked by Williford, but he says he did appreciate the duty of a woman to serve her man.

"During 48 years of married life I've tried to get my wife to walk three feet behind me like the Chinese, but she just makes me walk three feet behind her," he says.

Williford, great-grandfather of seven, has often thought of returning to China.

"If I were 25 years younger, I'd like to go back and enter the import-export business," he says. But he's not, and now he's content with his memories of China.

Besides, as he's quick to tell you, you can't get chop suey in China.

Hospital, Fire Officials Weigh Emergency Training

Officials of Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and from area fire departments decided Wednesday to determine how much training ambulance personnel need to provide emergency treatment to the injured and the ill.

That determination then will provide the basis for setting up an ongoing training course for the ambulance attendants, according to Malcolm D. MacCoun, president of the hospital.

The training question was prompted by a proposal to set up a six-community mobile heart attack care system, to be based at the hospital.

Doctors at the hospital decided last week that the proposal cannot be separated from the whole question of a training course for firemen and other ambulance attendants.

"We owe it to the public that if we extend our services beyond the hospital and into the home, it ought to be well thought out," MacCoun said.

Details regarding what the training should encompass and how long the training sessions will last are to be arranged following the study of what the firemen need to know to provide emergency treatment.

The firemen attending Wednesday's meeting agreed to provide MacCoun with a breakdown of the types of ambulatory calls their departments received last year.

The villages of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Lake Zurich were represented at the meeting, as well as the City of Rolling Meadows and Harper College.

Baby Sitter Much Like Lion Tamer

by BOB ANDERSEN

It just never occurred to me that tending to folks one-third your size, one-sixth your age, and, at least theoretically, a fraction of your mental capacity could be such a formidable task.

The conclusion, however, was forced as I, a semi-confirmed bachelor of 29, sat among some 75 attentive (and occasionally giggling) adolescent school girls and listened to an expert compare baby sitting to performing in a circus.

"You're going to have to be a little bit of everything," she cautioned.

AND SHE WASN'T kidding. Any baby-sitter worth her (or his) salt must be a combination "lion-tamer, tight-rope walker, ballerina, ring master and clown." Mrs. Dodgion claimed.

Mrs. Dodgion, director of the Early Learners Nursery School in Hoffman Estates, was a guest lecturer at the third session of "You're In Charge," a baby-sitter clinic sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Jaycee Wives.

The clinic, featuring talks by local nurses and school, police and fire department officials, is being held at the Vogelei Recreation Barn in Hoffman Estates. The clinic, costing $1, continues through March 29.

My assignment was to attend the session on preschoolers and return with a uniquely bachelor's view of riding herd (oops, I mean baby-sitting) on these lethal, ever-energetic tots aged three through five.

IN THE MAIN, Mrs. Dodgion dealt with three basic baby-sitting realities which, in order, were:

—How to convince your temporary wards you are essentially a good Joe — or Jane — and deserving of their affection and respect. "Kids can spot a phony right away," Mrs. Dodgion said.

—How to occupy and entertain the little ones now that they love, respect and trust you.

—How to "cajole" the children to bed.

The key to winning the kids over (the first step) is demonstrating sincere interest in them, Mrs. Dodgion told the girls and me. This, I found out, requires the combined talents of the tightrope walker, ballerina and clown.

ONE MUST, according to Mrs. Dodgion, mix a little vinegar with the sugar in this popularity quest. "Kids also need boundaries and rules," she explained. "They will test you." A bit of the lion-tamer or the ring-master, perhaps.

A vital part of entertaining and occupying the children is understanding them. Mrs. Dodgion said three-year-olds have short attention spans and tend to be more selfish than magnanimous. Four-year-olds think "everything is funny" and are finding out there are indeed other people in the world. Five-year-olds, having acquired a little sophistication by attending kindergarten, tend to be less selfish and more magnanimous than the three-year-olds.

Mrs. Dodgion's advice to us was to start becoming "scavengers." Everlastingly curious, preschoolers respond most quickly to new toys.

Thus, the child expert said, collect a variety of toys and keep them in a "Goody Bag." Moreover, she added, "don't put all your eggs in one basket."

"SURPRISE THE kids with a different toy every time you visit."

Little boys, Mrs. Dodgion claimed, are easier to entertain than little girls. The boys will often occupy themselves with toy trucks and cars and the like. Little girls are more demanding. For instance, they like to dress up which means one should keep a healthy assortment of "old fans, jewelry, etc." in the Goody Bag.

Also, she added, little girls love to "comb out" the long hair currently fashionable with young girls. This, I thought, shouldn't put the masculine gender at too much of a disadvantage given today's hair styles.

Okay. Now the lots love and respect you and you have succeeded in your role as ballerina and clown by keeping them entertained. It is time for the real test . . . bedtime.

IN A SOMEWHAT understated fashion, Mrs. Dodgion informed us preschoolers usually "don't want to go to bed." Again she suggests mixtures of the ring-master, the lion-tamer and the clown.

First, she says, "simmer" them down. Then, after getting them in their pajamas and showing them the bathroom, tuck them under the covers.

Then what? Right . . . tell them a bedtime story. "Made-up stories" are the best, Mrs. Dodgion said.

The three and four-year-olds prefer picture books. Then, if your lucky, the kids, stirred by the pictures, will tell you the story, saving considerable mental anguish for the unimaginative.

WHAT HAPPENS IF, even after you have followed all the rules, the children refuse to sleep and instead fuss and act up?

Mrs. Dodgion did suggest alternative solutions. You can "tell them another story" or tell them their mother will be home soon or, perhaps, leave the hall light on. Some children are afraid of the dark.

Be aware, she said, they may still be testing you. Sometime firmness (the lion-tamer) is in order and other times humor (the clown) will suffice.

Baby-sitting is a responsibility, Mrs. Dodgion told the girls. It also can be an extremely beneficial and learning experience, she added, if approached with sincerity and understanding.

My conclusions? Well, I haven't started filling a "Goody Bag" and have never had a yen to be a circus performer. It requires a more versatile performer than I.

Waverly Park Opposition A Factor

Finance Panel Says 'No' To $41,000 Parks Request

The Rolling Meadows Finance Committee has turned back a Park District request for $41,000 to purchase playground equipment in light of adverse public reaction to parts of the proposal.

Ald Kenneth Retzke, committee chairman, recommended that the park board reconsider the proposal, schedule public hearings and, if the hearings warrant it, make changes in the proposal, before bringing it back to the city committee.

The action was taken at a recent committee meeting attended by about 20 people who objected to parts of the proposal, and by a majority of the city's aldermen.

Residents from the Waverly Park area and the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex area were vocal in their criticism of parts of the proposal that would affect their neighborhoods.

The park proposal, revealed in January, called for major purchases of playground equipment to be installed at three locations near Kimball Hill school, behind the sports complex and near Cardinal Drive School.

The proposal was accompanied by an announcement that the park district would seek $41,000 from the city to purchase and install the playground equipment.

THE WAVERLY Park residents objected that no playground equipment for Waverly Park was included in the proposal, even though the park district indicated months ago that they were considering the purchase of $10,000 worth of equipment for that park.

Residents from the sports complex area expressed opposition to plans to put playground equipment there. They told the committee their objections were based on their feelings that the Sports Complex area is over congested now with people using the existing facilities, and additional equipment would only aggravate the problem.

The sports complex has generated a number of complaints from residents in recent months. Most have been about vandalism in the neighborhood or about teenagers using a gravel road behind the complex for a drag racing strip. The park district closed the road several months ago.

Retzke told the park representatives that they should consider the reactions of the aldermen and the people and get more opinions from residents in the affected areas before bringing the proposal back to the finance committee.

Bill Billings, park board president, said yesterday that the district's building and grounds committee was meeting last night to discuss the course of action to be taken.

Billings said there is a possibility that the park board may scrap their fund request proposal, but he said that is not likely.

He also said the park district has plans on the board to complete improvements at Waverly Park out of its own budget. He said the Waverly Park improvements are included in a "matching" $41,000 park renovation proposal that is being budgeted by the park district. This proposal is separate from the one seeking $41,000 from the city.

Resource Center Gives Pupils New Perspective

by JOANN VAN WYE

Individualized education took on a new perspective at Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows last week with the opening of a learning resource center.

Designed to centralize instructional materials for all grade levels in one area, the center makes many different types of material easily accessible to students to work with independently. It also creates an atmosphere for self-motivated and self-directed learning activities.

Gerald Scholl, principal, said that while most of the equipment is not new, it is hoped it will receive greater utilization by concentrating it in one area rather than dividing it among many classrooms. He said a 20 to 40 per cent increase in utilization of the material is anticipated.

At the present time the center is only open for three hours on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. As many as 60 students have used the room in a single morning.

TO USE THE resource center a student is given a resource center study contract by his teacher specifying what he is to do in the center. The librarian helps the student find the equipment he needs and shows him how to operate it. The student then does the prescribed work, has it recorded and scored, and returns it to his teacher.

"The librarian's role is changing from one who checks books out to one who coordinates the use of many different types of instructional materials," Scholl said.

"Hopefully the students will reach a point where they will be able to match their skills with the equipment available," he continued.

The moving force behind forming a resource center at Salk, according to Scholl, has been Mrs. Kathy Ryan, the teacher supervisor at the school. Mrs. Ryan suggested several means the teachers could use to individualize instruction at the beginning of the year and the center was one means the teachers felt would be valuable in "breaking the traditional bonds."

The staff spent its winter institute day touring five schools outside the district and seeing resource centers in operation. From the tours, the teachers got a better perspective of what they wanted at Salk School. Consultants were also brought in from Northern Illinois University to discuss formation of a resource center with the staff, and how to evaluate the success of the center.

GOALS ESTABLISHED for the center include creating a desire to learn, closer teacher-pupil interaction, more effective utilization of instructional materials, developing aesthetic interests, improving attitudes to reading, and helping students develop into independent and creative learners.

Expansion plans have already been proposed for the resource center. In addition to expanding the instructional materials available, the staff would like to physically expand the facility.

An instructional improvement grant application prepared by Mrs. Ryan and submitted to the Department of Instruction, seeks funds for the expansion. Proposed is the removal of a wall to double the size of the center, more electrical outlets for audio-visual equipment in the room, furniture such as tables, barrels, portable bookshelves, and chairs, carpeting, and movement of the present library into the expanded area.

Salk School is also seeking nomination from the superintendent for a $5,000 Title II grant from the state to expand the resource center. Two other schools in the district, Virginia Lake School and Gray M. Sanborn School both in Palatine, are also seeking to be nominated for the grant.

As to combining the library and resource center, Scholl said, "We would like to make the facility as open as possible, as soon as possible, but also as cautiously as possible."

THE NEW RESOURCE CENTER at Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows offers students a different experience in learning and an opportunity to work independently.

Rolling Meadows Man Heads Relief Fund

A Rolling Meadows man has been named among 50 sponsors, including many prominent national figures, for the Emergency Relief Fund, a Michigan-based organization raising funds for returning refugees to the newly formed Bangladesh nation.

Harold Nicodem of Rolling Meadows along with such figures as Democratic Senators Frank Church of Idaho and Harold Hughes of Iowa, Republican Congressman Paul McCloskey of California, former ambassadors, entertainers and businessmen, is lending his name to the fund drive sponsored by the Lansing-based group.

The Emergency Relief Fund calls itself a non-profit organization established last year to aid the East Pakistani refugees in India.

The organization is conducting a six-month campaign to aid the returning refugees until crops can be planted, grown and harvested in war torn Bangladesh.

Plan Task Force On The Aged

by KURT BAER

Nearly 50 churches, civic and social agencies have been invited to send representatives to a March 14 meeting to discuss the formation of a broadly based task force on problems of the elderly.

Included are village managers from Palatine, Buffalo Grove, and Rolling Meadows, school board presidents from Dist. 25, 23, 21, 59 and 214, supervisors from Wheeling, Palatine and Elk Grove townships, the executive vice president of Northwest Community Hospital and the director of the Lutheran Home for the Aged.

The organizational meeting will be led by Arlington Heights Trustee Dwight Walton who is chairman of the Village Board's public relations committee.

In a cover letter to prospective task force members, Walton explained the March 14 meeting would explore how the task force should be organized and what role it might play in dealing with problems of the elderly.

ALSO ASKED TO attend the meeting were the president of the board of trustees of Harper College, senior citizen clubs in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Northbrook, Countryside YMCA, the Arlington Heights Board of Health, Chamber of Commerce, Park District and Library and the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Nineteen Arlington Heights churches have also been invited.

In his letter, Walton noted the Arlington Heights Village Board of Trustees "and many others feel a more directed effort can, and should be expended in order to make life more viable for this elderly segment of our population."

Arlington Heights now offers senior citizens, 65 years of age or older, reduced rates on the purchase of village vehicle stickers and reduced garbage collection rates.

The Arlington Heights Park District also offers what it calls a "Gold Key" to elderly residents which allows them to use all park facilities and programs in the district without charge.

Although Arlington Heights is one of few Northwest suburbs now making special efforts to meet the needs of its elderly, the village board has gone on record in support of extending special village, and when feasible, private services to its senior citizens.

According to the 1970 U.S. Census, 3,236 people over the age of 65 live in Arlington Heights.

THE IDEA of a task force on problems of the elderly was proposed in a resolution presented by Arlington Heights Trustee James T. Ryan at a Nov. 15 meeting of the Village Board.

At that time, the village board referred the matter to its public relations committee.

"I don't think for a moment that such a task force is going to solve or even isolate all of the local problems confronting the elderly. I do think that it could be a step forward and most importantly, a local step," Ryan said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 69 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli planes and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced with drawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

Scout Units Named 'Best In District'

Three Arlington Heights scout units were honored as best in the Sauk Woods Boy Scout District for 1971 at the eighth annual recognition dinner.

Thomas A. Hendricks, commissioner of the district serving Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows, presented the awards during ceremonies at the Knights of Columbus Hall, to the top-ranking Cub Scout Pack, Boy Scout Troop, and Explorer Scout Post.

Receiving the awards were Cub Pack 34, headed by Bruce Hagen and sponsored by Wilson School PTA; Troop 159, led by Scoutmaster Fred Tuller and sponsored by St. Simon's Episcopal Church; and Post 32, sponsored by First Presbyterian Men's Club and headed by Advisor Ed Burling.

Three Scout leaders were presented with the Wood Badge, signifying completion of the demanding international training course established by Scouting's founder, Lord Robert Baden-Powell. They are George S. Chapman and William F. Stout of Arlington Heights, and Jack P. Medley of Rolling Meadows.

Cub leader training awards went to den mothers Roberta Brehmer, Joyce Campbell, Pat Evans, Carol Johnson, Kay Milling, Cheryl Sandersfeld, Marlene Theis and Judy Utendorf.

Boy Scout leader training awards were presented to George S. Chapman, Walt Draxler, Qen Evans, Rod Garcia, Don Kuthe, Andy Miller, Robert Radasch, Dick Schowengerdt, Paul Schroeder and Fred Tuller.

Scouter's keys, denoting satisfactory completion of specified training and service requirements, were received by Robert Beiers, Ralph Hauptly, Edward Kemper, Art Klein, James Ringel, Warren Runatz, and Robert Schmidt.

Gerald S. Chapman, Hendricks and Robert Huebner also received commissioner's keys, a special award for distinguished service to Scouting.

Chapman also received a plaque recognizing his work as director of training for the district.

Charles F. Hayes, editor and publisher of Paddock Publications, received Scouting's gold quilt award in recognition of the Herald's coverage of scouting events. Shepherd Publications, Palatine, was similarly honored.

A total 38 Boy Scouts in the Sauk Woods District earned the rank of eagle, highest in the order, during 1971. A total 748 Cub Scouts and 501 Boy Scouts advanced in rank during the year.

One of seven districts comprising the Northwest Suburban Council, Sauk Woods serves 25 packs, 22 troops, and 9 posts.

FAMILY AFFAIR at Sauk Woods District Scout banquet saw State Rep. Eugenia Chapman watch husband Gerald Chapman present Wood Badge beads to their son, George.

The senior Chapman received a special award for his leadership training activities in the Arlington Heights-Rolling Meadows district.

Favor Area Transit District

Palatine officials favor the creation of a regional mass transportation district for the Northwest suburbs but are uncommitted as to whether Chicago should be included in the plan.

Mayor Jack Moodie this week presented four alternatives to the Palatine Village Board for a statement of position to be submitted to the Northwest Municipal Conference on a proposal for a transportation district.

Moodie, who also is president of the municipal conference for the current year, told the trustees there is a "feeling that all the federal money will go to Chicago (because of the Chicago Transit Authority) for the next 15 years" if no more is made by the suburbs to form another district.

"If the federal government makes the money available, it should be spent where it is needed," Moodie said.

He suggested the board could either take no action; recommend formation of a regional transportation district including Chicago; recommend a similar district but excluding Chicago; or recommend formation of multiple districts in smaller areas that would also be able to qualify for federal funds to build local mass transit facilities.

Moodie recommended that the board approve a broad plan that suggests the formation of a regional district but "not be specific what form it should take."

TRUSTEES AGREED with his basic proposal, but attitudes among them varied on the question of involving Chicago in the plan. Trustee Tom Ahern warned that if the CTA is ignored by the suburbs, a suburban transit railroad line might be created that stops short and won't provide a direct route to Chicago.

Others were concerned about the strong amount of influence Chicago might have in a transportation that includes the CTA.

The open recommendation of the board still leaves room for a decision on Chicago after more information on the effects of creating a regional district is brought out.

The broad position of the village board has been presented to the Northwest Municipal Conference and will be submitted Saturday at a meeting of officials from several area communities to discuss a plan for a mass transit district that excludes Chicago. Moodie is expected to attend.

This meeting, to be held at the Arlington Park Towers, was organized by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh who strongly supports the exclusion of Chicago from the plan. Walsh suggests that Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will Counties be involved in a single district, without Chicago.

Students And Faculty To Battle In Basketball Game

Faculty members and students at Rolling Meadows High School will battle it out Saturday in the first annual student-faculty basketball game at 8:30 p.m. in the gymnasium.

A preliminary game featuring the Rolling Meadows Booster Club challenging the Hersey Booster Club will start at 7 p.m. Coaching the Rolling Meadows Booster Club team will be Mike Quinn, president of the varsity club, and Dave Sander, treasurer of the varsity club.

Ladies from both booster clubs will be leading cheers for their teams.

The second game will be the faculty vs. the Rolling Meadows Mustang Varsity Club. Coaching the varsity club will be Bill Geegan, secretary of the varsity club and Jack Lloyd a member of the varsity club.

Incoming letterman will be cheering for the letterman team as part of their initiation to the varsity club.

Tickets for the game are $1 for adults, 75 cents for students at the door and 50 cents if they are purchased before game time and 50 cents for children under 12.

Cheerleaders Third

St. Colette School's eighth grade cheerleading squad captured third place in a cheerleading competition in Mundelein last week.

Twenty-seven schools were represented in the competition.

top-ranking units for 1971 were represented by Robert Huebner, Cub Pack 34; James Ringel, Explorer Post 32; and Fred Tuller, Troop 159.

Palatine Man Took 'Slow Boat To China' In 1915

by MARGE FERROLI

The proverbial slow boat to China takes 37 days to get there from America. At least it did in 1915.

Transportation has most certainly improved, taking President Nixon and his entourage less than a week to get to Peking and including a leisurely stopover in Hawaii.

But Alvah Williford, a 76-year-old retired Arlington Heights man who now works part-time as a sanitarian for the Palatine Health Department, can remember well his trip to China and his five-year stay there as an enlisted man for the U. S. Army.

It was a year before the outbreak of World War I that Williford first arrived in a land he knew almost nothing about. He was 19 then, but his years there gave him a better education than he thinks he could have received most anywhere else.

"I had 25 years of education in five years," he said, explaining that his experiences were "far more knowledgeable than anything Nixon or the other diplomats could have seen."

After living and working among the native Chinese throughout his stay, Williford has a high respect for them, particularly a respect for their shrewdness.

"The Chinese are good teachers and you better be a good pupil," Williford says, almost as a word of advice to the President. "They never let anything go to waste," he says, whether it be food, materials or knowledge.

Williford picked up a lot of business know-how while stationed in Tientsin, a fairly large port city about 70 miles southeast of Peking on the Yellow Sea.

HIS JOB, LIKE the 1,200 other troops stationed there, was to guard the American and British interests in the Peking-Mukden Railroad, a line which ran from the Chinese capital to Mukden (now called Shenyang) several hundred miles northeast.

When not working with the 15th Infantry, to which he had been assigned, he traveled extensively and managed to become quite an organization man.

At the age of 20, Williford started and operated the 15th Infantry Club, a restaurant and gathering place for the American GIs stationed there. He also organized boxing matches for the entertainment of the troops, much sooner than Bob Hope got the idea.

Baseball leagues and games between the various units stationed in Tientsin, Peking, Manila, Japan and the "sailors from the gunboats on the Yangtze River" were also mapped out by Williford. His aggressiveness in organizing all these activities gave him the opportunity to buy an official Chinese rickshaw with coolie to get him around the mainland.

China, as Williford saw it, was relatively untouched by the World War raging in Europe. While the troops knew what was happening, the Chinese natives knew very little, if anything, about the outside world.

There was no resentment then of American troops or "imperialist aggression" as is heard now in the China of today.

"We got along well and were very close to the natives," Williford said. "They didn't really know what we were and they didn't care. They just knew we were foreigners."

The only resentment Williford said he ever felt from any Chinese was from some of the foreign-educated natives who returned home.

"THE MOST COMMON question I heard from them was why we had American missionaries in their country," Williford recalled. The strongly Buddhist Chinese resented having Christian doctrines from another land pushed on them.

Chinese in and around Tientsin were almost completely oriented toward farming the land. Either a native worked in the fields or he worked as a "coolie laborer" by hauling carts and carrying loads for the farmers, Williford said.

Any military hostilities that erupted occurred between the troops themselves that were stationed in the area. Williford said his 15th Infantry was the "first and only American unit to engage in hand-to-hand fights in Tientsin," and this occurred out of inner rivalries rather than out of war tensions.

At the outbreak of the war, the Chinese severed relations with the Germans and took away all German concessions that had been allowed to them in Tientsin, Williford said. They even went so far as to rename a main street through the German section of town "Woodrow Wilson Drive."

Still, the native Chinese in the towns and villages remain detached from the world feud, although Williford saw "a lot of internal strife."

Land and property owners in China battled one another to gain possession of each other's land, often bringing much bloodshed to themselves and those that worked for them, he said.

During his time in China, Williford saw two cholera epidemics, although he was unaffected by the disease. On his return to the United States, he was waylaid in Manila two months and placed in quarantine to make sure he could pass nothing on to other soldiers.

OF ALL THE many cultural differences between Americans and the Chinese, Williford most strongly remembers the Chinese attitudes towards women and parental control.

"The Chinese children had the greatest respect and admiration for their parents," he said, something which he wishes "happened more here."

Women in China were completely subservient to men and became "rather a cheap commodity" to most men, he said. Such female inferiority was carried out to extremes in interior lands of China, he said, describing such primitive practices as killing the third child, if it happened to be a girl, and offering the body to gods.

These extremes were not well liked by Williford, but he says he did appreciate the duty of a woman to serve her man.

"During 48 years of married life I've tried to get my wife to walk three feet behind me like the Chinese, but she just makes me walk three feet behind her," he says.

Williford, great-grandfather of seven, has often thought of returning to China.

"If I were 25 years younger, I'd like to go back and enter the import-export business," he says. But he's not, and now he's content with his memories of China.

Besides, as he's quick to tell you, you can't get chop suey in China.

Four Candidates Support School Tax Referendum

Four of five candidates for the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board will support a 39-cent tax hike referendum on March 25.

Independent Albert Moeser, 1006 Golfhurst Ave., is the only candidate to announce he does not favor the proposed hike. His opponents for two three-year terms are incumbent Alex Casper, 207 Orchard Pl.; William Holloway, 917 S. Maple St.; Michael Ward, 400 S. Main St.; and Peter Olesen, 126 Bobby Ln.

When he appeared for caucus endorsement, which he did not receive, Moeser indicated he supported the referendum. He said yesterday he changed his mind after "listening to my supporters and paying more attention to the school board and administration."

"AT FIRST I was convinced the referendum was required to keep our schools functioning," he said. "Since becoming more involved, and after making my own investigation, I feel in my own mind that the referendum is not in the best interest of all. It is only a stopgap measure at best and will only postpone the crisis."

Moeser indicated he did not feel the referendum would bring in enough money to prevent another financial crisis next year. He blamed the current crisis on mismanagement of funds by the board and administration. Better management and long-range planning, he said, could have prevented it.

If elected, Moeser said he will recommend evaluation of the administration to see if cutbacks can be made in that area.

UNLIKE HIS OPPONENT, Olesen, a caucus candidate, said he is "100 per cent for the referendum. I consider that more important than my election. I intend to work for the referendum, not part of any group, but as an individual."

Casper said he will also actively work for passage of the hike.

"Although I don't anticipate going around in the community, I will attend coffees and speak for the referendum when I am asked. I am thoroughly in favor of it."

Ward, an independent, favors the proposed hike, but not future referendums.

"I favor a one-time referendum to maintain quality education," he said. "But better management and planning is needed. This one is necessary because of poor management by the board."

Holloway, a caucus candidate, could not be reached for comment. However, when he appeared before the caucus he indicated he was in support of the referendum.

MRS. RICHARD JORDAN known to Sunset Park School students as the "Spinning Lady," uses an antique loom demonstration Tuesday was part of the cultural arts program sponsored by the Sunset PTA.

Teachers' Association Will Support Referendum Passage

The Mount Prospect Education Association will help work for passage of a 39-cent tax hike referendum in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 if asked to do by the school board or administration, according to MPEA officials.

Dale Heilman, MPEA president, said the association will work in the background if asked. He said the MPEA would not initiate a large effort of its own because of a recommendation made by the Illinois Education Association. IEA recommends that teacher groups not work "in the front lines" during a referendum, Heilman said.

"Many groups in the district would feel we are out there just for our own gains," he said. "The MPEA is out for quality education and maintaining programs but some people would feel we are doing it for ourselves."

Heilman did say the MPEA would work by encouraging teachers living in the district to vote "yes" March 25. He said MPEA representatives will also be available to speak at coffees or PTA meetings.

Ward Store Thief Found, Pleads Guilty

Just shy of a year after money and payroll checks were stolen from the Montgomery Ward store at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect, the thief has been found and convicted.

The Mount Prospect Police Department found its suspect, Frank Ballard, serving a jail term in the federal penitentiary in Terre Haute, Ind. under the name Val Arthur Simmonds. He is also known as Chester A. Shiro.

At the time of the theft, March 20, 1971, the Wards store was undergoing expansion and the company was using a trailer as an office. The trailer office was broken into and $130 in cash and 68 blank payroll checks were taken.

The checks began appearing in the Chicago area two days later. A used car was bought for $191.41 from a Chicago currency exchange with one of them. Another, for $149.94, was cashed at the Golden Eagle Tavern in Des Plaines.

Ballard had been hired at Wards Jan. 21, 1971 and was fired two days before the theft.

In Niles Court Tuesday, Ballard pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of theft in the Ward's incident and received a one year's sentence to run concurrently with his four-year federal sentence.

Junior High Finds 7 Tape Players Gone

Seven cassette tape players were discovered missing Tuesday from Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

An inventory was taken by Principal Thomas Powers after he read in the Des Plaines Herald that a youth had confessed to taking a tape player from the school, according to Mount Prospect police. Des Plaines police have turned the 12-year-old boy over to juvenile authorities.

The police said it is not known whether the boy took all seven of the recorders. The school is located at 420 W. Dempster St.

Plan 'Task Force' To Help Solve Problems Facing Elderly

Nearly 50 churches, civic and social agencies have been invited to send representatives to a March 14 meeting to discuss the formation of a broadly based task force on problems of the elderly.

Included are village managers from Palatine, Buffalo Grove, and Rolling Meadows; school board presidents from Dist. 23, 21, 59 and 214; supervisors from Wheeling, Palatine and Elk Grove townships; the executive vice president of Northwest Community Hospital and the director of the Lutheran Home for the Aged.

The organizational meeting will be led by Arlington Heights Trustee Dwight Walton who is chairman of the Village Board's public relations committee.

In a cover letter to prospective task force members, Walton explained the March 14 meeting would explore how the task force should be organized and what role it might play in dealing with problems of the elderly.

ALSO ASKED TO attend the meeting were the president of the board of trustees of Harper College; senior citizen clubs in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Northbrook; Countryside YMCA; the Arlington Heights Board of Health, Chamber of Commerce, Park District and Library and the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Nineteen Arlington Heights churches have also been invited.

In his letter, Walton noted the Arlington Heights Village Board of Trustees

"and many others feel a more directed effort can, and should be expended in order to make life more viable for this elderly segment of our population."

Arlington Heights now offers senior citizens, 65 years of age or older, reduced rates on the purchase of village vehicle stickers and reduced garbage collection rates.

The Arlington Heights Park District also offers what it calls a "Gold Key" to elderly residents which allows them to use all park facilities and programs in the district without charge.

Although Arlington Heights is one of few Northwest suburbs now making special efforts to meet the needs of its elderly, the village board has gone on record in support of extending special village, and when feasible, private services to its senior citizens.

According to the 1970 U.S. Census, 3,236 people over the age of 65 live in Arlington Heights.

THE IDEA OF a task force on problems of the elderly was proposed in a resolution presented by Arlington Heights Trustee James T. Ryan at a Nov. 15 meeting of the Village Board.

At that time, the village board referred the matter to its public relations committee.

"I don't think for a moment that such a task force is going to solve or even isolate all of the local problems confronting the elderly. I do think that it could be a step forward and most importantly, a local step," Ryan said.

Tickets Go On Sale For Fiedler Concert

Tickets are now on sale for two Hersey High School band concerts featuring guest conductor Arthur Fiedler of the Boston Pops Symphony Orchestra in April.

The two performances will be presented at 8 p.m. April 3 and 4 in Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Rd., Arlington Heights. Tickets may be purchased at the school for $3 each.

The April concert will mark the second time Fiedler has performed with the Hersey band, the only high school band he has conducted.

Fiedler began his career at the age of 20 as a violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and was named conductor of the Boston Pops in 1930.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 89 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli planes and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced withdrawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

Speculative buyers appeared to invade the market to push it to its highest levels of 1972. The Dow Jones industrial average reached 935.43 as turnover reached 23,670,000 shares. Volume totaled 20,320,000 shares as advances topped declines 913 to 573 among the 1,786 issues crossing the tape. Prices were higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Prospectus

Review Of Fees: It's About Time

by TOM VON MALDER

The finance committee of the Mount Prospect Village Board is taking a look at the village's business license fees. It's about time.

In the past the fees have been used to produce revenue, to control what businesses would be allowed in the village and to just fulfill a "need" of having licenses.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert recently summed up the problem well when he said that in the past Mount Prospect, like surrounding communities, has looked around to see what its neighbors were charging and then levied an average fee that had nothing to do with the actual cost of the license.

BUT SOMETIMES the fee was used in a way it was never meant to be. Take the case of Charles L. Bartmann, 217 N. Forest Ave.

Bartmann is a local businessman who had more than his fair share of fighting village hall. In 1963, he had designed and completed drawings for a miniature golf course to be built at 199 W. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect.

He got his building permit and let out the construction work for bids. But then things began to happen behind the scenes, and the permit was rescinded two weeks later.

The village, Bartmann said, contended his golf course would have a great nuisance value and become a hangout for school children, especially since it was going to be built so close to Prospect High School.

Bartmann took the village to court. The judge said a permit had been issued, so it remained issued. And the course was put in — with a $10 a day business license fee.

"I knew what the fee was when I planned the course, but I thought it was open for negotiation," Bartmann said. After all, he only operates from April 15 to Nov. 1 each year.

The village thought negotiation was a bad idea. They said his business came under the "amusement" category, along with bowling alleys, theaters, trampolines and all others.

THE CATCH-ALL phrasing had caught Bartmann and he paid the $10 a day fee for 22 days. "Then I let them take me to court," he said.

It was a smart move because it meant the village had to pay the court costs — especially when once again a judge ruled in Bartmann's favor.

The village then set a fee of $150 a year, which was much higher than the large department stores that were in the village were paying.

The wily Bartmann waited. He paid the $150 for five years then asked the village to lower the fee.

"If I had fought them in court again to get say a $50 reduction it would have taken me about 10 years to break even with the court costs," he said. "By this time too I had established a history behind the business."

That history showed the course required very little in police and fire protection and the fee was reduced to $100 a year, where it now stands.

But what's to prevent the Bartmann case from repeating itself over and over again. The village really has no schedule of business license fees. Nothing is standard and many businesses don't even pay.

This is why the current review of the business license system is so important. Efforts are being made to find an equitable system with fees based on the actual costs of issuance underwritten by the village.

This is a necessary step and a commendable one. It is to be hoped that a new schedule can be in operation by May 1, the start of the next fiscal year. The wait has been too long already.

Skis Are Stolen

A $250 pair of skis was stolen Monday from a car at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect. Police said the owner is John R. Maguire of Harvard, Ill.

Two Teen-Age Girls Flee Abductor

Two teen-age girls from Buffalo Grove were abducted at knifepoint by a man who offered them a ride in his car in Wheeling Monday night.

The girls, one 14 and one 15 years old, told Wheeling police the man threatened them with a knife when they tried to get out of his car near their homes.

The man drove the girls to a dead-end street in Lincolnshire, where he told them to take off their clothes because he was going to rape them.

One of the girls jumped out of the car and ran. The man then pushed the other girl out of the car, and drove off with the car door open.

THE GIRLS ran to a nearby house for help but found no one home. At a second home the residents answered the door and allowed the girls to call police.

The two girls, who both live in the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove, had been going home from a drive-in restaurant in eastern Wheeling when they were picked up by the man.

The girls told police they had gotten a

Mass Transit Planning Meet Saturday In Towers Hotel

Though the interest of 270 suburban communities in six counties will be represented, only six or seven municipalities will send representatives to a Saturday meeting to discuss formation of a single mass transit district that would exclude the City of Chicago.

The meeting at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel is being organized by Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh to test support for the formation of a single transit district that Walsh hopes would put suburban communities on a more equal footing with Chicago in securing funds for mass transit.

Results of the meeting among top officials from key communities in Cook, Lake, DuPage, Kane, McHenry and Will counties will be communicated to the officers of other municipalities in the six-county region.

It was not known which communities would attend.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Village Board Feb. 21 adopted a resolution in support of a single suburban mass transit district with a stipulation that representation on the governing board of any such district should be on a one-man-one-vote basis.

The Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System (CMATS) bill would create a single metropolitan mass transit district including the Chicago Transit Authority.

The bill, which has had the strong backing of the Chicago and North Western Ry., proposes a three-member governing panel. One member would be appointed by the governor, a second named by the mayor of Chicago, and a third by the governor from a list of nominees suggested by the county boards of the six counties.

Walsh has said the mayors Saturday may decide to do nothing about creating the new transit district or may agree to pursue sub-regional mass transit authorities if they do not think a single, six-county district is feasible.

Intergovernmental Ties Between Villages Rise

Over the past 14 months, the Village of Mount Prospect has been active in setting up increased intergovernmental cooperation with neighboring communities.

Cooperative ties have or will soon be knotted in the areas of fire protection, police communications and computer billing.

Yet none of this means political unity, according to Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert. "This is no forerunner of political merger. This is a means of survival," he recently told a gathering of trustees and commission members.

One of the earliest cooperative efforts that involved Mount Prospect is still in operation today. This is the DAMP (Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine) Water Commission. Formed about 1955, DAMP's big push has been to get the member communities to go to Lake Michigan for water, instead of relying on wells. The commission has conducted studies that show the supply of well water in the Northwest suburban area will soon be depleted.

LAST JANUARY, a mutual aid program was instituted among 15 area fire departments, including Mount Prospect.

Under this program, the exact amount of men and equipment to meet a particular fire or disaster is predetermined.

This summer, after many months of talks and an application for $314,561 in state funds, a central dispatching communications center will be set up in Arlington Heights. The trial project, designed to provide a financial savings to using fewer radio operators and more sophisticated equipment, will serve Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village.

Contracts are now in the hands of the four communities that are planning to share a computer facility. Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Park Ridge will share the cost of a centralized computer and personnel. The computer will be used for water billing, payroll, compiling police information and other operations.

There are also two groups, COG (Council of Governments) and Northwest Municipal League Conference, that attempt to deal with problem areas that affect all communities in the area. Mount Prospect officials participate in both groups.

Music Program To Aid School Referendum

Music and band teachers in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 are planning a five-night vocal and band program "to show what the program is doing and to aid the referendum," according to David Metzler, band teacher.

The program is scheduled from March 20 through March 24. According to Metzler, several of the performances have been changed to be in time for the March 25 referendum. If the 39-cent tax hike is not approved, one band and two music teachers will be eliminated.

The program schedule is as follows:

March 20 — symphonic band, eighth grade chorus, eighth grade boys chorus; Lincoln Junior High School; 7:00 p.m.

March 21 — second semester talent show; seventh grade chorus; Lincoln Junior High School; 7:30 p.m.

March 22 — chorus, class guitar, class piano, and music understanding. These are part of an experimental classroom music program. Fairview School, 300 N. Fairview Ave.; 3 p.m.

March 23 — chorus, class guitar, class piano, music understanding; also part of the experimental program; Sunset Park School, 601 W. Lonnquist Blvd.; 7:30 p.m.

Sewer Problem Holds Up Development Plan

Unforeseen difficulties with the proposed sewer system for the Old Orchard development forestalled final ratification of the altered development plan by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

The sewer information came at Tuesday night's special board meeting. It had been hoped that the amended consent decree, a court order concerning development, would be approved at that time. However, because of the sewer problem and some other minor problems, another board meeting has been scheduled for March 14.

ride from the drive-in west on Dundee Road to near Jack London Junior High School.

They were walking down Dundee toward Buffalo Grove when the man stopped and offered them a ride, they told police.

THE MAN drove the girls down Dundee Road to Buffalo Grove Road and north on Buffalo Grove Road to near Lake-Cook Road.

When the girls asked to get out of the car there, the man put a knife up to one girl's head and ordered the girls onto the floor of the car.

He then drove them to the dead-end street in Lincolnshire.

The girls told police the man said he was going to trade them to another man who had abducted the man's girl friend earlier in the evening. He also told them he could sell them for $5,000, the girls said.

Wheeling police were in contact with Indiana State Police about a possible suspect in the case yesterday.

A Lincolnshire man who saw the car parked on the dead-end street had provided police with an Indiana license plate number.

The girls had told the police the man said he was not from the Northwest suburban area.

Wheeling Band Fund At $18,361

The fund-raising committee for the Wheeling High School Band trip to the 1972 Olympic Games has collected $18,361.

This figure is well below what the "Munich 72" committee had hoped to have by now. Ideally they should be receiving $10,000 per week and last week they made just over $400.

The committee also announced that members have started sending letters to major business firms, banks and foundations in the Chicagoland area. They will try to have all the letters in the mail by the end of the week.

THE LETTERS ASK the business groups to answer one way or the other concerning their interest in the project. If they answer in support of the project the committee will send them further information.

Promotional Gimmickry Is Here To Stay — 'Socko'

by KEN KAZAK

In the have-not era of the 1930s, people who stood in unemployment or bread lines by day were queuing outside America's absurdly opulent movie palaces by night for entertainment, a special kind of relief that FDR's alphabet soup agencies couldn't provide.

The down and outers flocked — 70 million annually — to see Hollywood glittering through the gloom of the Depression.

They saw Jimmy Cagney, the sawed-off tough slug sweet Mae Clark in the kisser with a grapefruit in "Public Enemy."

They heard Clark Gable's sensationally shocking (for that time) put down of Vivian Leigh, about whom he, frankly, didn't give a damn in "Gone With the Wind."

While the movies provided the escape, a promotional gimmick run by theatres across the country was giving the patrons a chance to get something for almost nothing, an irresistible idea at a time when nothing was what plenty of people had.

Two bits bought not only an evening with Jim and Mae and Clark and Vivian, it bought a chance to win prizes ranging from a free halibut to a new automobile to an eight place setting of not-so-fine china straight from the Sears, Roebuck catalogue.

OLD PROMOTIONAL schemes like that don't really die. They just fade away into abscursed corners of a public relations man's brain, along with master plots to put an Edsel in Everyman's driveway and bring back hula hoops.

And, what do you know, the movie house giveaway gimmick is experiencing a second coming in Rolling Meadows, albeit in a considerably transfigured form.

Picture this: dozens of the city's ladies in waiting (waiting to pick the kids up at noon, waiting for a beauty shop appointment later in the day, are sitting in the Meadows Theater at 9:30 a.m.)

They are there to see a free movie and because they are there will have a chance to win prizes being given away across the street at the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

A man welcomes the ladies on behalf of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center Association which, he points out, is sponsoring the free presentation of "The Loves of Isadora," and oh yes, which would like them to come on over and shop a while after the film.

The ladies all have received lucky numbers along with a list of bargains, special movie day bargains, that the center merchants have provided. They can see if their lucky numbers will win them a cake or a $10 gift certificate or something like that merely by looking in the store windows, where winning numbers have been posted.

So much for the scenario. It's being repeated every month by the shopping center. Promotional gimmickry is here to stay, so the idea is to out-gimmick the other guy.

THE MOVIE idea came to Rolling Meadows from the same source that dreamed up last February's Hawaiian Luau, the summertime West Fest, a glamor clinic that attracted four women, and a kid-kicking Santa Claus. That source is Marty Nash and Aides Inc.,

Miami, Fla., and not all his ideas have been "socko."

Nash's services are covered by a promotional budget that runs to $35,000 annually. He makes monthly visits to the shopping center to confer with Gwen Murray, resident promo lady who puts Nash's ideas into action.

The reason for all this razzle-dazzle, Mrs. Murray says, is "that you can't sell a shopping center on the store alone." Nash was hired 18 months ago to put some "hop" in the shopping center, faced with an intruder to the south.

"The main object in bringing in promotional people was to fight Woodfield," Mrs. Murray said, adding she doesn't feel now that Woodfield is as threatening as it was originally feared.

For every rotten Santa Claus or disastrous glamor clinic there are successful West Fests and Luau's. The movie, after a stuttering start, seems to be headed for success.

In February, the show attracted nearly 200 women, the most in three tries. Mrs. Murray said she figures if 250 to 300 show up it's worth the $400 it costs for theater, film and advertising.

The problem with a giveaway, according to Mrs. Murray, is that it's success is directly related to what you're giving away and to what you're including in your "giveaway" sale.

MRS. MURRAY closed her catering shop in the center a year and a half ago to take the promotion job and has learned since then that you can't lure customers by discounting just junk, or merchandise that doesn't normally move.

"It's up to the merchants to offer something attractive enough to get them over here. There's a lot more that could be done. It seems that the same stores are always participating in our promotions," she said.

All the merchants in the center are "taxed" to provide the promotional budget, but Mrs. Murray says $35,000 isn't enough to properly promote the center.

What would she do if she had twice that amount?

"I'd go out and get Zippy the Monkey," she said.

Now that would be socko.

Summer School Program To Cost Dist. $122,000

The 1972 Summer School Program for an anticipated 2,400 students in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 should cost $122,000 but pay for itself through student fees and state aid, school officials report.

A report from John Jones and Douglas Williams, principals in the district who direct the June 19 to July 21 session, has been accepted by the board of education and the summer school plan approved.

Eight schools, Churchill, Dooley, Fox, Hale, Lakeview, MacArthur, Addams Junior High and Keller Junior High will be used with Hoffman School utilized as a speech center.

Registration day for summer school will be May 3 at each of the 21 schools in the district with registration closing June 9.

Jones and Williams' financial projection shows 175 teachers paid at $6.50 an hour will cost the program $95,500, clerical help at $2.25 an hour $5,670 and supplies and equipment $20,780.

THE $5 MATERIALS fee charged students will bring in $12,000 in revenue and the state aid contribute $110,000 to make the program self paying.

School hours would be 9 a.m. to noon with teachers required to stay in the schools from 8:45 a.m. to 12:15.

This year's summer program includes a psychologist and guidance counselor to work with children in the Summer Diagnostic Special Education Program and in other situations where needed.

The Schaumburg Transportation Co. has been hired to transport students, an option available for the fee of $10. May 26 is the last day to sign up for bus transportation.

Meeting March 14 To Form Task Force To Assist Aged

Nearly 50 churches, civic and social agencies have been invited to send representatives to a March 14 meeting to discuss the formation of a broadly based task force on problems of the elderly.

Included are village managers from Palatine, Buffalo Grove, and Rolling Meadows; school board presidents from Dist. 25, 23, 21, 59 and 214; supervisors from Wheeling, Palatine and Elk Grove townships; the executive vice president of Northwest Community Hospital and the director of the Lutheran Home for the Aged.

The organizational meeting will be led by Arlington Heights Trustee Dwight Walton who is chairman of the Village Board's public relations committee.

In a cover letter to prospective task force members, Walton explained the March 14 meeting would explore how the task force should be organized and what role it might play in dealing with problems of the elderly.

ALSO ASKED TO attend the meeting were the president of the board of trustees of Harper College; senior citizen clubs in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Northbrook; Countryside YMCA; the Arlington Heights Board of Health, Chamber of Commerce, Park District and Library and the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Nineteen Arlington Heights churches have also been invited.

In his letter, Walton noted the Arlington Heights Village Board of Trustees "and many others feel a more directed effort can, and should be expended in order to make life more viable for this elderly segment of our population."

Arlington Heights now offers senior citizens, 65 years of age or older, reduced rates on the purchase of village vehicle stickers and reduced garbage collection rates.

The Arlington Heights Park District also offers what it calls a "Gold Key" to elderly residents which allows them to use all park facilities and programs in the district without charge.

Although Arlington Heights is one of few Northwest suburbs now making special efforts to meet the needs of its elderly, the village board has gone on record in support of extending special village, and when feasible, private services to its senior citizens.

According to the 1970 U.S. Census, 3,236 people over the age of 65 live in Arlington Heights.

THE IDEA of a task force on problems of the elderly was proposed in a resolution presented by Arlington Heights Trustee James T. Ryan at a Nov. 15 meeting of the Village Board.

At that time, the village board referred the matter to its public relations committee.

"I don't think for a moment that such a task force is going to solve or even isolate all of the local problems confronting the elderly. I do think that it could be a step forward and most importantly, a local step," Ryan said.

RECREATION RIPPERS showed off their winning style in fifth grade class and the Recreation Rangers in the seventh and eighth grade category. The Rangers have won the boys floor hockey championships Saturday at Recreation Park. The Rippers took the sixth grade traveling 25 games in the past two years without a loss. More than 800 boys played in the league, which will be continued this summer.

30 Here Under Ethics Law: Attorney

by KURT BAER

Approximately 30 Arlington Heights municipal officials appear to fall under new state income disclosure laws, according to a summary of those statutes prepared by Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack Siegel.

The village president, members of the board of trustees, plan commission and zoning board, the village clerk and any municipal employee with a salary over $20,000 a year are now required to file statements of economic interest with the county clerk by July 1.

An amendment to the state ethics law requires these officials to identify sources of income in 11 different categories, according to Siegel.

Disclosure of the exact dollar amount of income derived from these sources, however, is not required by law.

THE DISCLOSURE statements are to be filed with the County Clerk and are available to the public for examination and copying.

A person wishing to examine a disclosure statement will be required to fill out a form at the county clerk's office identifying himself and the reason for inspecting the disclosure statement.

The county clerk then sends the person whose statement is being examined a duplicate of the identification form.

Siegel outlined the following 11 points where statements of economic interest are required:

— The name, address and type of professional practice or organization in which the person was an officer, director, associate, partner or proprietor, or served in any advisory capacity for which he derived income in excess of $1,200 during the preceding year.

— The nature of professional services, other than to government, and the nature of the entity to which they were rendered if the person received fees exceeding $5,000 for those services.

— Identification of any capitol asset from which a capitol gain of more than $5,000 was realized.

— The name of any other unit of government other than the principal unit which has employed the person during the year.

— THE NAME OF any entity from which a gift or gifts were received with a value, singularly or combined, over $500.

— The name of any stocks, bonds, or interest in partnerships or land trusts having a market value over $5,000 owned by the person or from which dividends in excess of $1,200 per year were derived. This does not include bank accounts.

— The name and position in any entity, except for professional service, from which income over $1,200 was received.

— The identity of any lobbyist with whom the person maintains a close economic association.

— The name of any entity doing business with the local unit of government in which the person owns over $5,000 interest or receives $1,200 in dividends.

— The names of any entities which do business with the unit of local government in which the person holds a position from which over $1,200 in income was derived during the year.

— The name of any entity that has applied to the village for a license, franchise, annexation, zoning or rezoning, if the ownership interest of the person filing is greater than $5,000 or if income or dividends exceeding $1,200 were received by the person.

Many 'Early Grads' Didn't Plan It That Way

by CINDY TEW

See related story on Page 10.

"I just wanted to get out of there." That was the opinion of Nancy Brousseau, an Arlington High School senior who took extra credits each semester to graduate a semester early.

"I'm taking advanced courses so that I can be better prepared for college," said Margaret Heller, an Arlington High School "super senior" who had enough credit in January to graduate a semester early, but decided to stay.

Because of the new eight-period day at Arlington High School and many schools in Dist. 214, students can take an extra credit each term and have the option of graduating a semester, or even a year early.

Of the 556 seniors at Arlington High, 236 were eligible to graduate early. Only 36 did so.

"I DON'T THINK the small number of early graduates is surprising, even though they're only a small percentage of those who could have graduated," said W. John Rowe, assistant principal. "I know many of the families around here, and most of the parents are well-educated and want their children to take full advantage of high school. Most students probably don't even think of leaving early."

Miss Heller, who plans to major in biochemistry at the University of Illinois, confirmed Rowe's feelings that few students think of leaving early.

"If I graduated ahead of time, I'd have to take all the college entrance tests early and apply to colleges in my sophomore year, and I wasn't thinking about applying back then," Margaret said.

Graduating early also means missing out on spring club and athletic activities. Scott Barnett, a "super senior," didn't leave because he would miss out on the track team, for which he runs the one and two-mile events.

"In a way, I'm anxious to be on my own," Scott said. "But I'd miss out on too much by leaving early."

BEVERLY BURCH didn't graduate in January because she can now take advanced classes, and may be able to pass higher placement tests in college.

"Besides, I'd miss the Coronet Drill Team and Color Guard's spring activities," Beverly said.

"Super seniors" seem to fit into high school classes and activities, though they're officially finished with their 16 credits needed for graduation.

"We have a lot of specialized courses that students can take," said Jerry Ziliak, English teacher. "You can't even tell juniors and seniors apart these days anyway."

Students who do decide to make an early break with school and the related activities seem to be tired of school, want to work for college money, or want to hurry on to college or a career, according to Rowe.

PETER TITRE, assistant principal at Hersey High School, where 62 out of 340 eligible seniors graduated early, feels that each student who decides to leave early or stay in school longer is a separate case.

"I think they're going on specific needs," Titre said. "There's no pattern yet, because we haven't had many early graduates until now."

Of nine of the 36 Arlington High early graduates, two have gone to college, six are working and one is taking a vacation. Of the working six, two will go to college in the fall.

"Though many just wanted to be done with school, the early graduates are hardly dropouts," Ziliak said. "They have to pass extra courses each term to do it."

Of the 36 early graduates, 14 are honor roll students.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 89 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli plane and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced withdrawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

The Weather

The Market

Speculative buyers appeared to invade the market to push it to its highest levels of 1972. The Dow Jones industrial average reached 935.43 as turnover reached 23,670,000 shares. Volume totaled 20,320,000 shares as advances topped declines 913 to 573 among the 1,786 issues crossing the tape. Prices were higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Obituaries

Carl A. Rupert

Funeral services for Carl A. Rupert, 66, of 300 E. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights, who died Friday in Edgewater Hospital, Chicago, after a short illness, were held Monday in Laid and Son Funeral Home, Chicago. The Rev. Donald Hobbs of Prospect Heights Community Church officiated. Interment was in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mr. Rupert, a resident of Prospect Heights, for 15 years, was founder and president of the Rupert Parachute Co., Wheeling. A subsidiary, Rupert Safety Belts, specializes in belts used in racing cars.

For many years, Mr. Rupert was a parachute stuntman, performing at fairs and other public exhibitions. A family member said he claimed the low altitude record for indoor parachute jumping. This resulted from a 65-foot descent by parachute after he had jumped gliders at the 92-foot level in the International Amphitheater in St. Louis in 1942.

During World War II, Mr. Rupert manufactured and tested parachutes for the Army. He was also a pilot and, at one time, a racing sponsor. He made his last parachute jump in 1952 and thereafter concentrated on his business ventures.

Surviving are his widow, Glory, nee Swanson; son, William of St. Louis, Mo.; daughters, Mrs. Lynda Caliban of Wheeling, Susan and Lori Rupert, both at home; four grandchildren; brothers, Fred Ruprecht of Arlington Heights and Ray Ruprecht of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and sisters, Mrs. Mattie Walter of Alliance, Ohio, Mrs. Betty Grosser of River Forest, Ill., and Mrs. Edith Thompson of Naples, Fla.

Jessamine Guerrieri

Mrs. Jessamine Guerrieri, 70, nee Izzo, of 519 S. Dwyer, Arlington Heights, died Tuesday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Visitation is today in Friedrichs Funeral Home, 320 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect. Funeral Mass will be said at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, 432 S. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights. Burial will be in Mount Carmel Cemetery, Hillside.

Mrs. Guerrieri, a resident of Arlington Heights, for 14 years, was a retired cashier for Simpson Clothing Co. in Chicago, with 35 years of service.

Preceded in death by her husband, Anthony, survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Madelyn (George) Ciccio of Arlington Heights; three grandchildren, and three sisters, Mrs. Rae (Dr. Joseph) Shea Rose and Joanna Izzo, all of Chicago.

Harry T. Drayson

Mass of the Angels for Harry T. Drayson, 6 months, infant son of Harry and Rita, nee Wagner, Drayson of Arlington Heights, who died suddenly Monday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, was said yesterday morning in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights. Burial was in St. Joseph Cemetery, River Grove.

Besides his parents, survivors include five sisters, Patricia, Lisa, Marita, Jeana and Sheila Drayson, and maternal grandparents, Victor and Elizabeth Wagner of Chicago.

Youth, Officials Ponder Activities

Arlington Heights youth and representatives of the park district and High School Dist. 214 exchanged ideas about possible activities for young people at Wednesday night's Arlington Heights Youth Council meeting.

Among activities mentioned by representatives of the youth were craft classes, jam sessions, an art fair, open air concerts and dances. The youths present were mostly members of the Core, a group that coordinates ideas of youth who attend sessions at The Bridge in Palatine.

Most of the discussion centered around the Green Barrel, which is the park district teen center in the basement of Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge. The teens asked that it be open more often.

"Programs at the teen center must be self sustaining," said Ron Dodd, superintendent of recreation. "But we will provide as much open time as we can."

ACCORDING TO A park district regulation, all park district facilities must be supervised by park district personnel at this time. Dodd said, however, that the regulation may be changed.

Stephen Barry, administrative assistant to the superintendent of Dist. 214, called schools a resource that has been untapped for summer activities.

As with the park district, supervision of activities at schools is necessary because of legal liabilities of the school district. The Core group suggested volunteer parents or members of the Volunteer Service Bureau as supervisors to keep costs down.

Dave Lightner, Core spokesman, also suggested several changes in park district ordinances, which he was asked to submit to the park district board in writing. Most Core members said that they felt many of the regulations as well as the park patrol were too strict.

'Man, Woman And The Church' Scheduled

A series of three programs on life and the church are being presented at St. James Elementary School and church during March.

Program I is called "Man, Woman and the Church." Materials for the lecture-discussion are based on the Rev. Eugene Kennedy's five books on the problems of the contemporary Christian. The programs are held from 8 to 10:30 p.m. in St. James Elementary School Basement.

The topic for Monday's program is "The Problem of Life . . . a Problem of Love?" which will be directed by the Rev. Warren McCarthy from Niles Seminary. On March 13, Mrs. Margery Frisbie of St. James Parish, will discuss "Human Experience . . . merely human, or sacred?"

Program II topics were chosen because members of the Parish expressed an interest in them. The main heading is "Understanding the Church Today." The programs are held at 7:30 p.m. in the adult education lounge of St. James Church.

FRIDAY'S TOPIC will be "Papal infallibility . . . is it still there?" The topic on March 10 will be "After-life . . . what about it?" "What is the state of grace?" will be discussed on March 17, and "Prayer . . . do we still do it?" will be the topic on March 24.

The Rev. Ray Devereux will moderate all the Friday evening programs.

Program III is about tots through teens, and will be held on Thursday nights from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the Adult Education Lounge at St. James School. The program is aimed mainly at helping mothers in the area of child raising.

Topics will be attitudes, friendship, religion and values of children. The resource book for the series will be the Rev. David O'Neill's "About Loving"

He Took A 'Slow Boat To China' In 1915

by MARGE FERROLI

The proverbial slow boat to China takes 37 days to get there from America. At least it did in 1915.

Transportation has most certainly improved, taking President Nixon and his entourage less than a week to get to Peking and including a leisurely stopover in Hawaii.

But Alvah Williford, a 76-year-old retired Arlington Heights man who now works part-time as a sanitarian for the Palatine Health Department, can remember well his trip to China and his five-year stay there as an enlisted man for the U.S. Army.

It was a year before the outbreak of World War I that Williford first arrived in a land he knew almost nothing about. He was 19 then, but his years there gave him a better education than he thinks he could have received most anywhere else.

"I had 25 years of education in five years," he said, explaining that his experiences were "far more knowledgeable than anything Nixon or the other diplomats could have seen."

After living and working among the native Chinese throughout his stay, Williford has a high respect for them, particularly a respect for their shrewdness.

"The Chinese are good teachers and you better be a good pupil," Williford says, almost as a word of advice to the President. "They never let anything go to waste," he says, whether it be food, materials or knowledge.

Williford picked up a lot of business know-how while stationed in Tientsin, a fairly large port city about 70 miles southeast of Peking on the Yellow Sea.

HIS JOB, LIKE the 1,200 other troops stationed there, was to guard the American and British interests in the Peking-Mukden Railroad, a line which ran from the Chinese capital to Mukden (now called Shenyang) several hundred miles northeast.

When not working with the 15th Infantry, to which he had been assigned, he traveled extensively and managed to become quite an organization man.

At the age of 20, Williford started and operated the 15th Infantry Club, a restaurant and gathering place for the American GIs stationed there. He also organized boxing matches for the entertainment of the troops, much sooner than Bob Hope got the idea.

Baseball leagues and games between the various units stationed in Tientsin, Peking, Manila, Japan and the "sailors from the gunboats on the Yangtze River" were also mapped out by Williford. His aggressiveness in organizing all these activities gave him the opportunity to buy an official Chinese rickshaw with coolie to get him around the mainland.

China, as Williford saw it, was relatively untouched by the World War raging in Europe. While the troops knew what was happening, the Chinese natives knew very little, if anything, about the outside world.

There was no resentment then of American troops or "imperialist aggression" as is heard now in the China of today.

"We got along well and were very close to the natives," Williford said. "They didn't really know what we were and they didn't care. They just knew we were foreigners."

The only resentment Williford said he ever felt from any Chinese was from some of the foreign-educated natives who returned home.

"THE MOST COMMON question I heard from them was why we had American missionaries in their country," Williford recalled. The strongly Buddhist Chinese resented having Christian doctrines from another land pushed on them.

Chinese in and around Tientsin were almost completely oriented toward farming the land. Either a native worked in the fields or he worked as a "coolie laborer" by hauling carts and carrying loads for the farmers, Williford said.

Any military hostilities that erupted occurred between the troops themselves that were stationed in the area. Williford said his 15th Infantry was the "first and only American unit to engage in hand-to-hand fights in Tientsin," and this occurred out of inner rivalries rather than out of war tensions.

At the outbreak of the war, the Chinese severed relations with the Germans and took away all German concessions that had been allowed to them in Tientsin, Williford said. They even went so far as to rename a main street through the German section of town "Woodrow Wilson Drive."

Still, the native Chinese in the towns and villages remain detached from the world feud, although Williford saw "a lot of internal strife."

Land and property owners in China battled one another to gain possession of each other's land, often bringing much bloodshed to themselves and those that worked for them, he said.

During his time in China, Williford saw two cholera epidemics, although he was unaffected by the disease. On his return to the United States, he was waylaid in Manila two months and placed in quarantine to make sure he could pass nothing on to other soldiers.

OF ALL THE many cultural differences between Americans and the Chinese, Williford most strongly remembers the Chinese attitudes towards women and parental control.

"The Chinese children had the greatest respect and admiration for their parents," he said, something which he wishes "happened more here."

Women in China were completely subservient to men and became "rather a cheap commodity" to most men, he said. Such female inferiority was carried out to extremes in interior lands of China, he said, describing such primitive practices as killing the third child, if it happened to be a girl, and offering the body to gods.

These extremes were not well liked by Williford, but he says he did appreciate the duty of a woman to serve her man.

"During 48 years of married life I've tried to get my wife to walk three feet behind me like the Chinese, but she just makes me walk three feet behind her," he says.

Williford, great-grandfather of seven, has often thought of returning to China.

"If I were 25 years younger, I'd like to go back and enter the import-export business," he says. But he's not, and now he's content with his memories of China.

Besides, as he's quick to tell you, you can't get chop suey in China.

Three Scout Units Honored At Dinner

Three Arlington Heights scout units were honored as best in the Sauk Woods Boy Scout District for 1971 at the eighth annual recognition dinner.

Thomas A. Hendricks, commissioner of the district serving Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows, presented the awards during ceremonies at the Knights of Columbus Hall, to the top-ranking Cub Scout Pack, Boy Scout Troop, and Explorer Scout Post.

Receiving the awards were Cub Pack 34, headed by Bruce Hagen and sponsored by Wilson School PTA; Troop 159, led by Scoutmaster Fred Tullar and sponsored by St. Simon's Episcopal Church; and Post 32, sponsored by First Presbyterian Men's Club and headed by Advisor Ed Burling.

Three Scout leaders were presented with the Wood Badge, signifying completion of the demanding international training course established by Scouting's founder, Lord Robert Baden-Powell. They are George S. Chapman and William F. Stout of Arlington Heights, and Jack P. Medley of Rolling Meadows.

Cub leader training awards went to den mothers Roberta Brehmer, Joyce Campbell, Pat Evans, Carol Johnson, Kay Miling, Cheryl Sandersfeld, Marlene Theis and Judy Utendorf.

Boy Scout leader training awards were presented to George S. Chapman, Walt Draxler, Don Evans, Rod Garcia, Don Kuth, Andy Miller, Robert Radasch, Dick Schweninger, Paul Schroeder and Fred Tullar.

Scouter's keys, denoting satisfactory completion of specified training and service requirements, were received by Robert Beiers, Ralph Hauptly, Edward Kemper, Art Klein, James Ringel, Warren Rumatz, and Robert Schmidt.

Gerald S. Chapman, Hendricks and Robert Huebner also received commissioner's keys, a special award for distinguished service to Scouting. Chapman also received a plaque recognizing his work as director of training for the district.

Charles E. Hayes, editor and publisher of Paddock Publications, received Scouting's gold quill award in recognition of the Herald's coverage of scouting events. Shepherd Publications, Palatine, was similarly honored.

A total 38 Boy Scouts in the Sauk Woods District earned the rank of eagle, highest in the order, during 1971. A total 748 Cub Scouts and 501 Boy Scouts advanced in rank during the year.

One of seven districts comprising the Northwest Suburban Council, Sauk Woods serves 25 packs, 22 troops, and 9 posts.

FAMILY AFFAIR at Sauk Woods District Scout banquet saw State Rep. Eugene Chapman watch husband Gerald Chapman present Wood Badge beads to their son, George.

The senior Chapman received a special award for his leadership training activities in the Arlington Heights-Rolling Meadows district.

Hersey Apple Sale To Benefit Band

Some 42,000 apples have been shipped from Washington for the Hersey High School band apple sale to raise money for a trip to Disney World in Orlando, Fla. in June.

Donald Caneva, band director, said students would be selling bags of apples for $1 each starting March 6 door-to-door in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights to make $4,500 to pay part of the cost of the trip.

This is the fourth year for the apple sale which is sponsored by the Hersey Instrumental Association, a band booster club.

Expert Compares Landfill And Incinerator Problems

Buffalo Grove residents threw a barrage of questions at land pollution expert Charles Clark Tuesday but he was unable to answer many of them since they dealt with air pollution.

Most of the questions came from the six-member Buffalo Grove Environmental Control Committee, which invited Clark to the meeting. Clark is manager of the surveillance section, Division of Land Pollution of the Environmental Protection Agency. He spoke to Arlington Heights residents about the same subject Monday night.

Clark told the committee and about 25 citizens who attended that he could answer questions about landfills and solid waste disposal, but another division of EPA handles air pollution.

Buffalo Grove residents did learn, however, that there apparently is no way they can learn in advance if a permit to build an incinerator will be granted to Arlington Heights. Clark also told them the EPA is under no obligation to listen to citizen complaints in advance. He said there are no public hearings in advance, and the only recourse citizens have is to file a petition with the EPA after a permit is allowed.

Clark added the EPA has an obligation only to investigate the complaint.

IN ANSWER to several questions about the quality of landfills compared with incinerators, Clark said either one can be good. "If both are built and operated in accordance with our (EPA) requirements, neither one will pollute."

Although Clark admitted he wasn't qualified to discuss air pollution, he did say that most incinerators in operation today do not meet EPA standards, or they would have cost a lot more. "I don't know of any which meet the standards," he said.

Lana Epstein of the committee asked, "If land is available in the northeast portion of Illinois, can it be condemned as is done for parks and schools?"

Clark said there is considerable land suitable for sanitary landfills, but the question of availability is a problem. "Our trouble is getting zoning approval. But a couple court rulings in Rockford indicate a city can condemn land."

Clark did say the existing incinerators cost about twice as much to operate per cubic yard than sanitary landfills. He gave examples of about $4 per cubic yard in most landfills compared with $8 for incinerators.

Another committee member asked, "Over the next 10 years, how modern will the incinerator be compared to what is done now and in the future in recycling?"

"You're asking me to guess," Clark said, "and I will. I don't see any major new recycling methods in the next 10 years. The best prospect seems to be pyrolysis, or burning with insufficient oxygen. Other methods depend too much on salvage market."

CLARK added that an incinerator should draw from a population of 200,000 to be successful, while a sanitary landfill can get by with a smaller population.

He said an incinerator still requires a landfill for the residue, since about 30 per cent of the bulk remains after burning. Maintenance also is high for incinerators compared to landfills, he said.

"There are 1 1/2 million acres of strip mines in Illinois, and many sites are reasonably suitable for rail-haul. Some railroads in the country have tried this method but have gotten nowhere because of lack of demand or apathy, but I'm sure it'll come," Clark said.

"Are inter-municipal solid waste agreements possible?" asked one committee member.

Clark said a 1969 law allows for solid waste disposal districts, but they must involve full counties, so none are in existence.

Clark also told the audience that many problems have not been resolved by the EPA because its proposed new rules and regulations have not yet been approved. He said many landfills and all incinerators are operating only with approval of the state Department of Public Health, although all such operations will be required to be licensed by the EPA when the new rules are in effect.

"The new rules and regulations to be offered to the Pollution Control Board will have specifics on existing sites, but I'm not at liberty to tell any of them," Clark said.

He said the EPA is currently operating under 1965 laws for solid waste disposal. Such laws only require registration of old sites and prior approval of new ones. The new EPA regulations will require inspections before permits can be granted.

Clark said the major problem is that if a permit request is not denied within 90 days it is automatically approved, so his staff has not been able to tell all landfills to submit applications, because they couldn't handle that many. With 600-700 sites, many would be approved by default without ever being inspected, he said.

2 Plead Innocent In Fraud Case

Two Northwest suburban residents have pleaded innocent to charges of fraudulently using the name of the Church of Christ in a $1 million fraud scheme.

Alex Gaus Jr., 1132 Carlyle Ct., Arlington Heights, and Louis Rosanova, 523 We-Go Tr., Mount Prospect, pleaded innocent to the charges last week in U. S. District Court in Chicago.

The two are among 19 persons charged with conspiring to bulk more than $1 million from persons who paid fees in return for loans promised from a church fund.

Preliminary motions were continued in both cases and bond set at $50,000 for Rosanova and $150,000 for Gaus.

Fuller Resigns Board Position

Dist. 21 school board has accepted the resignation of Walter Fuller, director of business affairs. Fuller's resignation will be effective June 30.

Ken Gill, superintendent of Dist. 21 schools, said Fuller is leaving the district in hopes of finding a job in Florida. "Walt is not dissatisfied with his job here, he just wants to move out of the area," said Gill.

Fuller became business manager for Dist. 21 on July 1, 1967. Before coming to the district he was superintendent of schools in Bath, Ill.

Gill said the district will start advertising for a new business manager immediately.

Des Plaines Man In Washington

Deserter Amnesty Called 'Mockery' By Commander

John Geiger of Des Plaines, national commander of the American Legion, yesterday spoke out against amnesty for draft evaders and deserters, saying it would be "a mockery" of sacrifices made by U.S. servicemen in Vietnam.

Testifying before a Senate judiciary subcommittee, Geiger said the American Legion opposes any "wholesale" grants of amnesty. Draft evaders and deserters should be tried in court, with each defendant getting the "leniency" or "sternness" he deserves, Geiger said.

"In our opinion, it would only badly undermine (military) morale and cheapen the value of honorable service to one's country at the very moment these values are most in need of strengthening," he said.

Geiger spoke in Washington before the subcommittee on administrative practice and procedure, which is chaired by U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

GEIGER NOTED that more than 50,000 Americans have been killed in Indochina, another 300,000 have been wounded or injured and more than 1,600 are prisoners of war.

"How can any general amnesty be explained to these men?" he said.

"How can amnesty be explained to parents, wives, children, all those who have lost a son or husband or father in their country's service? How can we excuse ourselves to the prisoner of war, the missing in action, or to the suffering families for offering amnesty?" said Geiger.

He said legislative proposals to provide a three-year stint in government social service programs in exchange for amnesty "would offer that penance to some for whom it is too heavy a penalty and to others for whom it is too mild a punishment."

"The most flagrant offenders will get the best break and the least offenders the worst," said Geiger.

He said the American Legion "firmly believes that giving any wholesale amnesty, whether conditional or unconditional, would make a mockery of the sacrifice of those men who did their duty, assumed their responsibilities in time of conflict and in many cases were killed or wounded or now lie in a prison camp somewhere in Indochina."

His testimony before the subcommittee, which is holding hearings on amnesty proposals, came during the American Legion's annual Washington conference.

GEIGER SAID his statement of the Legion's position was based on a resolution adopted at the organization's veterans 1971 national convention.

He said the Legion is against granting amnesty to draft evaders "as a class" but is not totally opposed to amnesty in all cases.

"Our resolution asks that all draft evaders be prosecuted, which means that we would like each case to be heard in court and tried on its merits," he said.

"The courts can deal with the particulars of each case and exercise leniency or sternness based on the actual facts brought out in the hearings about each particular draft evader," Geiger said.

"Surely, the courts will find those who are innocent and should be excused without any further conditions," he said.

Vandals' Victim Offers $500 To Help Find Them

A south side Des Plaines homeowner beleaguered by vandals has offered a $500 reward for help in finding the persons responsible for the hundreds of dollars in damage to his home this week.

Sam Saunders, 1665 Farwell Ave., yesterday told the Herald eight windows were broken at his home Sunday.

In addition, he said, rock-throwing vandals shattered seven one-foot square mirrors on his living room wall.

"About 3 a.m. Sunday morning we were awakened by a crash in the front room, and when I went to see what happened I saw the mirrors broken on the floor," Saunders told the Herald.

"I went back to bed thinking the mirrors fell by themselves but when I came in the room about 8 o'clock in the morning I noticed the broken windows and three small boulders on the living room floor," he said.

THE MIRRORS WERE mounted on the wall facing the front windows.

The front of the Saunders home is now boarded up until the windows can be replaced. He said he is saving the boulders for keepsakes.

On Tuesday night, vandals drove a car over the sidewalk and damaged a white boarded fence on the side of his property along Railroad Avenue, knocking out two of the fence boards and caving in a four-foot section of the fence.

Saunders doesn't know the cost of the damage to his home, but he is hopeful the $500 reward will help capture the culprits and maybe save him from more damage in the future.

"We've lived here 16 years and we haven't had any trouble. This is the first time anything like this has happened," Saunders said.

Des Plaines police are investigating the incidents.

Downtown Renewal Plans To Be Eyed

Des Plaines City officials and representatives of the Des Plaines Redevelopment Association will meet Wednesday to discuss downtown renewal plans.

James Paroubek, redevelopment association executive director, announced last month that construction of a $12 million downtown enclosed shopping mall now is expected to begin late in the summer.

He said that virtually all the necessary property has been purchased between Lee Street, Center Street, Prairie Avenue and the Ellinwood Street alley. Demolition and construction could begin in August, he said.

The two-story mall would provide retail space for 64 stores, according to past announcements from the association, an organization of city businessmen, bankers and real estate firms which has worked since 1965 to rebuild the downtown area and make it competitive with shopping centers.

The mall would be one-half of a proposed two-block "super mall." Other downtown plans include a 12-story depot-office building above the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks, across the street from the super mall.

The city is readying plans to remove downtown traffic bottlenecks, construction of downtown parking lots and a new city hall office building — also expected to be a spur on redevelopment.

The city council and redevelopment officials have not met together officially since last summer, although Mayor Herbert Behrel has met frequently with Paroubek and other redevelopment association members.

'Oakton Decision Final,' Says State Board Chief

by VICKI HAMENDE

The chairman of the Illinois Junior College Board yesterday said his board will not meet with Oakton Community College to discuss its decision withdrawing approval of Oakton's choice for a permanent campus site.

"Any meeting might cause Oakton's board of trustees to delay seeking a new site," Ray Brune, the chairman told the Herald.

Officials of the Illinois Community College Trustees Association have been trying to schedule a meeting of the two boards to discuss the state board's withdrawal of its earlier approval of a 105-acre site adjacent to Maryhill Cemetery in Niles for Oakton's campus.

"It would be most unfortunate if scheduling a get-together would lead the Oakton board to believe that the Maryhill site is still under consideration," Brune said.

"OUR BOARD MADE a unanimous decision Feb. 11 against the Maryhill site in what we believed to be the best interests of the junior college system. Our decision is final," he added.

John Lewis, a trustee from Carl Sandburg Community College in Galesburg and president of the trustees association, has said he hopes to schedule a meeting of the two boards before the state board's next meeting March 10 in Chicago. Lewis was unavailable for comment yesterday.

L. H. Horton, executive secretary of the trustees association, said yesterday he has not talked "directly" to both boards, but is "quite sure" they will agree to a meeting.

"We're working on a meeting and we're pretty far along. We're trying to keep this thing low key. It will be informal... just to discuss some differences of opinion. It will be held shortly, before March 10," Horton said.

In withdrawing its approval of the Maryhill site, the state board accused Oakton of misinforming them about opposition that could be expected from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese, the site's owner, and area residents to use of the cemetery land for a college campus.

Oakton's trustees have denied the charge and have maintained that the Maryhill site, centrally located and not scheduled for burials for more than 75 years, is the best site for a campus out of 23 sites in the district considered.

The Oakton trustees voted unanimously Feb. 15 to challenge the legality of the state decision and postpone a scheduled March 4 referendum that had been set to raise campus funds.

The presidents of 36 Illinois junior colleges, meeting last month in Champaign, unanimously passed a resolution supporting Oakton in its fight against the state (Continued on page 4)

THE CHEERLEADING SQUAD at Maine West High School has had an unofficial helper this season. Nine-year-old Karen Lofgren knows all the cheers and has helped the yell leaders at almost every home game this

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said he hoped to keep draft calls below 50,000 this year, making it the smallest number of men drafted in any year since 1949.

Thousands of New Hampshire voters started getting letters urging them to write in the name of Sen. Edward Kennedy in next week's primary, though Kennedy has insisted he is not a candidate for president.

The Senate voted 89 to 5 to permit parents to join together to seek court injunctions to stop busing of their children to distant schools if they felt it was harmful to their health or education.

St. Louis Mayor Alfonso Cervantes, fighting to locate St. Louis' second airport in Illinois, pleaded his case in Washington before a House subcommittee.

The World

Four gunmen forced a part-time militia man from his car and took him home where they killed him, Ulster security officials reported. It marked the 254th death in Northern Ireland in the last two years of the Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh arrived in Moscow to seek economic aid for the new war-torn nation.

Syrian warplanes bombed Israeli settlements in occupied Golan Heights in reprisal for Israeli air and artillery strikes across the cease-fire line, a military spokesman said in Damascus. Israeli plane and artillery strikes in southern Lebanon also were reported.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie asked the General Assembly to approve a "tight" 1973 budget of $7.456 billion, and said no tax increase will be needed to finance the record figure. He urged the Legislature to enact his $16 million tax plan for the elderly.

Gov. Ogilvie has ordered a review of the credentials of all doctors working for the state after an investigation opened into the qualifications of a state hospital employee working as a physician in Elgin.

Three Democrats from Madison County, the home of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, said they have decided to support Daniel Walker rather than Simon as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Three Democratic legislators defied their party leadership by calling for approval of an appropriation for the Judicial Inquiry Board. Democrats have blocked an appropriation for the board, created to investigate misconduct by Illinois judges, because they claim the governor packed the membership with Republicans.

The War

The U.S. Command announced withdrawal from the Vietnam War of nearly 5,000 more Americans, including major armored, artillery and helicopter units from Saigon's northern approaches as B-52s flew their heaviest strikes in two weeks against a Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone.

City May Hire Consultant

Bus Firm Purchase Advice Sought?

The Des Plaines City Council Monday may consider hiring a Chicago-based consulting firm to recommend whether the city should purchase the financially troubled United Motor Coach Co.

At the city's request, Ernst and Ernst, a large accounting and consultant firm that has conducted several surveys for state transportation agencies, has submitted statements declaring that "preliminary recommendations" could be created after about six weeks of study, at a cost to the city of "between $3,500 and $4,000."

In a letter sent this week to city aldermen, Mayor Herbert Behrel recommended "serious and full consideration" of the Ernst and Ernst proposal. The council is expected to assign study of the proposals to the council's finance committee.

According to the Ernst and Ernst letter to the city, three alternatives have been suggested by city officials and members of the city's mass transit district.

These include district subsidy grants to the present, privately owned company based in Des Plaines; purchase of the company and renting of buses to a management firm; or district purchase of the company and its operation by district employees.

The study would include a survey of all possible revenue sources available to the district from other suburbs, the state or federal governments. It would determine what financial advantages and disadvantages would be created under various means of ownership or control.

THE STUDY WOULD include examinations of the services now provided for by the bus company, the proposal states.

Preliminary recommendations will include "the most feasible alternatives (which) would... assist in determining the most economical method for providing continuous, dependable, timely bus service to the citizens of Des Plaines and the surrounding communities at the lowest cost."

"We believe we are uniquely qualified to undertake this assignment because of our experience in assisting companies in the transit industry and in working with governmental agencies on related transportation projects."

Ernst and Ernst are now assisting the state Office of Mass Transportation in a financial study of bus companies and Chicago commuter railroad to help evaluate the eligibility of these companies for state grants.

During the project, Ernst and Ernst representatives have visited the United Motor coach offices and are familiar "with many of its financial problems and have had an opportunity to work with some of its key personnel."

The consulting firm "realizing the urgency" could begin the study within two weeks of its authorization by the council, and could complete the study in four to six weeks, the proposal states.

A feasibility study had been proposed by Behrel and aldermen soon after bus company officials offered to sell the company last January.

Behrel has said the city is seeking factual, documented information on whether it should or shouldn't take over the company.

He has said that part of the funds for the study may be provided by federal and state transportation agencies.

The city council recently voted to turn over $20,000 in motor fuel tax funds to the city's mass transit district, with $16,500 earmarked as a subsidy for the bus company and the remainder for the feasibility study of the firm's take over by the district.

School Building Uses Are Down

Community groups have been using school buildings in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 less during this school year than in the past.

The number of groups applying for permits to use the buildings declined sharply from September until January, compared to the 1970-71 school year, but has shown signs of returning to normal since January, according to district officials.

Last summer, the board of education voted to prohibit after-school and evening use of the buildings by community groups as part of a budget cut, but reversed the action after more funds became available to the district.

Adolph Danta, director of building and grounds for the district, said the building closings might have been one reason for the decline in use. "The only thing I can think of is that people went out and found other facilities, and now, since the first of the year, they have been coming back to us."

The decrease in the amount of building use is reflected in marked differences between amounts budgeted as revenue from building use fees and as expenses due to custodial overtime, and the district's actual revenue and expense this year.

Citywide Recycling Plan Announced By City Clerk

Des Plaines City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach yesterday announced that a city-wide program for glass, cans and newspaper recycling may begin within six weeks.

The announcement follows agreements reached Tuesday to allow location of five recycling receptacles on a Lee and Oakton streets site.

Site owners, in discussions with Mayor Herbert Behrel, agreed to allow use of a section of the site, until the vacant land is developed. The owners did not indicate when construction could begin on the land, Behrel said yesterday.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Rohrbach, the contract with the site owners will allow the city to use the land at no cost. The owners will not be held responsible for any injuries or accidents on the property by those using the bin receptacles. Any injuries will come within the jurisdiction of the city's insurance policies, she said.

The city engineering and public works departments are now studying how much land will be needed and plans are being formed for construction of access roads to and from Oakton, she said.

The site, on the northeast corner of Lee and Oakton, is often used for community group events and fairs. Only a small section on the eastern end of the site would be used for receptacles, and those events could still be held, she said.

Mrs. Rohrbach is now negotiating with the Cleveland Corp. of Evanston, which has agreed to supply the receptacles and pick up recycling deposits at no cost to the city.

THE CLEVELAND CORP. contract will be for two years, or until the land is developed. After two years, the city will have the option to renew the contract at the end of each year, she said.

The program should begin by April 10, when city services start stressing spring clean-up projects, according to Mrs. Rohrbach. She hopes to present contracts at the March 20 city council meeting for approval.

MRS. ROHRBACH had suggested contracting with the Evanston firm after conducting a study of the city's 10-month experimental glass recycling program and examining recycling programs in other suburbs.

During the 10-month program, 91,800 pounds of glass were collected and transported by the city to a recycling company at a loss of $2,500 to the city, she has said.

The new program, which would be operated at no cost to the city, will provide a central depository for materials that can be reprocessed and reused, as a way of preventing unnecessary depletion of natural resources, she said. At present, residents must go to various depositories for glass, cans and newspapers, according to Mrs. Rohrbach.

Obituaries

Dorothy Oliver

A small frustration of working for a newspaper is not being able to write letters to the editor and blow off steam about something that's bothering you or answer someone else's letter about what's bothering them.

At times I even look forward to writing this column because it offers me the chance to be as opinionated as anyone else in print. Letters to the editor are actually open letters to the people — otherwise the editors of this world would file them away instead of printing them.

Rather than let my steam build about an opinion that was expressed by a Herald reader:

Dear People,

I'd like to take exception to an opinion expressed recently in a letter that appeared in the Fence Post column of this newspaper. The writer stated she was against day care centers, saying that if there were no such thing more women would stay at home with their children where they belong.

I won't even go into the Women's Lib angle that emphasizes women have as much right to a fulfilling job as men do. To argue this point would be useless and I'm sure it wouldn't change this woman's opinion.

I'd like to point out, however, that statistics have shown (and these are national statistics taken by the U.S. Department of Labor, Woman's Bureau) that the vast majority of women who are in the full-time labor force with children under 5 years of age are working because they have to. They are either the head of the household (separated, divorced or widowed), wives of disabled men or they are working to supplement poverty-level incomes brought in by their husbands.

TO THESE WOMEN working is not a luxury. It is not going to give them the European cruise or diamond necklaces. If they are lucky enough to have a well-paying job it may provide them with good meals, good clothes and decent living conditions, plus a few of the extras that makes life livable.

As it is, there are not nearly enough day care centers to take care of the preschoolers with working mothers. In the Northwest suburbs there are licensed facilities for 400 full-time children. Licensed homes house some, relatives take care of another group and a great many children are cared for in unlicensed homes. Nationally there are only 640,000 day care openings in licensed facilities for the 4.5 million pre-school children who need them.

If these mothers who have to work had no day care available to them, our welfare and ADC roles would grow. Rather than downgrade them, you should respect their attempts to provide for their families without accepting relief.

The minimum standards that must be met in Illinois in order to license a day care center or home are surprisingly low. The staff of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services who give licenses and check on facilities only have time to visit a center about once a year — unless they know it does not meet state standards or that other problems exist.

RATHER THAN calling for the elimination of day care centers, we should demand that there be more and that they be better. We should insist that the federal or state government provide subsidies to existing centers and especially those which are built in low-income areas. We should applaud the new tax break for those who are paying for day care.

Keep in mind that in most cases it is costly to keep a child in a licensed center. Those that own for-profit centers have a very low profit margin. Good day care is expensive to provide and expensive to take advantage of. Non-profit centers are run by people who do so because they love and care about the welfare of children.

Whatever a woman's reason for working, I believe that she should have the opportunity to place her child in a safe, high quality center or home. Abolishing day care would not solve any problem, but it would create an enormous one.

'Register And Take Part'

Fulle Peps Up Young Voters

"The 18-year-old vote can be significant, but only if you want it to be," Floyd Fulle, candidate for the Republican nomination in the 10th District congressional primary, told Maine West High School students yesterday.

Speaking at the Des Plaines school as part of a social science lecture series on contemporary issues, Fulle, currently serving his second term as a member of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, urged students to "register to vote and then take part." He added, "Let your voices be heard."

Fulle of 666 Laurel Ave., Des Plaines, said it's "not right that some youths are so completely involved in politics while others don't even give a darn. There should be a large in-between group that is really interested in what our government is doing."

For years, Fulle said, "youths have been crying out" for changes in the country. "With your vote, eventually we will have changes within the system. Changes have got to come, they're going to come."

The candidate, whose opponent for the Republican nomination in the 10th district congressional primary is Samuel Young of Glenview, added, "However, as bad as we might be, there has never been a better form of government than democracy."

Fulle told Maine West students he feels "right at home" in Maine Township. The commissioner explained that he is a graduate of the former Maine Township High School, now Maine East High School in Park Ridge. He added that one of his sons graduated from Maine West in 1965, another graduated from Maine West in 1967 and another is currently a student at the school.

"THE 10TH DISTRICT has the highest level of education in the country," Fulle said. He added that the district has more corporate and business leaders than any other district in the country and that its residents are in the upper five per cent of the nation's annual income bracket.

"It's also the only district with a governor, a senator and an attorney general residing in it," Fulle added.

"What all of this means is that we're a special district, a district we can all be proud to vote in," he said. "I plan to campaign fully throughout this district to apprise the voters as to how I feel about the issues."

Those issues he said include the economy, the war in Vietnam, national defense, welfare and the United Nations.

Fulle praised President Nixon for the nation's "drastic reduction in Vietnam involvement." He said he does not favor setting a date for complete withdrawal of U.S. troops. "There are too many Americans who are prisoners of war who might never be released. I wouldn't trust the Communists any more than I could lift this building."

Fulle also praised President Nixon for his new economic policies. "The Vietnam war has had such an impact on our economy . . . the President has had no choice but to do the things he's done," he said.

When asked by a Maine West student if he would favor world trade with Red China, Fulle replied, "Yes, but I hope that it would be in non-strategic goods. I'm just the opposite of a pro-Red China person, but I do realize that we must face the reality of world politics."

Fulle said he was opposed to the induction of Red China into the United Nations at the expense of Taiwan.

He told a Maine West questioner he is also opposed to granting amnesty to draft dodgers. "To offer amnesty across the board would make it difficult to speak to families who followed the call of arms," Fulle said.

WHEN ASKED WHETHER he would favor the legalization of marijuana, Fulle replied, "No, but I do favor reducing penalties for persons caught with marijuana."

Fulle said he thinks the issues of abortion and a legal drinking age should be legislated at the state level, not the federal level.

When asked by a Maine West student if he would vote his conscience even if the majority of the residents of his district did not agree with him, Fulle said he would "come to the district first to try to convince the people that I was right." If they couldn't be swayed, he added, "I would return to Washington and vote their opinion."

"I would also hope that many of the voters I would be dealing with would be youths. You know, if you don't agree with what your congressman is doing, vote against him. But when you take potshots at us oldsters, remember we're the ones who finally gave you the vote," he said.

'Quarterback' Behrel Flips Ball To Swanson

by LEON SHURE

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel apparently has thrown the old pigskin to Ald. Ewald Swanson (8th), and it remains to be seen where Swanson will run with it.

Behrel, the old pro and quarterback of City Council, will be out of town March 5 when the team is slated to meet opponents like pollution, housing problems and parking bonds.

Last time he was gone, on a Hawaiian vacation last December, the old pro said the aldermen would have to elect a mayor or pro tem to call the plays at the meeting.

In the past, election of a pro tem hadn't been too much of a hassle because senior Ald. Alfred Prickett would just pull on his helmet and preside over the buddies. But last year, Prickett hung up his spikes and became building commissioner.

WHEN THE CLOCK was started at the meeting last December, it looked like the new senior alderman, Daniel Bonaguidi (7th), might shove through for a touchdown. But after a secret ballot, Swanson ran to daylight and crossed the line to the mayor's chair.

Tuesday morning quarterbacks hummed over this one and wondered what it meant for 1973, when the next mayoral playoff is coming up. No one knows where the wind is blowing in 1973 or how muddy the field may be — or who the most valuable player will be.

This time around however, the old pro is pulling his own double reverse. In a letter sent around end to the aldermen this week, Behrel said that "by virtue of this letter and the power vested in me as the Mayor of Des Plaines, I do hereby appoint Ald. Ewald Swanson." The mayor wouldn't comment on why he's picked Swanson.

No one knows whether a penalty will be called on this one, or whether a vote will have to be taken. Referee City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi is sure to check the rulebook. He'll probably be bringing flags March 6, but no one knows if he'll throw them toward the ceiling and stop the game.

Stay tuned for the halftime events.

An Overdue Book Will Cost You More

The Des Plaines Public Library Board has voted to increase fines on overdue books from the adult section beginning March 1. Fines for books, phonograph records and framed art prints will be five cents a day. For overdue magazines and pamphlets, the fines will be three cents a day.

Fines on overdue books and art prints from the children's section will remain at three cents a day. Penalties for overdue children's magazines and pamphlets will be one cent a day.

A good home, a good life

That's what the Northwest suburban area means to thousands of families . . . and that's what First Federal Savings of Des Plaines has done so much to help. Many of our home loans were made to folks who are now long-time residents, who are also friends. But today, we're welcoming newcomers with the same concerned service we've been providing all these years. And, that's good, because the community needs both long time and new residents to continue its growth and maintain its heritage.

Ours is a pleasant job. A satisfying job. And, we plan to continue to help the people of this area build and grow.

'Oakton Decision Final,' Says State College Board Chief

board for the campus site. ALSO IN THEIR resolution, the presidents criticized the state board for refusing to listen to Horton, who was present at the Feb. 11 meeting and tried to convince the state to table its withdrawal motion until someone from Oakton was present.

Horton, who notified Oakton officials of the state board's action five days before state board officials did, was directed by the presidents to present a "full written report of the incident" to the trustees association meeting in Springfield Feb. 19. According to Horton, the association listened to his report and also listened to a resolution challenging the legality of the state board's decision read by Oakton Board Pres. Milton Falkoff, who attended the Springfield meeting.

The trustees association voted to table action on Falkoff's resolution, but authorized its executive officers to meet with the state board and the Oakton board to discuss the site controversy. Lewis, Horton and the other executive officers of the trustees association will meet Saturday in Springfield. According to Brune, he and other members of the state junior college board will also attend the meeting, but not to discuss the Oak-ton controversy. "We're just having an informal get-together to kick around some things, mostly legislative proposals. If anyone thinks it's going to be a meeting or a hearing about Oakton, then there's a misunderstanding. Whether any Oakton people will be there I don't know but there's no reason for it," Brune said.

THE STATE BOARD chairman said he did inform Lewis that if the trustees association has any questions concerning the state decision about the Maryhill site that he will be willing to give the group a "general review of the major concerns" involved in the decision.

Brune added, "I told Lewis that a major reshuffle wouldn't serve any purpose. However, if the association feels there was anything that needs straightening out in our procedures for the future, it will be discussed."

The association "will probably have questions," Brune said, since "they were presented with a stern resolution against our decision."

According to Oakton attorneys Joseph

Murphy and Louis Ancel, the state board's decision is "illegal."

Murphy has said the state board may set site criteria and approve or reject sites, but that once approval is granted it cannot be withdrawn.

The Oakton board has not decided to take the matter to court, Murphy has said. "But I have absolutely no doubt that the state board did not have the authority to rescind its approval. It was an illegal action, an action they had no power to take, and it could very well be struck down in court," he has said.

Brune has said, "As far as we're concerned, we made our decision according to our duties and authorities as listed in the Illinois Junior College Act. If the Oakton board decides to sue the state board for withdrawing its earlier approval, then things will be up to the courts."

OAKTON'S ATTORNEYS have not dropped the condemnation suit filed Jan. 26 against the archdiocese, despite the fact that according to the Illinois Junior College Act, the state board must approve all permanent campus sites.

Attorneys for the archdiocese this week filed a brief challenging Oakton's authority to seek the Maryhill land without state board approval. According to Don Reuben, archdiocesan attorney, the church has asked for a dismissal of the condemnation suit.

Oakton Atty. Ancel said yesterday it will now be up to the court to set a date for a hearing between Oakton and the archdiocese. He said the date will probably be set "in a month or so."

John Philbin, executive director of Catholic Cemeteries, said yesterday the archdiocese still stands ready to offer Oakton two alternate church-owned sites, both vacant and in the northwest area of Des Plaines.

Oakton is currently operating from nine acres of leased former factory facilities in Morton Grove with an enrollment of about 2,400 students and an interim campus capacity of 3,200 students. Enrollment is expected to exceed 3,950 by this fall, according to Oakton College Pres. William Koehnline.

Koehnline, who has said he is "optimistic" that the state board will meet with the Oakton board before March 10, was unavailable for comment this week.

The Oakton president, along with several Oakton trustees, is attending a national junior college convention in Dallas, Tex.

The state board's withdrawal of approval of the Maryhill site, originally granted in November, cuts off about $17 million in state aid Oakton had hoped to receive for the Maryhill campus and forces the college to seek another site.

Arlington Urged: Form Housing Panel

A special study committee Tuesday night called for creation of a local housing commission in Arlington Heights and asked village officials to adopt a four-point resolution in support of low and moderate-income housing.

The housing commission was recommended as the first step in a two-year housing program aimed in part at making available 50 units of low-income and 150 to 250 units of moderate-income housing in Arlington Heights.

The special study committee, formed in September, 1970, will meet with the village board and plan commission March 13 to discuss its recommendations.

COMMITTEE MEMBER David Patterson said last night that he was dissatisfied with the recommended 150 to 250 units because that number of units would rule out one of the report's other recommendations that emphasizes the importance of scattered sites.

Patterson said he would prefer to see a "pilot program" of low and moderate-income housing that would involve far fewer units. He said he will write a letter for inclusion in the report outlining his differences with the 60-page document.

The report recommends that the housing commission have a number of powers and responsibilities. Among other things it could work with qualified private developers, serve as a liaison with other governmental housing authorities, and continually review local building codes and zoning ordinances.

Committee member Dwight Walton called the proposed commission "an important safeguard" toward insuring the quality of any low and moderate-income housing built in Arlington Heights.

THE RESOLUTION proposed by the study committee for adoption by the village board sets forth four goals for housing in Arlington Heights.

—To promote adequate housing for all the community's people.

—To create and/or maintain sound viable neighborhoods in the process of housing those people.

—To meet the needs for housing by increasing the number of housing units for low and moderate-income families and individuals.

—To expand housing opportunities for all members of this community.

The report also recommends that increased pressure be brought to bear on the Cook County Housing Authority and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to secure the 120 units of senior citizen housing for which Arlington Heights has already made application.

Northeastern Illinois Offers 8-Week Drug Seminar In May

Northeastern Illinois University is offering a drug abuse workshop as part of its extension program during the eight-week, May-June semester at Niles North High School, Lawler and Old Orchard Road, Skokie, beginning May 3.

William J. Pizel, assistant professor of psychology, is the workshop coordinator. The staff consists of Clarence C. Becker, curriculum consultant and drug abuse program coordinator for the Chicago Board of Education; Robert Kearney, chief of service at the Chicago-Reed Alcoholism Program, Chicago State Hospital, and Eugene Setwyn, legal consultant.

The workshop, designed to meet the needs of educators, administrators, and community workers, is composed of two, three credit-hour courses. Seminar in drug abuse and psychology of personality. Persons who do not wish formal credit can arrange to audit the courses.

The workshop will consist of lectures, discussions and panels, demonstrations, and one or more field trips. The lecturers will cover three general areas: the physiological and psychological effects of drugs; the development of the individual personality structure and its relation to drug abuse; and the design and implementation of a drug abuse curriculum.

The workshop will be held, 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays beginning May 4.

OTHER COURSES offered during the May-June semester are: methods of teaching consumer education in the secondary school; education in a large urban area; teaching reading in junior and senior high school; selection, utilization and evaluation of instructional materials.

rials: the art of the United States of America; psychology of personality; measurement and evaluation; vocational rehabilitation; diagnosis and remediation of severe learning disabilities; investment; education as a social institution; American public education — history of education; philosophy of education; group dynamics; principles of pre-school education, and principles of curriculum development.

Courses scheduled for the eight week, June-August semester beginning June 28 are: psychology of mental health; adolescent psychology; theories and principles of counseling; American women; the changing image, and educational psychology.

Five courses are scheduled for the 16 week May-August semester beginning May 3. They are: biblical backgrounds of English and American literature; political doctrines of Asia; school law for teachers and administrators; diagnosis and treatment of reading difficulties, and fortran programming.

Mail registration for all courses now is open. Interested persons may call the university office at 583-4050, extension 507, for mail registration kits through March 15. Tuition is $24 a credit hour, payable at the time of registration. A fee of four dollars a course is payable at the time of the first class.

Freshman Party At Maine East

A lot will be happening at "Beginnings," the Maine East High School freshman PTC party on Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

"Phase IV" will provide music for dancing, and freshman parents are arranging for donations for door prize drawings held throughout the evening.

There's no charge at the door nor once inside, but only Maine East freshmen are invited. An ID card is required for admission.

Couple Charged In Marijuana Case

A Park Ridge man and a girl companion were arrested Tuesday when a Des Plaines policeman allegedly found a small quantity of marijuana in the glove compartment of a car in which they were riding.

Budd Revesz, 21, of 1416 Vernon Ave., Park Ridge, and Diane Franzen, 19, of 3045 Stillwell Dr., Des Plaines, were both charged with possession of marijuana, according to Des Plaines police.

Patrolman Wayne Adams said he stopped an auto driven by Revesz after he spotted the car weaving across a yellow line on Lee Street.

Adams said when Revesz stopped and got out of the car, he had trouble walking and appeared intoxicated. The policeman said he then searched the auto and found marijuana in the glove compartment.

Revesz, who was also charged with reckless driving, and Miss Franzen were ordered to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court March 23 at 11 a.m.

Cheerie-Aides Elect Officers

Five girls recently were elected officers of the Cheerie-Aides junior auxiliary group at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

They are Donna Wood of Northbrook, president; Sue Grossman of Mount Prospect, first vice president; Diane Thake of Northbrook, second vice president; Barbara Cope of Des Plaines, secretary; and Amy Borchardt of Northbrook, treasurer.

Margaret Holda of Mount Prospect is the director of Cheerie-Aides.

$200 Shotgun Stolen From S. Side Home

A shotgun valued at $200 was reported stolen from a south side Des Plaines home Tuesday.

Walker Bradley, 1730 Birch St., told Des Plaines police his son noticed the front door open when he came home Friday afternoon but thought nothing of it until the gun was discovered missing Tuesday.

Police said there was no apparent forcible entry into the home.

New Lamp Designs

Revive A Drab Room!

New lighting effects can put a drab room back in focus. Lamps can add imagination, color and highlights to dull corners, but most of all they're less costly than remodeling projects.

The newest designs are impressive to the point that buyers and retailers are terming the new additions "lighting furniture." The importance of new modern, contemporary, transitional and Spanish stylings and the excellence of intricate wood craftsmanship of Modeline of California lamps are partially responsible for the reaction.

Modeline's veteran lighting engineer-stylists, Arthur Jacobs and Jack Haywood, designed the majority of the 21 new styles recently introduced.

Jacobs created a balance between modern, contemporary, transitional and Spanish with a number of impressive designs. A cylinder in the form of blocks separated by a series of sparkling white plastic shade openings offers a unique contemporary look.

A SPANISH DESIGN that has a square wooden frame is 36 inches tall and four metal scrollwork panels covering a round white plastic shade measuring at least 34 inches of the lamp's three-foot height was also created by Jacobs.

The Jacobs transitional style has an unusual open weave shade covering both a white plastic material with a series of four graceful, oval cut-outs and an inner plastic shade holding the three-way lighting. This particular design is carried out in a table lamp, a floor lamp and a swag model.

Haywood's designs are spectacularly modern. A "C" shaped table lamp of formed wood holds a white globe that stands out against the four "wet-look" finishes available on the frame. These finishes are white, orange, avocado or yellow. A floor lamp-table-top combination in a gleaming white "wet" finish also describes a "C." The table top is wide enough to hold magazines, trays and other objects. A hanging lamp with a circular plexiglas shade supported by a wooden frame is another Haywood design that has been highly received.

A BUTCHER BLOCK of maple as well as maple and cherry stripes are new table lamp bases for George Kovacs 1972 lamp line. Also grained-leather vinyl sheathing gives a natural look to other lamp bases.

A new two-foot track has been added in white vinyl or chrome to the magnetic lighting system Kovacs has named the "Zonking Place." This new home lighting system made its debut last summer.

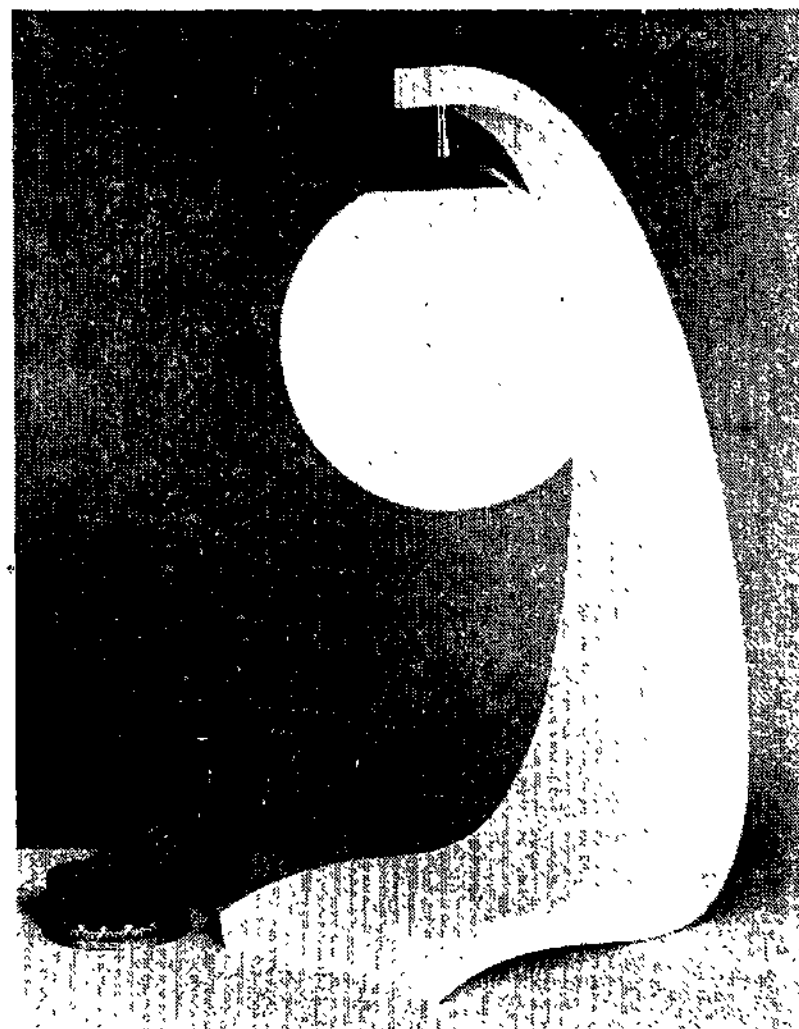

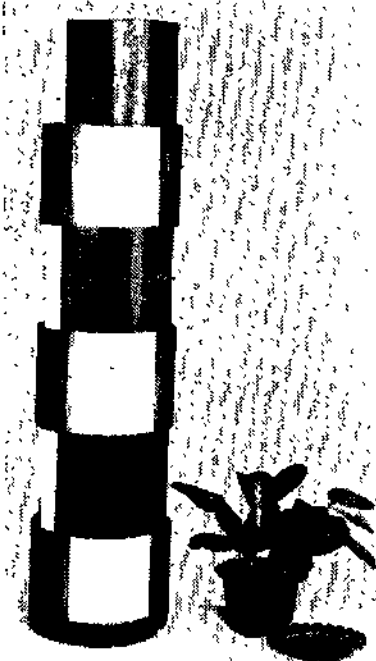

The original "Zonking Place" tracks were 48 inches and 67 inches by 4 1/2 inches wide. Although the width remains constant, a new 24-inch length has been added to the line in response to store requests.

Four new Zonkers (modules containing the bulb) that plug into the "Zonking Place" tracks have been added to the line. One is a 3 by 6-inch down cylinder for the ceiling track; there are two sizes of chrome balls that swivel within a yoke and have dowel-like projections that resemble Martian men's ears. The fourth Zonker is a slender chrome tube with exposed bulb.

A RETURN TO the natural environment and classic forms in home furnishings is presaged in some of the new lamp fashions introduced by the portable lamp division of Thomas Industries, Inc.

Colors such as ponce, beige, terra cotta, pewter, natural stoneware and Pompeian red; lamp shade in pleated brown and gray snakeskin patterns; massive lamp bases reflecting the ancient amphora jars used for wine and olive storage in early Greece and Rome; and beautifully grained wood finishes in soft natural tones are among the Thomas trends. Texture color and design are combined for fashion looks in either

TERRANEAN COLLECTION created for Thomas Industries offers this primitive design which could have been unearthed in an Egyptian tomb or on a Persian archeological expedition. ## Mr. & Mrs. Robert L. Doering Make Home In Des Plaines

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Doering

First Congregational Church of Des Plaines was the scene of the December wedding that united Lynn Rossi and Robert L. Doering. Lynn is the daughter of the Edward R. Rossis of Des Plaines. Her husband is the son of the Walter Doerings of Becker, Minn.

The new Mrs. Doering wore a dulcet satin gown with re-embroidered Alencon lace, Juliet sleeves and scalloped lace edging the skirt. Lace appliques decorated her detachable train and a single row of lace petals with seed pearls held her chapel-length silk illusion veil. She carried a Colonial bouquet.

Miss Susan Fajmor, Des Plaines, was maid of honor and James Boylan, Minneapolis, Minn., was best man. Other attendants included bridesmaids Miss Adele Dorsey, Des Plaines, and Miss Joan Mary Rossi, sister of the bride from Des Plaines; and ushers James Patton, Chicago; William Parks, Park Ridge; and Paul Holdsworth, Mount Prospect.

A reception was held at Casa Royale, Des Plaines.

The couple honeymooned in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., before making their home in Des Plaines.

Lynn is a '69 graduate of Maine West High School and is employed with First Federal Savings and Loan Assoc., Des Plaines. Robert attended the University of Minnesota and the Milwaukee School of Engineering before joining Texas Instruments.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I wonder if you can tell me what I am doing wrong in baking my pies? The bottom crust either doesn't get brown or gets soggy.

—D Lacey

There are several things you might try. One good cook breaks up the white of an egg and mixes it with 1/4 teaspoon sugar, brushes the pie bottom, lets it dry, then bakes as usual. Another pre-bakes the crusts for about 10 minutes, lets them dry before putting in the filling; then bakes the entire pie. Mrs. Grace T. brushes the pie crusts with either plain or evaporated milk before baking them.

Dear Dorothy: Visiting friends on the California coastal area, I was a little dismayed when the children got stains on their clothes from the ice plant which is so often seen as a ground cover. Do you know how this can be removed?

—Mrs. William C.

A cleaning expert says this plant produces stains that are similar to those encountered from the calla lily or banana tree. Chlorine bleach is about the only effective method of removal. The professional cleaner can remove the stain on the spotting board by using sodium perborate on the stain, melting it into the stain with a steam gun. Unfortunately, this is something the average housewife isn't equipped to do.

Dear Dorothy: We had a small fire in our home recently which resulted mostly in smoke damage. A commercial deodorizer was used to absorb the odor but the smoke smell is still very pronounced. Is there anything we can use?

Fashion Show Set Tonight

A fashion show by the Cynthia Shop of Des Plaines will highlight tonight's meeting of the Newcomers Club of Des Plaines. It will take place at 8 p.m. at First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 749 Lee St.

Members are asked to search their basements and attics for items to sell at the club's annual rummage sale April 22 at West Park Field House, Des Plaines. The Newcomer's canned goods drive continues through March. The food will be distributed to needy people in the area. Anyone interested in contributing may bring canned goods to tonight's meeting or contact Mrs. Vincent Bono, president, at 298-5657.

Next On The Agenda

K of C AUXILIARY

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Knights of Columbus of Des Plaines will sponsor a "Luncheon is Served" party on Saturday, March 11, at 12:30 p.m. at West Park Field House.

Entertainment will consist of a travelogue given by American Air Lines and an accompanying style show, "Fashions by Gloria" given by models from American Air Lines.

Reservations and tickets are available from Mrs. F. Tierney, 930 Warrington Road, 827-3983, or from Mrs. M. Ryan, 52 Cumberland Parkway, 827-1968.

—L K

There are companies which specialize in this kind of work. They ought to be able to help.

Engaged

JoAnn Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Johnson of Buffalo Grove announce the engagement of their daughter, JoAnn, to John Alan Karnatz of Arlington Heights, formerly of Des Plaines. John is the son of Mrs. George Boeckenhauer, Arlington Heights, and the late Henry E. Karnatz.

JoAnn, a graduate of Centerville High School, Centerville, Ohio, is employed at General Telephone Co., Des Plaines. Her fiancé, a graduate of Maine Township High School and Harper College, Palatine, is employed by Central Telephone Co., Des Plaines.

An early 1973 wedding is planned.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Paging through the seed catalogs is a little like shopping in a Michigan Avenue store. You would like everything you see, but usually settle for "peanuts."

Seed browsing is half the fun of gardening, and a little looking helps you stumble over lots of new-to-you plants.

Each year I plant at least a few things that I have never before tried. It keeps a gardener on his toes, I think. This year it will be edelweiss, tidy tips, horseradish, garlic, peanuts and luffa sponges among others.

GROWING YELLOW beets, for instance, doesn't make you any better than the gardener who grows plain old red beets, but somehow it makes a difference. Visitors will rave over a purple green bean while they give your limas a "so what" glance.

For offbeat ideas consider: red okra*, yellow watermelon** (Inside is yellow instead of red), husk tomato (you have to take off the outer covering)*, yellow raspberries***, blue potatoes***, pink, black beets***, purple kohlrabi***, purple green beans***, yellow and white checker-board corn***.

(The code for the above is "available from Park Seed Co., Greenwood, S.C., 29846, ** R. H. Shumway Seedsman, Rockford, Ill. 61101, and *** Gurney Seed Co., Yankton, S.D. 57078. As you can see, the Gurney people have the widest selection of offbeat offerings.)

W. Atlee Burpee, Philadelphia, Pa. 19132, is still trying to give away $10,000 for a white marigold, and if you order Whitest (near white) from them, you just might get lucky.

CHECK OUT SOME of the complete seed mixtures, such as the old-fashioned garden mixtures, to save money if you aren't too fussy about your flowers but want a big show. (Most companies have such offers.) The special vegetable packs which everybody carries offer the gardener enough seed to supply the family with fresh vegetables all season for about $3 and saves the average larder between $300 and $500 a year.

Kids' one-cent specials are often available when an adult sends in an order, and sometimes can start a child on the lifetime hobby. (That's how I got started, thanks to my Aunt Bunny.)

If you like Paul Bunyon-type crops, Gurney's Guinea beans are reported to reach 10 pounds apiece. Burpee's Royal squash is said to hit 300 pounds and Big Max pumpkins (Gurney) have been known to tip the scales at 100 pounds.

This variety was grown by one of the local farm stand operators last year and the results were caught by the Paddock photographer.

PRAYING MANTIS and lady bugs are available again this year from the Montgomery Ward Lawn, Garden and Farm catalog (not the big catalog), although gardeners can get them cheaper from other sources too (available on request).

Best of all, I always get a laugh from all of the older photo cuts which haven't been changed since women wore snoods and loafers. Gurney's has a photo of a '56 Mercury parked next to the tall hedge fencing. Shumway's catalog has included some antique etchings which probably date back to 1870 when the company was founded.

"Planning the Vegetable Garden" is the program to be presented at the Botanic Garden, Edens Expressway, between Dundee and Lake/Cook Roads, next Tuesday. There will be programs from 10 a.m. till noon, and from 1:30 p.m. till 3:30.

Robert P. Wintz, executive director of the Chicago Horticultural Society, and Glenn M. Park, chief horticulturist for the Botanic Garden, will present the programs.

Registration must be made in advance. Fee is for non-members, $3, $2 for members. Additional information is available from Fran Whittin, 332-2868.

Your State Tax Questions Answered

Q. I receive a railroad retirement pension. Will this be subject to Illinois income tax?

A. No, amounts received on railroad retirement benefits are not subject to Illinois income tax. It is particularly important to note that supplemental benefits which are subject to federal income tax are not subject to Illinois income tax.

Q. What is the rule on the filing of joint returns for Illinois income tax purposes?

A. Generally, if a husband and wife file a joint federal income tax return, they must file a joint Illinois return, or, if the federal tax liability of either is determined on a separate return, separate Illinois returns are required. If neither spouse is required to file a federal return and either or both must file an Illinois return, they may elect to file separately or jointly. If one spouse is a resident and the other a nonresident, they may file separate returns, or they may file jointly as if both were residents.

Q. I am opening a dress shop and will have several employees. How do I register with the State of Illinois for withholding tax purposes?

A. As an employer you need a Federal Employer's Identification Number. If you haven't applied for it, file Form SS-4 with the Internal Revenue Service Center at Kansas City, Mo. After you are assigned the Employer's Identification Number or if you already have one you file Form IL-701 for the Illinois Employer's Identification Number. Form IL-701 is available at any of the Department of Revenue tax offices.

Q. If a student earns income but is supported by his parents, is he considered a taxpayer or a dependent?

A. He is considered both. If a student earns more than $1,000 or more he is required to file an Illinois tax return. If he owes no tax but had tax withheld by the employer he should file a return in order to claim the amount withheld as a refund. A student can also be a dependent of his parents if they provided over half of his support for the year and he was a full time student for at least five calendar months of the year. The amount of income earned is not the determining factor.

Pot Luck Supper At St. Stephen's

The Rosary Altar Society of St. Stephen's Church of Des Plaines will have its annual pot luck supper on Thursday.

A mass will be offered in the church at 7 p.m. and the supper and a short business meeting will follow immediately in the parish hall, 1267 Everett St.

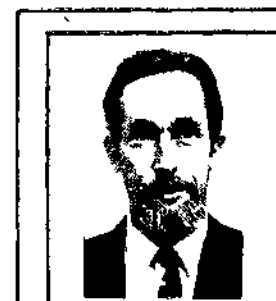

Mrs. Joseph Eckl, program chairman, has planned surprise entertainment. All women members of the parish are invited.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With so many candidates seeking the nomination, it is difficult to predict what the turning point at this year's Democratic National Convention will be.

It may be the fifth seconding speech for one of the candidates that tips the scales in his favor.

It may be a particularly persuasive placard carried by one of his supporters that makes the difference.

Most likely, however, the decisive factor will be the winner's campaign song.

Everyone, I'm sure, remembers the 1968 convention when it appeared that former Sen. Eugene McCarthy had the nomination locked up.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey's insistence on having his own name put before the convention was regarded as merely a token gesture to create the illusion of a contest.

THEN CAME that electrifying moment when the band struck up Humphrey's campaign song, "Let A Winner Lead The Way." Almost before the first bar was finished, delegates began switching sides.

By the time the song was half over, Humphrey had picked up enough support to carry the day.

This year, with the field so crowded, having the right campaign song may be even more crucial. For even if they have never heard of some of the candidates, the delegates may be familiar with the music.

Hoping to get a line on what to expect at Miami Beach in July, I made a random sampling of four campaign headquarters to see what songs the candidates would use to incite the delegates.

Although the convention is less than five months away, only one of the group, Sen. Henry Jackson, was prepared in the music department.

AIDES SAID HE had obtained permission to use the Johnny Cash number "Going To Jackson" as his official song.

Spokesmen for Sens. Humphrey, George McGovern and Edmund Muskie said their tigers had no campaign songs. Which I found hard to believe.

I can't see candidates as politically astute as those three standing by and letting the nomination go to Jackson practically by default.

I suspect the Humphrey, McGovern and Muskie aides were not being entirely candid. It's probably a good bet that each has a song picked out, but plans to spring it on the convention as a surprise, hoping the bombshell will produce widespread defections in his rivals' delegations.

If so, they are flirting with disaster. Too many bombshells could cause a bombshell backlash.

Veterans' News

Veterans Administration reminded veterans studying under the GI Bill that they can hire a tutor at VA expense, if needed, and still get the full educational allowance.

About 4,000 veterans received more than 60,000 hours of tutorial help in connection with their GI Bill educational studies, the VA reported.

VA officials noted to be eligible for this benefit (established by the Veterans Education and Training Act of 1970), the veteran must be enrolled under the GI Bill above the high school level on a half time or more basis.

IF THE VETERAN needs tutoring to pass a required course, VA allows up to $50 monthly for a maximum of nine months to pay for it.

These tutorial fees are in addition to the regular monthly education check the veteran receives, and are not chargeable to his basic entitlement, officials pointed out.

VA urged veterans interested in tutorial assistance or education benefits to contact their nearest VA office, or local veterans service organization representatives.

Proud East Praises State Mat Finishers

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

"We're very proud of them here at Maine East."

The words are those of Demon wrestling coach George Jurinek. Surely, he speaks for the entire school when talking about Marc Grant and Jim Sylverne.

"I honestly feel that both of them were good enough to win the state championship," Jurinek said. "Given a couple of breaks, they could have been state champions."

Grant finished third in the 167-pound division and Sylverne took fourth in the 112-pound class.

"It was a real classy tournament, probably the best there has ever been," the Demons coach added, "and Marc and Jim certainly belonged with that caliber of competition."

Grant opened his tournament action with a 7-0 victory over John Skoulios of Chicago Senn. "Marc completely dominated the bout," Jurinek said. "He had control right from the start."

Grant scored a takedown in the first period, had an escape and a takedown in the second and scored a predicament in the third.

In his second bout, Grant lost a heart-breaking 1-0 decision to Mel Carsons of Joliet West, who went on to win the 167-pound championship.

Carsons scored his winning point, an escape, with three seconds remaining in the match.

"Both boys were nearing the edge of the mat and, perhaps, Marc was waiting for the referee to blow his whistle," Jurinek said. "Maybe, at that point, he let up just a little bit and that gave Carsons a chance to escape. I looked up at the clock, saw there were only three seconds left, and I knew there was nothing Marc could do. It was all over."

In the first round of wrestle backs, Grant edged Carl Stephens of Riverdale 1-0 with an escape early in the third period.

Against Steve Brandt of Bloomington in the second round of wrestle backs, Grant posted a 5-2 triumph. The Demon grappler scored a takedown and predicament to take a 4-1 lead, moments after Brandt scored on an escape in the second period. Late in the second period, Brandt escaped to make it 4-2. Grant scored an escape in the third period to ice the win.

An escape, takedown and near-fall in the second period sparked Grant to a 6-3 victory over John D'Avalos of Chicago Fenger to gain third place in the tournament.

Grant finished the 1971-72 season with a 24-5-1 overall record, but he was 11-1 against 167-pound competition. Against 185-pound foes, he was 13-4-1. At the state tournament, Grant boosted his school record for escapes in a single season to 31. The old record was set by Gary Eklund three years ago, 16.

Sylverne opened with a 12-1 victory over Ken Woodward of Chicago Washington. "The bout was never in doubt," Jurinek said. "Jimmy had it all the way."

Sylverne scored a takedown in the first period, two predicaments and a near-fall in the second and an escape and a takedown in the third.

In the second-round of competition, Sylverne lost to Proviso East's Bill Hardnett, a grappler whom Sylverne had lost to by one point earlier in the season, 3-2.

The Demon grappler was awarded a penalty point early in the second period, but Hardnett came back to score an escape and a takedown to take a 3-1 lead. Sylverne scored an escape in the third period, but that single point was not enough to overtake Hardnett's lead.

In the first round of wrestle backs, Sylverne pinned Harry Miller of Granite City in 3:48. "Jimmy outclassed his boy all the way and led 9-1 when he pinned him," Jurinek said.

Sylverne posted a pin in 3:59 over Jo-eliet West's Ellis Betts in the second round of wrestle backs. The Maine East wrestler was winning 2-0 at the time of the pin.

In the match for third place, Sylverne was edged by Bloomington's Dana Mariani 5-4. Mariani scored a reversal late in the third period for the points to post the win.

Sylverne finished the 1971-72 season with a 24-5 record.

Fremd's Jeff Alvis won the 112-pound championship. Sylverne had beaten Alvis twice earlier in the season, once at the Glenbrook South Invitational and once at the West Leyden Sectional.

"Both of our boys are juniors and both have a great wrestling future ahead of them," Jurinek said. "I think that both of them have the ability and the determination to do well in next year's tournament."

"I can't wait to start the season. Next season can start tomorrow as far as I'm concerned. When you work with the type of boys I have, it certainly is a pleasure to be a coach."

Maine East Nips Dons; Falcons Crush Prospect

Maine East held off a stirring late rally by Notre Dame to post a 70-66 victory over the Dons in first-round action of the Maine West Regional Tournament.

The Demons will take on Maine West, a 76-54 winner over Maine North Tuesday night, in the regional finals Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Maine West gymnasium.

Maine East held a 70-56 lead with 2:52 remaining in the game before the Dons put together a rally which barely fell short. A layup by Bill Abraham, a jumper by Clem Naughton, two free throws by Pete Egart, a jumper by Egart and another jumper by Naughton brought the Dons to within four points with 10 seconds left in the game.

At that point, Demon guard Mike McDermott took control of the ball and dribbled out the clock.

The Demon victory was paced by 6-8 forward Mark Bondeson, who demonstrated why he is in contention for All-State honors. All he did against the Dons was score 28 points, pull down 19 rebounds, block seven shots, hand out four assists and come up with three steals. Actually, it was a standard performance for Bondeson who averaged most of the above totals in each game over the course of a 20-game season.

Bondeson hit on 10 of 13 field goal attempts and eight of nine free throw attempts.

Notre Dame went out to a 5-2 lead early in the first quarter and held a 9-5 advantage midway through the stanza. But, three long jumpers by Russ Anderson sparked the Demons to a 15-11 lead before the quarter ended.

The Dons cut the lead to 21-19 early in the second quarter, but the Demons had the upper hand the rest of the way and led 37-28 at halftime.

Bondeson opened the third quarter with a three-point play to make it 40-23, but the Dons rallied to close the gap to 40-34. In a string of spurts, the Demons went out in front 47-34, the Dons closed the gap to 48-39 and the Demons rallied again for a 55-39 advantage.

The third stanza ended with Maine East on top 58-45.

The Demons seemed to have the contest sewed up as they owned a 14-point lead with 2:52 left. The Dons rallied to close the margin to 70-66, but did miss on three free throw and five field goal attempts during the same span.

Abraham led Notre Dame with 21 points and eight rebounds. Naughton had 16 points and 10 rebounds and Pete Egart had 11 points. For Maine East, other than Bondeson, Jim Cromer tallied 14 points, Anderson 12 and Bill Castonzo 10. Castonzo had eight rebounds.

FALCONS ADVANCE

Forest View proved it's hard to beat a team three times by avenging two earlier setbacks with a convincing 78-59 victory over Prospect.

The Falcons reserved a spot opposite Hersey in the latter's regional final Friday night.

Rick Hoyt demolished Prospect's man-to-man defense with 27 points including 17 in the first half. Hoyt teamed with Falcon frontliners Don Woodsmall and T. J. Skelly to also dominate the rebounding department 39-24.

Forest View jumped on top 6-0 and was never headed. Hoyt's deftness around the bucket included twisting layups and soft-touch hooks.

The Knights gained a brief 9-9 deadlock before Hoyt's five straight points pulled Forest View out of danger.

Successful outside sniping by Knight guards John vonBerg and Andy Bitta kept Prospect within 36-32 at the half, but Hoyt and teammate Tom Mueller quickly shoved the Falcons into a comfortable 61-49 cushion earlier in the fourth quarter.

Prospect shot 45 per cent as compared to Forest View's 50. Hoyt hit 11 of 17 attempts from the floor.

Courses In Self-Defense Begin At Northwest YMCA

Two courses in the ancient art of self-defense are being offered at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Highway, Des Plaines.

Aspecial eight-week course in self-defense for men and women started Tuesday, Feb. 29. This short course is designed to teach the average person several techniques he can use effectively in a self-defense situation. Included will be striking and kicking methods, vulnerable areas, simple judo throws and numerous escapes.

Open to men and women 16 years and over, the class will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Charges are $11.45 for Y members and $16.45 for non-members.

Another course in judo, also eight weeks long, is being offered to boys and girls from fifth to 10th grade. Judo is a sport based on ancient Japanese methods of barehanded fighting.

The judo classes will teach students how to fall properly, several judo throws, mat techniques and simple self-defense techniques.

Advanced instruction is offered on a continuing basis through the Y Judo Club and develops proficiency in all judo techniques.

The classes are taught by a third-degree Black Belt. The beginning class meets on Saturdays from 9-10 a.m. and the next eight-week course begins March 4. Fee is $5 for Y members and $10 for non-members.

Telephone the Y at 296-3376 for more information on both courses.

The Palatine Rd. Hazard

by DOUG RAY

A suburban policeman who patrols the winding Palatine Road expressway calls it "an engineer's nightmare." But the families of nine persons killed in auto accidents on that thoroughfare in less than a year will live with the nightmare for the rest of their lives.

A Florida man died at the congested Palatine and Rand Road intersection in June. Four months later, an Arlington Heights resident lost his life on the road-way near Rte. 53 followed by the death of a Rolling Meadows man at the same location in a separate accident.

One of the worst accidents in Northwest suburban history occurred on a rain-slick Palatine Road overpass at Rte. 83 in Prospect Heights in December. Five persons were killed.

The latest Palatine Road fatality was a 19-year-old youth last week whose car jumped the median strip into oncoming traffic at the Soo Line R.R. tracks in Wheeling.

Local officials, police officers, and the state highway department agree the east-west roadway is a problem. The seven mile expanse from the Village of Palatine to the Tri-State Tollway is often flooded with vehicles, many of them exceeding the maximum speed limits.

The driver must cope with a complex of confusing lights and direction signs, periodic stops and fellow drivers at-tempting to merge into the fast-moving flow of cars.

WHO IS TO blame for the "hazardous" condition of the express route is uncertain. But motorists, municipal representatives and county and state highway officials all should accept a fair share of the road's present condition.

It all began in 1958 as a unique county highway department road construction plan to link the outlying Northwest suburbs to Chicago by "a junior expressway." Thus, Palatine Road, Cook County's first suburban expressway project.

Original plans showed few entrances and exits at Palatine Road, but soon after construction plans were unveiled, the concept changed.

Much of the land around the new road-way was purchased by speculators who turned the land into housing subdivisions, shopping centers and stores.

Each special interest group wanted it's special interest to be catered to.

Arlington Heights officials urged inter-sections be built. They said a road with-out intersections would cut off the north-ern sector of the village from further de-velopment.

Village officials got the intersections and later traffic control signals.

Stop signs were erected at Arlington Heights Road and frontage roads were spawned for eastern Palatine subdivi-sions.

THE ORIGINAL concept of a junior expressway was defeated and it became little more than a local route for many.

The Schoenbeck Road intersection was called "death corner" by parents of school children who attended a school there and parents threatened to block the roadway.

Some of the original Palatine Road plans of 1958 are still not completed, in-cluding an overpass at Rand Road.

State highway officials, who took over jurisdiction of the road from the county a few years ago, said yesterday a study is being made for an overpass or underpass at the Palatine-Arlington Heights Road intersection, where cars daily inch their way across two stop-signs located less than 50 yards apart.

However, the study won't be completed for at least four or five years, state offi-cials say, and funding for a major Pala-tine Road underpass from Rand Road to Arlington Heights Road will come later.

After the five persons were killed at the Rte. 83 overpass, a Cook County Sheriff's policeman recommended a guard rail between the four lanes of traf-fic to "prevent future deaths" there. But there is still no guard rail at the median strip today.

"THE GUARD RAIL is being consid-ered along with a thousand others . . . but we don't have the money this year," said Carl Kowalski, north area operating engineer for the Illinois Highway Depart-ment. "We don't anticipate funds in 1973 either," he said.

The state calls road improvements such as a guard railing an "operational improvement" which must be funded en-tirely by the state without federal aid. "This is the most serious category for us right now," Kowalski said.

"But if the municipality wants to do it," he said, "then we would be glad to assist. There are thousands of projects like this for us to consider."

Police say they have problems patrol-ing the road. There is sometimes a ques-tion of jurisdiction at the village bound-aries. At one intersection, the county has jurisdiction on one side, and Arlington Heights on the other.

Capt. Jack Aldrich of the Arlington Heights police department said, "Frequent drivers on Palatine Road un-derstand the way it is, but the guy who doesn't understand is in trouble."

NINE PERSONS HAVE DIED in accidents on Palatine Road in less than a year, most recently a teenager was killed at the Soo RR tracks shown here. A Mount Pros-pect girl died in a December accident on Palatine Road which has been termed one of the worst auto crashes ever in the Northwest suburbs.

THE VILLAGE THAT NEVER CHANGES

Can you imagine a village where you will not see a single garbage can? Where there are no property line fences? Where the smallest homesites are an acre? Where there is no industry? Where no two homes are alike? Where every home must receive architectural approval? These are just a few of the unusual features of Inverness that are protected by prudent deed restrictions to jealously guard against changes in the character, value and way of living in the community. How much does it cost to join this exclusive 450-family village? Our acre-or-larger homesites start at $14,000, with only 20% down and an annual percentage rate of 7%. We also have a portfolio of homes for sale for immediate occupancy due to executive transfers. Prices range from $60,000 to $200,000. Drive out today; or, if you prefer, send for a free brochure.

Our picturesque 4-Silo office is open daily on Baldwin Road, just west of Northwest Highway (Rte. 14) between Palatine and Barrington. Convenient to Northwest Tollway (north from Rte. 53 exit).

*Example $14,000 purchase—$2800 down, 84 monthly payments of $169.04.

Need For Staff Director Stressed

As the volunteer movement grows into an organized dimension of our society with the increase of leisure time and with the increase of social awareness among all walks of life, agencies using volunteers have discovered the value of having a director of the volunteers on their staff who assumes the total responsibility of the placing, serving, and evaluating of the volunteers.

Hospitals have been the forerunners of a staff director of the volunteers. It is this fact which makes it possible for a volunteer in the hospital situation to feel appreciated, wanted, and a member of the team.

The Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County has several hospitals in the area to which they send a potential volunteer. Any of the branch offices could serve you in initiating the first step in being a hospital volunteer. As with any institution, clerical volunteers of various office skills are welcome.

The Child Development Centers, referred to as the Headstart Program in the area use volunteers at each of their four schools. They are in Wheeling, Palatine, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines. The Headstart staff does not have a director of volunteers, and would appreciate knowing if there is someone in the area who could be the volunteer coordinator.

In the definition of a volunteer this assignment should be two days a week or less. The Arlington Heights branch office is the office to contact if you are interested. There are opportunities to work with the children as a teacher's aide or to share special skills in music, art, and men volunteers are especially welcome in the classroom situation.

The American Cancer Society with offices in Des Plaines is another example of a highly organized volunteer program. Although the Volunteer Bureau cannot send volunteers on assignments involving raising funds, it does send volunteers to the society in educational assignments such as manning the mobile unit speaking before groups (usually small groups in homes) and a specialized friendly visitors program learning up cancer patients who have had similar surgery. Clerical aid can be used by this agency too. Any of the branch offices should be able to assist you if you desire to work for the American Cancer Society.

If you are a newcomer to the area and would like to know what is available in the way of volunteer assignments call any of the branch offices or the central office for an interview.

The Volunteer Service Bureau lists 34 separate agencies who meet the guidelines of the bureau in the use of volunteers. Some of these are the schools. Schools served by the bureau are required to have a volunteer coordinator, who is a volunteer, and through this process you can be more assured that your experience will be a pleasant one. The bureau conducts a training program for the volunteer coordinators once a year.

In Rolling Meadows is the Northwest Opportunity Center, a federal program serving the needs of the low-income families. Karen Stanley is the director of the center.

Volunteers perform a variety of tasks at the center, including the clerical assignment, and Miss Stanley has informed the bureau that there is a need for drivers who will transport clients.

The center is planning a driver's education program again for this spring. This includes a once a week "Rules of the Road" classroom session for a period of several months, and a follow-up program of behind-the-wheel training. The classroom sessions are conducted in English and Spanish, and the center will welcome volunteers who are interested in this assignment.

The portion of the program behind the wheels involves volunteers who are 21 years or over, have been driving for at least a year, and the time commitment has a "whenever it is convenient" label. The center is served by the Lois Moore Branch Office in Palatine.
